ago he took up a few items of florists' stock and was surprised at the extent of the local demand. This year he has nearly half his place in carnations, chrysanthemums and pot plants. The cut flowers will be sold in Chicago by Pyfer & Co. Mr. Mason plans to supply a part of the home demand for bedding stock and to work up a wholesale business through classified ads in The Review.

Among the week's visitors are Joseph M. Vero and Mrs. Vero, of Turtle Creek, Pa. It is their first visit to Chicago and they are engaged in seeing the sights as well as in looking over the points of interest in the florists' trade. Greenhouse building is occupying part of Mr. Vero's attention.

We have with us this week R. Brinkmann, representing Konroe Merchants, Inc., of New York city. Mr. Brinkmann is interviewing buyers of lily of the valley pips, as this is one of his company's specialties.

The American Bulb Co. reports as a visitor Martial Bremond, of Ollioules, France. Mr. Bremond is a big exporter of French bulbs. A. Miller returned last week from New York, bringing with him about 400 cases of Paper Whites picked up down there.

E. W. McLellan, the San Francisco grower and wholesaler, who has been in Chicago and the east for several weeks, is planning to start for home about October 8. He is full of enthusiasm for the future of the florists' business, not only in San Francisco but throughout the west. He thinks San Francisco is ideally located, climatically and otherwise, for the production of roses and chrysanthemums for the western half of the country. He is planning to build a new place, the real estate at Burlingame, long occupied, having become too valuable for greenhouse purposes.

F. O. Wildhogen, of Waterloo, Ia., was a visitor October 2. He came in his motor truck, loaded it up with bulbs and drove home again. It was much quicker than the freight train.

H. D. Roth, son of H. Roth, the veteran florist of Lafayette, Ind., was here October 4, buying stock for fall and winter trade.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

September has closed under rapidly changing conditions. The greenhouse flowers are coming on much more freely. The outdoor summer flowers are disappearing, and the long-continued drought is beginning to affect outdoor fall flowers. Business is good. There are so many more roses that it is noticed everywhere. Carnations, too, are increasing rapidly. Dahlias are about holding their own. Asters and gladioli are going out. Orchids are quite plentiful. They are Cattleya labiata, with a few phalaenopsis; for the latter there is no special demand. There are more and better Beauties than last season, and there are nicer blooms of the leading market varieties of roses. There are nice Easter lilies, some valley and a few sweet peas. Chrysanthemums increase slowly; the varieties include Golden Glow, Sunglow and Smith's Advance, white and yellow. There are no pink mums in yet. Dahlias are good and the trading in the fancy varieties is active. Cosmos is abundant. Wild smilax has come.

The Evergreen Supply Co.

Mark J. Gannon and Philip G. Miller opened an office and salesroom at 1625 Ranstead street, Monday, October 2, for the sale of all kinds of greens.. They will trade as the Evergreen Supply Co. Mr. Gannon, who has grown up in the cut flower commission business, is popular and will receive strong support. Mr. Miller was in the evergreen business last season with his brother, trading as Miller & Miller. There are great possibilities in evergreens.

Mrs. Carroll Returns.

Tom Carroll arranged a reception for his mother on her return from a two months' visit to Ireland. The party was given Friday evening, September 29, at Mrs. Carroll's home, near Holy Cross cemetery, in Darby. There was an orchestra, and the house was beautifully decorated with dahlias. S. S. Pennock sent a handsome bunch of Columbia roses. Among the notable guests who gathered to greet Mrs. Carroll were John Berger, Harry R. Berger, Bernard Eschner, Stuart H. Miller and many others.

The Tariff on Bulbs.

It is interesting to note that the Dutch bulbs which arrived in this country after the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill went into effect had to pay a much higher duty than those that came in before. Fortunately for those interested, a large number of bulbs were here before the bill went into effect. Those that were not will have to bear a large increase in duty.

For the F. T. D. Members.

The M. Rice Co. has doubled the size

ROSES

We are at the beginning of a new season, and we would like to interest you in making regular shipments of Roses to you every week.

It is quite an advantage to look for your supply where there is a big supply to draw from.

During the coming season we will be particularly strong on:

RUSSELL PREMIER
COLUMBIA BUTTERFLY
OPHELIA GOLDEN OPHELIA
AARON WARD MAYBELLE
McDONALD LEGION
DOUBLE WHITE KILLARNEY
CECILE BRUNNER
HADLEY RICHMOND

Quite often during the season Roses are scarce and hard to get, and if you have a regular order on file with us, you have a better assurance that you will be supplied at a time when others cannot get sufficient flowers to meet the demand.

BEAUTIES

of its salesroom in honor of visitors who may call on their way to or from Baltimore next week. One-half of the wall space is devoted to wreaths, which form a notable display. The idea of the practical value of the wreath is that, while intended for the holidays and, so, often decorated with holly berries, they can be used as messengers of sympathy by removing the berries and adding suitable flowers. With the aid of assorted wreaths, many orders that might be lost can be suitably filled. The wreaths are all beautiful. Many are strikingly original in design.

The four-sided high desk, with adjustable electric lamp or cut flower vase, is a handsome piece of furniture. The idea of a desk at which four customers can write their cards at once is good business. The tall basket, with a container built on lines suggestive of grace and strength, is attractive as the chrysanthemum season opens. Color effects appear in the next group, described as finished in polychrome. This includes large ferneries in original designs, with adjustable cut flower vases or adjustable plant supports easily removed. New bird cages have simple yet effective bottoms that may be removed in a moment, cleaned and replaced.

Color effects have been carefully studied in arranging the display of stylish and well made baskets, in multicolor finishes, and the much discussed black and white enamel ware. The keynote of the display is progress.

Baseball.

The game, Bickmore vs. Bayersdorfer, scheduled for September 30, at Belmont, was not played.

Club Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Florists' Club was held at the Hotel Adelphia Tuesday, October 3. The following officers were elected: President, Edward Reid; vice-president, John W. Prince; secretary, Robert Kift; treasurer, George Craig.

The speaker of the evening, Robert Kift, gave an interesting description of his visit to California.

Berger Bros. staged for the Dahliadale Nurseries five vases of superb dahlias, including President Harding. The Philadelphia Cut Flower Co. exhibited for George Wolfrum thirteen varieties of fancy dahlias, including Patrick O'Mara, Insulinde and Ira D. Warner. William K. Harris displayed a choice collection of plants, among them bird's-nest ferns and Jerusalem cherries.

Up the Country.

It was a freedom party. George Aeugle said so, and that evidently was the case. Not that Mr. Aeugle is just 21; that is, Mrs. Aeugle says he was some time ago, but he is just out of the doctor's hands, sound and hearty, and he wanted to show his friends the fine stock that is produced by some of the upstate growers that ship to the Philadelphia Cut Flower Co. The party consisted of Isaac A. Passmore, the well known grower of carnations and sweet peas in the hunting district of West Chester; his son-in-law, William Cope; Arthur S. Peil, and George Aeugle, at the helm of his Cleveland. It was a perfect day—dahlia weather, the helmsman said, as he drove his party northward to Lansdale, where the first stop was made at the Tremont for dinner.

The journey resumed, Silverdale was the objective, where W. W. Allabough was visited. Mr. Allabough is best known in the Philadelphia market as the grower of the so-called lace fern, Nephrolepis Whitmanii which is so highly prized for its cut fronds. Carnations, callas, sweet peas and snapdragons are the other principal crops. The visitors were pleased to find Mrs. Allabough preparing lace ferns for the market.

The run from Silverdale, Pa., to Perkasie was delightful, over good roads. The first stop in that thriving town in the tobacco district was made at the range of D. H. Werst, which was found as clean as a whistle and with that air of domestic supervision that makes business worth while. Carnations are the principal crop grown here. The varieties grown are Guardian Angel, pink; White Wonder, and Beacon, red. The chrysanthemums, in fine shape, were Jeanne Nonin, Dr. Enguehard and Major Bonnaffon.

It was Mr. Aeugle's first call on Oliver L. Nace, who has just built one fine Lord & Burnham house, 50x175 feet. Unlike most beginners, Mr. Nace has the rare good sense to put his entire house, with the exception of a bunch of freesias, into a single variety of carnations, Matchless, with the idea of making his output worth while to the Philadelphia Cut Flower Co.

B. K. Hedrick has two places. The older one is in the town of Perkasie, adjoining his store and residence, and the new place is in charge of his son, two squares away. The latter consists of two fine houses, 41x260 feet and 50x250 feet, respectively. These have been planted with splendid carnations, Mrs. C. W. Ward, Matchless, Enchantress Supreme, Laddie, Morning Glow, Beacon and Belle Washburn. His chrysanthemums are Sun Glow, Chadwick, Unaka, Pink and White Chieftain, Seidewitz, Mayhew and Frank Wilcox. In pompons Mr. Hedrick grows Western Beauty and the single Mrs. Godfrey. At the new place he also grows freesias and fine sweet peas. Mr. Hedrick has made a success of Delphinium Belladonna planted after his mums are through.

The last stop of the day was made at the range of George Didden, at Hatfield. Here the eyes of the party were treated to some more fine stock. Mr. Didden has two houses, built exactly one year ago; one, 35x250 feet; the other, 21x183 feet. They are planted with chrysanthemums, carnations, sweet peas, callas and snapdragons. The sweet peas, in full bloom so early in the season, were a treat. Mr. Didden pins his faith on mums in the following varieties: Bonnaffon, Rose, Perfection, Sun Glow, Supreme Seidewitz, Orange Queen, Thanksgiving Pink, Betsy Ross, Golden Mistletoe and Strafford. One flower to a plant is preferred. The party reached home after a delightfull day enlivened by Mr. Aeugle's daring feats at the wheel and encouraged by his calm confidence in his ability to see it through.

A PAGE OF HINTS AND HELPS FOR THE RETAIL FLORIST

PENN PULLS WITH PICTURES.

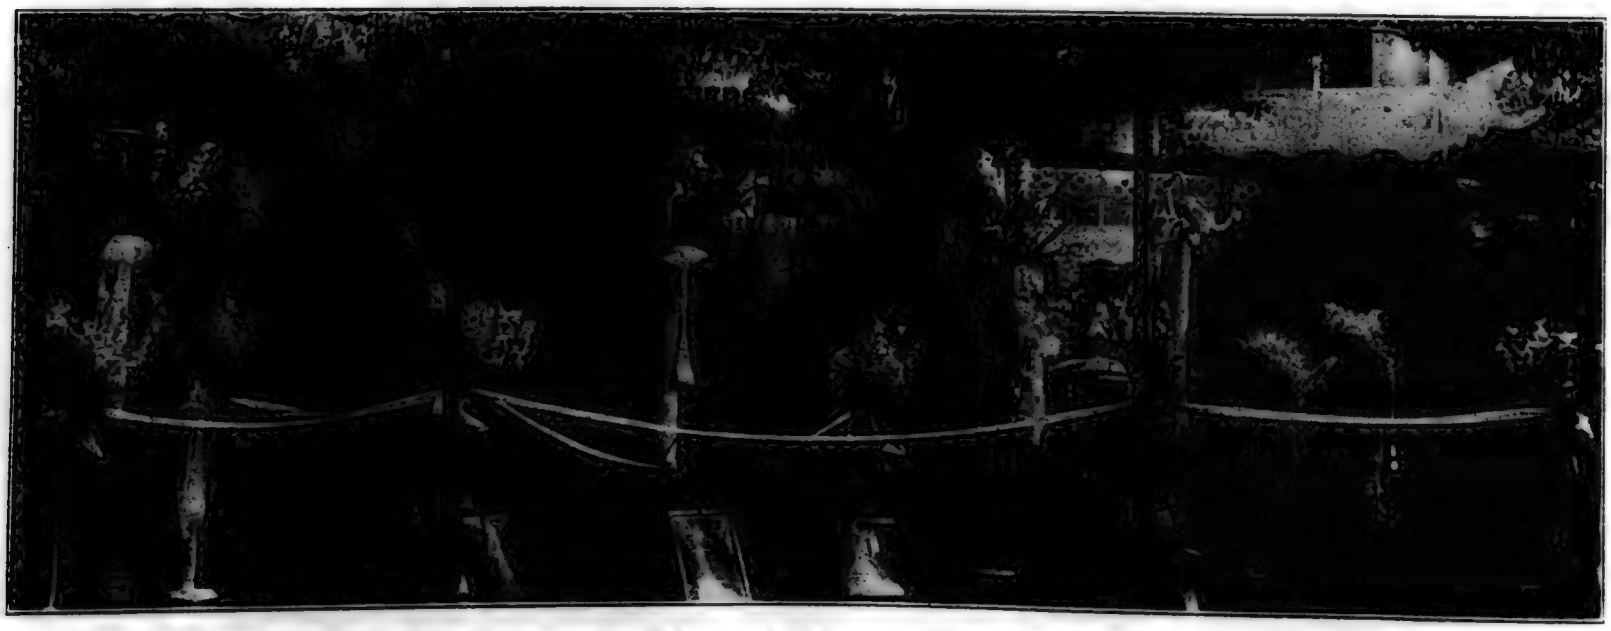
Flowers' Tale with Illustrations.

Eyes right! Eyes below! And you see in illustration what thousands of pedestrians in the hurry-scurry of Tremont street, Boston, Mass., daily pause to notice, stop to study and remain to absorb in the windows of Penn the Florist. The pedestrians remain because there is an extraordinary appeal in this window. It is like a magnetic picture-illustration of a world-old story that attracts all generations. One feels, upon looking at the details of the display, a magnetism not to be resisted in the wealth of flowers and the display of genius in bouquet fabrication. Further, added to the floral attractions, are the photographs depicting the moving spirit of the entire story—the bride, the bridal party, the wedding.

Putting such photographs in such a way into such a window is unique. This the public is quick to appreciate. It is a window built on an idea, a neighborly and a valuable idea—valuable because the display has played a major part in making the month of September this year the leader in wedding orders for Penn the Florist, a position usually held by October, and neighborly because many other florists will be enabled to adopt the plan and so build their own wedding business.

An Idea as the Author.

What is in the window? There is a kneeling bench, such as is used at weddings, with white satin cushions; bride's bouquets of the appropriate combinations; some, shower bouquets of valley, some of white roses with valley showers, some of sweet peas with valley showers, as well as old-fashioned bouquets of valley. Included also is Penn's new bridal wreath of valley. The aisle posts shown are decorated with gladioli. When the gladioli are no longer serviceable, they are replaced with yellow chrysanthemums.



Penn's Bridal Window, Showing Display of Photographs Others May Use.

But the greatest of all contained in the make-up of the display is the idea that involves the addition of the tasteful photographs. Photographs are not confined to this season of the year alone. At other times photographs of babies with cradles and baskets of flowers make a most attractive window. By arrangement with Louis Fabian Bachrach, Boston's most fashionable photographer, Penn the Florist obtains from the former's studio photographs such as are shown in the illustrations.

And Penn the Florist has not forgotten the rest of us. He has arranged with Mr. Bachrach so that any florist in the vicinity of the cities mentioned below can obtain such pictures free of charge. The following places are those in which Louis Fabian Bachrach is represented. If so desired, the pictures can be sent to a florist within a radius of a few miles of these places:

Boston, Mass., 647 Boylston street.
Baltimore, Md., 16 West Lexington street.
Washington, D. C., 1331 F. street, northwest.

Window in Which Bouquets for Brides and Pictures of Them Helped Penn Halt Pedestrians.

BARTCHER'S WINNING FLOAT.

An American Legion festival was held at Denison, Tex., September 14 and 15, and in honor of the occasion the citizens of Denison held an industrial parade. Since one of the principal industries of the town is that of Bartcher's Flower Shop, this firm had a float in the parade and it won first prize, despite keen competition.

The float was not unlike a rectangular box inverted over an automobile chassis. White cloth was draped on all sides and prominent on two of the sides was the

PENN PULLS WITH PICTURES.

Flowers' Tale with Illustrations.

Eyes right! Eyes below! And you see in illustration what thousands of pedestrians in the hurry-scurry of Tremont street, Boston, Mass., daily pause to notice, stop to study and remain to absorb in the windows of Penn the Florist. The pedestrians remain because there is an extraordinary appeal in this window. It is like a magnetic picture-illustration of a world-old story that attracts all generations. One feels, upon looking at the details of the display, a magnetism not to be resisted in the wealth of flowers and the display of genius in bouquet fabrication. Further, added to the floral attractions, are the photographs depicting the moving spirit of the entire story—the bride, the bridal party, the wedding.

Putting such photographs in such a way into such a window is unique. This the public is quick to appreciate. It is a window built on an idea, a neighborly and a valuable idea—valuable because the display has played a major part in making the month of September this year the leader in wedding orders for Penn the Florist, a position usually held by October, and neighborly because many other florists will be enabled to adopt the plan and so build their own wedding business.

Penn's Bridal Window, Showing Display of Photographs Others May Use.

An Idea as the Author.

What is in the window? There is a kneeling bench, such as is used at weddings, with white satin cushions; bride's bouquets of the appropriate combinations; some, shower bouquets of valley, some of white roses with valley showers, some of sweet peas with valley showers, as well as old-fashioned bouquets of valley. Included also is Penn's new bridal wreath of valley. The aisle posts shown are decorated with gladioli. When the gladioli are no longer serviceable, they are replaced with yellow chrysanthemums.

But the greatest of all contained in the make-up of the display is the idea that involves the addition of the tasteful photographs. Photographs are not confined to this season of the year alone. At other times photographs of babies with cradles and baskets of flowers make a most attractive window. By arrangement with Louis Fabian Bachrach, Boston's most fashionable photographer, Penn the Florist obtains from the former's studio photographs such as are shown in the illustrations.

And Penn the Florist has not forgotten the rest of us. He has arranged with Mr. Bachrach so that any florist in the vicinity of the cities mentioned below can obtain such pictures free of charge. The following places are those in which Louis Fabian Bachrach is represented. If so desired, the pictures can be sent to a florist within a radius of a few miles of these places:

Boston, Mass., 647 Boylston street.
Baltimore, Md., 16 West Lexington street.
Washington, D. C., 1331 F. street, northwest.

slogan: "Say It with Bartcher's Flowers." At the front of the float was a high arch, upon which a dove perched in flying pose and from which a paper wedding bell was suspended. Plants and flowers were placed here and there under and behind the arch, and vines ran up the steering post of the machine. Hanging at the front of the float was a flag, prettily draped. Cycas leaves were arranged in wing form at all the corners and in the center of the float's sides. Wreaths were placed artistically here and there and a great basket of asters and green goods stood up handsomely.

Charles Bartcher, himself, drove the float and in the seat with him sat twin boys, Charles and Robert Ewall, about 4 years of age. While Mr. Bartcher drove the car, little Charles Ewall, Mr. Bartcher's namesake, drove the dove with silken white reins. Little Miss Kathryn Ewall was the queen of the float. She, garbed all in white, stood beside the basket of asters majestically.

DAHLIA AND GLADIOLUS SHOW.

At Tarrytown for Hospital Fund.

The first dahlia exhibition of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society was held in the Y. M. C. A. building, Tarrytown, N. Y., Friday afternoon and evening, September 22. The exhibition was held primarily for the benefit of the Tarrytown hospital. It was apparent that wonderful strides have been made in the development of the dahlia, many of them equaling in size the fine chrysanthemums of the fall exhibitions. Notable among the exhibits was a fine vase of twelve blooms of decorative dahlias, which was not only awarded first prize in class 1, but also a cultural certificate. These were exhibited by Richard C. Colt, of Garrison, N. Y.

In addition to the regular awards, the following exhibitors received honorable mention: F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown, N. Y., for collection of dahlias, gladioli and herbaceous flowers; J. H. Troy, for exhibit of seedling dahlias; Thomas Luke, for two egg plants and six quinces;

The Market.

The demand at all wholesale markets last week was excellent. While the supply was quite large, a few days ago, there is at present a scarcity of real choice stock. Retailers report that business is improving daily; cooler weather is needed to put it on edge. The usual fall festivities have begun with the Veiled Prophet's ball and parade. These events always create a large demand for cut flowers and plant decorations. At the various wholesale markets chrysanthemums are beginning to arrive, and some extra fancy blooms of Golden Glow and Smith's Advance are seen daily.

longer stems and excellent foliage. Fancy grades in Premier, Columbia, Ophelia, Butterfly and White Killarney clear well daily at top prices, while lower grades are bulked off in lots. Carnations have not come into their own; much cooler weather is needed to put quality into the blooms. The young plants are looking fine and a large production is promised this season from local growers. Gladioli and asters have about seen their best days for this season; still, the demand for them is active. Dahlias are not so plentiful as they have been in former seasons; most of them burned during the summer, due to the hot and dry weather. Orchids are in good demand and should continue so during the season. Easter lilies and Valley were in steady demand all last week and the supply was sufficient. There are plenty of outdoor wild flowers coming in, but there is little demand.

In greens, smilax, asparagus, fancy ferns, etc., all are in steady demand.

Publicity Meeting.

The executive committee of the St. Louis Flower Growers' Publicity Association held a meeting Thursday, September 28, at 2 p. m., at publicity headquarters. There was a good attendance when Vice-chairman Pilcher called the meeting to order. The secretary's statement showed a healthy balance in the treasury with which to begin the fall advertising campaign. A communication from Secretary John Young was read, inviting the association to send representatives to New York October 9 to attend the meeting of the national publicity committee, at which representatives of the various coöperative or allied advertising associations will be present.

Fall and winter advertising was fully discussed. A motion prevailed that a special meeting of this committee be held October 17, when contracts will be let for all advertising used during the fall and winter months. A representative of George Beban, who is playing the part of the Italian in the sketch, "At the Sign of the Rose," at the Delmonte theater, was present, to ask for flowers to be used each night. He was assured coöperation from all present. This is one way to give publicity to "Say It with Flowers."

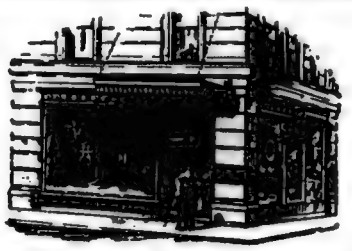
special meeting Thursday, September 28, at 3 p. m., in publicity headquarters. Seventeen chairmen were present. J. F. Ammann presided. The purpose of the meeting was to hear reports from all chairmen as to what had been accomplished by their committees and to determine the amount of money needed by each committee. All bills were ordered paid, subject to the approval of the finance committee. The chair asked for the approval of the appointment of an executive council and a supervisor of exhibits for the show. This request was granted and the appointments followed. As supervisor George H. Pring was appointed. Members of the executive council are H. G. Berning, W. A. Rowe, George H. Pring, J. J. Beneke and J. F. Ammann. W. H. Kruse was appointed chairman of the decoration committee.

The appropriations of the various committees were made, totaling $15,000.

The floor plans for the show, as prepared by Fred Grossart, were examined by all present and were accepted. Blue prints of the plans will be in the hands of all committeemen next week. The committee will meet again October 17 at 3 p. m.



Various Notes.

The monthly meeting of the St. Louis Association of Gardeners was held October 4 at the municipal greenhouses, in Forest park. This was a reunion meeting and refreshments were served. A number of important discussions came up, including the fall flower show. President Pring presided. Secretary Hugo Schaff says that all outdoor meetings held during the summer months had an increased attendance and that all meetings during the fall and winter will be held at the municipal greenhouses, in Forest park.

The St. Louis Florists' Club will hold its monthly meeting October 12 at Kirkwood, Mo., at the greenhouse establishment of Philip Goebel. As this will be the last outdoor meeting of the season, a large attendance is looked for. The officers of the club met October 5 at the home of President F. A. Windler, to arrange for an interesting meeting.

Otto Sander, for the last three years with Grimm & Gorly, has resigned his position and has accepted one with the Acme Floral Co., in the Arcade building, as head designer.

H. G. Berning returned home September 30 from his week's trip through Illinois and Indiana. He says the various growing establishments he visited were in excellent shape for a large production of high-class cut stock for this season.

The directors of the Missouri Botanical Garden have offered $200 in special prizes for the fall flower show, along with the Henry Shaw gold medal, valued at $50. This medal is for a plant of decided merit for cultivation, not previously an article of North American commerce, and introduced to commerce by the exhibitor during the year in which the award is made.

John S. Carter, head of the Nicotine Mfg. Co., reports that shipping orders to eastern and western growers has greatly increased over the same date of last year. An uptown office has been established in the Rialto building; the factory remains on Main street.

Walter Young, president of Young's the Florist, Inc., says the new store, at Taylor and Delmar, will be completed and ready for the opening by October 15. This will be under the management of Vice-president Edward H. Harvey.

tary William Wade, of Kansas City, Mo., is arranging for the annual meeting of the association at St. Louis during flower show week. Other organizations to hold meetings that week are the Chrysanthemum Society of America, the Flower Growers' Association, the St. Louis Florists' Club and the Missouri State Horticultural Society. All meetings will be held in the Coliseum building afternoons and evenings during show week.

According to the society news column in the daily newspapers, there will be a number of large weddings and other social affairs for this month and November. Some of those who have booked advance orders are Joseph Witek, Fred C. Weber, Julius E. Schaeffer, F. H. Weber, Paul T. Heil, Sanders, Grimm & Gorly, M. S. Newman Flower Shop, Young's, the Florist, Inc., the Bergstermann Floral Co., Waldbart Floral Co. and the Mullanphy Florists, Inc.

The Oppermann Floral Co. has announced the opening of the new store, at Kings highway and Columbia avenue. The large conservatory in the rear of the new building along Columbia avenue and the store facing Kings highway are indeed attractive.

ters are still plentiful, but they have reached the height of their season. Carnations are rather scarce. Dahlias are in their prime. Cosmos are coming into the market in quantities sufficient to meet the demand. Most flowers are cheaper than they were a year ago.

The Irvington Flower Shop is the trade name that has been filed for the florists' business conducted at 25 Bloomfield avenue by Michele Pardella, of Brooklyn, N. Y. R. B. M.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

The Market.

The favorable weather last week brought in an unusually fine lot of outdoor stock. There have been some wonderful dahlias coming into the market, and these have been selling well. Asters, however, are short-stemmed and the demand has fallen off considerably. The supply of gladioli is fair, with a limited number of good quality. Carnations are arriving in good supply; although the stems are still short, the flowers are fairly good. There is also an excellent supply of roses, especially Columbia and Premier of the longer-stemmed grades, in the market. Chrysanthemums are making their appearance and the early varieties are selling well. What is needed to stimulate business, however, is a frost, to clean up the outdoor stock, as there are plenty of roses, chrysanthemums and carnations to take care of the demand.

Various Notes.

The directors of the Wisconsin State Florists' Association had a meeting Wednesday, September 27, to make final arrangements for the coming annual meeting, which will take place at Milwaukee, November 3 to 5. At this time the Milwaukee Florists' Club expects to put on a fall flower show at the library building, which will be open free to the public. Most of the trade will make a showing of some kind; this exhibition is an educational show and for publicity purposes. The spring show held in this same building was a success. There are no prizes offered, and the space in the building is furnished free by the library board. Those attending the directors' meeting were George Vatter, of Marinette; John Rindfleisch, of Beloit; Fred Rentschler, of Madison; James Taylor, of Oshkosh.

John Rindfleisch, of Beloit, Wis., bought a new Page automobile while here and drove back to Beloit with it.

Other recent visitors were Bruno Schulz, of Menominee, Mich.; George Peterson, of Escanaba, Mich.; Mr. Lunberg, of the Golden Rule department store, St. Paul, Minn.

James Currie, pioneer florist of Milwaukee and superintendent of the Forest Home cemetery, as well as a member of the park board, passed away September 26, and was buried Friday, September 29. It was a largely attended funeral and many floral tributes were sent.

The announcement of the death of Frank X. Stuppy, of St. Joseph, Mo., was a shock to the trade, as Mr. Stuppy had been in Milwaukee at the Sacred Heart Sanitarium, and shortly before his death was reported to be doing nicely.

The meeting of the florists' publicity committee was held at the Blatz hotel, Friday, September 22, and arrangements were made for a fall advertising campaign.

The annual meeting of the Florists' Advertising Association will be held about the middle of October. P.

Herbert Gottschalk reports good business at the shop recently opened at Thirty-ninth street and North avenue. Bulbs and autumn flowers are being featured at this store just now.

is getting poorer each day, while their stems are short. Carnations are again plentiful and fine in quality. Roses are not good in quality and the price remains high. Cactus dahlias are arriving now and their quality is excellent.

Various Notes.

Henry P. Neun, formerly in the florist's business at 9 North street, passed away at Saranac lake, Adirondack, N. Y., Sunday, September 24, after a lingering illness. The funeral was held from his late home September 27.

Redwood bulbs from California are creating a sensation here. J. B. Keller sons have them on sale.

The first frost of the season occurred September 27, but there was no great damage done to outdoor cut flowers.

E. C. A.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.

The Market.

A moderate amount of funeral work has constituted most of the flower business for the last month. Aside from funeral work, none of the florists has been turning the world upside down; at least, that is the way Sidney Lambourne puts it. However, with the returning from the canyons of vacationists and the opening of schools and colleges, a stimulation in flower buying is looked for.

Asters, gladioli, marigolds and other outside flowers, which have been the chief items for the last two months, are about gone, and greenhouse stock, especially roses, which is now coming on in good shape, is beginning to come into its own. Roses are lower in price at present than at any time at this season of the year for the last four years. The quality of the stock is improving every day, and although the weather is quite warm in the daytime, cool nights are helping the stock. Butterfly, Dunlop, Columbia and Ophelia move best, at $4 to $10 per hundred.

Carnations are beginning to arrive in small quantities, but the stems are short. However, they are good for funeral work, and all available stock is easily disposed of at $3 per hundred. Mums have made their appearance in considerable quantities. The quality is fairly good for this season of the year, and all indications point to a larger crop of this popular item than for some years.

Various Notes.

Miss Paula Bubel, proprietor of the Evans Floral Co., has completed extensive improvements on her store at 261 South State street. The entire front was taken out and in the place of two show windows, as was the previous arrangement, one large window was put in. The whole interior was repainted and decorated. Latticework and basket and plant shelves were put in, making this flower shop one of the nicest and best arranged in Salt Lake City.

Al Alt, of the Huddart Floral Co., is off on a month's vacation. He will visit his former partner, Mr. Gray, in Montana, and from there will go to the coast.

Arthur Granshaw, who for ten years or more has been associated with E. A. Lambourne, one of the leading florists of the city, has resigned his position to accept a position as manager of the retail store of the Butte Floral Co., Butte, Mont. Mr. Granshaw is one of the best florists in this section, and Mr. Lambourne will have a hard time to find a man with his capabilities. He leaves a host of friends at Salt Lake City, all of whom wish him the greatest success in his new position.

same time florists are paying 50 cents more per ton for coal than at any time last year. The present price for coal is more than twice as high as it was last spring, when there was a surplus.

A visit to the Salt Lake Floral Co. finds this concern in excellent shape for this season. Fifty thousand carnations are being grown here this year, and the greenhouses and stock have never been in better condition than at present.

F. J. Hendershot & Son, of Ogden, are remodeling their greenhouses on Twenty-fifth street. They report business as good, taking everything into consideration.

The following-named men have visited Salt Lake City the last month or so: Fred Gust, of the McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.; Robert Newcomb, of the Burlington Willow Ware Shops, Burlington, Ia.; P. H. King, of the Butte Floral Co., Butte, Mont. G. J. B.

NEW SOCIETY AT CAPITAL.

To Organize Garden Club.

Efforts are being made to organize a new society in the District of Columbia, which all persons interested in floriculture, either commercial or amateurs, will be invited to join. The need for such an organization was pointed out September 28, at a meeting in the public library called by officials of the government experimental farm at Arlington.

Dr. Firman Mulford, of the Department of Agriculture, presided, and explained to the fifty or more persons who attended the meeting what was planned for the new association. Washington, he said, has never boasted a garden or flower club of any size or importance, in spite of the fact that the location in this city of the government departments has placed unusual facilities at the disposal of such an organization. He expressed the hope that the new association would fill the need which exists and that it would, through coöperation with neighborhood and community clubs already formed, do much to educate the general public in the love of flowers. The slogan of such a society, he added, might well be "A Plant in Every Window."

In a general discussion which followed Dr. Mulford's remarks, the point most stressed was that the new organization be essentially a public society, of which anyone interested could become a member. Dr. Taylor, of the Department of Agriculture, stressed the need for this kind of association, stating that a large part of the city's population was made up of flat dwellers who were deprived of the opportunities afforded even by a back yard and had to do most of their growing in "tin can gardens." In connection with these "tin can gardeners," Professor Bisset, of the bureau of plant industry, suggested that one of the first acts of the new club be the acquisition of some plot of land that could be turned into a club garden where members could make experiments and observe the results attained by others in flower growing.

J. A. SWARTLEY & SONS, STERLING, ILL.

Dr. Pappie, of the bureau of chemistry, presented an outline of the new club for discussion. The aim of the society would be the promotion of flower and plant growing in the city of Washington and the adjoining districts in Maryland and Virginia. Every encouragement would be given to local organizations in the instituting of amateur flower shows and competitions, and if found feasible, the new organization would maintain a permanent service bureau where all kinds of questions and queries on plant and flower culture would be answered. School gardens would be encouraged, and the club would organize and take charge of inter-school competitions if desired.

This plan seemed to meet with the general approval, and a committee of seven was appointed, with Dr. Mulford cago, Indianapolis and other cities. Frank B. Smith's Sons were asked to take charge of the flowers at the funeral and arranged them so that the collection might be photographed. The array was imposing and the type of work was so uniformly excellent that one could not distinguish which pieces were made in Danville and which in other places.

MONTREAL, QUE.

The Market.

Business last week was dull. Roses are plentiful, but asters and gladioli are becoming scarcer each day. Carnations and mums are beginning to be more plentiful.

Taking it as a whole, retailers report that business is beginning to improve and that all customers are starting to place their orders.

Various Notes.

The supply business of the Montreal Floral Exchange, Ltd., has made such an increase in the last year that Manager Cotter has found it necessary to put a man on the road. For this work he has secured the services of E. H. Skinner, who hails from Worcester, Mass. The amount of supplies sold by the company in the last twelve months is more than double what it was last year.

Charles Brown, of the Dominion Floral Co., has returned to Ottawa after having spent the last month managing the Montreal store, while his brother was on vacation.

It is doubtful if any of the local florists will attend the F. T. D. convention, at Baltimore. W. C. Hall and Frank McKenna were invited to make the trip by machine with some of their brother florists in Toronto, but both feel doubt-

S. J. Densen was forced to give up work for a few days last week, because of nicotine poisoning. The doctor informed Mr. Densen that he would either have to give up his pipe or stop working. Mr. Densen could not bear the thought of giving up work; neither could he see how he was going to be able to set aside his pipe. He has finally decided to trust to luck and to cut down his tobacco allowance to a half pound a day.

Mr. Cohen, of Rubin Bros., has returned from a two weeks' visit in Boston.

Despite the complaints of many florists that it has been one of the poorest summers for business, Peter Poulos, of the Dominion Floral Co., on St. Catherine street, east, reports that his store has had a better season than ever before. Mr. Poulos' policy this summer has been to have an abundance of stock on display in his windows. This policy has McKenna's, Ltd., has opened a new store at the corner of Laurier and Park avenues. W. C. Hall, of Hall & Robinson, announces that he has sold his business to George D. Reid, formerly of the E. Wienhoeber Co., Chicago. Mr. Reid arrived in the city last week to take charge of the business. Mr. Hall has been busy the last week having the conservatory, which was attached to the store, remodeled into a storage and work room. Mr. Hall will devote his time to his greenhouses at Montreal, west.

With the passing of the summer months and the fading away of the railroad strike, business conditions have begun to improve and the way seems clear for the best fall and winter trade we have had for years past. winter supply, although the price will probably be higher than ever paid before.

While there is not a surplus, there is an ample supply of stock to meet all demands. Asters and gladioli have finished blooming, but there is a fair supply of roses, carnations and dahlias. Orchids and valley are scarce.

The month of September showed a good increase over previous months and compared well with other Septembers.

Various Notes.

A. H. Dailey has moved to his new location, on Union avenue.

Those at Baum's Home of Flowers are remodeling and brightening up the interior of their salesroom, preparing for fall and winter trade. The firm is busy with the digging and grading of gladiolus bulbs; this stock will soon be ready for the wholesale market. The season has been ideal, and the bulbs are better than ever before. R. E. The last of the week has shown some let-up in the florists' business, which has been hailed with relief by the employees, who in many stores have been working overtime for nearly a week. The Market.

Each day last week found the wholesalers practically cleaned up at the close of their business. Some asters are still being received in the market, although their quality is poor. Gladioli, too, are coming into the market, although the supply is limited, and the quality is about as good as one can expect at this time of the year. Carnations are improving each week in quality. All colors are now to be had. Roses are of the best quality and the demand is just about equal to the supply. The varieties being received at the present time are Crusader, Columbia, Ophelia, Priscilla, Ward and Sweetheart. The demand for Easter lilies continues. Valley is also much in demand. Calla lilies were in the market last week and moved rapidly.

Mexican ivy has made its first appearance in the market this fall. Other greens, such as leucothoe sprays, green galax, coontie leaves and ferns, are always in demand. Some arbor-vitæ has also been offered to the trade.

From all indications, the cut flower business for last month exceeded that of the same month last year. The supply departments of the wholesale houses are taxed getting out Christmas orders. The wise florist is the man who will place his orders for Christmas requirements early, as, owing to railroad conditions, it may be rather difficult to obtain materials at the last moment. It is learned that chiffon has taken another advance in price.

Various Notes.

Society was drawn to the dahlia display held in Guild hall, Sewickley, Pa., the latter part of last week. A tempting display of fruits and vegetables featured one day's exhibition, but the dahlias still seemed to be "the whole show." Table decorations of fruits and flowers, arranged by leading florists of Pittsburgh, were unusually attractive. Cactus and show dahlias were used effectively with other fall flowers and ferns, contrasted with bows of ribbon

The 3-story factory and warehouse of the McCallum Co., at 1803 Beaver avenue, was completely destroyed by fire Sunday morning, October 1. The blaze was discovered by the night watchman, on the second floor, but it spread to the first and third floors before the fire companies arrived. Fed by baskets and paint, the flames spread rapidly and destroyed the entire structure. The McCallum Co. secured new quarters without delay and they are expected to be operated to the full capacity of the old factory by October 20. In the meantime, orders are being filled from the stock at the Seventh street store and at the branches. A larger factory will be built immediately, states the McCallum Co. At present, supplies of new stock are coming in and the shipments of merchandise from Europe, where E. J. McCallum is now traveling, are on the way, enabling the company to meet its customers' wants.

The Market.

The quantity of flowers arriving has considerably diminished since a week ago. Frost has destroyed a large proportion of the outdoor flowers, such as gladioli, asters and dahlias, and so far the supply from under glass is rather limited; as a result, prices hold firm and show an advancing tendency, and, but for the warm and clear weather we are having, there would be a real shortage. Roses continue to sell well. American Beauties are in good demand at $30 to $60 per hundred, and a few have sold as high as $75 per hundred. Hadley realizes the best prices among the hybrid teas and 21-inch-stemmed stock makes $25 to $30 per hundred. Other varieties, like Premier, Crusader, Columbia, Angelus, Butterfly and Ophelia, go all the way from $3 to $20 per hundred. Angelus shows up extremely well among white roses and bids fair to displace Double White Killarney.

More carnations are coming in, but the quality as yet is mediocre. Flowers sell at from $3 to $5 per hundred and more could easily be sold. Small lots of single violets have appeared, and nice pansies are offered, as well as calendulas. Some good indoor sweet peas have made their appearance and sell readily. Lilies of all kinds are at present decidedly scarce.

Chrysanthemums are not at all plentiful and they clean up easily; most of them are still Yellow Frost and White Frost, Golden Glow and Halliday, with a few Chrysolora. Asters are fast petering out, but some good, clean flowers still arrive. Gladioli are nearing the end and the spikes are puny, with prices running from $4 to $8 per hundred. Late primulinus varieties, from bulblets, are in good demand. There are some dahlias, cosmos, hardy larkspur and bachelor's buttons, as well as a little gypsophila and plenty of helichrysums. White bouvardia cleans up quickly. Cattleyas are much more plentiful. C. labiata is now in good crop. There are also a number of C. Fabia, C. Bowringiana, C. Portia and C. Gaskelliana, with some cypripediums, yellow oncidiums and vandas. Lily of the valley continues in good demand, but the supply is limited.

Green material meets with the usual demand.

In addition to cyclamens and begonias, a large variety of fine foliage plants is now offered, including crotons, ficus, araucarias, dracænas, macranthas and ferns and palms in variety. The general line of business is good and, with the improved coal situation and ending of strikes locally, the outlook is distinctly better.

Various Notes.

A meeting of the local branch of the National Association of Gardeners was held at Horticultural hall September 27. Robert Cameron presided, and there was an excellent attendance. W. N. Craig read a financial report for the late convention, showing a deficit of $23, which President Cameron promptly paid. He was tendered a rising vote of thanks. All contributors of automobiles for the outings were also thanked. Several members spoke of the success of the convention and the number of new active and sustaining members showed the good aftermath of it. After some discussion, it was voted to hold meetings quarterly hereafter, in December, March, June and September.

A serious accident befell L. E. Small, the popular Tewksbury grower, while he was working on a pump engine. The ligaments of his right hand were badly strained and he was on the operating table under ether from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. the day after the accident. He sustained a bad shock, but is convalescing as well as can be expected.

A recent call on Peter Pederzini, of the Medfield Farms & Greenhouse Co., found the greenhouses all filled to repletion with excellent stock. A house of carnations looked fine, Morning Glow, Matchless and Ward being especially good. Chrysanthemums included many pompons and were in the pink of condition. Excellent batches of solanums, geraniums, primulas, stevias, freesias and other plants were noted. A field of Green Mountain potatoes, covering fourteen acres, was yielding a good crop and many tons of winter squashes had just been harvested.

A large part of the supplies of Dutch bulbs for the current season arrived in Boston last week on the steamships Burgendich and Glen Rich, and many of the growers are now busily employed boxing up their plantings. Quality seems to be unusually good.

As announced in The Review of September 21, the wholesale market site has finally been decided upon, and papers passed, October 2, giving the special committee representing the stockholders, possession of the Cyclorama building on Tremont street. The price, $170,000, is considered quite reasonable for so central a location. About $150,000, it is estimated, will be needed to make the necessary alterations to equip it properly for market purposes. New stockholders are steadily coming in and there will be no trouble about financing the market properly. The floor space for market purposes will be about 30,000 square feet, against about 12,000 in the two present wholesale markets combined. It is understood that Henry M. Robinson & Co. will ocupy all the basement space in the new market, and it will be but a short time before all other wholesale and commission houses will be located in the new flower center of Boston. Everyone seems pleased with the new location; in fact, the writer has heard no criticisms on the choice at all.

A fine new concrete floor has just been laid in the main exhibition hall of Horticultural hall. An earth floor has been used since the great wild flower show in April; prior to that wooden floors were always used. The next exhibition at Horticultural hall comes the first week in November. Chrysanthemums, winter-flowering begonias and groups of plants will be special features.

Since September 13 we have had no rain and skies have been continuously clear. Temperatures of over 80 degrees in the shade have made many people hike to the mountains to see the glorious autumnal colorings on the trees and others, just home from the seashore resorts, fervently wish they had stayed longer. It is the longest spell of clear, warm weather we have enjoyed this year.

Usually the Arnold Arboretum has rather frowned on fall plantings of trees and shrubs, preferring to prepare the soil in the fall and to plant in the spring. Encouraged by experimental plantings of azaleas last fall, which gave far better results than those made in the spring, extensive plantings of Azalea Kaempferi, pontica and other varieties are now being carried out. Something like 300,000 azaleas will be planted this fall or next spring, the biggest ornamental planting of these beautiful flowering deciduous shrubs, it is believed, on the American continent.

Among flowers noted in the retail stores just now are quantities of tritomas, Aconitum autumnale, a very useful monkshood; and some fine forms of the hardy asters, or Michælmas daisies. Colored oak foliage and other autumn leaves are also beginning to appear.

Many in the trade regretted to hear last week of the death at St. Joseph, Mo., of Frank Stuppy, of the Stuppy Floral Co. The deceased had many friends here.

William R. Nicholson, of Framingham, has sent in a grand lot of Yellow Fiat chrysanthemums this season. His other varieties, some of which he is cutting, are in the pink of condition. Carnations are being reduced each season here, as other crops are found more profitable. Some nice delphinium is still being cut outdoors.

Charles I. Beasley, the local pansy "king," is sending in some excellent shipments of pansies. At East Milton most of his houses are planted with pansies, and he has some remarkably fine colors and varieties of his own selection. He grows gladioli heavily outdoors and a large proportion are sold at his roadside stand, along which there is a continuous stream of traffic to Nantasket Beach, Plymouth and various south shore and Cape Cod resorts.

H. J. Bovarski & Son, of Mount Hope street, Roslindale, are fast completing a fine new greenhouse for their steadily increasing plant trade. The greenhouse will contain a grand lot of winter-flowering begonias, cyclamens, solanums and ferns in variety, while thousands of splendid hydrangeas, roses and other plants are being potted up for Easter trade.

Mr. Slayter, of the A. Leuthy Co., Roslindale, has all his greenhouses filled with fine stock for the coming season. Especially fine lots of poinsettias, cyclamens, begonias and genistas were noted, while small ferns and those of larger size filled several houses. Business was reported as satisfactory.

The fuel situation is much improved. The harbor of Boston is choked with many thousand tons of coal. Most of it is from British ports, but a number of cargoes are of home anthracite. Much English coal is being bought for household use and proves quite satisfactory. Several are using it for greenhouses and with good results. Prices show a downward tendency, due to heavy receipts and the abnormally warm, pleasant weather.

There is a decreasing interest in oil heating, now that coal supplies are more abundant. A number of greenhouse establishments, where formerly anthracite was used, have laid in supplies of soft coal and are well satisfied with results so far. W. N. C.

Gleanings from Galvin's.

Thomas F. Galvin, Inc., has been extremely busy of late, and President Charles F. Boyle says a better feeling in business centers is evident in the increased volume of orders. Some of these, to the extent of several thousand dollars, have been handed to foreign countries, several being delivered to members of royalty. As an instance of this business, it is interesting to note that the cable charges on one order alone were $85. With the exception of Russia and Turkey, almost every country in Europe received a portion of these flowers.

The vacation season having ended, the organization is again intact for the first time since June 1. The outstanding event of the summer was the marriage of Charles Lynch and Miss Helen Lanigan. After a month's automobile tour, the couple have returned.

BOSTON, MASS.

Wedding orders have been numerous. Last week a complete bridal order was delivered in Mills Village, Queens county, Nova Scotia. The consignment was in charge of Mr. Mahoney, who accompanied the flowers to their destination. This trip consumed six entire days. Among other prominent weddings for which the flowers and decorations were furnished by this firm, may be mentioned the following: Hurley, Robinson, Fish, Anderson and Belknap.

Another familiar figure has returned to his usual prominence in charge of traffic at Copley square; viz., Captain Trent, the famous door man, who has extended the firm's courtesy from curb to door for thirty years. Called the "peerless greeter," he is known from coast to coast.

Charles F. Boyle, president of the firm, will attend the F. T. D. convention at Baltimore, accompanied by Robert A. Hale, manager of the New York store.

The capacity and resourcefulness of the house were put to a test at the time of the funeral of William M. Wood, Jr., a director of the American Woolen Co. and son of its founder, also grandson of J. C. Ayer, the famous sarsaparilla and patent medicine man. In spite of the fact that the business derived was scattered through the city and suburbs, the firm carried through 193 orders, for, it may be well imagined, the demand for final flowers was tremendous. Markets even 1,000 miles away were called upon to supply the necessary flowers. The orders being from wealthy people, prices ran from $25 to $200, the average being $50. The firm has handled the family business for many years and in regular order has provided for the debutante parties, weddings and deaths as they have occurred.

The revival of business is an actual fact, thinks Mr. Boyle, as viewed from the standpoint of activity. Several automobile houses dressed up in honor of their customers, who were their guests last week. Among the automobile firms for which the Galvin company provided decorations were the Cadillac, Hudson and Essex.

The policy of the house always to advance its members in recognition of ability and faithfulness has led to several advancements. Hugh McNally has been moved up from shipper to designer; Joseph Mahoney, from salesman to field agent; William B. Campbell, from head chauffeur to salesman; Stephen Francis, from assistant shipper to shipper. Among the new members of the organization are Edwin F. Casey, salesman, and Wilfred Thornton, assistant chauffeur.

W. Z. PURNELL, SNOW HILL, MD.

James J. Slattery, assistant manager of the Park street store, recently purchased a new stucco house, with wood ornamentations, on Washington street, Brighton, to which, as soon as it is ready for occupancy, he will move his family from his beloved Coolidge Hill, in Brookline. His new home is one of the finest buildings in the district, a charming section of suburban Boston.

One of the large orders of the week was for the opening of the Thomas G. Plant "Queen Quality" shoe store, No. 29, at 170 Tremont street. This store is of the colonial type and a splendid piece of architecture, to which the flowers and plants provided the right embellishments.

Because of the large death list of prominent persons, the demand for funeral work has been exceptional. This is of interest in view of the increasing habit of requesting no flowers. Despite the variety and urgency of the forms of this request which may be read in the daily papers, the use of flowers for funerals is constantly growing. Use of casket mantles has become quite general, and each week the number delivered increases. Among the prominent orders for this service filled during the week were those for the Keller, Mason, Haggerty, Johnson, Williams and Jones funerals.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Club Meetings.

The New Orleans Horticultural Society held its August meeting at the greenhouses of the Metairie Ridge Nursery Co.

It was the first meeting after the election of our new president, Harry Papworth. At his suggestion, the monthly meetings are to be held at the different members' places, to make the gatherings more interesting. Another innovation of the new president was to choose a member each meeting to read a paper on his methods of growing certain flowers. Harry Dressel was the first member selected, and his paper was on the culture of dahlias. He was given a rising vote of thanks for his instructive talk.

One of our members, P. A. Chopin, has been appointed on the Chamber of Commerce beautifying and clean-up committee, to try to discourage the defacing of trees by nailing advertisements to them.

Another member, Paul Abele, was chosen to make up a list of plants suitable for fall planting and to give copies of the list to the newspapers for publication.

The retiring president, C. W. Eichling, of the Avenue Floral Co., was presented with a beautiful gold-handled umbrella. The presentation was made by Mr. Chopin. He spoke of how fortunate the club was to have had Mr. Eichling as its president, especially during the campaign against the camphor scale. Mr. Eichling responded with much feeling, saying that he was always ready to put the best that was in him into any undertaking he accepted.

There were about forty members present. Refreshments were served after adjournment, and an inspection of the greenhouses was made by those present. Everything is as usual at this place and looked most flourishing. Roses and chrysanthemums looked especially good.

The September meeting was held at the establishment of Conona Bros., in Shrewsbury. They are the largest growers of outside roses in this vicinity. They have about 30,000 plants, principally Radiance, Red Radiance, Cochet, White Cochet and a good-sized block of Mexican tuberoses, which seem to do extremely well near this city. They also have a block of 10,000 Robinson chrysanthemums, the most popular variety grown here, which will be ready for All Saints' day. Conona Bros. are just preparing to put the roof over the mums, and the plants look quite promising. This firm also specializes in sweet peas, but up to the present the weather has been too warm for planting. The Conona brothers are hard-working young men, as their place shows. They do their plowing and cultivating with a Fordson tractor. They also have a cold storage plant, which is a real necessity with our prevailing temperatures.

E. A. Farley, of Gentilly, who grows most of the Easter lilies for the New Orleans trade, gave an interesting and instructive talk on the culture of Easter lilies, which was highly appreciated. Easter lilies do exceedingly well outdoors here, and it seems surprising that florists do not go into the culture of lilies for Easter more extensively. It was planned to have the October meeting of the society at Mr. Farley's grounds.

Mr. Cook introduced the subject of the camphor thrips, another troublesome pest that is attacking the camphor trees in some sections of this city. Several members stated that the thrips was more destructive than the scale that created so much comment and trouble last year, when the federal government came to the rescue and sent a power sprayer to help rid the city of the pest, which threatened to rob it of all its shade trees. Some members stated that the thrips did more damage than the scale at that time.

Various Notes.

The summer weather is with us yet. Plumbagos and hibiscus are blooming in all their glory. The crotons, acalyphas and fancy caladiums are putting on their gorgeous colors.

The return of a large number of the people from their summer vacations has helped to increase business.

The Salmen lumber merchants, dealers in building materials, have just completed their new show rooms. On opening day the display of flowers seen there was gorgeous. They were sent from all parts of the United States, Mexico and South America. A. H. G.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

SANTA ANA, CAL.

At Orange County Fair.

The Orange county fair opened here September 27 and, judging by the crowd on the opening day and the excellent quality of the exhibits, it will go on record as a great success. Besides the agricultural and pleasure ends of the fair, there was a most interesting and attractive floricultural department under the management of Howard E. Gates, of Anaheim, in his capacity as chairman of the committee on floriculture. It says a good deal for the energy and hard work of Mr. Gates that practically all the nurserymen in this city and the adjoining cities of Anaheim and Fullerton exhibited, and the florists' end was by no means the least interesting.

One of the finest exhibits in the show was that of Amling Bros. It consisted of large vases of roses of splendid quality for this time of year. Premier, Butterfly, Milady, Angelus, Russell, Dunlop and Crusader were the principal varieties shown, and this group took the first prize in the cut flower class rather easily.

In the plant class Collins' Nursery won the first place with a bright and showy exhibit of cyclamens in full bloom, prettily arranged with boxwoods, ferns and palms.

Another noteworthy exhibit was that of Robertson's Nurseries, at Fullerton, consisting of fine, well colored kentias and ferns. The firm was awarded second honors here and third for a cut flower display.

Morris the Florist won first for a basket of flowers, second for a cut flower display and third for plants, the exhibits in each case being marked by tasteful and finished arrangement and good quality of material. Fred Rafferty was awarded third prize for a basket, a charming arrangement of carnations and maidenhair, lightened with Delphinium Belladonna.

Howard Gates took second prize in this class for a smaller but tastefully arranged basket of roses, statice and delphinium. Mr. Gates' plant exhibit, too, was a tastefully arranged group of exquisite plants.

W. J. Van der Breggen, of the Southside Nurseries, staged a distinct and beautiful exhibit in the form of a miniature mission garden and landscape. All the details were carefully worked out to a convincing scale. Small, well fruited capsicums were planted as an orange grove, various small ferns as palms and other material was used.

The Haven Seed Co. had a fine exhibit of many of the firm's specialties in tomatoes, peppers, squash and other varieties, showing splendid quality and trueness to type.

In another section there was a fine showing of dahlias and other flowers in season, one of the finest exhibits being that of Mrs. E. Huff, which consisted of well grown plants in many varieties, altogether a most commendable showing.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

The principal addition to the stock on the local market last week was an abundant supply of local mums. While yellow is the prevailing color, the whites and pinks are also good. The weather again turned warm, and the dahlia growers say that some damage was done to their flowers; still, they are arriving in good order and in large quantities. Gladioli are not nearly so plentiful as they were and the price naturally has come up considerably. There is still a fine cut of America around the wholesale houses. Small shipments of orchids and gardenias continue to come in, while growers of valley are keeping up their cuts, and the quality is fine. Roses are getting better. Outdoor carnations are still showing the effects of the hot sun. There is a good supply of all kinds of greens.

Various Notes.

A call at Lincoln park found Superintendent Joseph McGillivray just returned from an automobile trip north. He reports calling on old friends at Santa Barbara and other places. At the park greenhouses there is a fine display of ferns now. It seems only a short time ago that these conservatories were built, though it must be about ten years since the planting was done, and already many of the large palms and cycas are becoming crowded and their heads are reaching the roof. There are some excellent specimens of Cycas circinalis, Kentia Forsteriana and various caryotas, while among the ferns are immense specimens of Adiantum cuneatum and others, all in the prime of condition.

The writer's Sunday siesta was pleasantly interrupted last week by the arrival of Samuel Lundy and Mrs. Lundy from Denver, Colo. They had driven here in their Nash. Mr. Lundy sold out his interest in the Boldt-Lundy House of Flowers some time ago and has returned to his old stamping ground. It will be recalled that before going on the road for the Joseph Manda interests, Mr. Lundy was manager of the original Wolfskill place in Los Angeles. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lundy expressed themselves as being glad to be back. He has not as yet any definite plans as to what branch of the business he will take up, and they are at present staying with Mrs. Lundy's brother at Fullerton. They have much of interest to tell of their trip across country, which was a delightful experience, though not without its difficulties. Their many local friends will be glad to welcome them.

Three carloads of palms have been shipped from Montebello, consigned to an eastern firm by Roy F. Wilcox & Co. Medium-sized phœnix and kentias were the principal plants shipped.

E. C. Amling has purchased the greenhouses of George Watson, at Covina junction. This is part of the Wolfskill range, moved there at the time this place was broken up some years ago, and comprises about 40,000 feet of glass. The range is to be devoted to carnations and sweet peas, according to Mr. Amling.

The greenhouses of Wright's Flower Shop are sending in fine mums to the retail store. Columbia roses here are extra good now.

The Japanese flower market's lease is near its end and the market will be taken farther south on Wall street.

George W. Eischen & Co. report business as improving right along locally. Some shipping orders are coming in here. This firm specializes in valley, orchids and gardenias and is also handling many fine mums for the north.

Immense numbers of 4-inch cyclamens are being shipped out by Walter Armacost & Co., this being the only size in full bloom now. Although these are being shipped to points in Texas and other states, they arrive in perfect order, as shown by the number of repeat orders received. At the greenhouses the new hybrid orchids are flowering and, although the number is not large as yet, they are remarkable flowers, full of interest for the orchid lover, as well as commercially valuable. D. Bracey, the orchid grower here, has the collection well in hand and in wonderful order.

Immense numbers of local mums are now being shipped by S. Murata & Co. and the yellows in particular are some of the finest ever seen in this market. Owing to the careful methods of packing, reports from long-distance customers say, the stock is arriving in fine order.

J. Dieterich returned home last week after a somewhat prolonged trip to Germany and Switzerland, bringing with him his nephew. Mr. Dieterich says that he had a fine time in his native country after thirty-four years of absence in America. While he says the trade is more or less depressed over there, owing to the monetary situation, yet some of the nurseries were interesting, notably that of Paul Pfitzer, of Stuttgart. He visited the passion play at Oberammergau, as well as Interlaken, where, he says, the English language was heard more than Swiss, owing to the great number of American tourists. A German specialist has been giving Mr. Dieterich treatment for his spinal trouble, which is much better than when he left.

W. A. Grosser is a regular buyer on the market here, a great deal of funeral work being done at his place, at 1405 Central avenue. His brother, Arthur Grosser, is connected with him in business here again.

The Market.

Large cuts of chrysanthemums arrived in the market last week, including pompons and other small kinds. In the shipping varieties, Chieftains were beginning to come in, as well as Turners and other later varieties, in white, yellow and pink. Roses were decidedly more plentiful, as the new crops of roses were being cut by a number of growers. Violets were selling well to the local trade, but these flowers are not expected to be ripe for shipping until the middle of October. Gladioli are nearing the end of their season, though there were a few in the market. Pompon dahlias were still fairly good, but of the larger dahlias few were seen. Baby zinnias were making a good show, and there was plenty of gypsophila, as well as snapdragons, marigolds, cockscomb, mignonette, gillyflowers, larkspur and a number of other summer flowers. Orchids were becoming more plentiful and lilies

Various Notes.

S. R. Lundy is visiting this city. He is reported to have sold out at Denver and plans settling at Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Plath, who went away June 5 for a tour of some of the countries of Europe, are understood to have landed in New York on their return journey. Mr. Plath is proprietor of the Ferneries, and he is also one of the heads of the Richmond Pottery Co., in which Frank D. Pelicano and some other well known members of the trade are also interested.

Angelo Rossi, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., has returned from Los Angeles, where he visited in the interests of the California industries exposition, which will take place in the Municipal auditorium, San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Nieman, of the Park Floral Co., Denver, Colo., have been calling on their San Francisco friends. They have been traveling through the Pacific northwest.

Miss Jennie Potter, of the Potter Floral Co., El Paso, Tex., has been welcomed by the local trade. Miss Potter has been enjoying a trip to the Grand canyon and to the Yosemite valley. Speaking of the trade in El Paso, Miss Potter said: "We depend on California for a good many of our flowers. The range of the Potter Co. contains 40,000 feet of glass. To some growers that may not seem large, but it is one of the largest in Texas."

S. L. Pritchard, florist and artist, is opening a floral department in the store of Goldberg, Bowen & Co., Sutter street, near Grant avenue. This is one of the leading grocery stores of the city and it has long made a specialty of gift baskets of dried and candied fruit, etc. Mr. Pritchard, who was formerly manager of a well-known florist's store here, has painted a large stock of Burlington Willow Ware baskets for his department. He won first prize for artistic basket displays both at the San Francisco and at the Oakland dahlia shows.

Rents have gone up so steadily in the exclusive downtown district that little shops are rapidly coming to be the fashion. One of the prettiest of these little shops is the florist's store just opened by C. J. McLaughlin, at 254 Powell street. Mr. McLaughlin, who was formerly with Joseph's, has had his store decorated in old ivory woodwork, with walls of soft-tinted cement in old Spanish effects. Oval mirrors and plate glass cabinets add to the effectiveness of the store, which carries art baskets, preserved fruit, oriental boxes, etc., to send with gifts of flowers.

J. A. Axell, interviewed on one of the refrigerator car days, a Tuesday, was giving a good example of working at full speed. "We are getting plenty of work, but we are filling all orders," he said. "Mums are coming in well, and blooms of Chieftain are now being shipped."

A. J. Huddart, of the Huddart Floral Co., Salt Lake City, was a recent caller on Mr. Axell.

The San Francisco Coöperative Flower Market is beginning to ship chrysanthemums.

Mrs. B. Girouse is now with R. Coombs. Manager F. W. Davis states that business is good.

The crop of roses from the greenhouses of the E. W. McLellan Co. is increasing, and manager P. D. Morton states that large and excellent crops will be cut along about Christmas.

M. Domoto, of Domoto Bros., just in from the firm's nurseries, said: "The rose crop is coming along slowly, but in good shape. The promise for winter chrysanthemums is especially good this year. We shall be cutting large chrysanthemums, of all colors and varieties, up to Christmas. This week we are sending a carload of potted plants to New York and another to Los Angeles."

H. K. Tanaka, of the United Flower & Supply Co., reported a heavy demand for dried strawflowers. The firm's growers are working to cut and dry their crops, which are large.

F. C. Jaeger & Son, although busy with their wholesale chrysanthemum business, are attending closely to their telegraph and retail shipping business. Their window is devoted entirely to featuring shipping, being filled with express boxes of flowers, etc. An electric machine has just been installed, for showing a succession of placards which describe the details of shipping flowers in an interesting manner. The placards change about every half-minute, and convey such information as, "Each flower is wrapped in oiled paper, to prevent bruising, when packed for the refrigerator car." All the placards, which attract a constant group of interested passers-by, were made to order for F. C. Jaeger & Son, who themselves epitomized the details of shipping flowers on these placards.

Podesta & Baldocchi have been able to show one of their favorite orchid windows. Dante F. Bacigaluip, of this firm's staff, attended a banquet a few days ago in which the Three Hundred and Sixty-third regiment, of which he was a member during the war, celebrated the anniversary of the day in which it went over the top. Celebrities were among the guests, including Mayor Rolph.

Francisco began returning from vacations. They notice activity in the sale of house plants and are offering special inducements in this line.

The Charles C. Navlet Co. is expecting its shipment of Holland bulbs. From the many inquiries, manager L. Picetti states, a big sale is anticipated. He also reports that, owing to the scarcity of domestic ranunculus and anemone bulbs, the Charles C. Navlet Co. will do good business in these bulbs, as they have ample supplies. M. M.

OAKLAND, CAL.

The Market.

The supply of flowers last week was about equal to the demand. Carnations were not so plentiful as might be desired, but this condition will soon be remedied when the weather is a little cooler. There is a large supply of roses of good quality. Dahlias are beginning to go out and this month will probably see the last of these flowers. Asters have entirely disappeared from the market. There are great quantities of mums on the market, but they are largely absorbed by the trade. Most of these are Chrysolora and are of magnificent quality. Valley is less abundant, and mari-

The Market.

The frost is still holding off; consequently, the market has plenty of outdoor flowers. Asters are exceedingly good and plentiful. Gladioli are still to be had. Sweet peas are about over and will be gone until greenhouse stock comes in. Chrysanthemums are making their appearance, although there is no great demand for them. Carnations are a bit short-stemmed, but the flowers are of good size.

Fine potted ferns are being offered. Cyclamens and primulas are now to be had, but, until the weather changes, the demand for plants will be small.

Various Notes.

E. Sinclair has added one house to his range. He grows roses and carnations. The new house will be given over to the latter.

George Peters & Sons, of Hillyard, Wash., are putting up a retail conservatory on the main street of Hillyard. The firm plans to carry a full line at the store and to do away with the retail trade at the greenhouses.

The Glenrose Greenhouses have just completed a 400-foot well, to insure a supply of water for years to come. Many members of the trade wondered if oil was the object, as Spokane has the oil-drilling fever.

The Hoyt Bros. Co. is giving the store a coat of paint, in preparation for the fall and winter trade.

One of the largest of wedding orders was recently handled by the City Floral Co. Both residence and church were decorated, pink and white being used throughout.

H. Hill, of the City Floral Co., and Miss Ann M. Newell, were married September 27, at the bride's home. The wedding trip was spent at the coast, Vancouver, B. C., Seattle, Aberdeen and other cities being included. Mr. and Mrs. Hill will be at home to their friends after October 15. H. H.

ZVOLANEK'S NOVELTIES FOR 1922-23

The Best Blue Sweet Peas Ever Produced to Date

Zvolanek's Blue Sensation—A self of clearest blue. Similar to Zvolanek's Blue and twice as large. The best blue ever produced. Four flowers to a long stem; they hold their color to the very last.

Zvolanek's Blue Wonder—A large clear blue flower upon opening, but changes to a light violet as it ages. Slightly larger than the above.

Zvolanek's Blue Chief—A blue self which is slightly darker than Zvolanek's Blue Sensation, but in all other respects is the same.

Zvolanek's Comet—A large salmon on cream ground. A good bloomer and holds color very well. If well grown, majority of flowers produce four on a long stem and with double standards or wings—very large.

Price—¼ oz., $4.00.

Zvolanek's Pink—Practically the same as Zvolanek's Rose, but shorter grower. Color of more intense pink, which holds color to the very last.

Price—1 oz., $2.50; 4 oz., $8.00; 1 lb., $25.00.

Zvolanek's Rose—This is the very best commercial Sweet Pea ever produced to date. Every one who has ever tried it cannot say enough for it and wants it again in larger quantities. The flowers are of the most beautiful self-rose color, double the size of Mrs. Skach; holds its color to the last and is a free bloomer, also unexcelled for outdoors.

Price—1 oz., $2.00; 4 oz., $6.00; 1 lb., $20.00.

Zvolanek's Perfection—Dark pink or old rose of very largest size; similar to Zvolanek's Rose in shape and size. Holds color to last; short crop.

Price—1 oz., $2.00.

Zvolanek's Xmas Gem—Same color as Xmas Pink, only double the size. One of our 1919 introductions. Short crop.

Price—1 oz., $2.00.

White and Blush Colors

Zvolanek's White—The largest white-seeded white in existence; flowers are wide apart with nearly all fours; majority with double wings or standards. The very best commercial white to date.

Zvolanek's Swan—The very best black-seeded white; rather short grower, with very ruffled flowers. One of our 1920 introductions.

Ed. Zvolanek—Purest lavender, similar to Mrs. Chas. Zvolanek in color, but very large. A good bloomer in darkest winter. If well grown the majority of the flowers produce four to a long stem, with double wings or standards. This variety is a great improvement over all other lavenders. May revert to some extent, but we guarantee it about 90 per cent true.

Price—1 oz., $2.00; 4 oz., $6.00; 1 lb., $20.00.

These are the best commercial varieties and all of largest size. There are none better. Send for complete list.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—H. S. McClenahan has had a busy summer. He says he regrets he has not yet reached the place where he can give a contract for the erection of greenhouses and just write a check for the bill; he still has to buy the material and erect them himself. This summer's addition is the largest he has ever made at one time.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Alexander Forbes, Newark, N. J.; secretary, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

It is reported that one California grower has a planting stock of 900,000 Paper Whites for next season.

The seedsman who has not yet bought the paper for his 1923 catalogue finds himself in something approaching a runaway market.

Martial Bremond, of Ollioules, France, has come over because of the Paper White deal. After a few days in New York he proceeded to Chicago.

The W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, is preparing advertisements to run in two Chicago dailies in the near future. The subject of the advertisements will be Paper Whites and Chinese lily bulbs.

The first meeting of creditors of the Everette R. Peacock Co. will be held at 11 a. m., October 10, at the office of Sidney C. Eastman, referee in bankruptcy, 53 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago.

R. Brinkmann, of Konroe Merchants, Inc., New York, is visiting buyers of valley pips as far west as St. Louis. He says his company will handle about twenty per cent of the entire German crop this season.

A. Miller, president of the American Bulb Co., Chicago, is of the opinion that when an American supply of Paper Whites is developed, Texas will be found to be the source, but that working up an adequate quantity will be a matter of many years after forcing quality is obtained. Mr. Miller's company alone handled over 6,000 cases of the French stock this season.

R. B. Howe, president of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, found a means of making the company's fall price list additionally attractive and readable by the selection of an especially high grade of paper and a superior ink of dark green color that gives the many illustrations a tone inviting to the eye. Mr. Howe believes the improved effect is worth the additional expense necessitated.

Crop production for the year 1922 will exceed the 1921 harvest on almost all of the principal products, the exceptions being corn, which is somewhat below last year, but still above the 5-year average; sugar beets, which are below last year and below the 5-year average, and peanuts, which are well below last year and tremendously below the 5-year average. The oats crop is fully 200,000,000 bushels over last year, although still more than 150,000,000 bushels below the 5-year average; the barley crop is more than 40,000,000 bushels over last year, but slightly below the 5-year average; the tobacco crop is nearly 300,000,000 pounds over last year, but still 25,000,000 pounds below the 5-year average; all of the other principal crops will exceed last year's output, as well as the average production from 1916 to 1920, inclusive. The best crop conditions in the country are reported from North Dakota, Montana and New Jersey, and the two former states have suffered from so many bad years recently that this year's heavy crops will prove a great benefit in the upbuilding of these states. The poorest crop showing is made by Georgia, South Carolina

THE Grand Junction Seed Co., Grand Junction, Colo., reports that business is progressing up to expectations. This firm has made a number of improvements the last season and is ready for a banner year. The company finds the changeable climate of Colorado ideal for growing sweet peas, gladioli and the like.

INCORPORATED 120 years after its establishment, the D. Landreth Seed Co., Bristol, Pa., will, ere many more years are past, celebrate its one hundred and fiftieth anniversary. David Landreth started in business in 1784. In 1790 the firm title was changed to David & Cuthbert Landreth; in 1830, to David Landreth & Co.; in 1843, to David Landreth & D. Landreth Munns; in 1845, back to the original name, David Landreth; in 1860, to David Landreth & Son; in 1875, to David Landreth & Sons, and in 1903, to the D. Landreth Seed Co., being incorporated under that name the following year.

THE GERMAN VALLEY CROP.

Reports from Germany indicate that the crop of lily of the valley pips this year will not exceed to any considerable extent the crop of 1921, which was figured at not more than 30,000,000 pips. When it is considered that a pre-war crop was 120,000,000 pips, the reason for the present price is readily apparent. That the price this year will not be less than last year depends not only on the size of the crop, but on the fact that the demand is reviving rapidly. Last season the United States received about one-third the crop, or a little more, about 10,000,000 pips. England received nearly as many. The demand this year is stronger in both the principal consuming countries and also in Scandinavia, while many new markets are opening up. It is interesting to note that the exporters in Germany are demanding payment in American dollars, instead of in the inflated currency of their own country. The largest exporters agree that it will take ten to fifteen years to put the production of valley pips back to the pre-war quantity. It is said that this year there will be a larger crop in the middle German district, Wittenberg, Battenberg and Berlin, but that the increase there will be offset by a smaller crop in the Hamburg district. The weather conditions have been good and the quality of the crop should be excellent.

Mr. Smith gives it as his opinion that seedsmen should declare hemp seeds and all varieties of rape seed under paragraph 1627, as free of duty, and not under paragraphs 761 or 762 of the dutiable list.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

Lee R. Bonnewitz, Van Wert, O.—A 12-page peony catalogue, in which only small divisions are listed, though larger roots will be furnished when requested. On this point Mr. Bonnewitz remarks: "I believe that a 4-year-old root grown from a 1-eye division is as large as a 4-year-old root grown from a 5-eye plant of the same variety. . . . except in one section, Tennessee." Accompanying the catalogue are Nos. 6 and 7 of Mr. Bonnewitz's "Garden Notes." These two numbers tell of his visits to M. Denis and A. Dessert, during a recent trip to Europe and the eastern Mediterranean countries.

Peter Henderson & Co., New York, N. Y.—A 20-page, illustrated fall bulb catalogue, prepared in the usual, yet unusual, unique Henderson style. On the front cover is a view, in colors, of a room in an American home, a room in which bulbous plants are a prominent adornment. On the back cover, also richly colored, is a representation of two attractive outdoor scenes—one of them in the Holland bulb fields and the other in an American park or large estate—and these two combined views are entitled "From Holland to America." Irises and peonies are included in the offerings; also sweet pea and vegetable seeds for fall sowing, lawn grass seeds, fertilizers and insecticides.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

W. H. Snell, of Salmon Arm, B. C., has about seventeen acres of land, which he is developing as a fruit place. He was formerly in the insurance and real estate business.

When again will there ever be enough Manetti? The English stocks are preferred, but the demand so far exceeds the supply that the French have no difficulty in getting high prices.

Further additions to the area included in the corn borer quarantine were made, under date of September 2, by the United States Department of Agriculture. The towns added to the list of those in the quarantined area are in Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

J. J. Cudd, of Spartanburg, S. C., has entered the nursery and florists' business under the style of the Lone Oak Nursery Co. He has erected a house, 15x18, for the purpose of growing pot plants and bedding plants. About thirty acres will be devoted to the growing of ornamentals, fruit trees and coniferous shrubbery. A. M. Pleyte is the manager here and will look after the growing end of the business.

SOUTHWESTERN NURSERYMEN.

Elect Verhalen President.

The fifth annual convention of the Southwestern Association of Nurserymen was held at Dallas, Tex., September 28 and 29. Following a discussion, complying with a request of the American Association of Nurserymen concerning the establishing of courses for young nurserymen in the south and southwest, during which E. J. Kyle, dean of agriculture of A. and M. College, delivered a talk on the subject, the association elected officers and adjourned.

The following-named men were elected for the ensuing year: President, George F. Verhalen, Scottsville, Tex.; vice-president, Edward Teas, Houston, Tex.; secretary-treasurer, Thomas B. Foster, Denton, Tex. The executive committeemen, with officers, are George Parker, Fayetteville, Ark.; J. T. Foote, Durant, Okla.

Kerr Cites Progress.

President John S. Kerr opened the meeting with a few remarks on the progress of the nursery business in the last fifty years in Texas. Mr. Kerr spoke in part as follows: "Looking backward over the nursery business in Texas for the last fifty years, the half century has shown wonderful progress in the development of the empire of the southwest, and, in all the phenomenal progress of the great southwest, the nursery business has kept pace. Such men as the late Gilbert Onderdonk, of Nursery, Tex., who gave to the peach its present universally recognized classification; the late T. V. Munson, of Denison, Tex., world-renowned as the greatest authority on grapes, who was decorated by France for his salvation of the vineyards of that country; and the late W. M. Watson, of Brenham, Tex., in his work with evergreens and ornamentals; as well as a number of other veteran nurserymen, indicate the wonderful field for action and accomplishment before us.

"In ornamentals," Mr. Kerr went on, "great progress has been made, yet, to meet the changed conditions especially brought about by quarantine 37, there is a great opportunity for the southwestern nurserymen to bring out new varieties of plants for the embellishment of our yards, gardens and parks."

The standardization of grades and specializing into narrower limits of endeavor for individual nurserymen; cooperation with the American Association of Nurserymen, the revision of nursery inspection laws, closer coöperation with the forestry associations, the proposed botanical garden and arboretum for Texas, all were given favorable notice in the address of President Kerr.

Resolution Adopted.

The standards of grading as established by the American Association of Nurserymen were adopted.

A resolution worth noticing was offered by James Parker, of Tecumseh, Okla., and reads as follows:

As a recommendation for the general good of fruit growing, we recommend that the county and state fairs of Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico be requested by our secretary to offer premiums on only such fruits as are known to be profitable for planting, and on new varieties, and that the Arkansas black apple and other fruits of its class, fine for show purposes, but known to be unworthy of planting, should be left off the premium list.

Because of the activities of committees in the A. A. N. and the Southern Nurserymen's Association in the endeavor to establish reasonable and satisfactory nursery inspection laws for the southern states, J. R. Mayhew, of Waxahachie, Tex., prominent in this work in the above-named committees, recommended that we abide by their results and not do anything further in the matter.

Dean Kyle Speaks.

Dean E. J. Kyle, of the A. and M. College of Texas, outlined the courses of studies offered for the training of young men for the nursery profession. He also stated that they offer a full-term course devoted exclusively to the study of pecans, the only course offered in the United States.

The date of the next meeting was changed from the last week to the first week of September, and Dallas was again selected as the meeting place.

EASTERN NURSERYMEN MEET.

Special Session at Trenton.

A special meeting for the purpose of further considering the matters of organization and the program to be carried out next year was held at the Stacy-Trent hotel, at Trenton, N. J., September 21, by the Eastern Nurserymen's Association, which was organized last spring. The meeting was opened by J. Edward Moon, ex-president of the A. A. N. and president of the Eastern Nurserymen's Association. Mr. Moon explained the aim of the association and what it had already accomplished in the brief time since its organization. He emphasized the great necessity of having a coöperative inventory of stock taken, so that the individual nurserymen would have some idea of how much stock of each variety would be placed on the market during the season.

Coöperative Stock Inventories.

F. F. Rockwell, Bridgeton, N. J., secretary of the organization, read a letter received from the secretary of the Pacific Coast Association of Nurserymen which gave in detail the experiences that association had in gathering stock reports from its members, emphasizing the great importance this had been to the collective membership of the organization. A general discussion of the subject was then taken up by William Flemer, Sr., Springfield, N. J.; Robert Pyle, West Grove, Pa.; Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa., and others. P. M. Koster, of Bridgeton, N. J., gave an interesting account of the experiences of the nurserymen in Holland who had undertaken the coöperative inventory system. Following the discussion of this subject a committee was appointed to gather and prepare for distribution to the members information on stock.

In the absence of Dr. Wildman, Henry Moon reported on the work which has been done in connection with the Japanese beetle control. Mr. Clark, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, also talked on this subject. One interesting point brought out was that the state entomologist from one of the western states had recently visited the Japanese beetle-infested area and expressed himself as well pleased with the work which the federal and state authorities have been doing, citing particularly the efficient inspection methods which are being carried out in that area.

Opening New Markets for Stock.

The subject, "Can We Increase the Demand for Nursery Stock?" was discussed at length by James M. Irvine, former editor of the Western Fruit Grower and now advertising manager of the Country Gentleman. Mr. Irvine included in his discussion an interesting account of some of the early conventions of nurserymen and fruit growers, which he had attended as a young man. He pointed out in many details the great improvements which have been made in the nursery industry. Mr. Irvine emphasized the belief that the local planting of fruit trees would be encouraged by the high freight rate on fruit and that the improvement in hand equipment for the control of insects and fungous pests would also help greatly to encourage home planting. As a means of increasing the market for nursery stock, he mentioned the work of the consolidated rural schools and the fact that seventy-five per cent of the boys and girls attending these schools continue through high school, offering a fine field to be reached with the message, "Make America More Fruitful and More Beautiful."

Officers.

The officers of the Eastern Nurserymen's Association are as follows: President, J. Edward Moon, Morrisville, Pa.; vice-president, Lester C. Lovett, Little Silver, N. J.; secretary, F. F. Rockwell, Bridgeton, N. J.; treasurer, Adolph Muller, Norristown, Pa. Members of the executive committee of the organization include William Flemer, Sr., Springfield, N. J.; Robert Pyle, West Grove, Pa.; W. W. Harper, Chestnut Hill, Pa.; Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa.; P. M. Koster, Bridgeton, N. J. The next regular meeting will take place in January, 1923.

THE ETHICS OF THE TRADE.

Another Word for Service.

Webster's dictionary says that ethics, broadly speaking, is "the science of the ideal human character; moral principles, quality or practice." Some folks say that ethics is another word for service; that the sale is only the beginning of the transaction; that the seller should follow the thing through and see that the buyer obtains the best possible results. Some nurserymen think that the exchange of trees for a check does not close the transaction; some states tell nurserymen that they must put up

In introducing this variety we feel convinced, after growing it two years, that it will easily gain popular favor as one of the most beautiful sorts introduced in recent years.

Originated from a seedling produced from a cross with Beckwith's Gem and a brilliant colored unnamed seedling.

Plant is a strong, vigorous grower, branching freely, with medium large foliage, and easily propagated.

Color: Terminal shoots a brilliant shade of red, with diffused shadings of chocolate, old rose, cream white, and yellow, edged golden yellow and cream white. Foliage when fully developed changing to bright rose pink, old rose, cream white and yellow, with various shadings and markings of all these colors intermingled.

Colors very brilliant all winter, making a fine pot plant. Holds color very well out of doors, having withstood sixty days of a continuous daily temperature of 95 to 100° and better, the past summer, with foliage unharmed.

a bond to guarantee adequate service, before they can do business within the bounds of those states. It seems that the public expects the nurseryman to reach perfection in his service. There is no comeback to the surgeon that makes a miscut and the operation is followed by a first-class funeral. One nurseryman has been giving three peonies for every one that he sells that does not come true to name. One fellow says that his roses must not only live, but bloom. Most nurserymen feel that if they pay back the purchase price of all trees that do not prove true to name, they have done all that the business will afford.

The new Georgia law puts the liability, in case intent to defraud is shown, at three times the original cost as the maximum, allowing five per cent error without obligation. This law recognizes the fact that there should be some safeguard to the nurseryman, and requires the planter to file a plat of his ground within ninety days after planting, if the law is to become operative in his case. So far as is known to nurserymen, this is the first instance where anything has been done to protect the nurseryman from the orchardist who might be careless or who would deliberately attempt to get money from the nurseryman unjustly. This law refutes the idea which some dealers entertain that the customer is always right. Just what the nurseryman should voluntarily do is a question that each must decide for himself.

Some folks entertain the belief that ethics is practiced according to one's education and degree of civilization; that the standard of one's honesty depends on how well he is civilized and educated. Perhaps this is true. In the old copy books it is said that "honesty is the best policy." A friend suggests that honesty is the only policy that gets one anywhere, that ethics goes even farther than merely being legally honest. Honesty, however, is not a policy, but a fundamental principle.

Recently there has come into existence a club that has as its motto: "He profits most who serves best," which seems to be a rather selfish way of looking at it; we like the motto, "Service above Self," by the same club, much better, though we are not pretending to say that we live strictly up to that ideal. Let's consider for a moment just what we are trying to get at, viz.: the best way for a nurseryman to act towards his fellow man in order that he may get the greatest good to himself. That may not be your idea, but, frankly, it is ours, for we are in the business to get meat and bread and a few other things for the wife and babies, and every other fellow, we dare say, is in it for the same purpose. Therefore, we would remind you that "by their fruits ye shall know them," and that "every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down," that you may build your business on the solid rock of fair dealings and common honesty, remembering the words of the greatest Teacher: "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

Replacement Ethics.

Well, what has that to do with replacements? Quite a lot, if you are in the retail business. John Smith buys a few dozen fruit trees, plants them in his back yard, and lets the children's pony or the cow feed on them, and he wants these trees replaced, "because they were not in good condition when received." He honestly thinks so, because the boys did not tell him that the cow got loose and ate the trees. Have a talk with Mr. Smith; if he will not be reasonable, let him have some replacement trees at one-half the price of the original trees, or even resupply them entirely without cost to him—not because it is right, but because he demands it, if you want to hold his friendship. In order for the nurseryman to be able to do that, Mr. Smith should be required to pay enough for the trees in the first place to cover a certain percentage of replacements. The same conditions do not exist with the wholesale nurseryman, selling to the trade. The retail

DAVEY FILES SUIT.

The Davey Tree Expert Co., Kent, O., filed suit in the Federal court September 19, against Walter O. Pape, Warsaw, Ind., alleging that Mr. Pape is guilty of infringement of a patent tree-enforcing process owned by the plaintiff. The complaint states that Wellington E. Davey is the inventor of a tree-enforcing process, which, it is said, Mr. Pape used on the grounds of Fred Weir, Ligonier, Ind. The suit asks for a preliminary injunction and for a temporary order restraining Mr. Pape from the use of the tree-enforcing process.

The Springfield Floral & Fern Co.

SPRINGFIELD, OHIO

PAINESVILLE, O.

Nursery stock, in general, throughout this section is of exceptionally good quality. The growing season of 1922 has been ideal and stock of all kinds has made a healthy and unchecked growth. The only bad feature of this season as a whole was that the weeds were also inclined to be vigorous and it was one continual fight to keep them under control.

Joseph F. Martin reports a heavy sale, and shipping has begun here.

Arthur Nichols, of W. H. Nichols & Son, has been touring Ohio selling nursery stock.

E. H. Hawley, manager of the Painesville Garden & Greenhouse Co., purchased a new Dodge sedan last week.

Joseph Kallay, of the Donewell Nurseries, has placed a beautiful landscape planting around his premises, on Mentor avenue. This will advertise his many varieties of evergreens and will give his customers an opportunity to select the different kinds of stock according to their merits.

The large fields of cannas of the Storrs & Harrison Co. have made a wonderful display during the summer months.

The weather is still hot and dry, delaying digging and shipping. We have had little or no rain during September.

The Painesville Garden & Greenhouse Co. is putting in benches and will soon grow plants and flowers instead of vegetables.

The R. E. Huntington Co., of Mentor, O., growers of perennials, shrubs, gladioli, etc., reports that the fall orders are ahead of those of last year. This firm carries a complete list.

Kallay Bros., nurserymen and seedsmen, have a force of men digging evergreens for landscape work.

Charles Hacker & Son have a fine lot of shrubs in the leading varieties. This firm has made wonderful progress in the brief space of time they have been in the business. They began doing business on their own account less than a year ago.

The Thomas J. Murphy Nurseries report business good. The new location of this nursery on Mentor avenue is an ideal one, being on the main thoroughfare between Buffalo and Cleveland. Visitors are welcome. T. J. M.

Greenhouse Heating

Subscribers are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

HEATING FOR ADDITION.

I have enclosed a sketch of my place. The glass is 13x40 feet, and the office and workroom occupy 10x40 feet. I desire to add fifty feet to the southeast end of the range. The furnace I have is a hot water Superior Duplex and has grates twenty-one inches in diameter. Would anything be gained by placing the furnace in the center of the house, or forty-five feet from each end? Has the boiler enough radiation to heat the whole place to 45 to 50 degrees when the temperature outside is 30 degrees below zero? I would use 1¼-inch pipes for radiation. F. P. Z.—Wis.

The sketch shows two feet of glass below the plates, with eighteen inches of board wall. The writer has had no experience with the heater mentioned, but, judging from the size of the grate, it would not be rated at above 500 square feet of hot water radiation. This is practically what will be required to heat the proposed addition to 45 to 50 degrees when it is 30 degrees below zero outside, and a boiler to heat the entire house should have a grate about twenty-eight inches in diameter. It should have two 3-inch flow ports and two returns of the same size.

The boiler should be located near the west corner of the house, and it would be advisable to run one 3-inch flow on the southwest side wall plate and the other under the ridge. Connect each flow pipe at the farther end of the house with six 2-inch return pipes. Carry four of these pipes in a coil on each side wall, and the others should be in a coil directly below the ridge. This, as we understand it, will bring the middle coil just inside the present greenhouse. The writer cannot advise the use of 1¼-inch pipes for coils ninety feet long.

PIPE REQUIRED FOR ONE HOUSE.

I have a greenhouse, 20x58 feet, with 10-foot sash bars on the north roof and 12-foot bars on the south roof. There are two feet of glass in the side walls. I have 500 feet of 2-inch pipe and 100 feet of 2½-inch pipe. I have a Lord & Burnham boiler which is rated at 1,000 feet of radiation, with a grate area 18x26 feet. I should like to know whether or not to take one or two sections away from this boiler. I wish to maintain 52 degrees in zero weather. I shall burn pea coal and probably soft coal if I cannot obtain more hard coal. G. S.—N. J.

For the best results it will be advisable to use three 2½-inch overhead flow pipes and nine 2-inch returns, in order to furnish the above-mentioned radiation. Including a sufficient amount of 2½-inch pipe to connect the overhead flow pipes with the coils, it will be necessary to purchase about 100 feet of 2½ inch pipe. By using two 2½-inch and one 2-inch flow with eight 2-inch returns, the pipe on hand will only lack a few feet of completing the job, and by careful firing a temperature of 52 degrees can be maintained. A good draft will be required for burning pea coal, and unless the stack is at least thirty feet high and twelve inches in diameter, it is suggested that you remove only one section from the heater. For anthracite and egg-sized soft coal, use all of the sections.

How can I heat a 40-foot square greenhouse set in an excavation? The sides are five feet high, with two feet of glass, while the ridge is fourteen feet high. J. K. Alexander, the dahlia king, East Bridgewater, Mass., writes: "Your thermometer is the best I have seen for my business."

Records are as important in the growing business as in any other business. Progressive growers who spare no effort in raising highest grade stock use Standard Recording Thermometers and know the great aid of keeping records of temperatures. Your equipment is far from complete if you have no Standard Recording Thermometer.

The actuating element of the Standard Recording Thermometer is of lamina metal, which, besides being extremely sensitive to temperature changes, is practically indestructible. Record charts are furnished either daily or weekly, and the whole mechanism is contained in an attractive metal case fitted with lock and key, which insures the record from being tampered with.

The clock movement is of extremely high grade; everything about the instrument is up to the highest possible standard of manufacture.

A Rocking Grate that Saves Coal

MARTIN GRATE CO., 343 S. Dearborn St. CHICAGO set lower than the ground floor of the house?

W. W. W.—Pa.

Placing the boiler inside the greenhouse would be quite unsatisfactory, since the gas which would escape could not fail to injure the plants, and the dust from the ashes, as well as the soot from the firepot, should not be allowed in a greenhouse.

Pipeless and other hot-air furnaces are not desirable in a greenhouse, since they make the air too dry.

In a hot water heating system the return pipes should, if possible, be above the top of the boiler, but, with overhead flow pipes, it will answer if the coils are two feet above the level of the grate, and they may be somewhat lower than this if the system is run under pressure.

No mention is found of the temperature to be maintained, but for 60 degrees it would be well to use a boiler rated at 1,000 square feet of radiation. It would probably have a grate about twenty-six inches in diameter and a 10-inch smoke pipe.

For radiating surface you should use five 2½-inch overhead flow pipes and eighteen 2-inch returns. Place one flow pipe on each side wall plate, one three feet below the ridge and the others under the purlins. Use three returns in each of the coils on the walls and distribute the others under the benches.

AMOUNT OF PIPE REQUIRED.

I have a chance to save a considerable sum of money by ordering my pipe at once. Kindly advise me how many hundred feet of 2-inch and 2½-inch pipe I shall need for the house which is shown on the blue print I have mailed you. The house runs east and west, while the service building will be at the east end, over the boiler room. I desire to install the overhead system, as all of the pipes are to be placed under the benches. The temperature in this locality goes as low as 10 degrees below zero, and we will grow the usual run of bedding plants. What temperature will be required? In excavating for the boiler house, how many feet below the lowest part of my house should I dig? The boiler is a McLean, Canton, O., while the grate is about 24x42 inches. The intake and outlet are both 4-inch ports. Is this boiler large enough? How many returns will I have to place under the benches?

E. A. E.—Pa.

From the blue print it appears that the house is 26½x100¾ feet, with a three-quarter-span roof, the sashbars being ten and eighteen feet in length, respectively. The north wall has four and one-half feet of glass and the south wall three feet. There are four raised benches, those on the sides of the house being three feet in width, while those in the middle of the house are four and one-half feet wide.

For the purposes mentioned, it is advisable to pipe the house so that a temperature of 60 degrees can be maintained in the coldest weather. To do this, use four coils of 2-inch pipe, placing one coil under each of the benches, and run four 2½-inch overhead flow pipes, which will provide a flow pipe for each coil. Support one flow pipe on each row of the purlin posts and the other on the north wall under the gutter. Give each flow pipe a fall of one inch in twelve feet.

The coils under the north bench should contain two pipes and those under the other benches should have four pipes each, making fourteen 2-inch pipes in the coils, in addition to the four 2½-inch overhead flow pipes.

We have had no experience with the boiler named, but judging from the size of the grate, 24x42 inches, there should be no difficulty in keeping up a temperature of 60 degrees with this boiler and the radiation suggested above.

For the best results the lowest return should be higher than the top of the heater, but with an overhead flow pipe, it will answer if the lowest return is one foot above the grate.

PLIBRICO JOINTLESS
FURNACE LINING

In normal times Plibrico, when formed into air-tight, jointless boiler settings, has brought about a material saving in fuel wherever installed. In these times it is almost indispensable.

Putty-like when applied, Plibrico forms hard, smooth, one-piece boiler settings that resist heat up to 3100° F.

Don't you want to know all about this coal and money saver? Then send for our book, D-79, on "Modern Furnace Building."

PLIBRICO is delivered only in steel containers of distinctive appearance as shown at the right.

More than 9000 plants have proved the saving, service and enduring economy of "Steel Mixture."

"Steel Mixture" is fitted to the measurements of your boiler and set up in our shops, then taken down for shipment. Can be quickly and easily installed, as there are only a few parts to set in place according to our numbered instructions.

OAKLAND NOTES.

golds, snapdragons and other small flowers are even more scarce. Zinnias are popular, both as cut flowers and for decorations. There is some good cockscomb being displayed.

Various Notes.

A successful dahlia show was held at the Hotel Oakland during the week ending September 24. A number of nurseries exhibited in the show. One of the most important features connected with the display was the announcement by the California Nursery Co., Niles, Cal., that, beginning in 1923, this firm will add dahlias to its list of plants. The California Nursery Co. is one of the largest nurseries in the state and has heretofore devoted its efforts entirely to the growing of ornamental shrubs, in which it has achieved notable success.

The new store of Hogan & Evers, at Oakland, is being well spoken of. The store is tastefully arranged and designed, embodying a number of good features. The window is tiled and is on the ground floor level. The glass comes nearly to the floor level and the window is flanked on one side by a large mirror and on the other by the entrance. A small fountain is in the window and indirect lighting effects are arranged, permitting the use of colored lights if desired. The store is decorated in dull gray polychrome panels with cream-white trimmings. In the center of the south wall is a large mirror, helping to balance the mirror along the opposite wall in the window. At the back of the store is a large balcony, on which are located the offices of the firm and a large and attractive basket display room. A broad stairway on one side leads to the balcony, which is finished in cream-white woodwork. One office on the balcony will be devoted entirely to telegraph business. A large column in the center of the store bears a kentia palm, which arches nearly to the ceiling, and shorter columns play an important part in the display scheme used within the store. Concerning the window at the floor level, both partners feel that this is far superior to any other method of displaying flowers.

J. Seulberger left September 23 to attend the F. T. D. convention, and will not return to Oakland for three weeks.

Clarke Bros. report the usual amount of funeral work. Flowers for decorations are not so much in demand now as they will be later, as flowers are still blooming in the gardens, owing to the unusually fine summer.

Thomas & Harris supplied the floral decorations and bouquets for a large fashion show put on by the H. C. Capwell Co. in the Hotel Oakland, September 22. The show was the largest and most successful ever held on either side of the bay and the decorations were elaborate. The fashion display was for the benefit of the junior branch of the Ladies' Relief Society and was attended by the leaders of society on both sides of the bay, many of them taking an active part in the arrangement and management of the show. Thomas & Harris have had many table decorating jobs for various social functions, which seem to be on the increase. So rushing was the decorating work for a time that Harvey Simpson, of Seattle and Spokane, Wash., who dropped in to pay a visit while here on his vacation, was put to work aiding in the preparation of the many orders.

Charles Backman, of Hogan & Evers, is paying a visit to Seattle and other northern points.

The Flower Shop, at Berkeley, has been completely remodeled and is now one of the most attractive stores in any of the bay cities. The store has been decorated with the Italian motif predominating. The walls are paneled with large mirrors, alternating with panels of the same shape finished in light gray Italian polychrome. The polychrome shades are carried out in the woodwork with great fidelity, being used along the molding and on the narrow wooden panels between the larger panels and the mirrors. The floor is of white and dark green tile. The furniture and many of the baskets used for display purposes are finished in old gold and old ivory. The window is tiled and is about six inches above the floor level. A single plate of glass spans the front of the window and another the side. A large mirror runs along the other side of the window and a similar mirror along the entrance to the store. M. M.

LARIMORE, N. D.

Says S. F. Mercer, of Larimore, N. D., "The interest taken in growing flowers in this state is really wonderful. Our imports of cut flowers from eastern growers during the year is commercially worthy of notice." Regarding this, it is accurate to say that Mr. Mercer, who, besides managing a florists' business, is justice of the peace and noxious weed commissioner, plays a vital part in arousing that flower interest and keeping it alive. Without question, it was largely through Mr. Mercer's interest that there was such a large floral exhibit at the annual fair held this year at Larimore September 22 to 23. Hundreds of flower fans, including professionals and many amateurs, exhibited cut flowers, pot plants and green goods of all descriptions. Mr. Mercer is secretary of the Farmers' Fair Association.

Setting the Pace in Ashtabula

Wm. C. Gallup of Ashtabula bought six narrow-span houses of us last summer. He wrote: "Roger Griswold, the largest owner of Greenhouses in Ashtabula says, 'Your material will make the greenhouse men here buy their future material outside of Ashtabula.' Jay Adams, another large grower says he 'hasn't seen such fine material in a good many years.' Archie Tickner of Tickner & Rennick Co. says, 'nothing but cypress for him in the future.' I am building my houses myself with absolutely no experience and in the three I have erected not one sash-bar was longer than the rest."

Such appreciation pays. Since then we have booked orders for Spring Delivery from the following Ashtabula growers:

ETHICS OF THE TRADE.

nurseryman does not want to pay anything extra for service, because he knows he will not get it; he prefers to take all the responsibility; he only requests that the wholesaler send him just such plants as he himself would like to plant in his own orchard or lawn, the same to be passed on to the retail buyer.

In this John Smith retail order there are three Yellow Swan peach trees. The nursery is entirely out of this particular variety, but has a good supply of Arp. Unhesitatingly it would be said that John Smith would prefer to get the Arp, in order to complete his planting, rather than attempt to find the Swan elsewhere. It must be remembered that this substituting must be done by a man who knows what he is doing and does it honestly. Of course this would not apply to a commercial orchard, or in case the order reads, "No substitute." Some of the leading retail nurserymen print on their order sheets that this right is reserved, and we have never heard of any complaint of consequence. Of course, if there should be complaint, the full retail price should be refunded without hesitation and with a smile. This same practice might or might not be acceptable between the wholesaler and the retailer; circumstances must govern cases. However, if we were out of a certain sort and ordered from a wholesale firm, we should want to be advised concerning the deficiency before any substituting was done, as we might be able to do just as well in the way of substituting ourselves. If we wanted Rhea Reid roses and could not get them, but could get Etoile de France, what difference would it make to anyone?

Accepting Countermands.

What about accepting retail countermands? Remember that nurserymen are in the business to make a living, plus; that is the basis of this answer. Recently a pretty well known concern had out a good salesman who sold some excellent orders to Mrs. So-and-so, amounting to several hundred dollars; Mr. So-and-so got tight in money matters and raised Cain about the order. But it was shipped in due time, notwithstanding, as it was accepted by the nursery in good faith, the stock reserved, etc., and the bill was paid in due season. The following year that same live-wire salesman called on Mrs. So-and-so to see how everything was coming along, and, lo and behold! he got another order for over $100. Everybody happy? Yes. Suppose the countermand had been accepted? Not only would the first order have been lost, but the friendship, too, of the customer for all time to come,

It kills plant-lice

Hall's Free Nicotine is scientifically planned for greenhouse spraying and vaporizing. It kills plant-lice, thrips and many similar greenhouse pests.

This powerful insecticide is guaranteed to contain 40% pure nicotine. And the nicotine is in the free state—particularly adapted to indoor spraying.

Hall's Free Nicotine is deadly effective; yet made up as a spray, it costs but 2½ cents a gallon. When used for fumigating it has all the killing power of Hall's Nicotine Fumigator.

8 lb. tins, $15.00; 2 lb. tins, $4.25; ½ lb. tins, $1.40. Buy from your dealer. If he is not supplied, send us your order along with his name.

and there would have been no second order. Between wholesaler and retailer, the story would probably be different; still, we believe a contract should be lived up to for the final good of all concerned. When it suits all hands to cancel an order, mark it off the books and forget it, as a matter of course.

As Applied to Publicity.

The question of publicity, in whatever form, is important. The man who advertises, whether through periodicals or direct, who does not honestly represent his goods is simply cutting his own throat; is spending his money to condemn himself. It has been truthfully said that you can fool all the people a part of the time, a part of the people all the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time. And it does not take long for the public to get you sized up. Some of the periodicals of the country now go so far as to guarantee the honesty of the advertisements carried in their columns. This question of publicity will perhaps bring up the question of colored-plate books that the ordinary nursery salesman shows to his prospective patrons; what about them? They are the nearest representation that is possible to get and it is necessary to use them or nothing. Most of these show the fruit larger than the ordinary specimen, but they may be not larger than some specimens. There does not seem to be any other successful way to sell fruit trees to the average farmer for the home orchard except by the plate-book method; the fact that the farmer continues to buy from these tree salesmen is fairly good evidence that he understands about the colored plates; perhaps he has learned to take them with a pinch of salt. We wish there were a line of colored plates that could represent accurately what each variety of fruit looks like, but it would be a monumental task to get it up.

Now, probably you will say that nothing new has been brought out, and we fully agree with you, because common honesty is as old as the hills, and that is about all there is to ethics about any business. If you have conducted your business for a period of years on a basis so that it is increasing from year to year, then you may be reasonably sure that you are conducting it along ethical lines; if it is going backward or standing still in volume, then we would suggest that you take stock of your methods and see just where you stand.

Princeton, Ind.—The American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago, last week closed contracts with the Broadway Gardens and O. M. Gilbert. The Broadway Gardens will build two pipe-frame rose houses, 29x75 feet each, in connection with the present vegetable greenhouses, which are 150 feet long. O. M. Gilbert has contracted for four steel-frame houses, each 37x300. He already has three Agmco houses.

WHITE HYBRID DELPHINIUMS.
Several years ago Wm. Toole, Sr., discovered a plant among some Delphinium Formosum which bore pure white flowers. Since then he has crossed them with choice hybrids and selected from the best of these.
In general habit of growth they are like a good strain of hybrids of the blue color. Some of them are double though most are single, some have dark centers but most are pure white.
The plants we offer have all been selected and marked while in flower and no inferior specimens are sent out.
Price for strong selected plants, carefully packed, 35c each, $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100, $225.00 per 1000.

King GREENHOUSES

A Few Points of Superiority Found Only In Steel Frame Flat Rafter Construction

(1) Steel posts and rafters are spaced eight feet five inches apart regardless of length or width of house. There's no possibility of sagging between rafters or danger that wind and snow loads will collapse the house.

(2) Purlins are spaced not more than four feet apart. These form a strong base to which sash bars are screwed. There's no vibration to loosen or break glass and cause roof to leak.

(3) Frames are fastened together at ridge and eaves with doubled malleable iron plates bolted onto both sides of frame. This prevents frames from twisting.

(4) The interior posts and cross ties are threaded to malleable iron plates. The plates are bolted to the rafters. The roof is absolutely rigid and there's no chance for the rafter to pull away from the post or cross tie.

(5) Tie rods from eve to ridge, from ridge to eave and from grade to eave at gables prevent swaying in any direction and distribute strains.

(6) Gables are braced with flat steel rafters and angle purlins fastened together with malleable fittings. The wind can't blow in or blow out this gable.

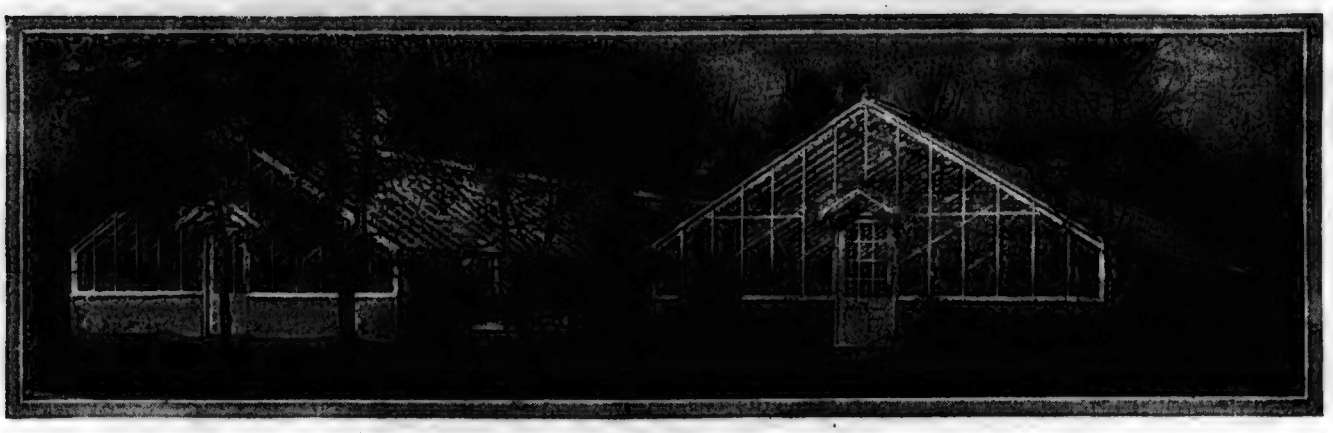
(7) Sash bars, ridge, ventilator frames, doors and all other woodwork are of the lightest and strongest wood suitable for the purpose. They're not affected by sun, rain, snow, acid or any other element. All woodwork is guaranteed heartwood.

(8) The quality of workmanship and material is of the best.

(9) Longest service with the minimum cost for repairs.

(10) Maximum production—minimum cost of operation.

We'll be glad to tell you more about this house and to send you our latest illustrated bulletin No. 51A.



When you think of good greenhouses, think of KING.

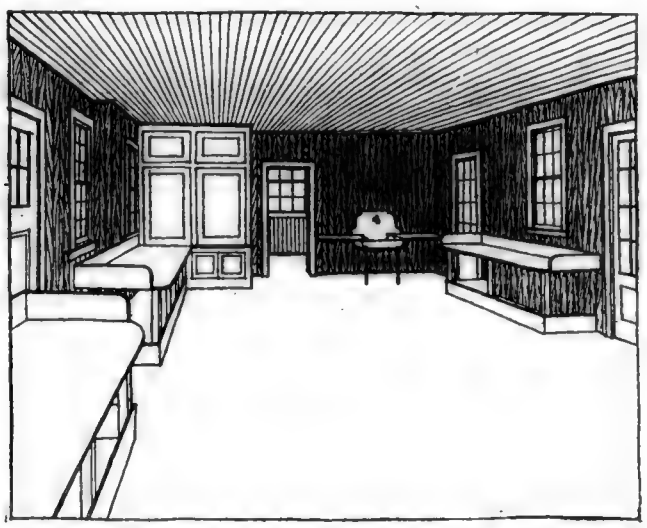
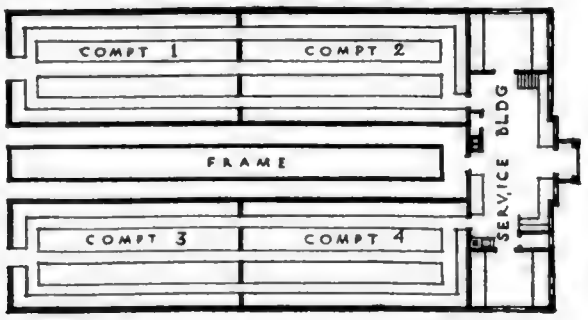
A Practical Producing Layout At Greenwich, Conn.



Although located on an estate, its sole intention is that of producing the greatest amount, and highest quality of flowers, fruits and vegetables. That's why it was shorn of all ornamental features.

The construction is exactly that used in the commercial growers' houses, where the height of production and profit must go hand in hand.



It was erected for Mrs. M. A. Wilks, daughter of the late Hetty Green.

The work room was designed to give ample space for not alone the potting and packing, but storage room, office for the Superintendent and rooms above, for the men.

For the handling of the potting and packing of houses such as these 25 feet wide and 100 feet long, this work room is none too large.

No need to call your attention to the practicalness of the plan or its compactness, or its economy in both working and heating.

SIMPLE IN CONSTRUCTION BUT RIGID

Furnished for Kempe & Son, Indianapolis, Ind.

In The Review last week, we illustrated the Gable End view of a 42-foot "Bolted-Thru the Pipe" greenhouse—thoroughly braced. The view above shows the interior. Note the simple but rigid construction. The above house was designed for the growing of Sweet Peas, with an ideal ground bed arrangement. This house is particularly adapted for side ventilation.

We have designed and erected houses for every purpose.

About Some Of The Starch That's in Our Number Two House

It's the starch in your collar that makes it stand up.
Sometimes it wilts, not because the collar is wrong, but because the starch hasn't enough backbone.

Houses go down for the same reason. Let's look at the start of the starch, or the frame work that's in our Number One House, made for widths from 41 feet up.

Just look at it as a whole. Notice its four horizontal and three upright members.
Consider the strength such a framing means.
Consider its strength and then look at its lightness.
When you get those two combined, you have the very top notch of construction perfected.
Starting at the top, the angle eave plate is steel, and always galvanized.
The roof bar clasps are galvanized cast iron, securely held in place by two screw bolts. Two bolts, mind you. Not one.
They are our improved non-clogging design.
The U-shaped drip gutter is steel, galvanized, and is equipped at intervals with ample sized drain pipes.
The sash sill is an angle of steel.
The foundation capping sill is cast iron. Not wood, mind you. Cast iron.

Notice the length and strength of those double gusset plates, on either side of post and rafter. Notice the number of bolts.

The sash sill bolts to the Wrought Iron Posts by steel angle knees; and the foundation sill by cast iron fittings.
Let us emphasize that both the sill and fittings are cast iron, because here is where the moisture lodges and is most destructive.

The tie rod running from each side of the right hand post to the base of the next posts on either side; likewise the tie rods from post to the first purlin, are used at certain intervals, depending on the length and width of the house.
They tie the frame rigidly, preventing end sway, which as you know plays such merry hob in loosening the glazing.
Now with this much of the frame up, next follow the rafters extending from the sill to the column and from column to ridge.
After which follow the gables. That then will be our next talk.

This Number One Construction differs from our Number Two only in its minor details.
The One is for houses 41 feet and wider.
The Two is for 40 feet and under.
Both contain the same high grade materials and workmanship.

To Increase Your Profit On Flowers—

First—stop needless expense and waste. Start with your refrigerator—why buy tons of ice every month, only to see your profits melt away? You can't depend on the variable temperature of an ice-cooled refrigerator—expensive blossoms wilt and become unsalable.

But—with Lipman Automatic Refrigeration a flood of crisp-cold air circulates through your refrigerator. Any desired temperature the year 'round with no attention from you! Flowers stay fresh weeks longer. You stop paying huge ice bills—and the Lipman is soon paid for out of the saving. You will easily make 50% profit on your investment!

McClellan keeps your flowers in perfect condition. It is an efficient cold-maker, continuously guaranteeing the fresh, attractive flowers so necessary for making sales and keeping customers.

You'll want all the detailed facts about a McClellan: why it is so easily and so inexpensively operated, what sizes and types are best suited to your needs. Send in the coupon today. Or we'll send a representative if you prefer—there's one near you.

You Who Look For Something Better!

Commonwealth is better than existing roses. Montgomery's dark pink seedling will please you. We have confidence in Commonwealth and have shown our faith by placing plants of this new rose with the following firms for trial. These men have our full permission to tell the truth. We have not asked them to be charitable as regards any faults that the rose may have. We have placed the rose with these growers that the story of Commonwealth may be the story of honest endeavor to give the rose growers of America something better than we have had before. See Commonwealth with your nearest neighbor; or, better still, come to Cromwell and see it here. These men are growing it:

Save Coal?—Peas

Sown in October and November, grown cold until February, fancy flowers from Valentine's Day on will be produced at a comparatively low fuel cost. You will not go wrong with any variety in this list. We grow all of them in quantity. If you wish any further information, write us; we have been specializing a good many years in this line.

We gladly announce the arrival of another supply of hand-picked seed, permitting us to care for all orders promptly. This is another coal saving crop and, in the case of our strain, a profitable one. It is of extra strong growth, producing long-stemmed, large, uniformly double flowers, of a rich, clear, orange color.

To make certain these characteristics were not due to our local conditions we placed trials with a number of growers; the following experiences being typical of all:

Terre Haute, Ind.,
July 18, 1922.

Mr. Geo. J. Ball,
Glen Ellyn, Ill.

My dear Mr. Ball:

We consider your new Calendula quite remarkable, particularly as to its doubleness. The plants which you furnished us last year bloomed much longer and with a greater number of blooms than any other Calendula we have ever used.

Yours very truly,
J. W. Davis Company,
By O. K. Owen.

Geneva, Ill.,
Feb. 11, 1922.

Mr. Geo. J. Ball,
Glen Ellyn, Ill.

My dear Mr. Ball:

In answer to your inquiry as to how I like your Calendula, I can say without fear of contradiction that it is the finest Calendula on the market. The color is perfect, flowers large and very prolific. I have grown it for two years and feel more than satisfied with it. If I could get as many dollars out of the rest of my glass as I do out of the Calendula, I would be more than pleased. Wishing you the greatest success.

Very truly yours,
RIVERBANK GREENHOUSES,
Charles S. McCauley, Manager.

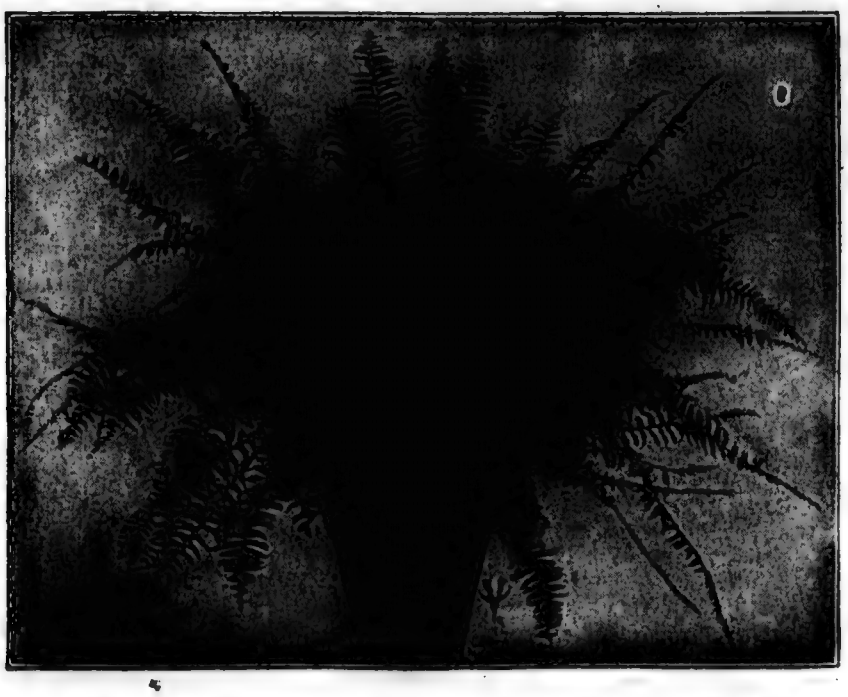
Nashville, Tenn.,
July 5, 1922.

Mr. Geo. J. Ball,
Glen Ellyn, Ill.

Dear Sir:

It gives us great pleasure to recommend your new extra large and double Calendula, which we tried out for you last year. This Calendula is much better than the ordinary type, as it not only produces more blooms, but they are of so much better quality. It is a very great improvement in the Calendula family.

Thanking you for the seed and with best wishes, we are



Yours very truly,

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

F. T. D. CONVENES AT BALTIMORE

For the first time it has held its annual meeting as an independent organization east of the Appalachian mountains, the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association convened this week at Baltimore, where the local florists made unstinted arrangements for the visitors' pleasure and profit.

NOT only the Baltimore trade but retail florists in general have looked forward to the meeting of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association at Baltimore this week as an event of unusual importance. Of course, the seaboard florists welcomed the association on its first trip east of the Appalachian mountains as an independent organization. Up to this year the farthest east the annual meeting of the organization had been held was Buffalo, in 1919. While the F. T. D. was an infant, still under the wing of the Society of American Florists and holding its meetings at the annual conventions of the latter, a gathering was held at Baltimore when the national society's convention was held in that city, in 1911. But that gathering was a far different one from that which convened this week, on the morning of October 10, at the Hotel Emerson.

A Contrast.

At that 1911 meeting of the F. T. D., six members were present; the total number of members of the association was a few over a hundred and Treasurer William L. Rock reported the society's funds as totaling $1,142. After seeing the frail infant in 1911, Baltimore welcomes back the lusty young organization which now numbers more than 2,000 and has assets of nearly $50,000.

But the importance of the meeting at Baltimore rests upon more than the visit of the annual meeting of the association to the eastern seaboard. The developments within the organization itself make the gathering one of great moment. The organization has reached the stage where its members must determine whether it shall continue as a group of retail florists banded together to promote the interchange of orders by telegraph or whether it shall take upon itself services to the retail section of our trade which were not contemplated in the early years of the organization, but which have developed with the progress of time as visions of the more ambitious members of the association.

In behalf of the adoption of these new lines of work, those who advocate them point out the success of at least one previous undertaking which seemed at the time outside the necessary activity of the F. T. D. The Canadian clearing house was established when florists north of the border were compelled to pay a premium of ten per cent in exchanging their money for the United States dollar in order to pay for telegraph orders relayed to their American brethren. The officers of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association conceived the idea of carrying two bank accounts, one in Detroit and one in Windsor, Ont. Canadian florists paid their bills to American members of the F. T. D. by remitting to the secretary of the organization the amount of the bill in Canadian money. American florists paid their bills to Canadians by sending the amount of the bill in American currency to Detroit, though they might have purchased Canadian dollars at a ten per cent discount and paid their bills direct. The result was that the Canadian florist paid no premium and the American member gave up his possibility of a profit by discount in favor of the F. T. D. Today, when Canadian currency has risen to par, the F. T. D., by reason of the appreciation in value of its bank account at Windsor, shows a profit of ten per cent on the amount which it remitted to Canadian florists in payment of their bills when the exchanges were at variance.

Now it is proposed to establish a clearing house at Detroit by which all bills between members of the F. T. D. for telegraph orders will be paid, through a vast ledger system in the secretary's office. It is proposed to defray the expense by charging members two per cent of the amount of the bills collected. According to arithmetic, if the estimate of $10,000,000 be accurate as the total business annually transacted between F. T. D. members, this charge, if members submitted all their bills, would provide a revenue in the secretary's office of $200,000 a year, assuredly a tidy sum for carrying on the bookkeeping of the organization and one which would undoubtedly preclude the possibility of a deficit in the association's treasury.

District Plan.

The proposed district plan of organization was also a subject of important discussion at Baltimore. It is admitted that the organization is too large and too far-reaching to allow an annual meeting to include anywhere near a large proportion of the members. It is felt desirable, however, to enlist the personal effort of each one of the members in behalf of the association's problems and of the problems of the retail trade in general. With this end in view, J. F. Ammann, of stump-speaking fame, toured various sections of the country during the spring and, after a number of highly enthusiastic local meetings, prepared a plan whereby a local gathering of F. T. D. members might be held at least once a year to transact such business and carry forward such activities as can be handled by sectional bodies.

These were two of the important subjects of discussion which filled the two days packed tight with business sessions at Baltimore, October 10 and 11. They had been talked about before the opening of the first session, in order that the issues might be well understood and any questions met. Some of the leaders of the association arrived in Baltimore Sunday and engaged in informal conferences. Monday morning the directors held their usual pre-convention session. Monday afternoon those district representatives of the association who had put in their appearance assembled for consideration of the district plan and of the means by which the district representatives might increase their service to the organization. At the spring meeting of the board of directors, Karl P. Baum, of Knoxville, Tenn., reported on the work he had done and outlined procedure to be followed by district representatives in winning greater support from members in each section. His associates on the board believed that his footsteps could be followed advantageously by other district representatives and for this reason appointed him chairman of the district units.

The Opening Ceremonies.

The big main meeting hall of the Emerson hotel was pretty nearly filled to capacity when Vice-president Feast rapped for order at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, October 10. The platform was not large enough for the directors and other leading lights of the association deemed worthy of a front seat, and so tables were ranged in front of the platform to accommodate the overflow.

After the delivery of the invocation by the Rev. Arthur B. Kinsolvin, pastor of the pioneer church of Baltimore, a poetical welcome was delivered by little Miss Wilhelmina C. Gude, while the American, Canadian, Baltimore and F. T. D. flags were brought forward, to the singing of "America" and of "The Maple Leaf" by the audience.

On behalf of the Baltimore trade, Vice-president Charles F. Feast welcomed the members of the F. T. D. Then he intrdouced Mayor William F. Bruenig, who made a quite apt speech of welcome.

Irwin Bertermann thereupon presented Mayor Bruenig and the Rev. Kinsolvin a basket of flowers, which drew from the former the regret that he had not the authority to present the visitors with one of the city's parks, of which he had spoken at length.

The response to the mayor's address was made by William J. Smyth, of Chicago, who was introduced by the vice-president as one of the association's directors who, despite his modesty, equaled in saying it with words his well-known ability to "Say It with Flowers."

A. S. Goldsborough, secretary of Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Baltimore, in reinforcing the welcome voiced by the mayor, eloquently portrayed the glories of the state of Maryland, finding in its history the same sentiment that actuated florists in their profession.

In response, Charles H. Grakelow gave voice to similarly silvery-tongued sentences that won the warm appreciation of the audience.

For the trade, Robert L. Graham, Sr., reputed as "Dad," welcomed the visitors. He modestly declared his inability to continue the oratorical pace previously set, but nevertheless succeeded to such a degree that one in the audience remarked, "They're all live ones down here, aren't they?"

Declaring that the F. T. D., like the radio, recognized no national boundary lines, Vice-president Feast called on W. W. Gammage, of London, Ont., who responded to "Dad" Graham's welcoming address.

Upon President Breitmeyer's taking the chair, at high noon, he called the audience to its feet to read in unison the F. T. D. pledge, compiled and published a year ago on the occasion of the Toronto meeting. After a minute's silent meditation on the deceased members, the members listened to President Breitmeyer's official address, a synopsis of which is published on another page of this issue.

At the afternoon session October 10 W. J. Smyth reported for the financial unit.

Secretary Pochelon made a report, as did Miss Helen Wick.

W. W. Gammage told about the Canadian clearing house.

Clearing House Authorized.

At the morning session October 11 it was voted unanimously to authorize the operation of the proposed clearing house, beginning January 1, 1923. The percentage to be charged the members for the service was left to the discretion of the board of directors.

St. Louis Next.

St. Louis was unanimously voted the next meeting place, with New York, Knoxville and Toledo promised succeeding years respectively.

Officers Old and New.

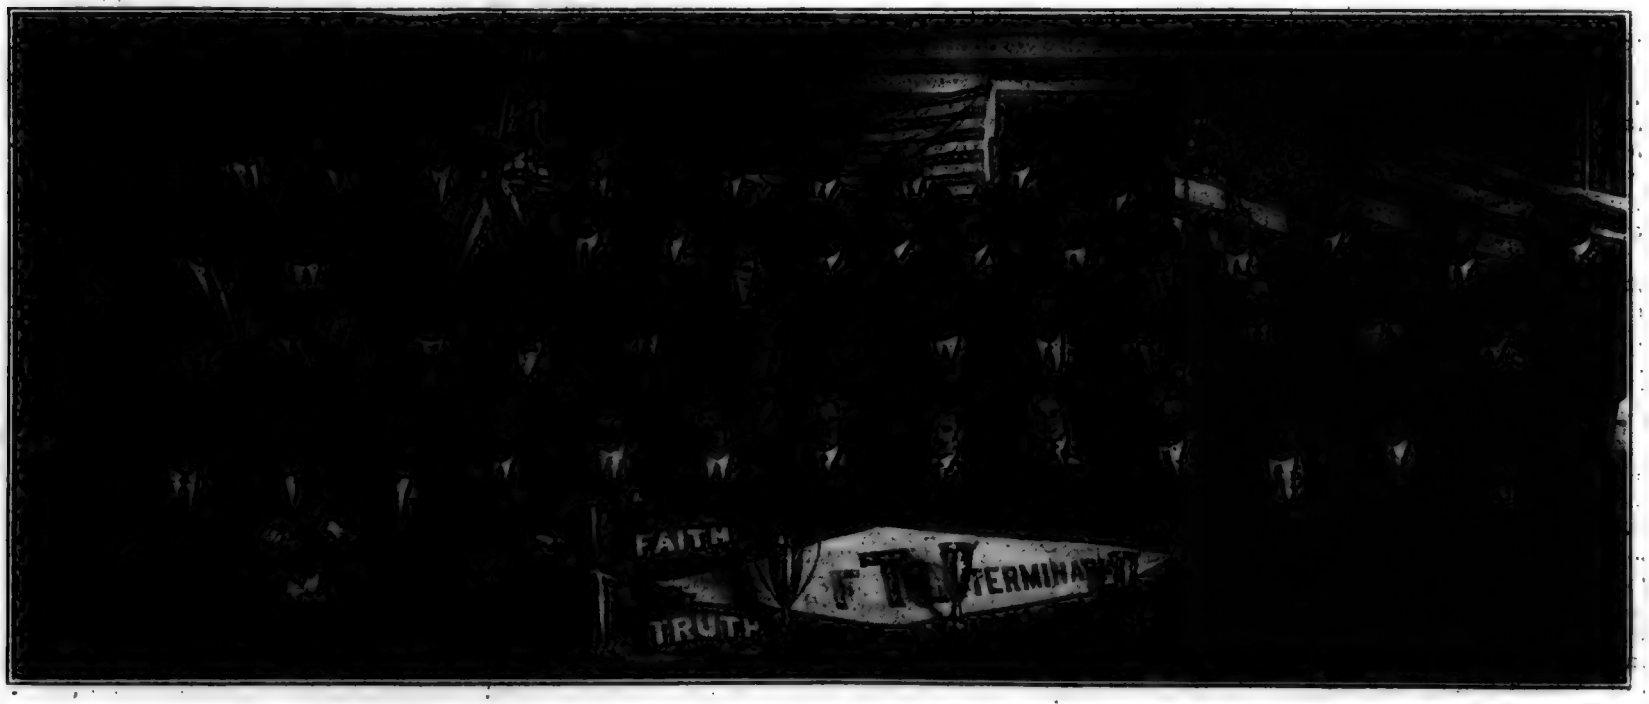
Irwin Bertermann read the report of the nominating committee, making no recommendation for president, but naming W. J. Smyth, Karl Baum, W. W. Gammage, Herman D. Schiller, Ira C. Harper and Thomas H. Joy as candidates for director, three to be elected. Mr. Harper moved the reëlection of the three first named, which was unanimously carried.

Henry Penn nominated Edward Sceery for president. Charles Henry Fox nominated Philip Breitmeyer, who asked to be released from further service in the office. Mr. Sceery was declared unanimously elected.

Vincent J. Gorly nominated Fred C. Weber for vice-president. He was unanimously elected.

Secretary Albert Pochelon and Treasurer W. L. Rock will be reëlected by the board of directors.

Advising the Public.



The matter of advertising the F. T. D. service to the public was discussed by Frank Schramm, George A. Washburn, Ira C. Harper, E. J. McCarthy and W. F. Gude, but no action was taken by the association.

Papers Read.

Henry Penn, of Boston, gave a talk on store management, with special reference to dividing the work into district departments as volume makes advisable.

Harold C. Perry, of New York, read an interesting and instructive paper on steamer orders as applied to New York, and J. Seulberger, of Oakland, Cal., spoke regarding steamer orders for the Pacific ports.

A paper entitled "F. T. D. Coöperation with the Wholesaler," by W. A. Hansen, of Chicago, provoked a lively discussion, participated in by Arthur A. Niessen, Frank H. Traendly, Nettie L. Parker, Victor Ridenour and Charles H. Grakelow.

Officers and District Representatives of the F. T. D. at Preliminary Meeting at Baltimore, October 9.

Miscellaneous Matters.

Discussion of the district representatives' organization led to the adoption of a resolution containing the new body's by-laws.

Carl Engelmann, of Saffron-Walden, England, presented a most interesting paper on projects for extending the association abroad. William F. Gude recommended its consideration by committee. He was appointed chairman.

Herman Knoble outlined the clearing house plan, which was further reviewed by Karl Baum, William F. Gude, J. A. Bessemer, Max Schling and E. J. McCarthy, who all were for it. After much discussion, President Breitmeyer ruled that decision be held over until the next morning for plenty of thought.

Graham Has Best Window.

In the window decorating contest Charles H. Brown, of Brooklyn, named winners in the following order: Robert L. Graham, Samuel Feast & Sons, Mary Johnston.

FINANCIAL POSITION.

Receipts and Disbursements Increase.

The report of the auditors on the treasurer's accounts, presented at the Baltimore meeting October 10, showed that the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association had been able to improve its financial position to the amount of nearly $5,000 during the period from October 1, 1921, to August 31, 1922. By decreasing the cash in the bank an equal amount, the association was able to add $10,000 in Liberty bonds of the second issue to its security holdings.

Receipts for the year totaled $30,088.75, as against $26,838.72 in the year of October 1, 1920, to September 30, 1921. It will be seen that, though the fiscal period covered was a month shorter, the receipts were over $3,000 more. Disbursements, however, increased at a greater pace. For the eleven months last reported on, they were $25,249.80, while for the twelve months preceding they were only $17,829.83, or only two-thirds as much. Of the disbursements, $24,766 were for expenses and $483 were deposits refunded. It is apparent withdrawals from the association last year increased in number over the preceding period, since deposits returned in the latter interim were only $154, or less than one-third the total in the eleven months last reported on.

The association's balance is represented by the following assets, as of August 31, 1922:

PRAISE FROM THE SECRETARY.

Pochelon Praises Coöperation.

Ten years ago in August in a hot summer heat in that hot, hustling city of Chicago somebody wished a job on me, because he knew at that time how timid I was to get up and say something, and I didn't; not a word was I able to say.

Today, this is a different proposition; after digging into the F. T. D. in every nook and corner and making studies everywhere by the constant centralization of our members' knowledge and wisdom in our F. T. D. office, I can assure you that if you would get me started to give you a talk on all the various angles of this organization, your would have to be here until next week.

Therefore, I ask you to spare yourself and me the task of going into details, as we shall come during this entire meeting to various points and it will be much more interesting to bring them out then.

Our greatest and most dangerous obstacle within our organization—yes, within ourselves—is not nearly so big a factor as it was ten years ago, because too many of our members have learned that giving and helping brings better and greater results than just taking and "getting while the getting is good."

Every argument and every bit of trouble between members and your office and organization has always been traced down to perhaps one object, and that was selfish motives and selfish gain.

Coöperation, the wonderful and so much used word in our F. T. D. organization, is only of consequence when you start to apply the same in your immediate home, shop and vicinity. And, when you have this accomplished, do not hesitate to let it radiate over the entire world.

Do not tell me that it is hard to cooperate; it is not, if you are willing to sacrifice a little for a time being. In the long run this sacrifice will be a benefit to you.

Understanding Gains.

A detailed report of the secretary would not give you near the understanding and would be tiresome to listen to, but as this meeting progresses, you will find that each unit of your F. T. D. office is fully able to give you a concise report and, if anything is not perfectly clear to you, remember we have looked up in Webster's what the word coöperation means.

No one can be prouder—yes, overjoyed—with the great good this organ-

The auditors said in their report:

"The receipts for the period exceeded the disbursements by $4,838.95. The securities were examined and all were on hand with the exception of Imperial Russian government bonds of a par value of $2,000, which are being carried on the books at $1,895.92 (cost). These bonds are being held by the National City Bank of New York as depositary under an agreement with a bondholders' protective committee and are represented by a certificate of deposit executed by the National City Bank of New York."

PRAISE FROM THE SECRETARY.

Pochelon Praises Coöperation.

Ten years ago in August in a hot summer heat in that hot, hustling city of Chicago somebody wished a job on me, because he knew at that time how timid I was to get up and say something, and I didn't; not a word was I able to say.

Today, this is a different proposition; after digging into the F. T. D. in every nook and corner and making studies everywhere by the constant centralization of our members' knowledge and wisdom in our F. T. D. office, I can assure you that if you would get me started to give you a talk on all the various angles of this organization, your would have to be here until next week.

Therefore, I ask you to spare yourself and me the task of going into details, as we shall come during this entire meeting to various points and it will be much more interesting to bring them out then.

Our greatest and most dangerous obstacle within our organization—yes, within ourselves—is not nearly so big a factor as it was ten years ago, because too many of our members have learned that giving and helping brings better and greater results than just taking and "getting while the getting is good."

Every argument and every bit of trouble between members and your office and organization has always been traced down to perhaps one object, and that was selfish motives and selfish gain.

Coöperation, the wonderful and so much used word in our F. T. D. organization, is only of consequence when you start to apply the same in your immediate home, shop and vicinity. And, when you have this accomplished, do not hesitate to let it radiate over the entire world.

Do not tell me that it is hard to cooperate; it is not, if you are willing to sacrifice a little for a time being. In the long run this sacrifice will be a benefit to you.

Understanding Gains.

A detailed report of the secretary would not give you near the understanding and would be tiresome to listen to, but as this meeting progresses, you will find that each unit of your F. T. D. office is fully able to give you a concise report and, if anything is not perfectly clear to you, remember we have looked up in Webster's what the word coöperation means.

No one can be prouder yes, overjoyed with the great good this organization has brought about and which has meant, so many times, temporary enemies and controversies and which has had so many obstacles to overcome.

Address of Albert Pochelon, of Detroit, secretary of the F. T. D., before the meeting of the organization at Baltimore, October 10 to 12.

Pray, thank those who have stood by our pennant, who have had enough faith in our principles and who were determined to carry this pennant, so the florists of the entire world will esteem its meaning.

It is true that ten years ago our little F. T. D. army of solid believers was but a skeleton squad, but today you have an army which is fit to take on any worthy proposi ion and carry it through.

We have outgrown the single-cylinder thinking idea, and how I can ever thank those who have "made" the present F. T. D. and who have worked as faithfully as they have, is beyond me.

It is a great pleasure for me to thank them all at this time before all of you present. It is their most sincere cooperation and their believing in this work of ours so thoroughly that has made possible the success of today, and that will make possible greater progress, a greater future and, last but not least, a finer and nobler understanding between our members.

MR. BREITMEYER'S ADDRESS

IT often has been said what a wonderful organization florists have built in the Florists' Telegraph Delivery. Quite frequently it has been admitted that it would not be possible in any other profession. Considering the truth of this statement, we should be proud indeed. It is only a few years since fifty-five men organized and laid the foundation for this splendid association. I remember, and I must confess, how selfish the motives were—afraid that undesirable men would join our ranks. But what a difference today, with our 2,500 moving onward!

The growth which has come to us has only strengthened our belief that to practice justice and brotherly love is the greatest thing in life. Sometimes I wonder if we are grateful enough. During my term of office I have had occasion to watch the stupendous growth and have seen and understood the improved conditions which have been made possible through education, resulting in a closer relationship, which has created in our members a wider knowledge of men and a desire to eliminate selfishness, the cause of so many failures. I regret to state that we have at this time a few members who hesitate to be liberal with their fellow men. It is our privilege to offer our assistance and the example we set will create an impression leading to good, instead of caustic remarks full of hatred and envy.

It is not to be assumed that all problems have been solved. I refer to limiting our membership. It has come to my notice many times that a certain member objects to his neighbor as a fellow member. In my opinion this is a wrong attitude and should be carefully considered. We have nineteen members in Detroit and I venture to say that if fifty more joined us, the business created would be increased in the same proportion. Naturally, what applies to Detroit would apply elsewhere.

Credit and the Motto.

The education in regard to credit has been interesting. We have established confidence and assurance and everyone knows that when an order is executed it will be paid for according to our by-laws. Isn't it a comforting feeling to know your account will be paid promptly? I know of no other organization which guarantees its members payment of their accounts. Do you? Can you appreciate what this one detail means in business dealing?

Our organization stands for strength. Our motto is "Faith, Truth and Determination." The joining of these words is so appropriate to the labor we perform. We stand proudly on our record. Our loyal friend Pochelon brought the motto to our notice. We have built our business on Faith; therefore, we have faith in all our members. Truth is the strongest of all words and means fidelity of man to man, and we should apply this motto whenever we fill an order. It should be our Determination never to leave an order unfilled, no matter how much inconvenience we may be subjected to. Determine to give your brother service.

Ways to Increase Business.

Publicity and advertising are closely linked together. We shall discuss them during our sessions, and yet there seems to be a place for a few words in a message at this time. Uppermost in my mind is the fact that a national publicity committee exists, and the splendid work it is doing has not been properly assisted by many of our members who can well afford to do more financially. It is true that means are developing by which a positive sum will be realized for this work. It behooves us brother F. T. D'ites to be in the front ranks in furnishing our proportion for so worthy a cause.

There are many ways to create a desire for flowers and show the people how and where to use them. We can safely say there is no limit to the demand that can be created. Recently an old custom was revived, one which used to be kept up on all occasions, and which proved a great factor in increased sales. A stock letter reminding the persons where they could send appropriate flowers for occasions brought orders undreamed-of; namely over $1,000. I doubt if any of the contributors would have sent flowers on this occasion if they had not been reminded. Personal solicitation, by letter or, if deemed wise, by night letter, will assist in creating new business.

A follow-up letter to old customers, whom we so often think we have for life, pleases them. A personal touch and a word of appreciation augurs well for a continuance of their patronage. How true it is that "a touch of nature makes the whole world kin"! All advertising is closely associated with publicity, and it is our duty to be alert and apply our talent daily.

Aside from this business motive for advertising, there is another good reason for making advertisements as attractive as possible, the pleasure of the people whom we are endeavoring to interest. So let us try for efficiency in the highest degree and we can rest assured that happiness and prosperity will be ours.

Competition in Window Display.

We have caught the spirit of service, and as each year rolls by it proves the greater value of this innovation established a few years ago in Detroit. I am pleased to note the wonderful progress made. Each year eclipses the others, and we shall be showered with delight when our Baltimore merchants prove their skill and show a keen, friendly rivalry among these lines.

I am glad to know that the idea has become a daily practice, instead of a yearly custom. We have been told that the show window is our best salesman, and I believe this statement has been found to be true. Nothing creates a desire so much as the display one makes of the goods one has to sell. Then, too, like a good housekeeper, one should carry the idea of display from the show window to the rear of his shop. Don't stop anywhere in order to prove to the customer that you are 100 per cent in display and cleanliness.

A neat bowl filled with flowers and a small price tag often create a sale; a few flowers artistically arranged speak a volume of words. Sometimes masses of flowers attract attention, but the simple, artistic effect backed by profusion of color in season is good advertising, so why not make use of it daily?

Employer and Employee.

A closer relationship between employer and employee has long been in the minds of all thinking men. Surely loyalty of employees can only be gained by the confidence and consideration given. That human touch of appreciation makes for harmony, and with this in your establishment there is no room for discord.

A synopsis of the address of President Philip Breitmeyer in opening the F. T. D. convention at Baltimore, October 10, 1922.

I have found it wise to teach cost of doing business to all of the employees. It is well for them to realize that there is a real reason for charging three to one. With this knowledge they make real associates in your business and we all reap the benefits of coöperation. I am pleased to see many of these associates with us at our business meetings, and I trust they will take back home with them the spirit of coöperation as outlined at these meetings.

There are many methods which need renovating, but first comes the real understanding between employer and employee. No one is infallible, but it means much to have a heart, and this works both ways. Coöperation in a business such as that of florists means service and in order to maintain the high standard required in our profession we all must work together, from the cellar boy, if you have one, to the head of the house. Join coöperation with service and success will follow.

Education in this instance becomes a factor and its aim is to improve and uplift the line of thought. This in turn eliminates mistakes, which are sometimes costly, and renders services more valuable, both to the employer and themselves. It fits men and women for better citizenship, better individual growth and usefulness. The application of all these brings the right results.

The Board of Directors.

It is needless for me to comment on behalf of your directorate. The standing of these men in their respective communities is unexcelled. Each year I have asked you to consider carefully the value of their experience as well as their character, connected, as they are, in the profession. I would sincerely regret having to lose the members whose terms expire this year, but I have an assurance that we shall find others who are willing to coöperate in order that we may move a little closer to the goal we are striving for. Naturally the tried-out, successful, willing and able business man is the right material for results. Therefore, once again I appeal to your earnest consideration. Many men believe they are capable, as undoubtedly they are, but from my personal experience and observation I have found that faithful, true and determined men are few and it is well to keep the tried-out ones in harness.

Personally my heart is filled with gratitude for the splendid coöperation the directors have given me during the last three years and I cheerfully retire with a feeling of rejoicing, knowing that each one of them has served lovingly, inspired by the good they were doing for all mankind.

The District Representatives.

There is much good and some bad that can be said of the district representatives. Some have served the interest well and I hope their loyalty will increase as time goes on. Those who have seemingly been disinterested and disloyal I should like to ask for better cooperation. The wise man always tries to do something for his fellow men and surely he cannot expect to reap unless he gives freely of his knowledge. We hope our field manager will get the hearty support of all our members and we at home surely will bless you for all your kindly coöperation. This unit of the F. T. D. will ultimately be the nucleus of our board of directors and working body. I look forward to the time when our organization will have delegates from every district in the U. S. and Canada. Why not from all parts of Europe? Our foreign representative, Mr. Engelmann, who has kindly paid his respects at this meeting, is a proof of the loyalty the foreign membership holds for our organization. I trust he will take a breath of enthusiasm and return to his country much impressed with the methods we have employed and the achievements we have gained, and that he will be inspired to go on further in his work and watch his business grow.

Many have expressed their appreciation for our weekly information on prices prevailing throughout the country. Some, however, seem to think it an unnecessary expense. I should appreciate a discussion on this subject.

The Field Work.

Mere words cannot express my appreciation in being able to induce that able and beloved friend, Mr. Ammann, to associate himself with our organization. The title he carries is a broad one, which requires much work, great ability and keen foresight. This new position, which has been created in our organization, has completed a working force, a final unit for complete administration. We are to be congratulated for the wisdom and conservative council he will render. Mr. Ammann is a man of rare caliber and ability, so much needed in cementing the brotherhood of American florists. His work for good-fellowship is well known among us and I am sure he will be much appreciated in his new work. Our gratitude is here expressed to him for the sacrifice he makes of home and family. In the line of service, man receives his greatest rewards. Let us sincerely wish our new field manager will find happiness along the way, by the fact of his knowing he has our keen support for the service he renders.

Your directors have considered the necessity of establishing a publicity bureau for the distribution of advertising matter which can be secured at a lower cost to its members. It has made some progress in this line, but there is an increased demand for this work and we should prepare to fill the want. It will become a part of the field-work unit which can be of great help in our general publicity. The way we are situated in our print shop, with the paraphernalia we have acquired, we are in a position to execute any work of this kind.

The Proposed Clearing House.

The clearing house for the F. T. D. is another step in the right direction and, like all big problems, it will require men of ability and sincerity to plan a workable clearing house proposition. Up to the present we have never made a step without thorough consideration of the problem before us. We have this question somewhat solved and the committee appointed will give you its report and I trust you will discuss and wisely consider the matter.

I have expressed my hearty coöperation for the clearing house, and I do so again. Nevertheless, I shall miss writing the checks on the tenth of the month, although this labor has always been a pleasure to me. I have enjoyed writing the names of many of my acquaintances. However, this is only a personal matter. Progress is the law of life and I want to be progressive.

I hope the clearing house plan will be favorably acted on and put into operation as soon as the proper officers can install the system.

PAST DUE BILLS.

[Paper on "The Clearing House of Past Due Bills," by Miss Helen Wilks, delivered before the members of the F. T. D. Association, in convention at Baltimore, Md., October 10 to 12.]

The F. T. D. clearing house of past due bills has been a busy department of the secretary's office throughout the last year. The business depression caused a great many more past due bills to be sent in than in former years. For the last five months this work was extremely heavy and I have spent two days at a time just entering bills and dictating letters, while my two assistants would write the letters. They number about eighty daily at times. The number of bills paid by transferring funds in issuing F. T. D. checks from October, 1921, to September 28, 1922, amounted to 444 and the money handled in that manner amounted to $4,519.27.

The amount of the checks sent to the secretary's office in payment of bills and forwarded was $5,572.73. Money sent direct in payment of bills reported paid later was $2,859.07. The total amount of money handled through the clearing house from October, 1921, to September 28, 1922, amounted to $12,951.07. Fifteen accounts were paid to members on bills due them from members out of the guarantee fund, amounting to $208.22.

These accounts were paid to members for bills they had reported within the sixty days. Some of our members do not seem to understand that the association is entitled to deduct the twenty per cent discount when paying the bills from the guarantee fund, but if these members will refer to Article XI, section 7 of our by-laws, I think they will find that this deduction is fair and in order.

How Controversies Arise.

I am frequently called upon to straighten out controversies regarding the return of checks from the banks on account of "insufficient funds." When members call on me or address the secretary's office in regard to like matters, I wish they would allow the checks in question to accompany their letters; it would save time and give me all the necessary information, in order to bring about a settlement. For, in the majority of cases, the person writing forgets to mention the number of the check, the amount or the date it was issued, which leaves me entirely without the information required.

I wish to say, if there are any members present who have sent in complaints without giving the required information, and, therefore, have not received results, let those men step to my desk and I will show them how impossible it is for me to give their requests the attention required, without spending a lot of valuable time, which could be saved if they would mention the names of delinquents they sent in, whether members or not.

HOW DARDS DOES IT

STEAMER TRADE IN THE EAST.

Why Flowers Appeal at Sea.

I shall not trespass on your patience by making this subject, "Steamer Business in the East," too tedious or protracted. I shall briefly outline some of my firm's experience in this particular branch, which, as some of you know, has been a considerable one, owing to our central location in the heart of the business, hotel and club district of New York city.

Let us take up for a few minutes the appropriate selection of flowers for the young lady, perhaps making her first trip abroad, an exciting and thrilling experience for her. What could be better suited to the occasion than an attractive corsage? Wearing this token of regard gives her a feeling of natural and justifiable pride, creating just the right impression on her friends, saying their last farewell before the siren sounds "All visitors ashore." Orchids, on account of their lasting quality, give perhaps the most satisfaction, if one's patron can afford them, but any other corsage flower is acceptable. It is simply a case of how far the pocket-book will extend.

For those much in love, a sensation is made by arranging for a corsage to be laid on the breakfast table, or sent to the stateroom, each and every morning of the voyage. This is easily arranged for with the coöperation of the steward, but, of course, for obvious reasons comes a bit high, as one must well reward the steward, so that there are no "slip-ups."

Eye Packing Carefully.

The flowers must be especially packed in tin boxes, well lined with damp moss, and for the last days of the voyage the stems of such flowers as orchids, etc., should be in glass tubes filled with water, and sealed with rubber caps to hold the water in; then, naturally, instead of one corsage, at least six would be sent, and up to ten or even eleven, according to the speed of the ship, or length of voyage. Even where the selection of the flowers is left to the florist, no order of this kind should be taken for less than $75. That being the extreme minimum, one can easily go to well over $200, if extra choice flowers, such as spray orchids, brassocattleyas, etc., are used. But I can assure you, friends, that such a gift, if properly carried out, provides talk and comment among the recipients for the rest of their trip and is never forgotten.

In sending to more mature ladies, attractive baskets of roses, or any flowers that have good keeping qualities, always are most acceptable. These are all readily arranged, easily placed, and, if care is used, should last for the best part of the trip. I should not as a general rule advise baskets under $10 each as a minimum, as packing alone on such an order is considerable, and, after all, what can one do for less than this, and do it right? Also, what is more pleasing than a well arranged box of beautiful rose buds, selected with an eye for their keeping qualities, such as Premier, Scott Key, etc., or glorious boxes of spring flowers in their season, fall flowers, etc.? And this gives one an easy range of price to suit all patrons. A few flowers in the stateroom, when one is out of sight of land and feels a bit homesick, go right to the heart and cheer one up, as no fruit or candy ever can or will do. I should not, as a rule, advise flowering plants, as they are a nuisance to all concerned. One's stateroom is not large enough to accommodate such a cumbersome article, and the stewards look with a vengeful eye on them. Although fruit is largely sent as a gift, yet it is not nearly so appropriate as flowers, or appreciated so much, for the simple reason that the modern liner provides luscious and rare fruit—as a rule just as good, and perhaps better, than one would send. I dare to say that seventy-five per cent is given away to the stewards or thrown overboard.

Care in Delivery Required.

I should suggest that you ask your salesmen to try to obtain the deck and stateroom number if possbile. This saves considerable time on delivery to the owner of the flowers, and makes it much easier for the stewards, as they are then able to take the same direct to the stateroom. Otherwise they must locate from the passenger list, which with a heavy sailing is a voluminous affair, to say the least; otherwise, the baskets and boxes are all piled up in the dining room of the boat, and sorted out sometimes hours after the ship has sailed. I fully realize that often the sender does not have this information, and cannot with convenience get the same; but, on the other hand, sometimes the reverse is the case. It costs nothing to ask, and shows one is alert and "on the job."

As to the actual delivery, I believe there is more or less of an impression that it is complicated. However, such is not the case at all, provided a proper system is used, and one gets his deliveries to the dock in ample time, so as to avoid the great rush and more or less confusion when the passengers, with their numerous friends, arrive at the boat. We, ourselves, on a heavy steamer day open from an hour to two hours earlier than our usual time, so that we can make delivery at least three hours before actual sailing. In so doing, we make a minimum amount of work for all connected with this department at the dock. This is much appreciated by the steamship companies and their employees, and many times favors are given to last-minute rushes on account of former promptness. Again, one's baskets, boxes, etc., are given better attention and care, and in a great many cases deliveries made before or by 9 a. m., where a liner is sailing at 12 p. m.—in other words, three hours before actual sailing—are made direct to the stateroom. But if they come late or in the passenger rush, orders are, as I said above, piled up in the dining room for hours at a time, and maybe will not reach their final destination or be received till hours after the boat actually sails. In the case of the corsage, this is exceedingly annoying to the recipient for many reasons. Again, suppose one has sent a beautiful basket, which, if it is winter, may well be resting easy near a steam pipe or radiator. Can you imagine the comment on receipt? Yet, no blame can be attached to the florist. The matter is not in his hands; but, on the other hand, the blame will come to him just the same. That is why it is so imperative to try as far as possible to avoid this piling up of these gifts of delicate flowers by getting them down early. One gets in the good graces of the numerous officials, which means a lot; so try to get your orders in as soon as possible. If I had time I could relate many an amusing little story as to how we have actually got on the boat, even just before the gang plank was taken in, but your time is valuable and no purpose would be accomplished, but this I can say, and without boasting, that we have some pretty good friends with our steamship companies.

The Square Deal.

As to packing flowers—we never do so the night before delivery, no matter what the volume may be. It is hard to get down early sometimes after a previous heavy day, but it is the only fair and square thing to do. Easter and Christmas are different. One has no choice in the matter. It is highly necessary that a folding box be never used, for reasons described above. As the hundreds of orders are piled up in the dining room awaiting final delivery, nothing but a heavy, stiff box will serve the purpose. Stems must never protrude from the box. The box must not be cut for long-stemmed flowers, as they get in the way of the stewards, and are apt to be handled roughly. Imagine an overworked steward, possibly running his fingers into some choice thorns, if some should carelessly be left on the stems. Also imagine what he is apt to do to the box! All boxes should be wrapped in heavy manila paper, to minimize the careless way they are likely to be handled. In other words, one must guard against every possible chance of delayed delivery, rough usage, and the fact that these boxes, baskets, etc., are not taken charge of by florists, but by stewards.

The Steamer Letter.

To overcome final delay at staterooms, we have for many years been sending what we call a "steamer letter," which states that we have delivered to a boat an order. Now, the first thing a passenger does on boarding his ship is to go straight to the purser's office for his mail and, as this letter has been sent beforehand to the purser's office by our delivery messenger addressed to the passenger in question, he or she is immediately in possession of the knowledge that flowers are there; so that, if the passengers go to the stateroom and do not find the flowers, they ring for the steward, show him the letter, and he has to rescue the flowers from the large pile in the dining room, so that this cuts down the delay that might occur to a minimum. With this letter we also enclose a stamped, addressed postcard, stating that flowers have been received in good order, and asking that the passenger receipt for same, and mail back by the pilot. I may say we get about seventy per cent returns of these cards, which also proves actual receipt by the passenger, should that question ever be raised afterwards by the sender.

If orders are delivered to the dock two hours previous to actual sailing time, most of the large companies issue their own receipt for each package. This, however, is more or less a recent improvement, as not so long ago it was hard for them to sign our own receipts, let alone issue one themselves.

WHOLESALER AND THE F. T. D.

How to Coöperate.

It is my intent in this paper to point out the means and methods open for the wholesale florist to coöperate with the F. T. D. members as individuals. In the ultimate, you are helped as an association, only insofar as you are helped individually. It is the persistent application of present means for coöperation that makes possible enlarged and broadened opportunities. You have already seen this proved in the growth of the F. T. D. In dealing with the present possibilities, I must emphasize that I am not equipped to discuss market prices and fluctuations; this is a question which might be argued for the entire duration of this meeting and which, to the thoughtful observer, may be summed up in the two words, "supply" and "demand."

But there are many other aspects than that of prices to the negotiations that are carried on daily between the two branches of the trade.

There is one thing that you can do to help the F. T. D., yourself and, incidentally, your wholesaler. When you are aware that a member to whom you have sent an order, or to whom you intended to send one, is not equipped to take care of it, you might give him the name of your wholesaler and advise him that if he will equip his store with a line of stock similar to what you are handling, you can then consistently send him your F. T. D. orders. This method has worked wonders for the inexperienced F. T. D. florist, and it will continue to do so, if you do your part and the wholesaler does his.

Applied Team Work.

It happens that a big city F. T. D. member will complain to the secretary's office or to a fellow member about a small-towner who does not carry a sufficiently good line of stock to handle properly the orders sent him. But the secretary's offices, already piled high with important correspondence, can do little or nothing to relieve the situation. And the fellow member to whom the complaint is rendered can only give sympathy. The complaining member, however, is within a stone's throw of solving this problem, particularly if the small-towner is within range of the same wholesale market that the big-towner buys from. He can then tell him that he would do well to trade with such-and-such a wholesaler, who will treat him well if he buys consistently. The wholesale house steps in here and saves the day by sending him a line of stock consistent with the standing of an F. T. D. florist. This has worked out finely in several cases that I have in mind.

Then, also, your wholesale house will always be glad to supply the name of an F. T. D. member that handles his stock in a city for which you may be getting orders. A well known florist in Pittsburgh called on me for the names of members that carry our stock in several western cities. You can readily see the value of knowing that the florist to whom you are sending an order is offering the same line of stock as you are offering in your store, where the buyer sees it.

When you send an F. T. D. order for something that is not generally to be had, it is sometimes wise to include in the telegram information as to where it is to be had. And, should it occur that you get an order for something you do not have, your wholesaler can often tell you where to get it, although it is not in his line.

Graphically speaking, your wholesaler is related to you as the sun is to its rays. The supply of light is in this case cut flowers, coming from the sun, or wholesaler; the rays, or F. T. D. members, exchange and reflect F. T. D. orders without number. The rays have the same kind of stock, or light, for they all emanate from the same source, or the mutual wholesaler.

It may be well at this time to mention the problem of a glutted market. Generally speaking, markets glut because of untoward weather conditions. As far as the grower is concerned, this seems uncontrollable. The F. T. D. member is, or should be, the live wire in every community, and it is up to him to do his part to relieve the glut, and it is up to the wholesaler to make it worth while for him to do it. We have a member in Chicago who can move 50,000 sweet peas or 10,000 roses or as many gladioli in one day without an order on the files at the beginning of the day. That man makes money, and you can, too, if you will get together with the house you buy from. It is noteworthy that the man who studies the market and buys according to the supply has few complaints to make on price fluctuations.

Another subject I am inclined to leave untouched is that of complaints on shipments of cut flowers from wholesaler to retailer. If you deal with a reliable wholesale house, anywhere in the country, make complaints promptly and only when wholly justified, there is no reason to believe that these matters cannot be settled with mutual agreement. The florists who make unjustified complaints are principally those that are not F. T. D. members. Therefore, it behooves every member to maintain the F. T. D. standard of ethics in dealing with his wholesaler.

I have purposely left to the last of my paper the big question: Collections. This is, of course, entirely individual. It is a bad thing for each one of you and worse for the wholesaler that there are florists doing business without paying their bills and many more do so only when pressure is brought to bear on them. The wholesalers who are associate members of the F. T. D. have cooperated with the secretary's office in lining up many of the dead ones, either making them pay or cutting off their credit.

As far as the interchange of credit between members of the F. T. D. is concerned, this will be a small problem when the clearing house is inaugurated. However, if the F. T. D. clearing house forces the otherwise delinquent members to shift their delinquencies over to the wholesaler, there will have to be steps taken in this direction. It is not beyond one's imagination to conceive of the time when the wholesaler's bills will be paid through the F. T. D. clearing house. Application of the present plans for the clearing house, so carefully formulated in Detroit, will soon show forth the future possibilities.

NEW F. T. D. BODY.

District Representatives Organize.

In addition to a well-staffed secretary's office and a board of directors, the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association is to have another body to direct activities within the organization. At the preliminary meeting of district representatives, held Monday, October 9, officers were elected and by-laws adopted under which this subsidiary body might function. The officers chosen were:

Chairman—Karl P. Baum, Knoxville, Tenn.

Canadian Party on Arrival at Baltimore for F. T. D. Gathering.

Vice-chairman, U. S. A.—Fred C. Weber, St. Louis, Mo.

Vice-chairman, Canada—F. George Dicks, London, Ont.

Secretary—J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill.

Upon organization, the meeting adopted by-laws, already approved by the directors and prepared for submission to the convention proper the following day.

Questions of the Hour.

Then consideration was given to timely questions to determine in what form they should be submitted to the open meeting of the full association the following day. So much was covered that, after the afternoon session had run from 3 to 6 o'clock, it was voted to hold an evening meeting.

The method of settling disputes regarding bills for orders filled accurately by the recipient florist but yet not received by the person to whom directed was debated, without a satisfactory solution being obtained. If no amicable arrangement can be reached, such a case may be laid before the association's arbitration committee.

A ruling was discussed limiting commissions to agents on telegraph orders to ten per cent. No formal statement was made.

F. T. D. week was again discussed, and it was voted to recommend such a week to the association's meeting.

Other matters were touched upon, but no action was taken regarding them.

THE CANADIAN CLEARING HOUSE.

Stabilized the Dollar.

The establishment of the Canadian, or more properly, the international clearing house, was but another step in the progressive career of the F. T. D. Established, as it was, at a time when there was a disparity between the purchasing value of money in favor of the United States, it stabilized credits and values by making the dollar in the United States and Canada worth 100 cents to the public, as well as from florist to florist.

Giving this department close study for two and one-half years, the time it has been in operation, I have no hesitation in saying that it has been not only the means of developing a greater volume of business, but has created a more friendly feeling, a closer coöperation, and a confidence in the eye of the public that otherwise we would not enjoy; nor do I hesitate in recommending a continuance of this most important department. With present economic conditions and world-wide unrest, there is no telling how soon national exchange rates may fluctuate; or better still, with our established banking arrangements and the knowledge that the present exchange department has been such a benefit, why not from this small beginning go another step forward? I mean the adoption of the proposed plan, the clearing house, through which all F. T. D. accounts must pass.

Since this department has been in operation, approximately $90,000 has passed through it, both from Canadian and American members; it soon became evident that the Canadian bank was accumulating a favorable balance. In order that the funds should have as great an earning power as possible with a maximum of safety, your directors decided upon the purchase of Victory bonds—$5,000 was invested. These bonds were purchased for $4,717.01, and they are now above par, showing a handsome profit on the purchase, in addition to the five and one-half per cent half yearly coupons. Another outstanding feature is that this department, with the possible exception of clerical help, has not cost the association anything. In addition to the $5,000 invested in Canadian bonds, $5,000 was transferred from the Canadian bank into American funds, at a small margin of cost. Thus may I sum up by saying that the establishment of the Canadian or international clearing house has the unique distinction of being the pioneer industrial institution operated for and in the interest of its members, and bearing out the old saying, "Where there is a will there is a way."

NEW YORK FLORISTS' CLUB.

Holds Live-Wire Meeting.

A monthly meeting of the New York Florists' Club was held in the Engineering Societies' building Monday evening, October 9, with a fair attendance of members. President Roman J. Irwin presided.

Secretary John Young read resolutions on the deaths of John H. Rodman and J. Max Nitzschke, members of the club, the assemblage standing.

The following were elected to membership: John Murray Harris, 43 Barclay street, New York; Fowler Marsden, Lawrence, N. Y.; Peter Reis, Union Hill, N. J.; Lester Ortiz, Bernardsville, N. J. C. Andrews, New York manager of the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., was nominated for election at the next meeting.

The transportation committee reported on the arrangements made for travel over the Pennsylvania railroad to the F. T. D. convention in Baltimore.

A communication received from L. C. Vinson, secretary of the Ohio district of the National Flower Growers' Association, asking the club's support in a movement to obtain the standardization of the grading of roses and carnations along lines covered by resolutions and proposed rules of the organization, was laid over for action at a subsequent meeting. Secretary Young stated that a similar communication had been presented to the executive board of the S. A. F., which had referred the matter to the American Rose Society, American Carnation Society and the F. T. D.

Progress in Spring Show.

Charles H. Totty, for the flower show committee, reported progress in the preparations for next spring's show. A preliminary plant schedule had been issued, and the cut flower schedule was under consideration and would be issued in a few weeks. Secretary Young also spoke of the progress made in arrangements, particularly in regard to the trade exhibits section. He said already more than four-fifths of the space on the main floor of the Grand Central Palace had been reserved, as well as much space on the mezzanine floor. The big features of the show, he said, would be maintained; about $1,500 had been set aside for premiums for five big groups, and material changes had been made to induce better exhibits of orchids. For the information of the guests of the evening, particularly President Pennock, of the S. A. F., he stated that the club ever remembered the fact that it was the S. A. F. which put on the first big show in New York, assuring the success of the later shows.

Guests of the club were President Pennock, Chairman Henry Penn, of Boston; George Asmus, of Chicago; C. C. Pollworth, of Milwaukee, and Major P. F. O'Keefe, of Boston, all of whom made addresses.

S. S. Pennock spoke of the highly enjoyable trip he took to the Kansas City convention as a member of the New York party, and expressed his pleasure in again being a guest of the club Briefly referring to the grading of roses, he said he favored a grading by inches, so that buyers would know exactly what they were getting.

Penn on Publicity.

Henry Penn made a short address, with "Publicity for Flowers" his principal topic. He deplored the lack of interest in the publicity campaign shown by the trade in New York, whose business was most assuredly deriving the greatest advantage from it; in fact, New York was certain to get the advantage of any publicity work undertaken in any part of the country, especially as nearly a hundred thousand visitors from all parts of the country were within its doors every day. New York, he said, would be doing a national job when it entered thoroughly into publicity work, and he hoped to see its florists take advantage of the greatest opportunity ever presented to them to build up business.

George Asmus made one of his characteristic speeches—he prefers to call them "talks"—during which he presented facts and figures likely to stimulate thoughts of publicity among his hearers. The publicity campaign, he pointed out, had not only accomplished extremely beneficial results through its own advertising, but had furnished the incentive for individual and community advertising by florists all over the country; so much so, that from a conservative estimate made a short time ago, it would seem that about $2,500,000 had been expended in direct and newspaper advertising during last year, the benefit of which was, necessarily, enjoyed widely by florists who did not expect one cent. Was it any wonder, therefore, that the florists' business had kept up when other industries had fallen down under general trade conditions? He instanced the work of the Chicago florists, who in one year had raised $22,000 for publicity.

Asmus Surprises.

Secretary Young here invited Mr. Asmus to give a certain fact regarding the publicity work of his own concern, which is Schiller the Florist, Chicago, which he had incidentally injected into the proceedings of the publicity committee at one of its meetings. Mr. Asmus replied that modesty ought to govern, but he could not object, therefore would say that his house in one year had spent more money for publicity than the entire amount mentioned as raised in Chicago—and it had paid to do so.

Mr. Asmus put in a word or two for national flower shows. The experience of the Indianapolis show had taught him that any town of 200,000 or more population could successfully hold one of these big shows, and he looked forward to the time, and it was not far off, when a national flower show would be held every year.

C. C. Pollworth told of the publicity work done by the Milwaukee florists. He said that the plan of levying an assessment of one per cent on all sales of flowers was working out most satisfactorily; they had increased the levy to two per cent, and were now considering making it three per cent.

Major O'Keefe made one of his stirring addresses, setting forth many examples covering prosperity due to liberal advertising.

A. M. Henshaw, for the Allied Florists' Trades of New York, spoke rather dismally of the uphill work of promoting publicity in New York. While a certain success had been obtained, there had not been anything like the success anticipated, due chiefly to the lack of support on the part of those whom the movement was calculated to benefit. F. H. Traendly spoke in a more hopeful vein, but conceded that a much greater interest must be shown by growers and retailers, if New York was to take its proper part in this publicity movement.

Exhibits.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., showed a splendid vase of the new rose Commonwealth, and the C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., a similar vase of the new rose America. Both exhibitors were awarded votes of thanks.

S. G. Milosy, gardener for George Schlegel, Brooklyn, N. Y., staged three vases of seedling dahlias under name. A decorative variety, scarlet, tipped with white, named Mrs. S. G. Milosy, was awarded a preliminary certificate.

Change of Club Quarters.

President Irwin announced that the present was the last meeting to be held in the Engineering Societies' building. No arrangements had yet been possible providing for permanent quarters, but it was expected that the next meeting would be held in the Hotel Pennsylvania, with a probability that future meetings be held there also. Who can say that there may not develop a monthly dinner or supper in connection with the club meeting, a la Rotary and Kiwanis? Then would materialize the "home" idea of the membership, in so far as possibilities loom up for the twentieth century. J. H. P.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Wauwatosa, Wis.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed by Erwin J. Hamme. The liabilities are stated to be $33,593, while the total assets equal only $15,486.

Chicago, Ill.—In regard to the bankruptcy case of the Western Pottery Co., a notice has been issued that there will be a meeting of creditors at the office of S. C. Eastman, referee. The referee will direct and declare the payment of the first dividend on the claims of all creditors that have been read and allowed. These payments will be made within ten days after the meeting. The receiver will make his final report at this time.

New York, N. Y.—In the case of J. M. Thorburn & Co., bankrupt, a meeting of the creditors took place at the office of Peter B. Olney, referee, October 13. Before that time Abraham Glaser, trustee, had filed his verified final report and the attorneys for the trustee and for the petitioning creditors and bankrupt and the appraisers and accountant had filed their petitions for allowances for their services. These were considered at the meeting, and it was the plan that the trustee sell to the highest bidder at the meeting all the remaining uncollected outstanding accounts. Two dividends have been declared to creditors—one of ten per cent, January 27, and another of twenty per cent, September 11.

Concordia, Kan.—Harry L. Hunt plans to erect in the near future a greenhouse, 10x125, designed for a cool house.

Anaconda, Mont.—The greenhouses of R. M. Greig have been sold by him to J. W. Jackson. Mr. Greig will return to his former home, at Oakland, Cal.

OIL OR COAL; THAT'S THE QUESTION

GROWERS INSPECT OIL OUTFIT.

A Record Gathering of Producers.

The announcement that the Chicago Florists' Club would hold its October meeting, the first since summer, at Niles Center, and would devote the afternoon to an inspection of the oil-burning equipment at the establishment of Stielow Bros., served to bring out the largest gathering of growers ever seen in the Chicago section and probably the largest turnout of greenhouse men ever brought together in the United States. There were one or two retailers, two or three commission men, some oil and boiler specialists, several greenhouse builders, a pot man or two and the scribes, but otherwise the visitors all were growers, ninety-nine and forty-four one-hundredths pure, as the soap ads used to put it. Niles Center is the hub of the big greenhouse region north and west of Chicago. By mid-afternoon, October 5, at least half a hundred automobiles were parked around the Stielow residence and at least 200 thoroughly interested and practical men were giving the place a minute inspection.

The point of greatest interest, of course, was the boiler room. Here is a big building with four Brunswick-Kroeschell boilers, each of a different type and each indicative of the progress the establishment and, indeed, the florists' trade has made. The first boiler was one of the standard type of steel hot water heaters. It is a big fellow, but not big enough, and when more glass was added an 80-horse power steam boiler was set beside the hot water heater. Later a still larger steam boiler was put in, and this summer the latest type of 250-horsepower high-pressure water-tube boiler was installed. The first three boilers originally were fired with coal, but in 1921 were converted to oil. The installation has frequently been referred to in The Review and, as interest in the subject increased, was fully described in the issue of July 20, 1922.

The big new boiler was carrying 100 pounds' pressure. The visitors inspected the installation, peeped through the peekhole at the roaring jets inside and asked questions about it until they had the subject pretty well in mind. It is estimated that the annual consumption of fuel oil for the four boilers, for heating and power, will be about 600,000 gallons of fuel oil. Two storage tanks, a concrete tank below ground and a steel tank above ground, have a combined capacity of 625,000 gallons, so that Stielow Bros. are in position to take in a full year's supply of fuel and to replenish it whenever the market looks right. It is stated that a part of the oil now in storage cost as little as 3¾ cents per gallon, though the present price is around 5½ cents per gallon, and the highest recorded price during the coal strike was something like 15 cents per gallon.

What the Visitors Saw.

In the boiler room the principal apparatus is a duplex steam pump. Duplex means double; one pump is amply sufficient for the work, the other being reserved for emergency. The pump draws the oil from the storage tanks, passes it through a strainer and feeds it to the burners. Most of the visitors had been under the impression that the burner was the principal feature of an oil-burning installation, but R. T. Crane, Jr., the engineer who installed the Stielow outfit, assured the visitors that any of several types of burner tips could be employed and that success really depends upon the combustion chamber. He said it is necessary to protect the boiler with fire brick in order to prevent its damage, though Jerry Brooks, of Morton Grove, who was present, said he has for three years been burning oil under the boilers he formerly used for coal without any change except to install a baffle.

The Stielow burners are of the type known as Atorotary. The pumps bring the oil to the burners and it there is put under the pressure of a steam jet just before it enters the boiler. A steam-pressure reducer is employed because the pressure on the boiler ordinarily is eighty pounds or more (it was 100 pounds during the inspection) and the pressure of the oil when it enters the boiler should be between thirty and thirty-five pounds.

Other Sights of Interest.

But there was much more than the oil-burning system to inspect. The Stielow establishment now consists of fourteen greenhouses, each 36x300. The earliest of these houses were erected in 1911 and they effectually disprove the old-time statement that a greenhouse is a 10-year proposition; they look to be good for two or three times the number of years they already have stood. At the south side of the range stand seven houses built early this year by the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co. They are of the steel-frame type and, while light, are built for permanence. Every piece of iron and steel which went into these houses was first galvanized and they should be almost impervious to rust. The growers noted that instead of hinging the ventilators to the header, as was done with the older houses, in the new range the ventilators are hinged to the ridge.

Of the fourteen houses, thirteen are planted to roses, Premier and Columbia predominating. The south house is in carnations, the plants being in such condition that many of the growers who specialize on this flower were envious and loath to leave the house. Everywhere there were evidences that, while no money is wasted, expense is not spared to provide the best conditions and the best care for the stock. There is a Brunswick-Kroeschell refrigerating machine to handle the room in which the cut is cooled before grading. It is a large room, but it was not large enough to contain at one time any considerable proportion of the visitors who found something specially attractive there.

The Stielow boilers are equipped with the Elgin continuous blow-down boiler cleaner, and a representative of the Reiter Co., of Elgin, Ill., was present to explain how it works to prevent scale forming, keeping the boiler and water continuously clean.

Another device new to most of the growers was the caliscope, by means of which the night man reads the temperature in any house and outside without leaving the service building. Thermoscopes, which are merely electrical thermometers, are located throughout the range, each one connected by copper wires to the caliscope on the pump-room wall. Merely by turning a handle to the proper contact point, the device registers accurately the temperature at any desired thermometer in the establishment.

Step Next Door.

The property adjoining the Stielow establishment belongs to George C. Weiland, and most of the visitors took occasion to step over and inspect his four houses, one of which had been built in the last few weeks. The new house is planted with carnations, the three older ones with roses, most of which are just being started up after their summer's rest. Everything in the place is in good condition. From the Weiland service building half a dozen other greenhouse establishments are in sight, but time did not permit paying them a visit.

Crane and Daleck Talk.

Late in the afternoon the visitors assembled in the Stielow packing shed, where President Joseph Kohout called for order, introducing Mr. Crane, who gave a short talk on the general subject of the use of oil for fuel. What he said is printed in full as a separate section of this article. Mr. Crane was followed by Mr. Daleck, a representative of the Crane Co. His concern is not that of the previous speaker, but the large and well-known one manufacturing valves, pipe and other heating specialties. Mr. Daleck discussed heating in general, without special reference to the use of oil as fuel. He said he is not an electrician, but short-circuiting evidently is his hobby, as he referred to it again and again. He said that when a heating system fails to work satisfactorily the first thing he looks for is some route by which the heating medium, either steam or hot water, can make its way back to the boiler without having traveled through the system along the route intended. He says that time after time he has found that all that was the trouble with a sick system was that in some unexpected and undetected way the steam or hot water was getting back to the boiler without having made its full journey.

Mr. Roberts Tells All About Oil.

Mr. Kohout introduced J. I. Roberts, of Hughes & Co., petroleum dealers, who tried to put into simple language the technical facts concerning fuel oil. He said that the greenhouse trade should begin right by installing equipment to handle low gravity oil. He explained that the constant increase in the demand for gasoline is resulting in a parallel improvement in the processes of cracking the crude oil, with the result that the production of low gravity oil is increasing, that the low gravity oil contains more heat units per pound, as well as more pounds of oil to the gallon, so that there is a many-sided saving in its use. He explained that the equipment necessary to handle the low gravity oil is principally a means of heating the oil before it goes to the burners, and recommended that no plans should be made for using fuel of higher specific gravity than 26 to 30. He recommended 24 to 26. Answering a question, he stated that it is not possible to compare the heating value of oil and coal, because oil varies and coal varies. He stated, however, that the Standard Oil Co. itself, which formerly used a Carlinville coal at one of its plants, found that 130 gallons of fuel oil equaled one ton of that particular coal. He said that it was to be expected that the price of fuel oil would fluctuate with the supply and demand, that it would be affected to some extent by the price of coal, but that the highest price he had ever known for fuel oil would compare with coal at $6 per ton at the mine. He pointed out that the Chicago price of fuel oil at the present moment is almost exactly half freight, the Oklahoma price of the fuel being only a small fraction of a cent more than the cost of freight on it in tank cars to Chicago.

Mr. Roberts pointed out as one of the big savings of oil burning that which comes from the saving of labor. He said that in good-sized places where it was necessary to have two or more firemen constantly on duty if coal is burned, one man is sufficient where oil is used, and that the one man's time is not fully occupied, and he suggested that the fireman might be set to picking the thorns off the roses, or be given some other light task like that, to keep time from hanging heavily on his hands.

Visitors and Exhibits.

There were a number of visitors from outside the Chicago district. Among them were J. W. Davis and O. K. Owen, of the J. W. Davis Co., Terre Haute, Ind., and the manager of their plant department, C. G. Anderson, who is a former Chicagoan; Walter Amling, of Pana, Ill., who has become one of the big men of that town in the short time since he located there; E. W. McLellan, of San Francisco and Burlingame, Cal., who has used oil for fuel for many years, and Earl Mann, of the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind.

The latter brought a display of the new roses his company is preparing to disseminate. Chief of these, of course, was America, the seedling, a cross of American Beauty and Premier, which many consider the triumph of Mr. Hill's many years of hybridizing. None of those present ever had seen such long-stemmed roses or such large flowers in the first week of October, and the quality was all the more remarkable when it is considered that at Richmond there were temperatures as high as 90 degrees in the shade while the buds were developing. The growers also were impressed with the new French variety, Claude Pernet. It is deep yellow, a much yellower yellow than any rose now grown in greenhouses. Some fault might be found with the shape of the open flower and with the thorny stems, but if the rose can be forced as easily as other greenhouse varieties the color will overcome any possible objection. Mr. Mann also had a vase of Amelia Gude, a variety with which most of those present were familiar, as it has been shipped daily to the Chicago market this autumn.

OIL FUEL FOR GREENHOUSES.

[The address of F. R. Crane, Jr., read before the Chicago Florists' Club at the range of Stielow Bros., Niles Center, Ill., October 5, 1921.]

I trust you will pardon me for stating at the beginning that a surprisingly large number of firms and individuals have appeared upon the horizon within the last few months with the assertion and claim, both verbal and printed, that the oil burning system and equipment of Stielow Bros. was installed by them.

In justice to the florists, to Stielow Bros., and to myself, it is necessary to state that Stielow Bros. engaged me as consulting engineer early in the summer of 1921, and solely under my supervision this system was installed. I am authorized by Stielow Bros. to make this statement, and I refer to them for confirmation of same.

Time to Install Oil.

A natural inquiry at this time of the year is, what is the proper season for the installation of an oil burning system? The proper time is at any time. Where there are two or more boilers, one or more may be equipped at a time, reserving ample boiler capacity to take care of the load during equipment, especially if the season is cold. The first boilers equipped are brought to the point of satisfactory capacity before further equipment is commenced.

Do not forget that the moment your boiler is equipped for oil burning, its capacity is increased, making it capable of supplying a larger amount of heat than formerly.

Concerning Burners.

There are a large number of oil burner jet-heads (frequently called burner tips) upon the market, some of which are very fine, notably the Hamel, the Tate-Jones, the Peabody and others which I might name, while others are very poor. We make and use an atomizing burner of the spray type, which is so constructed that it gives the oil the desired "twisting" course as it leaves the orifice, thus combining the advantages of both the mechanical and spray types of burners without the disadvantages of a mechanical burner, these disadvantages consisting of the necessity for more equipment, such as compressors, blowers, etc., and the need for more attention, owing to more complicated mechanism. Our burner is called the Atorotary.

After your oil burning system is installed it is an easy matter, should you so desire, to attach and try any burner tip which you may fancy. We are glad to have our customers try any of the standard burner tips on the market. But as to the actual system itself, this is a straight engineering problem, and experiment with oil burners, especially many of the little sets which are put up and advocated for the use of florists, will only result in disappointment for the florist who attempts to heat his greenhouses with such toys, if indeed he is fortunate enough to avoid losing some or all of his valuable perishable stock of plants. Remember, an oil burning system is to be worked out carefully along professional engineering lines, and can never be properly cared for by some device which might work all right in a flat building or a residence.

Other Equipment.

Other equipment, aside from the actual burner jet-head, including pumps, motors, pipes, valves, fittings, etc., must be of standard make and undoubted quality and performance.

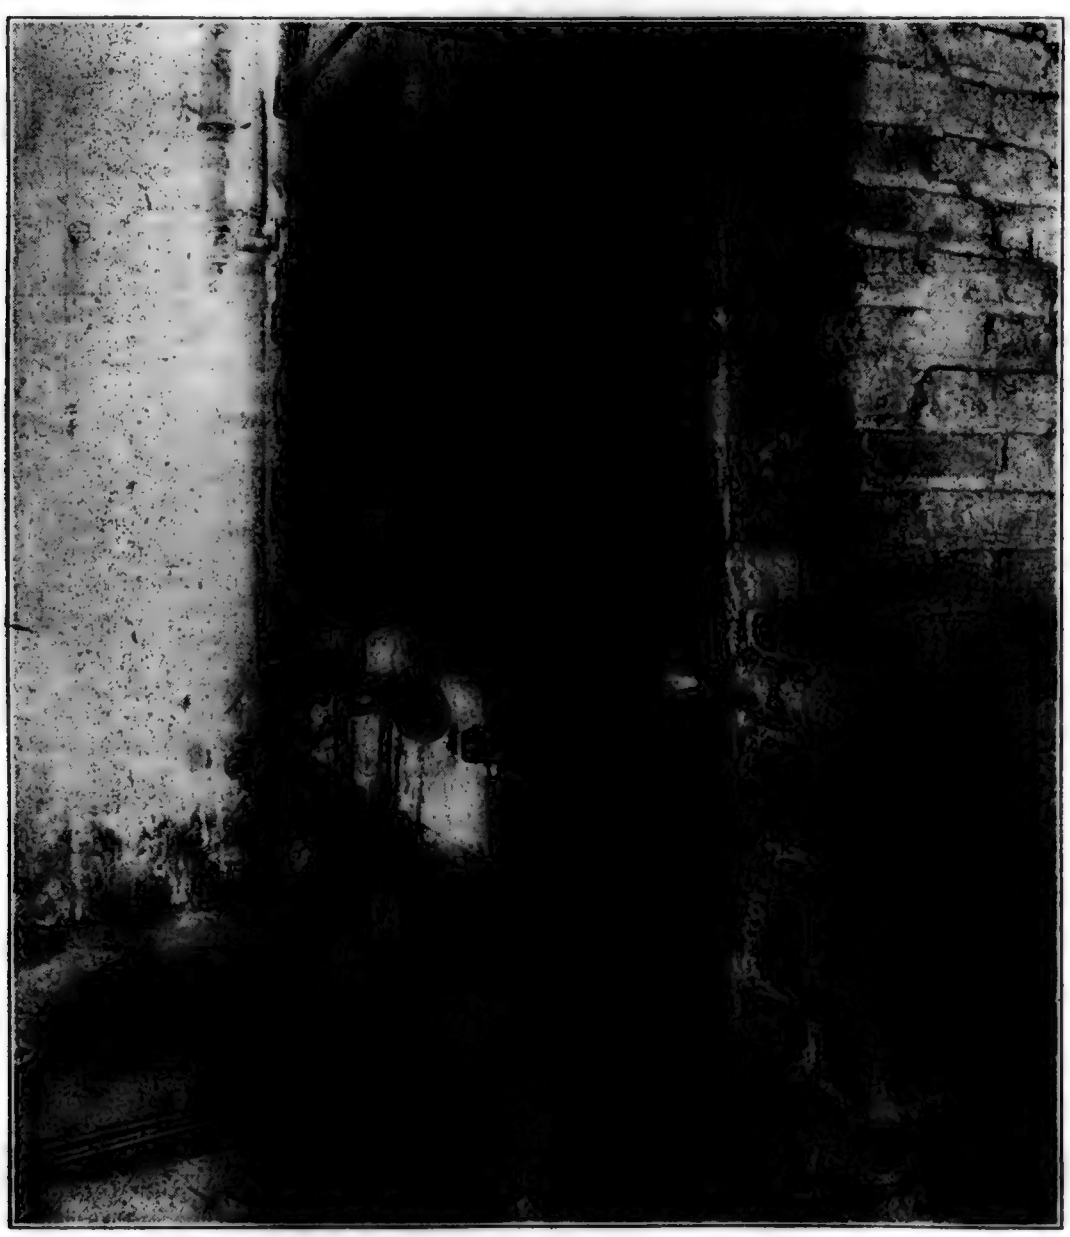
Storage facilities for oil should be equal to at least one-third of the season's supply. The larger the storage capacity, within reasonable limits, the lower your cost of fuel, because you can stock heavily at those seasons when oil is least in demand or lowest in price. Concrete and steel tanks are both good and either will give excellent service when properly constructed. Arrangements should be made for heating the oil to preserve the proper viscosity at seasons when this is necessary.

The Important Feature.

We come now to the most important portion of an installation, the combustion chamber. All other factors may be right, but if your combustion chamber is not such as to use the waste heat, and if it is not adapted to the type of burner used, the results will not be satisfactory. The combustion chamber is an individual engineering problem in every case and all factors must be considered in connection therewith. What you want is not a pretty flame—you want results, proper evaporation and high efficiency, with minimum use of fuel.

Oil burning is not complicated. It is far easier to use than any other fuel, but its simplicity consists in rightness. With standard equipment, carefully and properly installed, you will find by experience its many advantages, among them ease of operation, saving in labor and elimination of dirt about your premises.

Making a Start.



If you have a portion of your fuel supply in and yet wish to burn oil, you can have one or more of your boilers equipped for oil, which will give you opportunity for a good trial, if you are still somewhat skeptical.

I am now installing oil burning equipment at the range of Bassett & Washburn, Hinsdale, Ill. Nine 150-horsepower boilers are used at this range. The system will be similar to the one you see here with Stielow Bros., with the one notable exception that the boilers will be fired from the rear.

In considering oil burning, get down to bed-rock and divest your thinking of all the "bunk" which has been talked and written upon this subject. Technical terms are necessary for the heating engineer to know and use, but they mean little to the prospective user and only divert his thought from the essentials of a good installation. Ask such questions as these:

If there is a sudden drop in outdoor temperature and my plant must be in operation in a very short time and possibly on low pressure, is the system equal to it?

Will the air entering my combustion chamber be so heated that it will not require an undue amount of fuel to get proper combustion?

Oil Burner Installation of Stielow Bros., Niles Center, Ill.

Will the steam (or air) and oil atomize in exactly the right proportions?

Will the oil emerge from the jet-head with exactly the right "twist," without the necessity of a complicated motor-blower-compressor system?

Can I keep an even flow of oil in extremely cold weather? Will my pipes, valves, fittings, etc., be standard and of equal quality to the larger parts of the equipment?

If you are persistent and insistent in your investigations along these lines and will see that your installation meets with these requirements, you can expect and obtain satisfactory results from oil burning.

SHOW AT CAPITAL

DAHLIA SHOW HELD.

By Washington Florists.

Gavel Club hall was filled with choice blooms last week when the Florists' Club of Washington, D. C., staged its first dahlia show. So pronounced was the success of the event that it was immediately announced that a chrysanthemum show would be held at the proper time. Several thousand people visited the show during the two days of the exhibition. A large number of out-of-town people were seen at the show. Some of these were heard to comment that, while there was a scarcity of new varieties in the exhibition, and the number of exhibitors could have been much larger, the show on the whole was creditable. The success exceeded the anticipations of those who were in charge.

Special Features.

Chief interest in the show was in the exhibition made by John M. Root, of Collingswood, N. J. The two dahlias which he exhibited received a great deal of attention. One of these, to be named for his wife, was a yellow hybrid cactus, which took first prize, consisting of a silver medal, at the Bryn Mawr show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society; the other is a scarlet red decorative dahlia to be disseminated next year under the name Henry F. Michell. The large exhibit of W. A. Orton, of the Department of Agriculture, was excellent, and the display of Mount Airy Gardens, in the commercial class, captured a large number of first prizes. Patrick O'Mara, exhibited by J. Harry Ley, was exceedingly good, and this exhibitor won six first and seven second prizes.

Z. D. Blackistone, chairman of the exhibition committee, made a short speech which opened the show. William F. Gude was also on hand to welcome the visitors. J. Otto Thilow was slated as one of the judges, but he was unable to get away from Philadelphia at the last moment. The judging was done by John M. Root, of Collingswood, N. J., and Mrs. Mamie A. Burnett, of Washington, D. C. Mrs. J. Harry Ley was secretary to the judging committee.

It had been agreed that the retailers should not enter the contest, or be given either prizes or certificates, although they were allowed to make a display of their handiwork in the use of dahlias. Among those who made such exhibits were Gude Bros. Co., George C. Shaffer, O. A. C. Oehmler and Z. D. Blackistone. Mr. Oehmler's display was unique, being a bridal shower bouquet made entirely of white dahlias.

The prize-winners were as follows:

Burnett, Mamie A., Washington, D. C.
Clarke, L. M., Washington, D. C.
Hill, H. W., Washington, D. C.
Horner, John F., Rockville, Md.
Jenkins, C. L., Suitland, D. C.
Kesecker, J. H., Washington, D. C.
Ley, J. Harry, Anacostia, D. C.
Mount Airy Gardens, Riverdale, Md.
Orton, W. A., Takoma Park, D. C.
Preston, Mrs. Robert Lee, Leesburg, Va.
Rector, George, McLean, Va.
Rutley, Mrs., Washington, D. C.
Schooley, Charles H., Forest Glen, Md.
Smith, A. E. and L. B.
Stone, W. H., Gaithersburg, Md.

SHORT COURSE AT CORNELL.

In order to assist young men who cannot come to the university for the regular 4-year course, the department of floriculture of Cornell University is again offering a short course in floriculture, covering a period of twelve weeks.

For those especially interested in commercial floriculture two highly specialized courses are offered. One course will consist of a thorough study of the culture of cut flowers and greenhouse plants for wholesale and retail markets. The arrangement of flowers and the methods employed by the progressive florist in conducting his business will also be considered. Greenhouse construction and maintenance of commercial establishments will be dealt with in the second professional course; also location, cost, heating and the drafting of specifications. In addition to these courses, students are required to register for agricultural chemistry, soils, plant diseases and injurious insect pests, all subjects which are of utmost importance in plant culture. The student may also elect courses in gardening and garden flowers, landscape planning and planting or plant breeding.

As in former years, some of the leaders in the profession will be called upon to lecture on special topics while the course is in progress. This work offers a rare opportunity for the sons of florists or those already employed by commercial florists or estate owners and every progressive young man engaged in this wonderful business should realize that he owes something to himself in the way of self-development and knowledge if he expects to reach the top in this progressive industry.

Interest in flower growing, however, is not confined to men engaged in commercial floriculture. There is an increasing demand from amateurs for information regarding the culture of plants to be used in the home and garden. Three courses have been arranged with a view to meeting this demand.

A booklet descriptive of all the courses given during the winter months in the College of Agriculture will be sent upon request by addressing Prof. E. A. White, Department of Floriculture, Ithaca, N. Y., or the secretary of the College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

HANNELL AS HOST

ALBANY FLORISTS' CLUB.

The monthly gathering of the members of the Albany Florists' Club, October 5, was of unusual interest, as it inaugurated, so to speak, the fall campaign and was attended by both old-time and younger campaigners. Held at the W. W. Hannell place, at Watervliet, New York, it afforded opportunity to inspect the stock of holiday plants, cyclamens, oranges, ericas, Begonia Melior and Boston ferns, and all these were unanimously conceded to be of the highest quality. A new storage house, with two others filled with French hydrangeas, pointed to a season beyond Christmas. Carnations consist chiefly of Harvester and Thomas Joy. They are fine. Leading mid-season and late mums are in the same class. Settling down to the main business of the meeting, the fall show, progress was reported and with all members doing their best it is conceded that success is certain.

F. A. Danker, as chairman of the show committee, expressed the pleasure of the club with the liberality of the wholesalers in responding to solicitation for space in the program, which will be a work of art and freely distributed.

Among the takers of booths will be Joseph Traudt, Canajoharie; Henry Eberhardt, Schenectady; A. D. Carpenter, Cohoes, in addition to local retailers. Following the business session, entertainment was furnished by the Hannell family and enjoyed by the guests, who listened with interest to Joseph Traudt, Canajoharie, who recently returned from a European tour that included Holland, which country with its wonderful system of canals interested him. Martin Traudt's eldest son now assists in the business.

G. E. Nagengast invited the gathering to the opening of the new show house, located on one of the principal Albany thoroughfares. Being of the latest construction, it will be an ornament and, undoubtedly, a strong drawing card.

A. D. Carpenter, Cohoes, mentioned that they are rebuilding and will have a modern flower shop. The greenhouses are furnishing the usual high quality of stock.

Fred Goldring gave an interesting talk along general lines. The fine stock of Nephrolepis Norwood, together with chrysanthemums, will be followed with Ball's sweet peas and calendulas.

Edward Tracey, of the Rosery, in his most persuasive manner put forth the claims of the F. T. D., inviting his auditors to join him for the trip to Baltimore.

One of the hardest workers for the coming fall show is Addsum Norman, of Danker's, a recent and highly valued club member.

OIL FUEL FOR GREENHOUSES.

[The address of F. R. Crane, Jr., read before the Chicago Florists' Club at the range of Stielow Bros., Niles Center, Ill., October 5, 1921.]

I trust you will pardon me for stating at the beginning that a surprisingly large number of firms and individuals have appeared upon the horizon within the last few months with the assertion and claim, both verbal and printed, that the oil burning system and equipment of Stielow Bros. was installed by them.

In justice to the florists, to Stielow Bros., and to myself, it is necessary to state that Stielow Bros. engaged me as consulting engineer early in the summer of 1921, and solely under my supervision this system was installed. I am authorized by Stielow Bros. to make this statement, and I refer to them for confirmation of same.

Time to Install Oil.

A natural inquiry at this time of the year is, what is the proper season for the installation of an oil burning system? The proper time is at any time. Where there are two or more boilers, one or more may be equipped at a time, reserving ample boiler capacity to take care of the load during equipment, especially if the season is cold. The first boilers equipped are brought to the point of satisfactory capacity before further equipment is commenced.

Do not forget that the moment your boiler is equipped for oil burning, its capacity is increased, making it capable of supplying a larger amount of heat than formerly.

Concerning Burners.

There are a large number of oil burner jet-heads (frequently called burner tips) upon the market, some of which are very fine, notably the Hamel, the Tate-Jones, the Peabody and others which I might name, while others are very poor. We make and use an atomizing burner of the spray type, which is so constructed that it gives the oil the desired "twisting" course as it leaves the orifice, thus combining the advantages of both the mechanical and spray types of burners without the disadvantages of a mechanical burner, these disadvantages consisting of the necessity for more equipment, such as compressors, blowers, etc., and the need for more attention, owing to more complicated mechanism. Our burner is called the Atorotary.

After your oil burning system is installed it is an easy matter, should you so desire, to attach and try any burner tip which you may fancy. We are glad to have our customers try any of the standard burner tips on the market. But as to the actual system itself, this is a straight engineering problem, and experiment with oil burners, especially many of the little sets which are put up and advocated for the use of florists, will only result in disappointment for the florist who attempts to heat his greenhouses with such toys, if indeed he is fortunate enough to avoid losing some or all of his valuable perishable stock of plants. Remember, an oil burning system is to be worked out carefully along professional engineering lines, and can never be properly cared for by some device which might work all right in a flat building or a residence.

Other Equipment.

Other equipment, aside from the actual burner jet-head, including pumps, motors, pipes, valves, fittings, etc., must be of standard make and undoubted quality and performance.

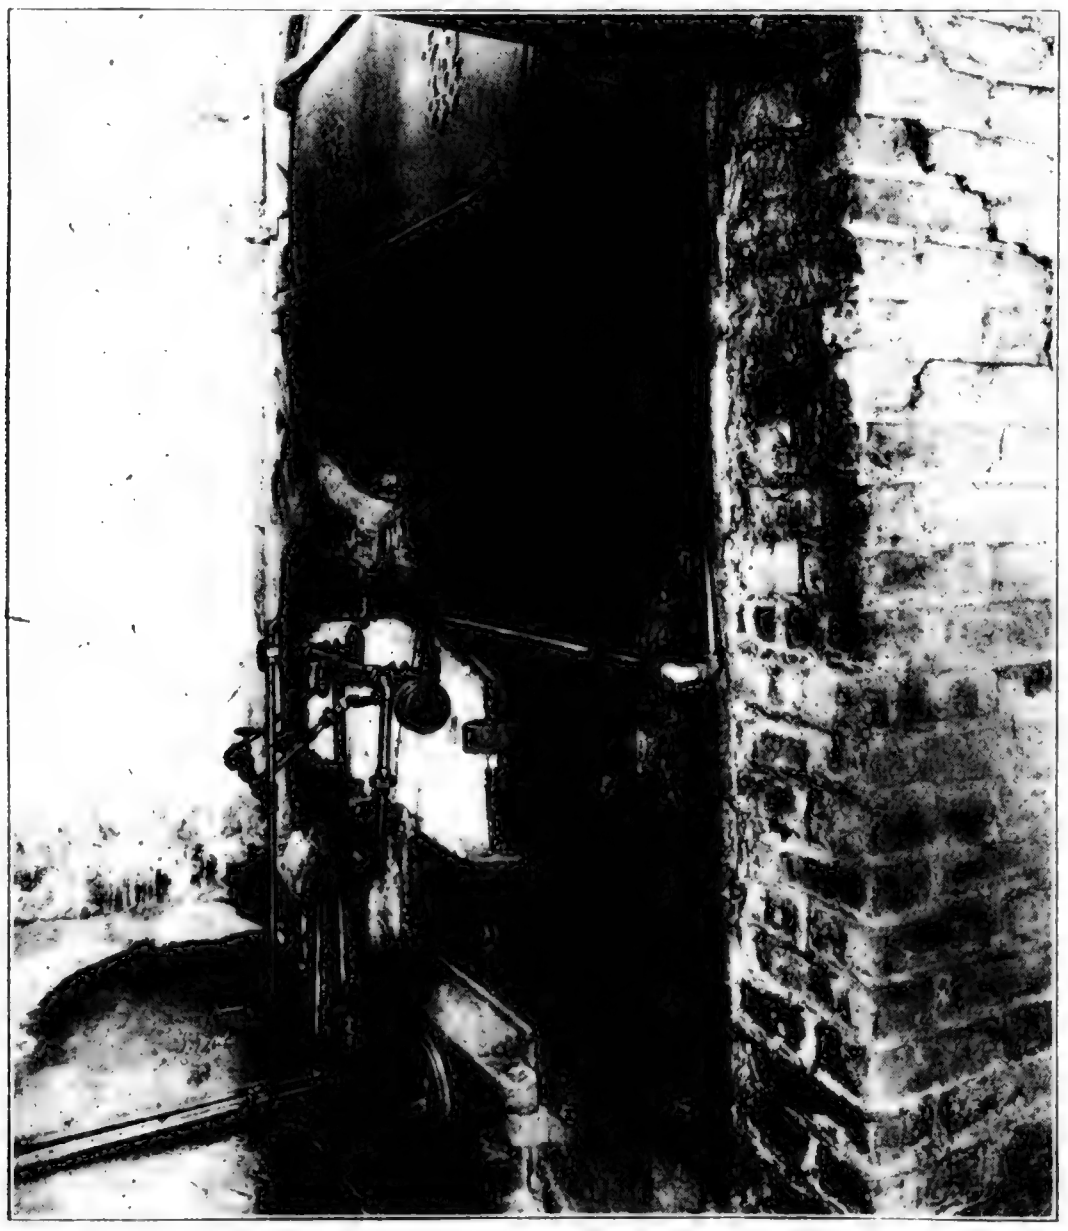
Storage facilities for oil should be equal to at least one-third of the season's supply. The larger the storage capacity, within reasonable limits, the lower your cost of fuel, because you can stock heavily at those seasons when oil is least in demand or lowest in price. Concrete and steel tanks are both good and either will give excellent service when properly constructed. Arrangements should be made for heating the oil to preserve the proper viscosity at seasons when this is necessary.

The Important Feature.

We come now to the most important portion of an installation, the combustion chamber. All other factors may be right, but if your combustion chamber is not such as to use the waste heat, and if it is not adapted to the type of burner used, the results will not be satisfactory. The combustion chamber is an individual engineering problem in every case and all factors must be considered in connection therewith. What you want is not a pretty flame—you want results, proper evaporation and high efficiency, with minimum use of fuel.

Oil burning is not complicated. It is far easier to use than any other fuel, but its simplicity consists in rightness. With standard equipment, carefully and properly installed, you will find by experience its many advantages, among them ease of operation, saving in labor and elimination of dirt about your premises.

Making a Start.



If you have a portion of your fuel supply in and yet wish to burn oil, you can have one or more of your boilers equipped for oil, which will give you opportunity for a good trial, if you are still somewhat skeptical.

I am now installing oil burning equipment at the range of Bassett & Washburn, Hinsdale, Ill. Nine 150-horse power boilers are used at this range. The system will be similar to the one you see here with Stielow Bros., with the one notable exception that the boilers will be fired from the rear.

Technical terms are necessary for the heating engineer to know and use, but they mean little to the prospective user and only divert his thought from the essentials of a good installation. Will the steam (or air) and oil atomize in exactly the right proportions?

Will the oil emerge from the jet-head with exactly the right "twist," without the necessity of a complicated motor blower-compressor system?

Can I keep an even flow of oil in extremely cold weather? Will my pipes, valves, fittings, etc., be standard and of equal quality to the larger parts of the equipment?

If you are persistent and insistent in your investigations along these lines and will see that your installation meets with these requirements, you can expect and obtain satisfactory results from oil burning.

AMLING IS ACTIVE.

E. C. Amling, of Chicago, went to California a few years ago, in the hope of improving Mrs. Amling's health. He had been too active in his business life to sit down to enjoy the climate, though he might, and straightway started several separate businesses in Los Angeles and vicinity. The city wholesale store is managed by his son, Harold. A greenhouse establishment is in the hands of his son-in-law, Mr. Volkman, and Mr. Amling himself looks after a retail store, a big nursery and the development of real estate interests.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Until October 5 the weather continued remarkably hot and summerlike; on that day a shade temperature of 90 degrees was recorded; naturally enough, such remarkable and unseasonable heat had a debilitating effect on the market while it lasted. Roses, especially, suffered, arriving in a full-blown condition in many cases. Carnations and chrysanthemums also suffered. A cooler spell, with some moisture to break the prolonged drought, has proved welcome and has given business a fillip. General conditions are good and a really optimistic sentiment prevails, the easing of the coal situation tending considerably to encourage the growers.

Roses, which suffered somewhat from the hot wave, are now much better and are selling well. Values are not much changed from a week ago. There is a good demand for American Beauties and hybrid teas are also moving well. Golden Ophelia is proving popular and will undoubtedly oust Mrs. Ward, which produces little in midwinter. Crusader as a scarlet, in spite of all criticisms, takes extremely well. We miss the single Irish roses and Cecile Brunners, which used to be popular here.

Carnations are steadily improving, both in length of stem and size of flower; their numbers increase, but the demand is good. Violets are rather more abundant at 75 cents and $1 per hundred. Chrysanthemums remain on the short side and are bringing really good prices. Golden Glow is now virtually over. In its place are Unaka, October Frost, Yellow Frost, Smith's Advance, Yellow Advance and a few others. As much as $4 and $5 per dozen is paid for good blooms. There are some good long-stemmed longiflorums and a fair number of short-stemmed speciosums. Gladioli continue to come in abundantly, but the spikes are small and the end with them is near. The hot, dry weather evidently suited asters, as an unusual number of nice, clean flowers continue to come in, the best making $3. Many small ones move at much lower prices. There are few dahlias seen, but cosmos, annual helianthus, calendulas, helichrysums, bachelor's buttons and larkspur continue to come in. Nice indoor sweet peas in several colors are offered.

In choicer flowers, valley is now of better quality and somewhat more reasonable in price. White bouvardia comes only in small and short-stemmed lots. There are small lots of gardenias only, but cattleyas are much more abundant and prices have softened; most are of the variety labiata. There are some yellow oncidiums also offered. Asparagus remains about the same.

Chrysanthemums have taken their position at the head of flowering plants. Most are of the variety Bon Ton. There are cyclamens and begonias, but no other flowering material. Ferns, palms and foliage plants are abundant and good. Branches of autumn foliage are now being used freely.

At Brockton Fair.

New England's greatest fair is the one at Brockton, Mass., held October 3 to 7. The attendance once more broke all records, being well over 300,000. There were 98,000 present October 5. Horticulturally the fair does not make much of a showing. Frosts had this season destroyed most of the dahlias and other outdoor material. Henry M. Robinson & Co., of Boston, staged some splendid vases of hybrid tea roses, baskets of everlastings, etc. Large exhibits of dahlias of splendid quality came from W. D. Hathaway, New Bedford; F. E. Darling, New Bedford; Carver & Sampson, Brockton; John J. Gurney, Dorchester; W. H. Symonds, Marblehead; Thomas Leavitt, Dorchester; Hayden & Story, Brockton, and T. H. Hughes, New Bedford.

E. C. Amling; California Grandchildren.

Littlefield & Wyman, of North Abington, had a fine display of evergreens in tubs at the entrance to the fruit, vegetable and grange buildings. Braintree Grange won first prize for the finest display from a subordinate grange. Herman Waldecker, the Braintree florist, arranged the exhibit most artistically and supplied the floral decorations. W. N. Craig arranged the large display made by the Massachusetts State Grange. He, with Daniel Whyte and Edward Parker, judged the children's displays of fruits, flowers and vegetables, which filled a large tent. Numerous florists were noted among the visitors at the fair.

Various Notes.

A good-sized party left Boston early this week for the F. T. D. convention in Baltimore. Among those making the trip were: John J. O'Brien, Charles F. Boyle, Elijah S. Gorney, Carl Becker, S. J. Goddard, Henry Penn and Sidney Hoffman.

William H. Elliott Sons Co. has a fine lot of the yellow pompon chrysanthemum, Bon Ton, in flower. These are bushy, well flowered plants. They have over 5,000 pots of mums at Brighton and are still cutting good Kaiserin roses there, in addition to quantities of Asparagus plumosus and A. Sprengeri. At Madbury, N. H., extensive changes have been made, which include a commodious new boiler room, a battery of boilers, coal pocket and large chimney. The huge rose houses, in charge of John S. Elliott, are looking fine at present, with splendid Angelus, Crusader, Columbia, Premier, Mme. Butterfly and Golden Ophelia. The last named is well liked. Ophelia itself has been dropped.

Architects' plans for the new wholesale flower market, to be erected in place of the Cyclorama building, on Tremont street, were submitted to the executive committee of the two wholesale markets October 11. The committee consists of Messsrs. Roland, Peirce, Christensen, Conley, Stickel and Wood. Work will be started as soon as the plans are approved and it is hoped to have the new market ready for occupancy January 1. Nearly 175 growers have already subscribed for stock and laggards should make haste and buy ere it is too late. The site selected is a wise one. The price was moderate and general praise is heard of the new location.

Thomas Roland has finished cutting his large stock of Golden Glow Chrysanthemums. These have sold extremely well. Among roses from his Revere place, Golden Ophelia is good and will displace Ward. Fine also are Columbia, Premier, Double White Killarney, Mme. Butterfly and Crusader. At Nahant the cyclamens are wonderful, as are the oranges. Thousands of young ericas, such as cupressina and persoluta alba, are in flats and they are in lusty health. Erica melanthera in a number of sizes will soon be ready for market.

Welch's, Inc., are busy getting their new, central store, at 95 Summer street, prepared for occupancy and a few more days will see them comfortably quartered. The new site is on the street floor. Edward Welch says he was tired of living and doing business in a cellar. Probably not less than 150,000 people daily pass the new store, which is one of Boston's main arteries and a scant five minutes' walk from the South station. About 200 Cattleya labiata are being received here daily and a fine lot of American Beauties and valley.

Paul E. Richwagen, of Needham, is cutting an extra fine lot of his fine pink snapdragon, Virginia, which is eagerly bought. He also is still cutting remarkably good asters and Lilium speciosum Melpomene.

Members of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club are reminded that the next club meeting will not be held until October 24, one week later than usual.

John J. O'Brien, the well known Beacon street florist, states that fall business is starting up splendidly and he has had a good share of weddings of late, in addition to funeral and other work. He states that F. T. D. orders become a larger factor each year.

The change of management made by the Beacon Florist, Inc., 7 Beacon street, has already brought some decided changes and improvements in the window and show cases. A balcony is being built over the show window for clerical assistants. This firm made a charming casket cover of Ophelias, valley and cattleyas for the funeral of the son of Mrs. Walter Jenney, of the Jenney Oil Co., and also had two weddings at the Hotel Somerset. A superior class of cut flowers is now being carried here and Mr. Eisemann says further improvements are being planned.

Among the annual flowers handled by Mann Bros. are helianthus in eight varieties, which sell well at this season. Everlastings are handled in great number and meet with heavy sales.

At the big pot factory of A. H. Hews & Co., in North Cambridge, business is rushing like old times. The policy of the late A. H. Hews used to be always to have 5,000,000 pots on hand, so that orders could be filled without delay, and the energetic new management hopes to do likewise ere long.

Welch Bros. Co., at 262 Devonshire street, is handling some excellent American Beauties, valley and chrysanthemums and looks for a good season's business. Like all other wholesale houses they face the necessity of moving before long to the new wholesale market section on Tremont street, where Boston's wholesale cut flower center will be on and after January, 1923.

John W. Foote, of Reading, once a noted bouvardia specialist, now devotes all greenhouse space to carnations, geraniums, Asparagus Sprengeri and A. plumosus. His leading carnations are Beacon, Benora, Rosalia, Matchless and Pink Delight. About one-half the greenhouse space is now devoted to asparagus.

S. Gerard Smith, who has been abroad for several months purchasing supplies for Carbone, Inc., is expected home soon. Shipments for some time have been coming on almost every European steamer. Fred W. Pettit, manager of the wholesale warehouse, is at present enjoying his vacation among the New England mountains. Business in all departments is good.

Edward Bingham, of Dedham, is picking an extra good lot of single violets in the fields. He will not house his plants until they have had one or two freezings. In addition to 6,000 Princess of Wales violets, he is growing 8,000 mums and a lot of Zvolanek and Burpee sweet peas.

Henry M. Robinson & Co. are always busy and October 7 all hands were hustling. Business with them could hardly be better, according to Joseph Margolis, and he knows what he is talking about.

The warm spell of weather, which lasted until October 5, encouraged all users of coal and, as householders and others are reluctant to buy, values show a drooping tendency. Immense quantities of both anthracite and bituminous coal, mainly from England, almost block the harbor, and berths to unload it are quite inadequate. A cool snap may cause a change, but just now people do not seem to be the least bit worried over fuel.

The Houghton-Gorney Co. is showing some nice nerines, bouvardia, gardenias and cattleyas. A case in one of their windows, with a wedding party in miniature, properly togged out and equipped with neat bouquets, was well done.

Paul F. Brigham, of Westboro, is shipping in a fine lot of his new pink seedling carnation, Barbara. He also has good Ward, Morning Glow and Benora. In mums a yellow sport of Smith's Advance takes well. There is a marked scarcity of yellow mums at present and many more could be sold.

The Wax Bros. store, at 44 Temple place, now looks first-class, with all improvements completed. The deep windows and handsome mirror effects make a wonderful change.

Prof. Charles S. Sargent, the venerable director of the Arnold Arboretum, has just returned from visits to Rochester, N. Y., parks, the D. Hill Nursery Co., Dundee, Ill., and the proposed new Morton Arboretum near Chicago. This week he leaves for New York on another tour of investigation. For a man 84 years of age, Professor Sargent is remarkably active. Few days elapse when he is not at his desk in the Arboretum Administration building by 9 a. m. and he usually puts in a full day at his desk there.

Louis F. Riemer and His Ladder.

GROWER'S GREENHOUSE LADDER.

Louis F. Riemer, of Morton Grove, Ill., is the inventor of the new greenhouse ladder pictured here. It is designed to facilitate ventilator repairs and provides a safe and practical means of doing this work.

The device consists of two strongly built straight ladders, the shorter of which is hinged to the side of the longer one. To support the workman there is a small platform that joins the two sections when hanging in use. The longer section is hooked over one of the ventilator shafts, with the lower part resting against the side of the greenhouse bench. The shorter section is then opened and hooked over the opposite shafting, and the working platform is adjusted to the position shown in the illustration.

The ladder is put in use quickly, hangs rigidly between the shafts, and provides easy access to the ventilators. When not in use it folds compactly and takes up the same space as an ordinary straight ladder.

One of the important features is that it leaves the aisle between the benches entirely clear and the growers are free to work while repairs are being made.

Mr. Riemer is in charge of repair and maintenance at the Poehlmann greenhouses in Morton Grove, and says there has been an urgent need for something of the kind in greenhouse work. After having given it a thorough trial at the Poehlmann and adjacent establishments, he is bringing it out for general sale. A patent has been applied for.

McCALLUM STAGES COMEBACK.

On the morning of October 1, as reported in last week's Review, the factory and main warehouse of the McCallum Co., north side, Pittsburgh, was destroyed by fire, causing damage to the extent of $150,000. Included in this loss was the entire equipment for the making of baskets. Yet this concern met the situation with a readiness and adaptability that shows what can be done when one's resources are fully tested. Since service was the firm's watchword, it did everything possible to maintain it, and how well the company succeeded is proved by the fact that new supplies were being received within forty-eight hours of the fire and emergency shipments were being made from the Seventh street store. In addition, new temporary quarters were secured and all orders are now being filled with facilities adequate to meet all requirements, fresh new stock being on hand to serve every need of the firm's trade.

The company announces that its service is now going ahead without interruption. Plans are already under way for a commodious new structure to be built on the site of the old one, and preparations have been made for razing the ruins. According to present plans, the new building will be completed by January.

KILLING MEALY BUGS.

Kindly advise me of a remedy for mealy bugs on grapefruit trees and on tomato plants. P. K.—Pa.

A thorough application of carbolic acid emulsion is as good a remedy for mealy bugs as any. The application to the plants is made by spraying them thoroughly. The formula for the emulsion is as follows: Whale-oil soap, forty pounds; crude carbolic acid, five gallons; water, forty gallons. The whale-oil soap must be completely dissolved in hot water; then add the carbolic acid and heat the resulting solution to the boiling point, 212 degrees, for twenty minutes. Put the spray under a heavy pressure, and add twenty gallons of water to each gallon of stock solution used.

DID you ever stop to think that what you really sell is satisfaction?

IF every florist wore a flower in his buttonhole, that would be a start.

THERE is a nation-wide demand for a good white rose. Nothing now available quite fills the bill.

BOSTON ferns seem not so plentiful as usual at this date. They should be excellent property a little later.

WE will say that competition still is the life of trade, as the old saying has it, but coöperation is the source of profits.

To change, or not to change, that is the question puzzling many growers. Should they change to oil or stick to coal?

THE American people in general and florists in particular do not take kindly to monopoly; we all like to deal with large operators, but we want to feel free to go elsewhere whenever we damchoose.

WATCH out for frost and don't get caught with your tender stock unprotected. Although the autumn has been warm, the first killing frost is overdue in the region of the Great Lakes and in other sections.

THE editor's desk and, indeed, the desks of all the staff, have been gay of late with dahlias sent by C. M. Grossman, of Petoskey, Mich. The variety is King of the Autumn, the Indian summer color of which makes it a favorite with both the grower and the editor.

THE meeting of the F. T. D. this week ought to remind you to start your campaign for telegraph orders during the coming season. Use local publicity mediums to secure orders for sending. A card in the Pink Part of The Review will bring you orders from other florists.

THE Associated Press this week sent broadcast a story of the accidental death of "the florist who coined the phrase 'Say It with Flowers.'" We believe a florist is dead; otherwise the story appears to be pure fabrication. Some people may call it good publicity for the trade slogan, but The Review believes untruths always harmful. "If it isn't true, don't use it," is a good motto for publishers, advertisers and press associations.

THE volume containing the proceedings of the first annual convention of the Florida State Florists' Association is as conveniently arranged a book as such a one could well be. It is apparent this new state organization has got away to a flying start and should be a strong body as time passes. Secretary N. A. Reasoner is to be complimented on his work in preparing the volume.

AN addressing concern solicits our order for a list of florists including 12,131 names for $50 and probably others also are asked to buy. The Review has been printing 13,200 copies of each issue and distributes a full-page ad at $37.50 for continuous advertisers. Compare that with the costs of circularizing, which include purchase of names, envelopes, addressing, stamps, typesetting, paper, presswork, folding, inserting, etc.

BULB CONFERENCE CALLED.

A conference to consider the importation of bulbs into this country, some of which are now prohibited, will be held at Washington, D. C., Monday, October 30, at 10 a. m., the United States Department of Agriculture has announced. At the conclusion of the plant quarantine conference held by the department last May, it was agreed that the bulb item under regulation 3 of the federal quarantine should be considered in detail at a meeting to be called in the fall. It is expected that consideration will be given to the status of the bulbs already included under regulation 3 in the bulb item and also to any additions that can properly be made to the list of bulbs open to unlimited importation.

F. H. Henry, of Henry & Lee, New York, was the chairman appointed by Chairman Marlatt to represent the bulb men. And there is a considerable number of importers who are backing him up. About forty-five classes of bulbs are on the petition for importation, which has been sent for endorsement to a number of prominent seedsmen. Among the bulbs that these importers desire are scillas and grape hyacinths.

RAPID SERVICE.

The delivery of flowers by telegraph is a service which, as one looks back, shows rapidity in more ways than one. Speed in delivery is taken for granted; that is the reason for the service. But there has been a parallel rapidity in the growth of this service by florists. The meeting of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association at Baltimore this week reminds one that it has been but a few years since this organization was so frail that some believed its end was near. But the idea of its founder, J. A. Valentine, was too sound a one to be lost by reason of neglect. When the association was really given nourishment and set upon its feet, it gained strength rapidly, until today the organization is one of the strongest in our trade.

It must be borne in mind that many more florists send and receive orders by telegraph than belong to the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, and to appreciate the size of the business done between florists over the wire one must add a round figure to the $10,000,000 which is estimated to be done yearly between members of the F. T. D. If it were accurately known, the total would probably amaze us all, particularly if we recall the fact that this business was practically nonexistent a decade and a half ago. The telegraph delivery service of florists is a development of the twentieth century and this century is yet young. How much it will increase depends upon our own efforts to promote the use of this service by the public.

MAKE IT PLAIN TO THE PUBLIC.

In some respects the florists' business is like the bankers'. No, the answer isn't because there is money in it. The similarity lies in the fact that both sell, primarily, service and, therefore, both believe that a certain dignity is its due. For many years florists were adverse to advertising, just as were our friends, the bankers. The florists have learned to advertise, and the bankers are taking their first steps. New as they are at it, we may take a hint from them.

Bankers have learned that a newspaper advertisement which contains merely a financial statement of the institution's condition is Greek to most of their patrons. Only another banker knows what it is all about. So today bankers are using as much as full pages in newspapers to explain the various departments—the trust department, the investment department, the department for the safe keeping of customers' securities and a number of other divisions of its service concerning which a good many of us knew nothing at all, or if we knew, scarcely understood.

There is a parallel case in our advertising of the telegraph delivery of flowers. Other florists understand what the letters "F. T. D." mean. They know what is meant by "flowers by wire." But the man in the street, particularly if he has never ordered flowers to be delivered in another locality, may believe the letters designate a fraternal organization among us and that the wire refers to the stiffening on the stems of the blooms which his wife received from the florist's establishment. This service we must explain in everyday language and make it clear to those who now know nothing of it, either because they have never heard of it or, hearing, have never understood.

The next time you write copy for an advertisement to appear in your local newspaper about sending flowers by telegraph, read it to the shoe merchant across the street or to the groceryman around the corner, and see if he understands what you are driving at. If he doesn't, write the advertisement again. If you finally are able to put it in such form that one of your friends who knows nothing of this service understands its works from the description in your copy, you will be surprised at the orders which the advertisement brings.

PROFIT BY THIS EXPERIENCE.

If the proof of the pudding is in coming back for a bigger dish, then many of us can gain by the experience of the Zetlitz Floral Products Co., of Dayton, O., like this:

We have no hesitancy in stating that the Classified columns of The Review have produced wonderful results for us, and have assisted us materially in marketing a large supply of stock. We will go into it heavier than ever this year.—Zetlitz Floral Products Co., by E. E. Edgecomb, Dayton, O., September 23, 1922.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising, you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

OBITUARY

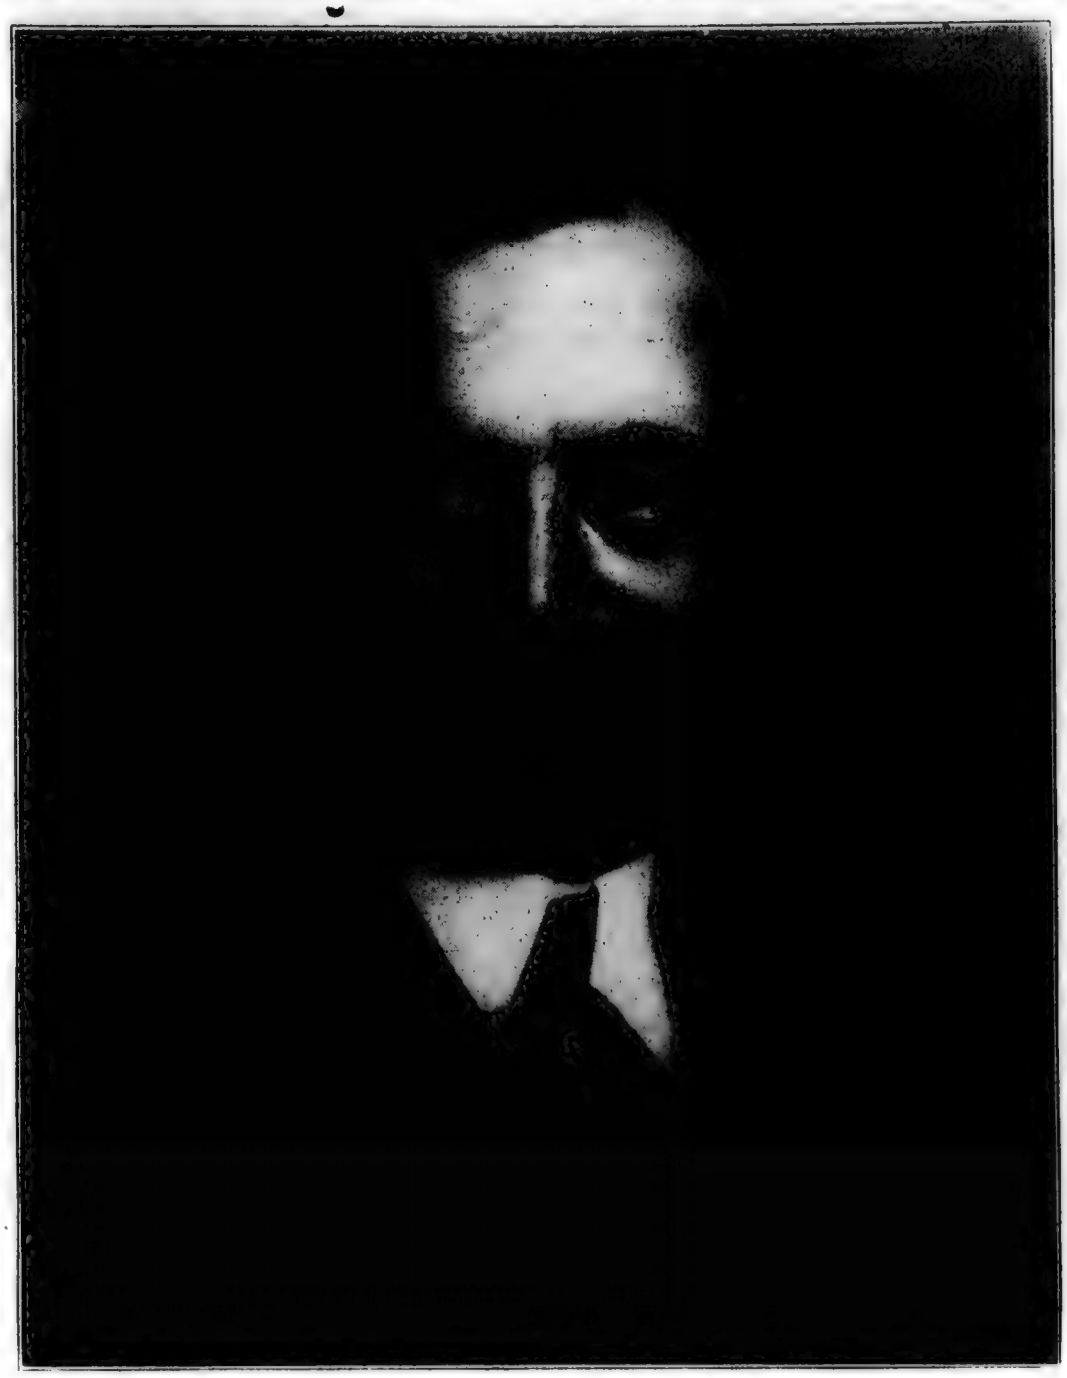
N. P. Lindberg.

N. P. Lindberg, of Rugby, N. D., was instantly killed near Penn, N. D., Thursday evening, October 5, when the automobile in which he and his wife were riding suddenly became uncontrollable and plunged off the bank into the ditch, where it turned over, pinning Mr. Lindberg under the rear wheels. Mr. Lindberg was 57 years of age and was born in Denmark. His parents settled at Faribault, Minn., and he came to Rugby, N. D., in 1899, entering the trade at that city. Mrs. Lindberg was thrown out of the machine and seriously injured.

James Currie.

James Currie, of the firm of Currie Bros. Co., Milwaukee, Wis., died at his home in that city, 2527 Grand avenue, September 26, at the age of 69 years. Mr. Currie was born in Scotland in 1853 and came to the United States when but 19 years old. A year later he made his residence in Milwaukee and was joined there by his brother, William Currie. In 1875 the firm of Currie Bros. Co. was founded.

While Mr. Currie was a successful florist and seedsman, his desires led him into landscape work, particularly as it affected community life. The excellence of Milwaukee's parks is due to his effort more than to that of any other person. In recent years Mr. Currie rendered similar services in connection with the Milwaukee county park system. He was for many years superintendent of Forest Home cemetery, Milwaukee.



Mr. Currie is survived by his widow, and four children, William B. Currie, Mrs. H. W. Brew, Florence and Jean Currie. The funeral services were held at the Calvary Presbyterian church, September 28, with burial at Forest Home cemetery.

Mrs. Lydia Barr.

Mrs. Lydia Barr, one of the best known Mennonite women in the country, died at 1 p. m., Wednesday afternoon, October 4, at her home at Lancas'er, Pa. She had been in failing health for the past year and death was due to infirmities. She was 80 years of age. She was the widow of Benjamin M. Barr. She is survived by two sons, Ellis G. Barr, of East Lampeter, and B. F. Barr, of Lancaster, who is well known in the trade. Mrs. Barr was a great lover of flowers and one who enjoyed the respect of all who knew her. H. K. R.

FRANK X. STUPPY.

In the few years preceding his death, which occurred September 26, Frank X. Stuppy was not seen at trade gatherings so frequently as he had been before the inception of the illness which resulted in his demise. For this reason many members of the trade will be interested in seeing the latest portrait made of him, which appears on this page, through the kindness of Dr. B. W. Murphy, Mr. Stuppy's brother-in-law and secretary of the Stuppy Floral Co., St. Joseph, Missouri, on whose shoulders now rests the management of that great greenhouse establishment.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

As was expected would be the case, the market changed with the weather. The heat in the first week of October was greater than the oldest growers can remember ever to have experienced and it affected the market in several ways: Demand fell off; flowers were forced open and onto the market ahead of time, producing a condition bordering on glut; the quality of the stock was adversely affected. Then, October 6, the weather became seasonable and the same forces began to operate in the opposite direction: Demand picked up; stock shortened up; quality improved.

There is not much more to be said of the market at present, because at this writing no settled condition has been reached. It is too soon to tell what the market will be under the new influences at work, but it is the consensus that things will be somewhat medium for a while. Good business is expected, and average good stock, but no boom is looked for; nothing which will be likely to push prices above a seasonable average. During the first week of October it became increasingly difficult to find good flowers, especially roses, with the result that selected stock for shipping commanded good prices while the bulk of the receipts sold cheaply. Each day since the weather changed the spread between the price of selected stock and the bulk of the receipts has been narrowing, because more of the stock was good and less work was necessary to fill orders.

It is figured that there is little possibility of a rise in the rose market just now. In the first place, large crops are on and have only been checked; a few cool, bright days will provide an abundance of good roses. In the second place, chrysanthemums and pompons are just on the edge of their season; the supply increases daily and the market soon will be able to meet any probable demand, which will prohibit anything but attractive prices for other flowers. The best mums seen still come from California, but they do not seem to be affecting the market as much as they did last year. Pompons are not yet abundant. There are those who believe the local output this season will not be so large as last year, because of the low prices realized then.

Carnations are more plentiful and of better quality. Asters are about gone and carnations are selling fairly well, although there is little funeral work just now. A few good gladioli are offered, but they have ceased to be a market factor. Lilies and cattleyas both are more plentiful; they are being imported. Valley is equal to the demand. Sweet peas were hurt by the heat, but are coming back; before long they will be both plentiful and good.

The green goods situation is quiet.

Coal and Labor.

It is a popular belief that all a greenhouse man has to do is to take it easy while his plants grow and then rake in the shekels. As a matter of fact, however, the growers find themselves beset by constantly increasing difficulties. There was a time when unloading coal presented no problem and made small extra expense. Each season, however, it becomes more difficult and expensive to handle fuel. Licensed firemen won't unload the cars and extra labor must be hired for the work. Nowadays it is hard to get a man to shovel coal out of a car into a greenhouse bin. It promises to be still harder as the seasons come and go. Which accounts for the interest florists take in coal-conveying machinery. Wellworth Farms, at Downers Grove, have had their Fairfield coal unloader in operation for a year. It has proved so satisfactory that both J. F. Kidwell and Rudolph Ellsworth say they would not want to get along without it. The machine will unload a hopper car at the rate of a ton a minute. The shed has a capacity of fourteen or fifteen cars without hand trimming; with a little shoveling to clear the way, the machine will put away eighteen cars a good deal faster than the railroad usually delivers them.

Western Pottery Reorganized.

The Northwestern Pottery Co., with paid-in capital of $70,000, has been incorporated to take over the assets and good will of the Western Pottery Co., which recently was purchased from the receiver by R. C. Mazer, E. C. Blanko and A. W. Bookham, as reported in last week's issue of The Review. Mr. Mazer is president. Mr. Blanko is vice-president and treasurer. Mr. Bookham is secretary and general manager. F. W. Haeger, who is well known in the trade and who has had years of experience in the pot business and the florists' business, has been engaged as sales manager.

The plant of the Northwestern Pottery Co. is at 5250 Norwood Park avenue and is within easy trucking distance of the big greenhouse district northwest of Chicago. It is ideally located with relation to the local market for the product and has sidetrack facilities for taking in its raw materials and shipping the finished goods. The machinery employed is that with which Harry Balsley, of Detroit, manufactured the first round-bottom red pot ever offered to the trade in America and the annual capacity of the plant is said to be twenty-five million pots. The new management hopes to obtain business to keep the factory running at capacity.

Various Notes.

Otto Amling is in Germany.

M. K. Welter is refitting the store at 523 Main street, Evanston, with a new Randall standardized display refrigerator and other fixtures. The spirit of progress appears to have awakened in the classic north shore suburb.

A vase of the new Montgomery rose, Commonwealth, on display in the store of the E. C. Amling Co., has attracted much attention during the last several days.

E. C. Amling arrived from Los Angeles October 7, for a stay of about three weeks, partly for business and partly for rest. He has been unusually busy during the summer with the development of his California interests. Mr. Amling has become a big booster for the F. T. D. since he started his retail store in Los Angeles.

At "Poehlmannville" considerable construction work is being done, including a new packing shed for Plant B and a winter plant storage house for Plant A. There is an unusually heavy call for palms and ferns, excepting 6-inch and 7-inch ferns, which seem to suffer, due to the increasing number of florists who have been growing their own in these sizes. Ed. Wollbrandt, who is shipping clerk at the Poehlmann establishment, has been confined to his bed with an attack of pleurisy, but is expected to be up and well shortly. Walter Poehlmann is featuring a new, bright-red Buick sport. August Poehlmann has been busy in his

After attending the F. T. D. meeting at Baltimore this week, Paul R. Klingsporn will spend a day at his old home in Philadelphia, will give the New York market the "once over" and will look up certain sources of supply down there.

The weather bureau says it is necessary to go back twenty-three years to find as hot a September day as we had this year and the average daily excess compared with normal was 3.1 degrees. There was seventy per cent of the possible sunshine, where sixty-four per cent is normal. The rainfall was 1.35 inches more than normal.

Monday evening, October 2, Mrs. Fisher, wife of S. Fisher, 3655 West Roosevelt road, narrowly escaped death when the porch at the rear of the store collapsed and she fell with it from the second floor to the ground. The extent of Mrs. Fisher's injuries can not be ascertained until her condition permits the taking of X-ray photographs.

Clody's Flower Shop, at 3912 North Clark street, is installing a Brunswick-Kroeschell ice machine.

Richard F. Gloede, Evanston, has placed a contract with the Brunswick-Kroeschell Co. for one of its carbonic ice machines.

Joseph Kohout took three first prizes for roses at the recent Fox river valley fair.

The Allan Humason Co., on Wells street, has begun the manufacture of baskets, intending to compete on quality rather than price.

Nick Dahm, at Niles Center, is busy harvesting up into the millions of gladiolus bulbs. They are on leased land and the property has been sold, so that Mr. Dahm must find a new location for 1923. He naturally wants it near his greenhouses, but the necessary acreage is hard to find. Property along any of the main highways in that vicinity is held at from $1,500 to $2,000 an acre.

The George Wittbold Co. has completed the reërection at Edgebrook of the greenhouses recently removed from the city property to make room for the big new public garage and a 400-horsepower boiler is being installed.

P. C. Schupp received word this week of the death in an automobile accident of N. P. Lindberg, of Rugby, N. D. Mrs. Lindberg was injured. Mr. Lindberg has been a valued customer of J. A. Budlong Co. for many years.

The Maywood florists had a meeting October 10, to prepare for the visit of the Florists' Club November 9. It is planned to make a tour of inspection of all the places in the neighborhood, to serve supper in one of the big service buildings, and to hold the club meeting there afterwards.

The regular meeting of the Commercial Flower Growers of Chicago will be held at the Hotel Sovereign, 6200 Kenmore avenue, corner of Granville, October 19 at 6 p. m. sharp, when supper will be served; members and their ladies, no charge. evening, and to bring an exhibit of his new roses. The Montgomery rose, Commonwealth, also will be there.

Business has not been half bad with the retailers. Edwin Mallinson says the season seldom has opened better at Fleischman's, the first cool days bringing a rush which returned promptly after the passing of the recent heat wave.

Peter Pearson and the florists' committee were at the meeting of exhibitors at the Uptown Chicago Exposition, held at the Edgewater Beach hotel October 10. All the plans for our trade's participation in the exposition have been completed. Mr. Pearson says there are assurances of enough exhibits to make a successful flower show, but that there will be an enormous attendance and that everybody is invited to put in some flowers. The dates of the show are October 16 to 21.

Visitors.

Fred Foltz, a well known aster grower at Petoskey, Mich., with Mrs. Foltz, was a visitor on the market October 7.

Frank Sauerwald, proprietor of the Colonial Flower Shop, Pueblo, Colo., was here October 7 on his way to Baltimore for the F. T. D. meeting. Baltimore was Mr. Sauerwald's old home town and this is his first return in fifteen years.

A. Rynveld, New York bulb merchant, has been here for several days.

With sample plants in a taxicab, C. G. Anderson, of the J. W. Davis Co., Terre Haute, Ind., spent a couple of days in Chicago last week and went home with a well filled order book.

Blissfield, Mich.—D. E. Stover has gone into the florists' business. He has purchased a house, 18x60.

The Market.

Business locally has been brisk generally and all lines of flowers are improving in quality. Roses are good at prices ranging from $6 to $12 per hundred for first-class stock, while the flowers with shorter stems can be had at from $2 to $4 per hundred. In the specials, Hoosier Beauty roses with long, stiff stems and excellent flowers readily brought $15 per hundred. Columbia, Butterfly, Premier, Dunlop and Double White Killarney are among the best varieties at this time. They are well received in the best grades. American Beauty roses made their appearance during the last week. Not many were offered, but $6 per dozen was readily obtained for the stock.

Carnations are improving in quality and length of stem and some of the best sold last week at $6 per hundred. The shorter grades, which, of course, predominate, can be had at $2 to $4 per hundred. A few good Laddie were brought into the market by some of the local growers.

Lily of the valley is much more plentiful now than it has been, but the supply is said to have been disposed of daily at about $8 per hundred sprays. Some of the best brought as high as $10 per hundred sprays. Orchids are selling at from $1 to $1.50 each and are good.

Among the best mums are Golden Glow, Unaka, Early Frost and Donatello. Some of the local growers expect to cut heavily on high-grade chrysanthemums during the coming week, for a large supply of excellent Chrysolora and Fire, which raged for more than four hours, threatening an entire block in the Manchester district, early yesterday morning destroyed a four-story brick building at 1805 and 1807 Beaver avenue and caused damage estimated at $150,000.

One fireman was injured and several others narrowly escaped hurts when the roof of the burning building, from which they were fighting the flames, collapsed, crashing through the third floor to the second.

Three alarms were sounded bringing out all fire-fighting apparatus on the North Side.

Starts in Paint Shop.

The fire started in a paint shop located in the rear section of the second floor. The building, occupied by McCallum & Co., manufacturers of florists' supplies, was stocked with combustible material and when firemen arrived the flames had spread to the third and fourth floors.

From the Pittsburgh Papers, Oct. 2.

Within 48 hours after destruction of the McCallum Factory and Warehouse new quarters were secured and service resumed!

A SERVICE that takes years to build cannot be destroyed in an hour. Our factory and warehouse gave way to the flames—but our resources remained—and our determination to keep serving our trade with the least inconvenience and delay! Within 48 hours we were housed in new, temporary quarters, while negotiations were already under way for the immediate construction of a new building on the former site.

Supplies were arriving in response to overnight telegrams—emergency orders were being filled from our Seventh St. quarters and our customers experienced little inconvenience.

Order Now—Our Usual Service Guaranteed

Fresh, new stock on hand to fill all orders for Fall or Early Christmas needs—you have our guarantee of the regular standard of McCallum service and fair prices! Better order now—take no chances on traffic delays! Watch for our Xmas folder out soon!

NOTE: We wish to take this opportunity to thank our competitors for their kind proffer of assistance when they heard of our misfortune.

Snow Queen, among others, is in sight.

Owing to the continued drought, local dahlias are not of the quality they should be. Prices range from $2 to $4 per hundred for ordinary varieties. Some "extra specials" came into the market last week, which brought from $6 to $10 per hundred and met with a fairly ready sale for choice make-up work.

Violets have put in an appearance and Princess of Wales and Governor Herrick offered last week by local growers were good, considering the time of year. The price is $1 per hundred. The supply of gladioli is not so heavy as it has been, but this is not noticeable in a market overrun with dahlias. The prices range from $4 to $10. The demand is expected to strengthen as the supply of dahlias lessens.

Some early snapdragons of good quality have made their appearance in the local market, bringing from 50 cents a bunch for ordinary quality stock up to $6 per hundred for choice spikes. It is to be had in bronze, white, pink and yellow.

A. B. Carrick Killed.

Forced from the road in an effort to avoid collision with another automobile, the machine in which Arthur Benjamin Carrick, an employee of Gude Bros. Co., and several members of his family were riding, was overturned near Hughesville, Md., October 8, and Mr. Carrick was almost instantly killed.

Mr. Carrick, at the time of the accident, was accompanied by his wife and their daughter, Lenore; Mrs. Carrick's mother and sister, and George Brady, of Seat Pleasant, Md., who was driving the car. Mr. Brady and Mrs. Carrick's sister were severely injured and were taken to Washington hospitals for treatment. Mr. Carrick's death was directly caused by fracture of the skull.

For several years employed in the flower store of the Gude Bros. Co., Mr. Carrick left his employment when the United States entered the war and September 28, 1917, enlisted in the army. For about six months he served with Company B, Infantry 325, in this country, and was then transferred to Company I, Infantry 313, and April 25, 1918, was sent to France. While in France, he took part in battles at Toul, from June 26 to August 6, 1918; Marbache, August 15 to September 11; St. Mihiel, September 12 to 16, and the Argonne, September 26 to October 15. A few days before the armistice was signed, Mr. Carrick, as sergeant in charge of a score of men, was gassed and captured by the Germans. After his release from Germany, he was sent to Camp Meade, Md., and was discharged May 8, 1919. He was given an honorable discharge, accompanied by a certificate of excellent character.

Mr. Carrick was 27 years old. He is survived by his wife and their daughter, Lenore.

Various Notes.

Edwin N. and Edgar R. Gude, the twin members of the firm of A. Gude Sons Co., have returned from a short visit to Atlantic City, N. J.

A. Gude Sons Co. has just increased its lines of supplies by the addition of a large stock of florists' baskets. A display of samples of these is being made on the second floor of the building occupied by this firm at 1318 Eye street, northwest. Railroad delays operated to hamper the stocking up of the supply department, but it is stated that this worry is now over with and the firm is in position to give ready shipment to all supplies and sundries that may be required by their customers in the trade.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The first week in October proved unsatisfactory in the cut flower market. It was even hotter and drier than the week before. There was a big supply of stock and, while there was plenty of life in the business, the supply was greater than the demand. Prices declined. This was especially noticeable on dahlias, the fancies going at from $1 to $2 per hundred, while the whole list of varieties declined in proportion.

The complaints were numerous on dahlias, owing to the heat and the four weeks' drought, which, fortunately, was broken by rain, but no other flower gives the brilliant autumn shades like the dahlia, so, with better conditions, better results will come.

Chrysanthemums have been scarce, but with the arrival of Tints of Gold and Unaka, the much needed bronze and pink have come to help the yellows and the whites.

It has been too hot for carnations.

Roses are quite plentiful. They sell, but not at good prices. The wedding flowers have been a disappointment. Orchids have declined in price and valley is overabundant. There are a considerable number of sweet peas and some snapdragons. Pompons have come. Everything considered, the market is fair.

Something Startling.

Those who were not at the annual meeting of the Florists' Club October 3

ROSES

We are at the beginning of a new season, and we would like to interest you in making regular shipments of Roses to you every week.

It is quite an advantage to look for your supply where there is a big supply to draw from.

During the coming season we will be particularly strong on:

RUSSELL PREMIER
COLUMBIA BUTTERFLY
OPHELIA GOLDEN OPHELIA
AARON WARD MAYBELLE
McDONALD LEGION
DOUBLE WHITE KILLARNEY
CECILE BRUNNER
HADLEY RICHMOND

Quite often during the season Roses are scarce and hard to get, and if you have a regular order on file with us, you have a better assurance that you will be supplied at a time when others cannot get sufficient flowers to meet the demand.

were surprised when they read the names of the officers elected at that meeting in last week's papers. They were satisfied with the list of officers. It is a good one, but they didn't know exactly how they got it. It happened in this wise. The secretary read a letter from the nominee for the presidency saying that it would be impossible for him to serve, greatly as he appreciated the honor. The leaders were in a quandary. They did not wish the highest honor in the gift of the club to go begging. They must elect a president and a good one. They decided that there was no time for delay. Instantly a fresh nomination was made and seconded. The chair ordered that the nominations close and that the secretary immediately cast one ballot for the nominee for president, which was done, and he was declared duly elected. During this remarkable proceeding, the floor leaders sat with their mouths firmly shut and a look of grim determination on their faces. They felt that the end justified the means. They were after a good man and they were going to have him at any price. The price was that they broke their by-laws, which provide for nominations in September and an election in October. In discussing the matter after adjournment, the floor leaders felt that the club had done the right thing in a difficult situation.

Mr. Klinger's Withdrawal.

There were two nominees for the office of secretary of the Florists' Club to serve for the coming year, Robert Kift and E. P. Klinger. Mr. Kift has served his club loyally for many years. Mr. Klinger was put up by those who thought that his work as chairman of the house committee deserved recognition. His declining to run was a keen disappointment to them. They thought that it savored of "After you, Alphonse," and they thought that it was for the members to decide whom they wanted. The club's future usefulness depends on whether men of ability like Mr. Klinger are willing to stand for office.

The Baseball Season.

The baseball season just closed by the Florists' League has been a pronounced success. The games have given pleasure to a large number of florists, both as players and spectators. It has brought us all closer together and we had some good sport. The floral world owes a vote of thanks to Alfred M. Campbell, who so generously gave the cup, emblematic of the league championship, and to all the workers who did so much to make the contest a success.

The deciding game for the cup was played at Sixty-third and Spruce streets Sunday afternoon, October 8, when Bayersdorfer defeated Bickmore 9 to 7. The decisive point came in the seventh, when the Bayersdorfer first baseman made a home run with two men on base. There was a large attendance. The merchant prince was there to cheer his team to victory.

Various Notes.

Charles Henry Fox conferred the freedom of the city on all F. T. D. members who called upon him October 9.

Recent visitors included A. Pritchard, of Gude Bros. Co., Washington, D. C.; John L. Horn, of Allentown, Pa.; James H. Fox, of Milwaukee, Wis.; George Cooper, of Denver, Colo., and Commodore John Westcott, of Waretown, N. J.

Loyd Reid and Robert B. Bragg visited Chester county October 4. They called on J. H. Thompson & Son, of Kennett, where they saw fine roses. They also called at both Palmer places, where they saw splendid carnations and mums. They saw at the Thomas W. Bayliss & Son place, at West Grove, a fine lot of mums of exhibition quality.

William J. Young, Jr., has reappeared with some good late asters sent from his place at Linfield to Charles E. Meehan.

J. Fred Leary has a gorgeous window of autumn leaves at the Ritz-Carlton store of J. J. Habermehl's Sons.

Gustave Koethe has planted his new place, at Secane, with snapdragons, calla lilies, sweet peas and calendulas. His first crops will probably be carnations and chrysanthemums. He has 3,000 fine White Chadwick.

Bridesmaids' bouquets are being made with dahlias and chrysanthemums in rich color combinations that vie in brilliancy with autumn shades.

The Market.

The market is still keeping pace with the weather. After twenty-five days of perfect weather, temperature in the 80's much of the time and no rain, hopes were heightened by heavy showers at the week-end, but they have been dispelled, and Monday, October 9, saw a resumption of the ideal weather to which we have grown accustomed. It would appear that nothing but chilly and home-keeping weather would change things. It is certain that not until we have had a killing frost can conditions in the wholesale cut flower markets improve. Asters are hanging on, and some really fine flowers are seen here and there. Dahlias, in all grades of quality and color, are severely in evidence, and supersede almost everything else when ward, and dahlias 5 cents each for the top-notch quality, down to a guess for the minimum. The chrysanthemums are faring pretty well, considering conditions. A few pompons and singles are coming, with sales up to 50 cents per bunch, but the offerings are only mediocre in quality.

Roses are plentiful in all the usual varieties; so much so that after the morning demand is satisfied much stock is left over. American Beauty is increasing in quantity, but there is no increase in the demand for it; consequently, prices are unchanged.

The supply of carnations is increasing, and some of the arrivals can claim quality. Prices remain about the same, $3 per hundred for the best, with a few selected flowers bringing $4 per hundred.

Cattleyas are a little too plentiful for the demand, and sales generally are made at $50 to $100 per hundred, with low grades down to $30 per hundred. A few oncidiums are arriving. Gardenias are scarce, but the quality of such as arrive is poor.

White lilies are much on the scarce side, and prices keep up to last quotations. Valley is in good supply and meets with a fair demand.

The tail end of outdoor-grown stock is something to be reckoned with. Cosmos arrives in avalanches, and much goes to waste.

Totty Opens New Yrok Store.

Monday, October 9, saw the opening to the public of the new retail store of the C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., at Fifty-third street and Fifth avenue. The store, in both layout and equipment, is fully in line with the handsome stores of other merchants to be found in this section of Manhattan, and "The Chief" is to be congratulated upon an entry into retail businessdom under conditions creditable to the florists' trade. The store quarters are 120 feet deep, and about one-third of the depth has been set apart for working quarters and office facilities, the latter because a New York office has become more than a necessity for the greenhouse and field business. A triple-door icebox, mirrored and tiled within, is admirably situated.

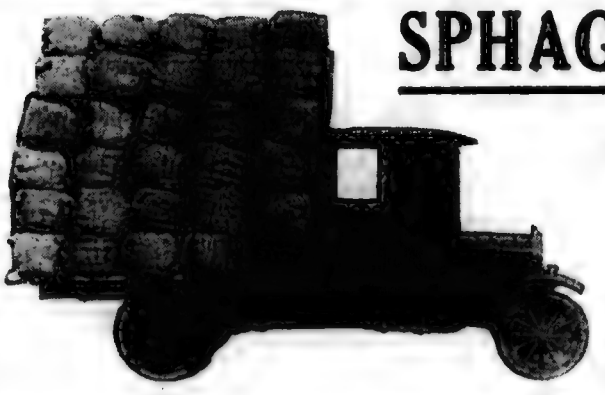
BOSTON, MASS.

In color scheme, the decorations harmonize well with the service table tops of black onyx. The walls of the store are treated in Caen stone finish. It is needless to say that the opening stock of flowers was rich in quality and rare in variety, and in its arrangement the touch of the manager of the store, Mr. Deal, formerly of Campbell's, Montreal, was reflected. The show window is large and up-to-date in design. Under the store, and running the whole length, is a basement, all cement finish, and admirable for storage and other purposes.

Miss S. A. Hill and Mrs. F. H. Zemon, of Richmond, Ind., have been guests of Mrs. C. H. Totty, at Madison, for a few days.

Various Notes.

The national publicity committee went into session early on Monday morning, October 9, at the administration office of the S. A. F. Henry Penn, chairman, of Boston; George Asmus, of Chicago; C. C. Pollworth, of Milwaukee; Major P. F. O'Keefe, of Boston, and S. S. Pennock, president of the S. A. F., were present. H. D. Brookins, of Buffalo, was present. The latter was representing the Allied Florists' Association of Buffalo. A proposed conference with representatives of the different allied associations was postponed, to take place in Baltimore, at the F. T. D. meeting.



Mrs. C. C. Pollworth, of Milwaukee, came on to New York with her husband.

"Omit Flowers," is the title of a sketch by Montague Glass, to be produced at the Punch and Judy theater November 9; probably preparing for its own obsequies.

The Ahrenstedt Nurseries, Inc., has acquired the greenhouse range in White Plains, N. Y., formerly operated by the late James W. Smith, at Fisher avenue and Orawaupum street, and will conduct it in connection with the nurseries established at Central avenue. A retail florists' business will be conducted, with a nursery and landscaping department.

J. H. P.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co. are pleased that their West Eighteenth street store has, so to speak, taken root in the heart of Manhattan. They say that New York florists are ordering and are ordering in a way most encouraging.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE NEW WRIGHT FERN?

THE RETAIL STORE

A PAGE OF HINTS AND HELPS FOR THE RETAIL FLORIST

A FLAG OF ASTERS.

As long as patriotism and the many occasions founded on that national sentiment remain inherent, flags will be popular and flags in flowers will be in demand as those occasions arise. Retailers who receive orders for floral flags may be helped by the illustration on this page.

George Bros. & Co., New Kensington, Pa., made the flag of asters, which, by the way, are fine for this purpose because of their quantity and consequent low price and because all the colors needed can be obtained in these flowers. The flag in this illustration is 4x6 feet and contains approximately 5,000 asters. Made on a Saturday, it was still in good condition the following Tuesday. It was made as a window display and created a considerable amount of favorable comment.

WINDOW'S COST ITS SALARY.

We should like to have you give us some information on advertising. For instance, let us take these figures: If a store is doing $45,000 worth of business in a year, what per cent of it do you think the firm should spend on advertising? Also, will you give us the rating on a store doing $75,000 worth of business? Do you include the expense of decorating your window in the amount that you use for advertising?

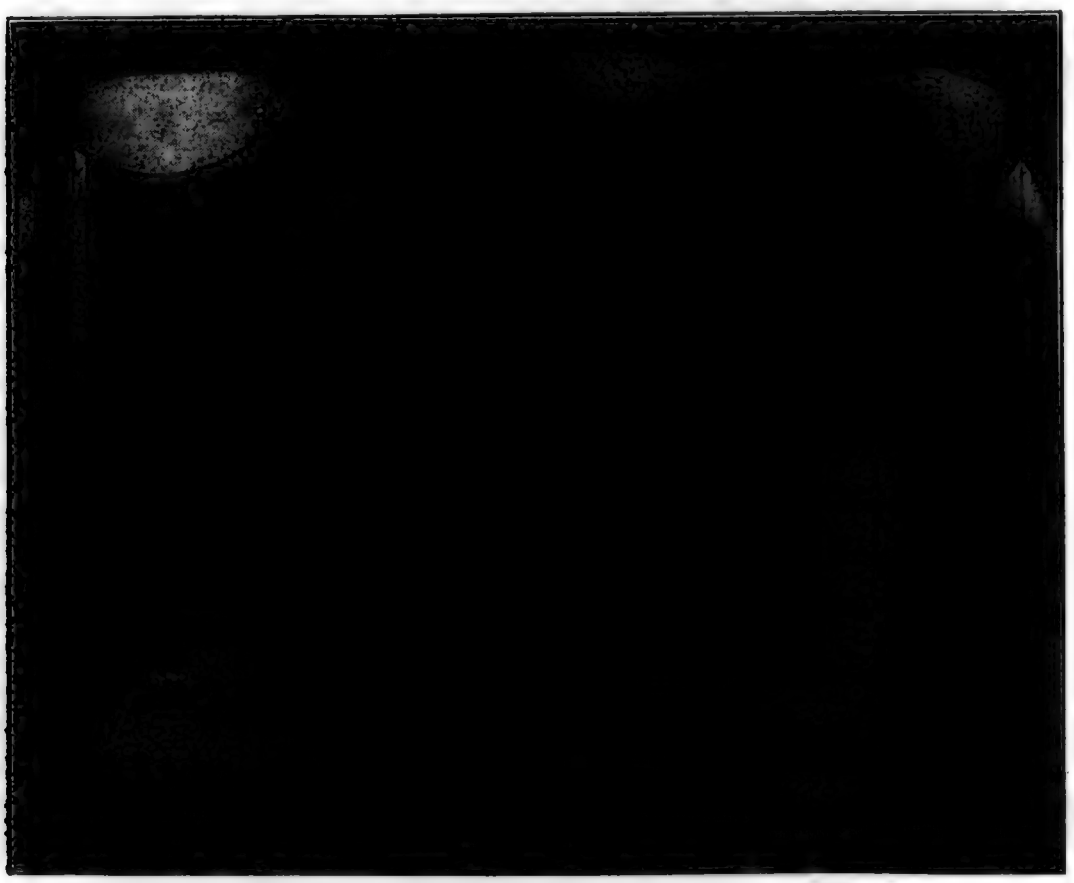
M. F. C.—Utah.

Irrespective of the amount of business, the percentage devoted to advertising should always be at least five per cent; only where a chain of stores is concerned, the percentage can be decreased considerably, if all the stores are advertised under a like name.

The window decorating should not be charged against advertising. It should be charged to selling expense, considering that your window is a salesman and that whatever your window eats is salary you are paying for selling the goods. It is up to you to train your window so that it will be a good salesman and satisfied with a small salary.

Max Schling.

SYSTEM FOR CHRISTMAS.



What system do the larger retail stores use in handling Christmas orders? Is there a special order book ruled for the requirements of the retail florists? At Christmas there is always a certain amount of confusion caused by late orders and the usual Christmas jam.

F. B.—Can.

The question as to the system larger retail stores employ in handling Christmas orders is incomplete. You should specify whether you want to know, in handling Christmas orders, about booking and filing or filling and delivery.

There are different types of order books, standard forms of which can be used in any business. There are no ruled order books in the market which will take care of any amount of confusion caused by late orders or Christmas jams. To take care of both confusion and jam, you have to inaugurate the right kind of method and the right kind of system.

REMEMBERING FATHER.

Why forget father? Especially when we remember mother on Mothers' day. This thought has occurred to many live wires and, with the selection of October 8 this year as a suitable date, a prominent newspaper syndicate started advertising. And here and there throughout the country appeared advertisements from many merchants of many different kinds of merchandise. And florists played a major part in the advertising. For, although father will never probably be as popular as mother, still there are many who would like to give father a thought in a material way once in a while.

Herbert A. Stone, who runs Stone's Flower Shop, at 4720 Irving Park boulevard, Chicago, believes in father and thinks that his customers should do so. So, when the Weekly Bulletin, the local newspaper, appeared, October 6, it carried a large advertisement of Mr. Stone along with many advertisements of other lines, all talking things for father October 8. Not only did the paper run the advertisements, but it gave a part of a column to the subject of Fathers' day and ran a large bold-faced line across the bottom of the front page, saying, "Celebrate Fathers' day October 8."

Herbert Stone, reporting on his success with Fathers' day, stated that he found mostly girls and women who remembered their fathers with flowers and that enough responded to increase his profits for the day tremendously. Mr. Stone believes that florists should get busy in order to make the day a florists' day. There is a chance for keen competition from other merchants. Why not a Fathers' day?

LIABILITY FOR NEGLIGENCE.

Owners of florists' shops are favorably affected by the decision of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial court in the late case of Pickett vs. Waldorf System, Inc., 136 Northeastern Reporter, 64, concerning the liability of the proprietor of a business establishment for injury inflicted upon a pedestrian through negligence. The case arose on injury resulting from plaintiff's slipping on a sidewalk in front of defendant's place of business at a place where a window-cleaning company's employee had negligently permitted water to accumulate and freeze. But the same principles apply where other work is done by an independent contractor, as where a plumber makes a sewer connection, or a building contractor undertakes repairs, etc. The court says:

"The governing principle of law is well settled. The owner or occupant of a building who has used due care in selecting and agreeing with an independent contractor to do lawful work is not responsible to third persons for the

The reason for this rule is that liability is sought to be fastened upon the defendant for negligence. Negligence is the performance or the omission of some act in violation of legal duty. The defendant did not by itself or its servants or agents do the act of which the plaintiff complains. There was no negligence on the part of the defendant in making a contract with the City Window Cleaning Co. to wash its windows regularly. The defendant had no power to enjoin or restrain the methods to be used in executing the contract. The contract was such that if carefully and properly performed no harm would result to anybody. It was not a natural consequence of cleaning windows that there should be ice on the adjacent sidewalk. The negligence which caused the plaintiff's injury was a mere detail of

A FLAG OF ASTERS.

As long as patriotism and the many occasions founded on that national sentiment remain inherent, flags will be popular and flags in flowers will be in demand as those occasions arise. Retailers who receive orders for floral flags may be helped by the illustration on this page.

George Bros. & Co., New Kensington, Pa., made the flag of asters, which, by the way, are fine for this purpose because of their quantity and consequent low price and because all the colors needed can be obtained in these flowers. The flag in this illustration is 4x6 feet and contains approximately 5,000 asters. Made on a Saturday, it was still in good condition the following Tuesday. It was made as a window display and created a considerable amount of favorable comment.

WINDOW'S COST ITS SALARY.

We should like to have you give us some information on advertising. For instance, let us take these figures: If a store is doing $45,000 worth of business in a year, what per cent of it do you think the firm should spend on advertising? Also, will you give us the rating on a store doing $75,000 worth of business? Do you include the expense of decorating your window in the amount that you use for advertising?

M. F. C.—Utah.

Irrespective of the amount of business, the percentage devoted to advertising should always be at least five per cent; only where a chain of stores is concerned, the percentage can be decreased considerably, if all the stores are advertised under a like name.

The window decorating should not be charged against advertising. It should be charged to selling expense, considering that your window is a salesman and that whatever your window eats is salary you are paying for selling the goods. It is up to you to train your window so that it will be a good salesman and satisfied with a small salary.

Botanical Society Meets.

The fifteen acres of ground now forming the Botanic Garden of Washington is not sufficient area for a botanical garden worthy of a national name, according to P. L. Ricker, of the botanical division of the Department of Agriculture, in an address last week before the Botanical Society of Washington. Mr. Ricker expressed the hope that the Mount Hamilton area, which has been proposed as a site for the new botanic gardens, would be secured, declaring it to be the most feasible choice to transfer the present gardens, as the plant families, numbering about 300, could be fairly well represented. On fifteen acres, he said, sufficient representation could not be given. The speaker contrasted the area of the Washington garden, which is among the smallest in the country, with those of South America, where, he said, there is hardly a botanic garden

The Market.

The return of midsummer weather last week caused shipments to suffer considerably at the various wholesale markets. The weather had its effect also on mums, carnations and violets, which need much cool weather to put them on edge.

Last week the supply was daily equal to the demand, and there was little surplus in the best grades of stock. The short hot spell hurt the transient trade of downtown retailers.

There was a great call for fancy orchids all last week for society events. The market opened October 2 at $200 per hundred and dropped later to $150 per hundred. There was a good supply and the demand cleaned up orchids well daily.

Roses are fine and the supply is large in all the leading varieties, with Premier, Columbia, Butterfly and Ophelia having the call. White Killarney, Golden Ophelia, Ward and Milady are the next in favor, in the order named.

Carnations are not at their best as yet, but improvement in color and stem is noticed daily.

The supply in cut mums is increasing daily and some splendid blooms were noted at top prices last week. Valley and Easter lilies sold well all last week.

Dahlias are not nearly so plentiful as they have been in former seasons. Gladioli have seen their best days for this season. However, a considerable number arrive. Cosmos and single tuberoses are among the other outdoor stock arriving.

The supply of greens was equal to the still holds the honor of being the oldest active member of the Florists' Club. He has missed only three meetings in his thirty years' membership.

W. H. Kruse furnished the floral decorations in the Coliseum for the Veiled Prophet's ball, October 3, and they were highly praised. Mr. Kruse is chairman of the decoration committee of the St. Louis Flower Show Association.

August H. Hummert and L. Jules Bourdet were the judges last week for the school exhibition. The exhibition was in charge of Prof. H. C. Irish, assisted by Frederick Mueller.

The St. Louis Association of Gardeners had an attendance of fifty at the meeting October 4 in the municipal greenhouses. After a short business session, over which Vice-president Moritz presided, there was an entertainment, and refreshments were served.

Vincent J. Gorly, Julius Schaeffer and Fred C. Weber are in Baltimore attending the annual meeting of the F. T. D. J. F. Ammann, of Edwardsville, Ill., is also in attendance.

Young's, the Florist, Inc., has installed two new automobile delivery cars of the Dodge type. The firm's new store, at Taylor and Delmar, is nearing completion for the opening, October 14.

F. H. Weber furnished the floral decorations for one of the season's largest wedding orders last week. Two more weddings have kept Mr. Weber from attending the F. T. D. meeting.

L. Baumann was born in 1876, and celebrated his forty-sixth birthday October 7. Mr. Baumann is serving his third term as trustee of the Florists' Club.

At the florists' bowling, October 4, the surprise of the evening was the defeat of the strong Violet team by the Roses in all their games. The Orchids won two from the Carnations and the Daisies won two from the Sweet Peas. The roses are now heading the league by a small margin of one game. J. J. B.

MONTREAL, QUE.

The Market.

The sudden rise in temperature last week brought an abundance of roses to the market. This was satisfactory to the florists, as they were able to secure their cut flowers at moderate prices.

At last one can see signs of business picking up. Practically all the florists report that their sales are beginning to increase. Previous to last week, practically all the business done by the retail trade was in funeral work and wedding decorations. Garden flowers are now becoming scarce and, consequently, the people are beginning to turn to the florists for their flowers.

Various Notes.

C. W. Main, of Amherst, Nova Scotia, was a visitor last week. Mr. Main states that heavy frosts have killed all the garden flowers up his way.

James Fraser, of Prescott, Ont., paid some of the Montreal florists a visit last week.

Miss Bourgeau, who was formerly employed at the store of Miss L. Tracy, has opened a store of her own at 1154 St. Denis street.

The Misses Milford, of Sherbrooke, were visitors at Montreal last week. They report that business has been exceptionally good for them this summer.

ily Monday, October 2. Mr. Reid states that the business will still be run under the name of Hall & Robinson. Mr. Reid is not a stranger to Montreal, as his wife comes from here, and he has spent several of his vacations at Montreal.

Several desirable alterations were made last week in Miss Proulx's store, on St. Catherine street, east. The inside has been repainted and a counter, which ran the length of the store, has been removed, giving much more space and making the store look exceedingly attractive.

Last week Mr. Jerome opened a retail store at 686 St. Denis street. This makes two new stores that have been opened in the last few days in that neighborhood. Mr. Jerome is a newcomer to the florists' trade.

September was an extremely busy month for Ley & McAllan. Besides having an abundance of funeral work, they had three or more weddings each week. Many of the weddings were large church affairs. Mr. Wilson spent practically the whole of the month away from the store, decorating for these weddings. October is starting out just as auspiciously for this firm as did September.

McKenna's, Ltd., furnished extensive and elaborate decorations for the Montreal closed car show held last week in the Craig street Drill hall. For the decoration of the hall McKenna's used three dozen bay trees, four dozen kentias, four dozen boxwoods, two dozen aucubas and many other plants. Besides this they had fifty vases of flowers, which were changed each day. The decorations were probably more elaborate than for any other similar show held in Montreal.

The business of C. J. Hill and John Eddy & Son, on Sherbrooke street, west, was handicapped last month, owing to the street being torn up in front of their stores. The Street Railway Co. has been laying new tracks, which has resulted in the detouring of all traffic in that section. M. A. C.

late crop of gladioli was ruined, while some delphinium and other stock suffered the same fate.

The general run of business has been about the same. There has been little indication of frost, the weather being extremely hot for this time of year.

Columbia and Premier roses have been in great demand, with the supply not nearly adequate. Ophelia is another favorite. There have been plenty of White Killarney and Ward. Carnations have been clearing fairly well, but until they are better in quality it will be impossible to dispose of all of them. The great trouble with the carnations at present is that they will hardly keep over a day or so.

Dahlias are now flooding the market and it is difficult to move any but the best stock. Easter lilies are still in great demand, and are bringing as high as $3 per doz. Valley is moving steadily for weddings. Mums are not arriving in large enough quantities to count much in the daily business. Some exceptionally fine asters made their appearance the latter part of last week and moved readily at good prices.

Various Notes.

The monthly meeting of the Florists' Club was held Monday, October 2, with an attendance of about twenty-five. Several important questions were brought up. One question was the establishing of some means of abolishing the "over-night" stands which spring up at every holiday in all localities and hurt the business more or less. The other held beginning November 6. Special mum displays will be made at each place of business. The florists will advertise the week coöperatively. To stimulate attendance, a numbered ticket will be given each visitor in all the stores until sometime during mum week, when a drawing will be made. The customer holding the lucky number will receive, without charge, a dozen choice mums.

The membership of the club, consisting of heads of firms or members of firms, now numbers twenty-seven. Effort to adopt a uniform scale of palm rentals was without result, due to the widely varying customs of the different florists present.

Jones recited, Mrs. W. A. Wallace played and Mrs. Calvert sang and added much to the enjoyment of the evening. Afterwards Mrs. Anshutz and Mr. Hoffman, with the assistance of a number of members, served ice cream, cake and a most delicious home-brewed punch. A well deserved rising vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Anshutz and Mr. Hoffman for their thought and trouble.

The election of officers for the next year was the main feature of the business part of the meeting. Glowing tributes were paid to the retiring officers: Irving Greshem, president; F. V. Jacobs, treasurer, and Ralph Deans, secretary, the "daddy" of the Florists' Club, to whom the inception of the club is due and to whose untiring efforts the club is indebted for its successful start. In a graceful speech, Jacob Weinstock presented gold gifts of remembrance to each retiring officer, who suitably expressed his appreciation of the thought. However, no greater tribute could be paid than the continued prosperity of the club, whose efforts to grow under the old officers survived many discouraging periods.

The nominations committee, Mrs. L. C. Anshutz, Messrs. Hoffman, Murphy, Russell and Stallings, made their recommendation of E. A. Wackendorff for president. Rollin Lyons, he of the happy smile, was chosen for vice-president. Samuel Gibbs, dplimat and all-around good fellow, was chosen for the secretary's office, notwithstanding his earnest effort to dodge the job. The equally earnest effort of every member present to drown out Mr. Gibbs' pleas was successful. J. S. Hulme was chosen treasurer. The secretary was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot of election and the president and secretary took over the duties of their positions.

The motion to change the name of the club to the Atlanta Florists' Club was voted down.

Nine new members were elected and many new applications were received and referred to the membership club.

Various Notes.

The F. T. D. drew many of the members from Atlanta. Miss Chance left early for Chattanooga, where she will join the other delegates from Joy's Nashville and Chattanooga branches.

Ralph Deans and F. V. Jacobs, of Dahl's, left Sunday, October 8, in order to be on hand early and catch any unwary member, and Mrs. Anshutz and Logan Thompson left Monday, October 9.

J. L. Hoffman found his duties on the entertainment committee so exacting that he has reported on the sick list. Clairemont Gardens are shipping large quantities of roses.

C. J. and Mrs. Wackendorff are entertaining the latter's mother from Louisville. Mrs. Neurer's name will be well remembered by the older florists around the Louisville section.

Stallings' Flower Shop is making changes in its store, adding a balcony and enlarging its workroom.

Buford Brown, of Joy's downtown store, has recovered sufficiently to be able to sit up and enjoy his birthday, October 7.

Efforts are being made by several of the florists to get every man in Atlanta to wear a flower every day in the year. The advertising will be large and at the same time will stimulate interest, create a large demand and revive a former custom that has been relegated to the past. We have Mothers' day and almost every other kind of a day, but poor "dad" seems to be neglected. Joy's have even gone further by giving away to the employees of the principal stores in the retail district a red rose. With every employee in the stores wearing a opening of school. Fall parties at school have already started, making the outlook in trade of this nature splendid. There has been an unusual number of society weddings, demanding elaborate decorations and bouquets.

Various Notes.

The coal prospects are much brighter. Most of the florists have part of their supply, while others have commenced hauling.

New interest is taken in display windows, and many of them are most original and attractive.

C. H. Frey is cutting an abundance of Cecile Brunner roses. His American Legion roses are fine reds.

J. K. Hiltner is cutting early yellow chrysanthemums, the first on the local market. The quality and color are good, but they are not so large as some of the later varieties.

Chapin Bros. have cut an unusual number of American Beauties for the early season. The quality is good and they bring a good price for this time of year.

Frey & Frey are cutting many of their new Frey's Fragrant violets. This variety is a sport of the variety California and resembles Governor Herrick. The stems are of good length and the large flowers are of dark color and exceedingly fragrant.

The first calendulas on the market were grown by the Eiche Floral Co. These have long stems and are good-sized flowers. M. L. C.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

The weather has been delightful during the last week, but business has been slow. Except for the few weddings, trade would have been exceptionally quiet. Garden flowers are still plentiful and, until there is a shortage of outside stock, it is not probable that conditions will be flourishing with the florists.

Flowers are plentiful and much surplus stock is being sold on the streets at low prices. These include quanti-colored metal flower stands were also in prominence.

"Business," says Edwin P. Wilson, of H. E. Wilson's Main street store, "has not been up to its usual standard, but promises to be good, by the general outlook." Their beds of mums at the greenhouses are in excellent shape and the crop will be heavy.

McGregor's, of Chamberlain street and Grand avenue, have just received a splendid shipment of beautiful bowls and vases from England. The colorings and shapes are much out of the ordinary, and undoubtedly will meet with a ready sale.

Horace J. Head, who was a passenger on the Majestic from Southampton to New York, reached Rochester Wednesday, October 4, after a 6½-week visit in England. H. J. H.

The statement in The Review for September 28 that the Sullivan greenhouses, at Lyndonville, were the establishment of George B. Hart was incorrect. The houses belong to Thomas Sullivan.

HARTFORD, CONN.

Employees Enjoy Banquet.

On the evening of September 18, Everett P. Jones, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his connection with Cadwell & Jones, gave a big surprise party and chicken dinner with all the "fixins" at the Hotel Bond to all the employees of his store. Marion Denison, member of the firm with twenty-nine years of continuous service and others who have been with the firm seventeen, fifteen, ten and from two to ten years, respectively, were present and a pleasant evening was spent. Reminiscences of the old days were discussed, prior to 1915, when the new six-story building was erected, the most up-to-date seed and agricultural warehouse in the east.

It would be hard to believe that only a few years back farmers drove up to the old three-story buildings and tied their horses to hitching posts, selected such tools as hay rakes, etc., set them up on the walk in front of the store and, tying them on the back of their buggies, hauled them to their farms.

After partaking of the well prepared dinner, all those present got into waiting automobiles and journeyed to Schubert's theater, where seats were reserved.

Various Notes.

S. T. Willard, of the Comstock-Ferre Co., Wethersfield, Conn., recently visited Chicago and reports onion sets of a fine, high grade this year. Sweet corn at this place is rapidly being harvested and is of the finest quality, due to the mild weather of the month of September. Tomatoes are only a fair crop here, due to the rainy season during the summer.

ker acted as host, while sports and feasts composed the program for 175 employees at an outing and sheepbake at Goodwin park Sunday afternoon, October 1, as a wind-up event at the close of the summer season. The sheepbake was prepared by Robert Parker, manager of refectories. Judging by the opinions expressed, the party was an exhilarating climax to the summer work and a better boss than Superintendent Parker would be hard to find. An event of this kind is held each year and the esprit de corps among employees of the department produces fine team work throughout the year, officials say, which is attributed to some extent to the friendly feeling cultivated by such events as this one.

There were twelve clear days during September, two more than the total partly cloudy days, and only five rainy days, to make amends for the excessively rainy summer. September 19 there was a light frost and September 26 a heavy one occurred. There were three thunder storms during the month of September. The total rainfall for the month was 2.06 inches, which was less than last year's total of 3.21 inches.

Roy Thomson, with his new Hudson, and Joseph Coombs, in his sedan, with a large number of Hartford growers, visited Samuel Goddard, at Framingham; Nelson's, at Framingham; Butterworth's and Howard's, at Milford, and returned via Putnam, visiting Andem's there. Included in the party were Andrew Pullar, N. Osborn, Mr. Cawte and

The Market.

This section of the country was visited by a heavy rain storm last week, and outdoor flowers are on the decrease, except dahlias, which are shown in the various store windows. Asters and herbaceous flowers are off the market for this season. Carnations, mums and roses will take their place. Carnations have been plentiful for this time of the year and are of fair quality. Mums are arriving from California daily and are making their showing at the stores of the various retailers. Business is holding its own in comparison with that of the latter part of the month of September.

Oregon State Fair.

The floral exhibition at the Oregon state fair, held last week at Salem, Ore., was unusually large and attractive this year, causing the competition to be exceedingly keen. The exhibits were staged in the Horticultural building. The whole center of the building was taken by the various exhibitors. Considerably more space was used than in previous years, and this gave an opportunity for more elaborate arrangements. In the plant collection some well grown stock was staged. The cut flower exhibits were fully up to the standard of previous years. Through the able supervision of J. Forbes, F. A. Van Kirk and the various florists and nurserymen who took part in the exhibition, it proved to be a grand success. The prices were as follows:

Collection of greenhouse plants—Clarke Bros., first; Rahn & Herbert Co., second; Wilson-Crout-Gehr Co., third.

Collection of ferns—Wilson-Crout-Gehr Co., first; Clarke Bros., second; Rahn & Herbert, third.

Carnations—Fred Wiedeman, first; Fred M. Young, second.

Best floral basket—Holden's first; Clarke Bros., second.

Various Notes.

G. Bjorkman, foreman for the Hollywood Gardens, was a recent visitor. He also attended the Oregon state fair.

J. B. Pilkington returned from a business trip a week ago to California.

J. A. Wilson returned home from an extensive trip to the east and the middle west. He reports that the greenhouse stock on the Pacific coast is equal to that grown in the east and middle west.

W. Wood, of Lents, Ore., has sold his greenhouses to L. Kallender, formerly connected with the Robinson Floral Co.

Several large shipments of Dutch and Japanese bulbs are arriving in this city and, according to other years, are one month ahead this year.

The Tonseth Floral Co. received a shipment of supplies recently, and reports that its greenhouse stock is coming along in good shape.

A good deal of enthusiasm is shown in the Oregon florists' bowling team. The team is playing the different city teams at the present time, and by the first of the new year the team expects to

Flowers are plentiful and prices are reasonable. Some beautiful dahlias and roses are being delivered. Florists' Review

508 S. Dearborn St.

Chicago

MEMPHIS, TENN.

Business is only fair. Outdoor flowers are still plentiful and the supply is more than the demand by a great deal. The supply of dahlias is enormous, and at the curb market they are selling at from 25 cents to $1 per dozen. The weather has been ideal for them for the last ten days and, with a good rain October 5 and the cool nights, there should be a large crop.

The Berclair Greenhouses are erecting a No. 2 Lord & Burnham greenhouse, 42x150 feet, and it is now ready for the glass. The house is planted with mums. This firm has a fine lot of cyclamens for the coming holidays.

Olaf Johnson is erecting a Foley iron-frame greenhouse, which is about completed. Its size is 32x150 feet. A good stock of mums was seen here; these are showing some good colors.

Albert A. Johnson is building an addition to his place. The house is a Moninger wooden-frame structure, 21x100 feet. Mr. Johnson has some fine stock of roses and dahlias.

Idlewild Greenhouses are building an addition to their range. The house is a Foley iron-frame structure, 20x70 feet.

The Buchiganani Peonia-Dahlia Gardens have a fine lot of dahlias. They have a good lot of seedlings, which measure over twelve inches.

The Cartwright Floral Co. had the decorations of the Woman's building at the tri-state fair, using Jackson vine and paper flowers. George Koen has taken an interest in the firm and they will handle shrubs of all kinds, as that was Mr. Koen's line of business before joining the firm.

The Memphis Plant Co. has an immense stock of fancy dahlias. The firm will have about 5,000 cut flowers per day. The stock consists of more than 275 varieties. The canna field of this firm consists of two acres. The cannas here are full of bloom at this time.

The Jacob Schulz Co., of Louisville, had a display of dahlias at the fair, and was also taking orders for bulbs.

The City Municipal Gardens had a fine display of plants in all of the buildings and also the grounds were laid off and planted. The fair grounds belong to the city parks. C. L. B.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

Prices were lowered to some extent last week. The weather was warm for October and stock was plentiful. Roses suffered from the heat. Fine dahlias are coming to the market and find ready sales. Home-grown mums are being cut, but only in small quantities by a few growers. The full crop will be on in a few weeks. Numerous shipments of California mums are being received in good condition. The blooms add variety to the home stock.

Priests of Pallas Week.

Priests of Pallas week was revived by the business men and the committee that had charge of the festivities in previous years. This festival was a regular feature of the opening of October for about twenty years. About ten years ago it was discontinued. With its return this year, many persons came from all parts of Missouri and from nearby states and the affair was a great success. The stores were beautifully decorated and the finest wares were on display the entire week. The Priests of Pallas parade was given Tuesday night, October 3. Fifteen handsome floats were in line. The following night the Priests of Pallas ball was held in Convention hall. Thursday night the

The Alpha Floral Co. decorated the show windows of fifteen stores for Pries's of Pallas week. Kline's windows were the most elaborate. and mums, and some art flowers and grasses. Evening gowns and wraps and the newest creations of women's apparel in brilliant hues were displayed amid the flowers.

M. E. Carter, of the W. L. Rock Flower Co., made a handsome wreath of celosia, which was sent to the F. T. D. meeting at Baltimore. The wreath was made of the pale shades of celosia, with a large cluster of the deep red on one side and a bow of dark blue ribbon.

Mrs. Walter Oberg and little daughter, Augusta, are visiting in California.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Ackerson are building a $20,000 home near their greenhouses at Can Horn road and Northern boulevard. The house is of Carthage stone, with a red tile roof. Interior work is being done and the place will be ready for occupancy by Christmas.

Mrs. Mary Brown, formerly with the W. L. Rock Flower Co., is now with the William Miller Floral Co.

Samuel Murray's October business, thus far, has been better than the average for the early part of the month.

Miss Clara Paschal and John A. Brown were married Wednesday morning, October 11, in Holy Name Catholic church, Rosedale, Kan. Mr. Brown is a member of the greenhouse force of the W. L. Rock Flower Co.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 roses are being shipped daily from the Isherwood Greenhouses, at Pleasant Hill, Mo.

The Rosery had orders for four blankets recently. One was made of 200 Butterfly roses, 400 lilies of the valley, 400 asters and fifty strings of smilax. This order was duplicated for the second funeral in the family for which the original blanket was made.

Bryson Bowen, bookkeeper and cashier for the T. J. Noll Floral Co., was the victim of a pickpocket the night of the Priests of Pallas parade. While waiting for the parade at Twelfth and Main streets he was robbed of his pocketbook.

Use It With Flowers!

The Royal Fern

Childhood days in the country. Peaceful and happy days they were, and we thought little about life's struggles just ahead as we roamed the fields and woods and gathered the pretty wild flowers with their delicate odors.

And the cultivated flowers are also the handiwork of God; it could not be otherwise.

FLOWERS! Tho' but atoms midst immensity, they are something fashioned by the Creator's hand!

hope of ever reaching land. The storm lasted about fourteen hours. Ninety-five of the passengers and about half of the crew were ill, as a result. This was Mr. Kusik's first visit to Europe in eleven years. Conditions in that country, he says, are exceedingly unsettled. In Germany the business houses are open only two or three hours a day, due to the fact that prices are changing constantly. If stocks are replaced, they cost more, so the merchants prefer to hold their goods. Mr. Klaus visi ed the flower show in Berlin. This show lasted the entire month of September and preparations had been under way for months before. It was worth the entire trip to witness the show, Mr. Klaus states, as it was one of the best ever given. Stock of all kinds is good, outdoor flowers in particular. J. E. K.

The Market.

The coming in freely of the local mums adds much to the attractiveness of the stores and markets and so far growers have obtained satisfactory prices. A number of growers continue to handle pompons and the local demand for these is fairly good. Some are shipped out, but in a great deal of the territory served by Los Angeles these pompons are grown locally; consequently the demand is light. Some excellent gladioli continue to bring good prices for the growers, while dahlias are also selling freely. Few growers are handling the pretty anemone types of dahlias, so fine for basket work, and some of those who are growing them have not given them the care they need. When well grown, they are beautiful and sell well. Roses are improving, while orchids, valley, sweet peas and similar flowers are about equal to the demand. An exceptionally heavy call for funeral work for several days kept the market and the wholesale houses on the jump and cleaned up stock in good shape. Retailers say that their patrons are returning from the seaside and other places and that business is showing a healthy increase.

Various Notes.

The Southern California Flower Market has taken a long lease on the land at 747 Wall street, and a modern building is to be erected there for the purpose of a flower market. The present market at 421 Wall street is too crowded at all times. This further extends the wholesale district, which will now reach from just south of Third street to south of Seventh and from Los Angeles street east nearly to San Pedro street.

Charles E. Gutting, Ernest Braunton and S. Lundy visited San Diego last week, as judges at the fall flower show there.

George J. Hall has been on the sick list for a few days and is now coming to the store for an hour or two in the morning, resting up afterwards. His brothers, Ed and Gus, are both on the job, keeping up with the shipping business, which has greatly improved of late.

Gardenias from the greenhouses are arriving in fine shape at Wright's Flower Shop, and the demand is big.

A. J. Ault, of the Huddart Floral Co., Salt Lake City, was a visitor here last week.

The store of W. Armacost & Co. is a busy place these days, shipping business having increased remarkably. Some splendid local mums are going out, and reports from distant customers say they arrive in excellent condition. Fine cuts of roses are also coming from the greenhouses and the shipping season for cyclamens is getting well into stride.

At the Sun Nursery, at San Pedro and Jefferson streets, Mr. Kamado always has a varied and healthy stock. Most of the business done here is to other nurserymen and landscape gardeners, who have continued to patronize him for many years. Mr. Kamado has just obtained another extension of his lease here.

An absolute clean-up of all available stock is rather unusual, but this is what occurred for S. Murata & Co. last week. Owing to a big shipping demand for mums and sudden local calls for an unusual amount of funeral flowers, everything was cleaned out. The mums here are particularly good.

J. Goco has been sending in some excellent Bonnaffon mums. These are the first of the season. His roses, too, are much improved. He sells all of his stock now at his stand in the American Florists' Exchange.

A. Tassano & Son are cutting heavily of fine plumosus at the Burbank ranch. A call recently showed this stock in splendid condition and a fine lot of dahlias being cut.

A patch of several acres of Delphinium Belladonna at the Howard & Smith seed trial grounds at Rivera is most attractive, being a mass of blue. Although no roguing has been done, not a plant could be seen out of character, and with the cooler weather an extra fine crop of seed may be looked for. At the other end of the grounds the new hybrid forms are grown. Here a wonderful strain is seen, comprising all that is best in delphiniums. The plantings of Gerbera Jamesonii are also attractive now, both the old-time red type and the newer hybrids in all colors. Seed gathering is in full swing, a trained staff of men being employed for the purpose. Although late for the aster display, enough could be seen to show that the non-lateral characters are well maintained and also size and quality of bloom. Some wonderful zinnias are in bloom, the new burnt orange and orange scarlet types being away beyond anything heretofore seen. At the Montebello home nursery dahlias are making a gorgeous show, the comparatively new Polar Bear being a wonderful white.

Frank Warner is sending to the market from his Inglewood place some pretty seedling Gladiolus primulinus, fine for basket work, also a good looking variety, Eugene de Tail, larger and more showy in color. At the ranch bulb planting is in full swing, a fine lot of Spanish and Dutch iris of his own growing and a lot of newly imported stock going in.

E. C. Amling left last week for Chicago. The staff at the store is busy preparing for one and one-half carloads of baskets from the Burlington Willow Ware Shops. These are consigned to the E. C. Amling Co. and will be distributed here. At the new greenhouses pur-

We just know that you intend ordering your Cyclamens from us this year. We know just as well as you do that the express rates are high, that it costs a lot of money to get plants through, and all that. But honest now, didn't you make money on the Cyclamens you bought from us last season? We are sure that you did. We have been asking that question of a lot of our customers this past summer. The answer has always been the same. Some of the boys are admitting that they never made as much money out of Cyclamens in their lives as they did out of ours last year. They act as if they would like to make it stronger, but are afraid that we would raise our price if they did. Well, we won't. We want you to make money. It gives us a much better chance to get some of it away from you.

What we want right now is your orders. We are already m ghty shy on the Reds. Plenty of everything else, and our shades, the Pinks and Salmons, are wonderful. Here are the prices:

The Market.

Chrysanthemums were arriving at the market in fine shape last week, with every promise of continuing to be good, as the weather by Wednesday, October 4, had become like summer again, after a short but sharp electrical storm. Turner, Chieftain and Bonnaffon mums were all present and were being extensively shipped, as well as numerous other varieties. The pompon mums and other small and medium-sized varieties were plentiful and were of good, strong quality for shipping. In short, the chrysanthemum growers and the dealers who handle mums were all busy and were happy because the quality of the stock was good and the demand for it was excellent. There were a good many pompon dahlias left in season and also a considerable number of pink dahlias. Roses were becoming more plentiful, especially Columbia and Russell. Summer stock was being marketed in good quantities. This included such flowers as marigolds of many varieties, gillyflowers, scabiosa, mignonette, cosmos and snapdragons. There were good crops of cut cyclamens and plenty of potted cockscombs, both red and yellow. Gardenias and lilies of the valley were fairly plentiful, and orchids were becoming more so.

rived at San Francisco a few days ago, promptly inspected the customhouse and ordered that all cut flowers and potted plants be removed therefrom. This new rule affects nearly every office in the building.

A beautiful floral exhibit housed in a garden temple is being shown at the California complete homes exposition, at Lakeside Highlands, in the trans-bay region. Home owners and garden enthusiasts here have an opportunity to study the proper methods of planting and caring for lawns, flowers and shrubbery. The East Bay Water Co. installed this exhibit, in order to show the importance of water in making flowers and lawns grow. Representatives of the firm explain to visitors the most efficient methods of using water for growing flowers, and many types of sprinklers are on exhibition.

Perry M. Olsen, representing the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, states that he is looking for a suitable location at San Francisco. He has been here for some months, displaying the goods of his firm to local florists, and he plans to stay permanently.

Four refrigerator cars a week is now San Francisco's quota, and the arrangement seems to please all the growers of chrysanthemums, as it leaves only two working days without cars. The shipping demand for chrysanthemums is heavy at present.

J. A. Axell and his staff are working at express speed on every refrigerator car day, from 6 a. m. until shipping time, for orders are numerous enough to swamp less willing and efficient toilers. The whole force of the Axell establishment is mourning the loss of the beautiful cats that added to the gayety of life here. Firemen and expressmen, who were attached to the joyous, well fed canines, have been doing detective work all over the neighborhood in vain. Their many friends would mourn less if they knew whether Pete and Re-Pete were whisked away in limousines to happy homes, or whether their youth and plumpness tempted some lover of rich ragouts. Nearly every San Francisco florist knew and admired Pete and Re-Pete.

The E. W. McLellan Co. is now cutting large quantities of roses, according to P. D. Mortensen, who states that the crops will go on increasing until Christmas.

F. W. Davis, manager for the R. Coombs Co., says that the firm is already beginning to receive inquiries for holiday shipments.

Adrian J. Schoorl is busy shipping California sweet pea seeds abroad, especially to England, Holland and Scandinavia. He is in receipt of his Holland bulbs and says that the demand for them is good.

General A. J. Gooch, of Darbee's, is daily expecting exact information regarding the special refrigerator car to New Orleans, for All Saints' day. He has already been informed that it will leave October 24. Darbee's is now handling a great many pink and white Turner mums, and the staff is busy on refrigerator car days. Mrs. Darbee and her party are in Berne, Switzerland. They are expected back at home about the middle of January.

The Charles C. Navlet Co. has just received a big shipment of Holland bulbs and, according to Manager L. Picetti, the firm is busy unpacking and reshipping. "From what we can see, the bulbs have arrived in excellent shape," he said.

their chrysanthemum season, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, refrigerator car days, being especially busy times with them. T. Honda, of this firm, states that they are handling Bonnaffon, O. H. Kahn and Turner, in addition to many other varieties.

Domoto Bros. find that business in chrysanthemums is improving. They have plenty of pink, white and yellow varieties, both in large and small mums. Their roses are beginning to come in well, the young cut being excellent.

I. Inoue, manager of the United Flower & Supply Co., who went to Japan some months ago, has, it is stated, decided to remain there. H. T. Tanaka, who has been acting manager for the firm, has now become permanent manager. Mr. Tanaka is much impressed with the future of strawflowers grown in California, and although participating in the mum season activity, he is laying his plans for handling many strawflowers. A comparative novelty that he will add to this line is the "Japanese lantern." Although not a flower, this ornamental pod is as attractive as the most decorative strawflower. Joseph's recently used Japanese lanterns in a window decoration and their brilliant orange henna colors were much admired.

Pelicano, Rossi & Co. are getting splendid color effects for wreaths, table decorations, etc., from the begonias grown by Frank D. Pelicano at his dahlia ranch. This firm has had extensive orders for offerings for the funeral of the late William Dennis, prominent insurance broker, and an intimate friend of Angelo Rossi. Mr. Dennis went east to see the big league series and was killed in an automobile accident in Maryland. The funeral took place here early in October.

F. C. Jaeger & Son have been working hard on orders for the funeral of the late William Dennis. The ceremonies took place at the Elks' Club, the deceased having been a prominent Elk. The crew of Jaeger's went out to Golden Gate park Sunday, October 1, and indulged in a strenuous game of handball. All six players came back more or less crippled, Eddie Garabaldi, the winner, being the most in need of first aid.

N. Canavero, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., was in Calaveras county when the funeral date of the victims of the Argonaut mine was announced. As the distance is but short, he went to Jackson for the funerals and took charge of the floral arrangements.

PASADENA, CALIFORNIA

traia, works at Joseph's, when he feels the urge to toil. This member of the florists' business is a capitalist, however, and has recently spent some time in having downtown stores built. He has just completed plans for building six beautiful residences at the end of Green street at the Presidio. In laying plans $1,200 have been allowed for planting flowers and shrubs. The site is part of the Morendo Spanish grant.

George Wagner, of Joseph's, decorated the entire altar of St. Brigid's church with American Beauty roses for an important society wedding. The bride's bouquet was of gardenias and lilies of the valley, surrounded by real rose point lace, in the colonial style.

Everyone at Podesta & Baldocchi's was found in a state of joyous excitement. They said it was because a future member of the staff, expected for some time, had actually arrived. It was a 9½-pound boy, born to Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Baldocchi.

Patrick Sheridan, of Podesta & Baldocchi's, has announced his approaching marriage.

Mrs. Copeland, of the Misses Hannon store, had many orders for the Jewish holiday. Fruit, flowers and sprays of burning bush were most in demand.

"If expressions of admiration could be cashed at a bank, I should be a millionaire," said C. J. McLoughlin, speaking of his new flower store on Powell street, near Gary. He added that business has been good.

S. L. Pritchard, in the Sutter street store of Goldberg, Bowen & Co., is finding a satisfactory demand for baskets for bon voyage gifts and for cut and potted flowers. "People order their flowers and house plants when they come in to order their groceries, etc.," said he. M. M.

TACOMA, WASH.

The Market.

With the summer ended and the nights becoming cooler, but without threat of an early frost, the florists are "making hay while the sun shines"; for, in this section of the country when Jack Frost comes, he comes quickly. Most of the growers have their fall work well along, and an early frost will not catch any of them napping. Most of the outdoor flowers are about gone. They were damaged early in the season by the seventy-three days of dry weather. A few exceptions are noted, however. Zinnias and gladioli are making a good showing. Good marigolds have been scarce and one-half of some fields has been attacked by some root disease, causing the plants to wither and die. Some improvement was noted in the retail trade last week and hopes of a good season are expressed by everyone in the trade.

Florists Meet.

At the meeting of the Tacoma Florists' Club Monday evening, October 2, Frank Chervenka presented an offer from the Washington Fair Association to grant the florists permission to use a building, 45x90 feet, for an exhibition. The sentiment of the members in attendance was that so large an exhibition could not be staged properly in so short a time at this time of the year.

A suggestion by the Seattle, Spokane and Portland florists' associations to purchase a suitable cup to be bowled for this winter was turned over to a committee with instructions to favor the proposition and pledge the coöperation of the Tacoma organization.

The trustees were instructed to procure a lecturer for the next meeting, who is to speak on some timely subject.

The association is planning to entertain the ladies in the near future. A chicken dinner, dancing, etc., will be the form the entertainment will take. The object in view is to return, in some measure, the several entertainments which the florists have had at the expense of the ladies.

Various Notes.

George May, the Gig Harbor florist, has purchased ten acres of land near Tacoma and will move his greenhouses to the new location. He will maintain his old acreage and continue it as a branch and feeder.

A. A. Hinz, 618 South K street, has repainted the inside of his greenhouses and redecorated the interior of his store.

The Acme Floral Co. has closed out most of its potted plants and all of this large range will be used for growing flowers for cutting. Roses, carnations, mums and sweet peas will be featured here this winter. L. B. M.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Alexander Forbes, Newark, N. J.; secretary, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THE farm value of vegetable and flower seeds produced in 1919 was over $8,000,000, compared with about $1,500,000 in 1909.

INFORMATION regarding the bankruptcy case of J. M. Thorburn & Co., New York, will be found elsewhere in this issue, under the heading, "Business Embarrassments."

ON the steamer Britannia, which arrived at New York harbor from Marseilles October 4, were eighteen cases of French bulbs, consigned to F. Rynveld & Sons.

THE annual consumption of squash and pumpkin seed in the United States amounts to approximately 500,000 pounds. From fifteen to thirty fruits produce a pound of seed.

JOHN LEONARD, of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, has returned from a trip to Iowa and other territory in that vicinity in the interest of the firm. Mr. Leonard says that all the seedsmen he visited were optimistic regarding the coming season.

A MEETING of the creditors in the bankruptcy case of the Everette R. Peacock Co., Chicago, was held at the office of the referee in bankruptcy, October 10. The receiver, Edwin D. Buell, was made trustee.

WHILE the new Madison street bridge, Chicago, has been closed for completion, pedestrians have been walking the other way around and not passing the store of the W. W. Barnard Co. The result, according to President R. B. Howe, has been quite marked on the retail trade of the firm.

THE St. Joseph Bulb Co., of which the active partner is C. A. Juffermans, who represents Juffermans & Co., Sassenheim, Holland, in this country, has five acres partly planted to gladioli at St. Joseph, Mich. A tract several times larger will be purchased soon, and some tulips will be grown as well.

SAYS R. B. Howe, president of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, "All we need now to enliven the retail trade is a little cold weather. People are not aware that it is fall." Paper Whites and Japanese lily bulbs lined up in orderly formation in cases on the counters of the retail department here attest that the company is prepared to meet the demand that will result from the bulb advertisements now running in the Chicago dailies.

IN the principal producing section of southeastern Wisconsin the white clover seed crop is estimated to be ten per cent larger than that of last year. The greatly increased yield per acre—about 180 per cent of the 1921 yield—has more than offset the reduction in acreage. Because of little or no covering of snow during cold periods last winter and a severe sleet storm, much of the white clover, as well as other kinds of clover, was winter-killed. The acreage of white clover at the beginning of the winter was estimated to be at least twenty-five per cent larger than the acreage harvested in 1921. Growers did not plow up their old fields, as usual, after the crop of seed had been removed, because the new white clover had failed to make a satisfactory growth during the hot, dry weather. Apparently the growers felt that if the rains of last fall brought out the new fields, the old ones could be plowed up the following spring. The old fields suffered most from winter-killing the past winter, but many new fields also suffered. The acreage finally left for harvesting the seed crop amounted to about sixty per cent of the 1921 acreage.

MR. TEGELAAR, GLOBE TROTTER.

George Tegelaar, of Tegelaar Bros., Lisse, Holland, and Drevon-Tegelaar & Co., of Ollioules, France, has returned to New York after a trip around the world in connection with the bulb business.

Mr. Tegelaar left New York in the early spring, for Holland, in order to visit the bulb district as well as the extensive bulb farms of his own firm. From there he went to southern France, where Drevon-Tegelaar & Co. conduct their nursery, and where the lifting and packing of the bulbs was in progress. At the end of July he continued his trip by way of India and China to Japan, where he visited the leading growers and exporters of Japanese lilies.

Mr. Tegelaar found that the crop of Japanese lily bulbs was about sixty per cent of normal, and that especially the large-sized bulbs were scarce. The bulbs are now on the route between Yokohama and New York. Mr. Tegelaar arrived in New York October 2, and was glad to get back to his desk.

Not only herbaceous plants, but roses, shrubs and vines also are listed.

Otto Katzenstein & Co., Atlanta, Ga.—A comprehensive list of tree and shrub seeds, without descriptions; twelve pages, in pocket form. Only seeds of ornamental stock, both evergreen and deciduous, are here offered, but growers interested in fruit trees are invited to write for prices. Accompanying the list is an instructive pamphlet entitled "How to Make Tree Seeds Grow."

Robert Nicholson Seed Co., Dallas, Tex.—"Nicholson's Fall Planting Guide for the South," an illustrated catalogue of bulbs, peonies and other perennials, ornamental nursery stock, roses, seeds and supplies; twenty-two pages, in a richly colored cover, on which are shown five varieties of tulips and ten varieties of roses.

T. Sakata & Co., Yokohama, Japan, with an American branch at 20 East Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill.—"Sakata's Reliable Flower Seeds," an accurately printed, 14-page wholesale list, in a pleasing pink cover. The stock is comprehensive, including many rare species, as well as the more common sorts. A tree seed catalogue, also, is sent on request.

Williams Seed Co., Norfolk, Va.—"Williams' Book of Bulbs for Fall Planting"; twelve pages, in a particularly attractive colored cover. Some of the illustrations in the text also are finely colored. Besides the bulbs, the listed stock comprises roses, peony roots, fertilizers, sweet pea and pansy seeds and other varieties of seasonable flower seeds.

J. M. McCullough's Sons Co., Cincinnati, O.—Illustrated catalogue of bulbs, flower seeds, grass seeds, perennials, nursery stock, horticultural tools and sundries; thirty-two compactly but clearly printed pages. The cover design embodies a pretty and appropriate outdoor view, printed with brown ink on a cream-colored groundwork.

Sluis Bros., Ltd., Enkhuizen, Holland.—"Preliminary Wholesale List of Vegetable and Flower Seeds"; fifty-nine pages, printed in large, exceptionally clear type on a fine grade of paper, and bound in a tasteful, cream-tinted, brown-lettered cover. "Generally speaking," says the company, "the year 1922 is expected to produce the smallest crop of seed which we have known for years."

McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.—"Baskets, Made in Our Own Factory, Made to Give Greater Value," an illustrated folder, devoted entirely to an extensive line of baskets, which, it is claimed, are "as cleverly designed as they are carefully made." Another McCallum folder, containing a list of miscellaneous supplies, was mentioned in The Review of September 21.

John Connon Co., Ltd., Hamilton, Ont.—A clearly printed wholesale catalogue, offering flowering and decorative plants, roses, peonies, miscellaneous hardy perennials, currant bushes, grape vines and a full line of ornamental nursery stock; twenty-four pages, in a neat black and white cover, the back page of which draws attention to the company's facilities for telegraph delivery.

J. Oliver Johnson, Chicago, Ill.—"General Catalogue No. 12," offering grass seeds in separate varieties and mixtures; also lawn mowers, seeders, rollers, sprinklers and other implements for use in the maintenance of lawns, golf courses, etc. Sand boxes, tee stands, marking flags and other such golf accessories also are listed. This is a well made, effectively arranged book of twenty-four pages, clearly printed on enameled paper, finely illustrated, and bound in a tasteful grayish green cover, which bears an artistic design in dark green and black. Mr. Johnson, who styles himself "the lawn grass seed specialist," also offers the aid of his service department in the solution of his customers' problems.

Jackson & Perkins Co., Newark, N. Y.—"Fall Price List, for the Trade Only," an exceptionally accurate, as well as attractive, catalogue, printed with a pleasing shade of sepia or dark brown ink and well illustrated; twenty pages, in a cream-colored cover, embellished with an outdoor view in dark brown. The stock offered comprises roses, phloxes, peonies and other perennials, vines and general nursery stock.

Weller Nurseries Co., Inc., Holland, Mich.—Illustrated trade list of perennials; also gladioli for forcing, with cultural information "for florists who intend to force gladioli the coming season"; sixteen pages, in an attractive cream-colored cover. An asterisk is used to designate the varieties of perennials that are especially suitable for cutting. "A patch of perennials is a paying proposition," says the Weller slogan.

Babcock Peony Gardens, Jamestown, N. Y.—Illustrated catalogue of peonies, hardy narcissi, irises, phloxes, lilies, miscellaneous hardy plants and shrubs. This is a distinctive book of twenty-seven pages, in a tasteful and serviceable double cover, which bears a red and green design on a veined, grayish green background. Peonies, being the specialty, occupy the greater part of the space in this catalogue, besides being the entire subject of a smaller, accompanying list.

CINCINNATI, O.

The Market.

Business conditions at this market were brisk last week. Dahlias are now holding all the attention in the local trade. Roses are between crops, which is a good thing because of all the outdoor stock.

Asters being gone, carnations now find a much better market than at any other time this season. Good cosmos is arriving and moves readily because of mammoth size of flowers and popular prices. Delphiniums are still holding on and always find a good market.

The trade has been using much bittersweet, which is being sent in from down in Kentucky. It is good for autumn decorations and with strawflower arrangements. Valley is arriving slowly, but there is ample to supply all needs.

Various Notes.

A dahlia show was staged by the Garden Club of this city last week and was open to dahlia growers, both professional and amateur. Among the professionals receiving awards was Peter Herb, of Mount Healthy, O., who took twenty prizes for exhibits and a gold medal for the best dahlia at the show. Charles Pfeiffer's Sons Co., of Fort Thomas, ran Peter Herb a close second, being awarded nineteen prizes.

At a meeting of the local Growers' Association, held at Edward Schwartz's establishment, at Norwood, O., it was

GLADIOLUS NOVELTIES

Mostly all of our own raising, including our new Gladiolus Maiden's Blush, of which the Florists' Review writes as follows:

Gladiolus Maiden's Blush originated with J. J. Grullemans & Sons of Lisse, Holland, being one of a number of Primulinus hybrids of pronounced early flowering habit. The color of this beautiful variety is of a most attractive shade of light pink and some good judges think Maiden's Blush will become one of the most widely grown and popular varieties, when it is well known.

It is said that this variety will force in the greenhouse in seven weeks.

In a former number the Florists' Review said: Maiden's Blush has taken better on the Chicago market than any other Gladiolus ever did.

We offer to the trade, as follows:

	Per 1000
Prim. Maiden's Blush, size ½-1¼ inch	$20.00
Apricot, apricot shaded orange	30.00
Ada, satiny white, pink blotch inside	30.00

L'Or d'Australie, tall slender stems with deep golden yellow flowers	30.00
Orange Brilliant, a further description is not needed, the name itself is quite sufficient. On the Hague Show a basket filled obtained the Gold medal of the Bulb-growers' Association	20.00
Rose Luisante. A magnificent Primulinus of the same colors as Tulip Rose Luisante, which always is in great demand. Splendid variety for shop-sale, highly recommended	$60.00 decided that the growers would give one-half of one per cent of their business for local advertising. They are now "going after" the wholesalers and retailers to do their part in this advertising scheme. It was, therefore, decided to have one grand "get-together" party, for which the William Murphy Co. gladly donated its second floor. The affair is to include a buffet luncheon and meeting of all the growers, wholesalers and retailers. This is to be held October 18.

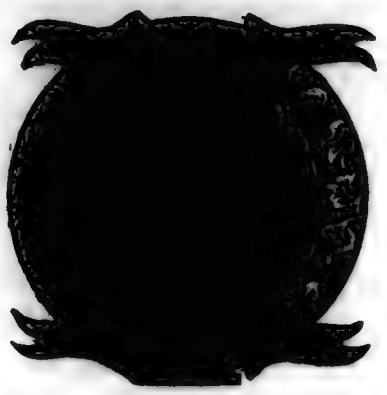
H. W. Sheppard's force has now been raised one. It now includes R. G. Kootz. Mr. Sheppard reports that everything will be handled just about all right this coming season.

Gustave Mickley has returned from a much enjoyed trip abroad and has brought with him plenty of news from our brother florists overseas.

Julius Baer and his family motored to the F. T. D. convention, at Baltimore, Md.

C. E. Critchell, who suffered a relapse some time ago, is now on the road to a quick recovery and all the trade extends its best wishes.

Visitors last week were George Mohn, of E. C. Amling Co., Chicago; George Taffel, of Schloss Bros. Ribbons, Inc., New York; R. E. Blackshaw, of the Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind., and A. B. Strauss, of the Lion Co., New York.



A. E. Becker, of the Avondale Floral Co., is now in his new home in North Avondale. The residence has been under construction for a long time, in order to make it look just according to Mr. Becker's plans, advertising his business as a florist as well as being an abode. G. H. K.

NEWARK, N. J.

The fact that flowers are much cheaper than they were a year ago has a tendency to increase sales for local florists. Before high war prices came, most of the Newark florists had more or less steady customers; they would come in once or twice a week to purchase a small bouquet. Others would come in almost daily for a flower to wear in the coat lapel. When high prices came and florists could not offer anything attractive for fifty cents to a dollar, this kind of trade fell off.

Harry J. Stein, of the Terminal Flower Shop, finds business exceedingly good at this time. R. B. M.

Buffalo, N. Y.—H. J. Huntsinger & Sons, 86 Crescent avenue, operate a gladiolus farm on the Ridge road, Hamburg, N. Y. The bulbs are being retailed by the firm and the flowers go to the local florists.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

R. L. Goodwin, Fort Pierce, Fla., is in the nursery business. Mr. Goodwin is widely known as an authority on the culture of the pineapple and the avocado and on the cultivation of tropical and subtropical ornamentals.

Nurserymen at Geneva, N. Y., are preparing for one of the largest fall digging and shipping seasons they have had in recent years. During the next few weeks more than 2,500,000 shrubs and trees will be shipped from this district, while about twice that number will be placed in storage for the spring shipping. Methods have changed in this locality, as now most of the nurserymen do all of their digging in the fall and store the trees and shrubs in cellars between layers of moss during the winter.

PLANTS MAY ENTER UNWASHED.

Rules F. H. B.

Every nurseryman in the country who does any importing will be interested in knowing the outcome of the special hearing which was held in Washington, D. C., Tuesday, October 3, on the subject of plant importation under special permit. A great many nurserymen who have imported plants during the last two years under the requirement that the roots must be "washed free from sand, soil or earth," have reported a higher percentage of failures than they ever had before, even in cases where the plants seemed to be in good condition when received. These losses have been general. Even well established firms, which have been importing for from twenty to forty years, have, almost without exception, had this same experience this year. The general feeling has been that these losses have been the direct result of the washing out of the roots of plants before shipment from the other side.

There were present at the hearing Dr. Marlatt, Dr. Lumsden, Dr. Kellerman, Dr. Orton, Mr. Sasser, Dr. Coville, Dr. William A. Taylor, chief of bureau of plant industry; Mr. Wood, Mr. Anderson and Mr. Althouse, who are all of the Department of Agriculture, and J. W. Hill, of Des Moines, Ia., chairman of the special committee; Paul Lindley, president of the American Association of Nurserymen; Harlan P. Kelsey, vice-president of the American Association of Nurserymen; F. F. Rockwell, secretary of the Eastern Nurserymen's Association, and Charles Perkins, of the Jackson & Perkins Co., Newark, N. Y., representing the nurserymen.

Hill Speaks for Nurserymen.

Mr. Hill stated the case for the nurserymen, after which both Mr. Hill and Mr. Perkins submitted as evidence a volume of correspondence from old and well known nurserymen all over the country, all of which tended to show that the results of washing had been serious and, in many instances, disastrous. This correspondence included letters from such well known firms as Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J.; Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O.; Mr. Manda, Ilgenfritz & Sons Co., Monroe, Mich.; Edward Welch, Maloney Bros. & Wells, Dansville, N. Y.; Chase Bros. Co., Rochester, N. Y.; Koster & Co., Bridgeton, N. J., and more than a score of others.

Mr. Hill emphasized the fact that the nurserymen of the country wanted to cooperate with the federal horticultural board in every way possible, and that they approved the object of the board in wanting to reduce to a minimum the danger of introducing new insects and diseases on imported stock. He stated that the committee felt, however, that stock could be brought into the country without having the roots washed, but with the soil so thoroughly shaken out that no lumps or balls of soil would remain in the roots to make thorough inspection impossible. Dr. Coville, of the bureau of plant industry of the Department of Agriculture, who is well known to the nurserymen of the country and who has had many years of experience with ericaceous plants, stated that in his opinion, washing the soil from the roots of plants of this kind was dangerous, and generally proved fatal, even under greenhouse conditions where the plants could be given every care and kept under perfect control, after transplanting. Mr. Lumsden, who has visited many of the nurseries of the country where imported stock has been planted during the last year, told of a few shipments, especially of azaleas from Japan, where the imported stock had grown successfully, but stated that in the great majority of cases the stock had been practically a failure after transplanting, even where it was given every possible care. Mr. Lumsden said, regarding Azalea Kurum, each plant, after washing, had had the roots wrapped in sphagnum moss and carefully bound in twine. There was no instance where rhododendron stocks, which had been washed, had given at all a satisfactory stand. In many cases forty to ninety per cent of them had been lost.

Board's Attitude Fair.

There was a considerable amount of discussion as to whether losses were the result of washing, or of careless methods in exposing the roots to drying, and in packing the stock too wet, after it had been washed. Every member of the nurserymen's committee felt that the attitude of the board throughout the discussion was most fair and open-minded, and every member of the board seemed anxious to do anything which could be done to help meet the practical problems which the nurserymen have found themselves up against, in connection with importing stock under the special permit arrangement.

Dr. Marlatt explained at length that the reason why the board had inserted the clause requiring washing the roots of plants, was not because the board wished to make the ruling more stringent, but because exporters packing the plants in other countries apparently could not be made to understand just what the words "free from sand, soil and earth" meant, and that the result had been not only a great deal of trouble for the board, but also dissatisfaction on the part of importers when shipments were refused because the roots of the plants had not been properly cleaned. This made it necessary for the board to require "washing," as that established a standard which could not be misunderstood.

Causes for Future Rejection.

Specimens of stock were submitted by the nurserymen, showing that the roots could be made practically free from dirt by shaking, but without removing the film of soil and the small root hairs which are lost as a result of washing. After a long, friendly discussion, the members of the board present expressed themselves as willing to try once more the admission of plants without washing, provided it would be with the strict understanding that the roots must be entirely free from any large particles of soil. The wording suggested was that the roots of plants imported under special permit "shall be free from all adhering particles of sand, soil, earth or peat." In the case of rhododendrons or other plants where the soil can not be removed sufficiently by thorough shaking, it may be necessary to wash them, but washing will not be required.

Dr. Marlatt made it plain that, while the board was willing to coöperate with the nurserymen to the extent of modifying the ruling requiring washing, shipments carelessly cleaned and packed, so that the soil is not thoroughly removed, would have to be rejected. This modification of the ruling of the board will be accepted as good news by the nurserymen of the United States and, undoubtedly, will result in an increase in the importation of stock for propagation under the special permit ruling.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

Executive Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the executive committee of the American Rose Society was held at the City Club, New York city, September 28, 1922. The report of the officers showed a membership of over 2,700, an increase of over 500 over last year, this increase being largely due to the generosity of a few of the members who last year contributed $1,000 for a membership campaign. The new chairman of the membership committee, J. J. Lane, of New York city, outlined plans for further increasing the membership during the next year. Mr. Lane felt strongly that the membership could be more than doubled, if a more willing spirit of coöperation could be obtained from the many growers and dealers in roses. With this end in view, immediate steps were taken to secure funds to underwrite the 1923 campaign.

International Rose Registration.

The editor, J. Horace McFarland, reported that the members' handbook was complete and would be mailed to the members within the next ten days. The secretary told of his visits to English and French rose growers during the summer, and reported in some detail the work of the international rose jury, at Bagatelle, Paris, where the French gold medal was awarded to the Dutch rose, Elvira Araguay, June 15. He spoke also of the new foreign roses, notably of Padre, Ile de France, Mrs. Oakley Fisher and others. He emphasized the need of international rose registration to prevent name duplication, quoting a letter from the Rose Society of New South Wales in this connection. The editor was authorized to enter into correspondence with other national rose societies to see if some method of international registration could be worked out.

The secretary reported that two Washington ladies, Miss Harrison and

Violet, Frey's Fragrant

Last Call Will replace all other singles

This variety is a sport of the variety California. The foliage and color resemble Gov. Herrick. However, Frey's Fragrant is twice as productive as Herrick, producing longer and stronger stems, larger blooms and is fragrant. Frey's Fragrant comes in bloom in October and the last season we had them for Mothers' Day, six weeks after all other Violets were out of the market in this vicinity. It does well in any soil that will produce good carnations and we find the best temperature for this variety is from 45° to 50°. Every grower of violets in this vicinity that has seen Frey's Fragrant is growing this variety to the exclusion of all others.

A. L. MILLER, Jamaica, N.Y.

Mrs. Guthridge, had offered a gold and a silver medal for a new yellow and a new white rose, respectively, which should be originated by a woman, such a rose to be rated at over eighty-five per cent on the American Rose Society system of scoring. This generous offer was accepted by the committee with expressions of thanks.

New Name Must Be Selected.

The question of the registration of the rose offered under the name of Maiden Blush by the Albert F. Amling Co. was next discussed. This name was offered for registration last June and, after publication, protests were received from both American and foreign rose growers. It was proved that this name was already applied to another rose. Upon regular motion, therefore, the committee decided to refuse the registration of this rose. Public notice of this action is, therefore, given here, and the Amling Co. will be requested to choose a new name. The action of the registration committee in refusing to register a rose under the name of Majestic, for similar reasons, was approved.

Trip to Portland.

The question of the proposed June, 1923, trip to Portland was again discussed. The replies to a questionnaire sent out to the members with the Rose Annual indicated that not enough members were interested to warrant the use of a special train, but the outlook for a party to occupy one or more special cars seemed hopeful. No further action will be taken in this matter until next spring, when a definite proposition will be submitted to the members, outlining the definite date of trip and the exact costs.

The matter of the introduction of the new seedling roses of the late Dr. Van Fleet was discussed and the president of the society was authorized to appoint a committee of three men to draw up a contract with the United States Department of Agriculture, this contract to be in keeping with the spirit of the informal agreements suggested at the Washington meeting of June, 1921. It is hoped that mother plants of the first of these, Mary Wallace, will be turned over to a dozen or so coöperating nurserymen this fall.

Registration.

The following rose has been offered for registration by the Montgomery Co., Inc., Hadley, Mass., and passed upon by the registration committee of the American Rose Society:

Commonwealth: Class, hybrid tea; parentage, Ophelia x Montgomery seedling; habit, vigorous; character of foliage, medium size, dark green; freedom of growth, free grower; flower, large; color, deep shade of pink, solid color; form, good form, long bud; fragrance, moderate; petalage, medium full flower; freedom of bloom and lasting quality, free bloomer, good keeper. The rose is similar to Premier, but superior for the following reasons: It is a stronger, easier grower; the stems will average longer; there are no culls as is the case with Premier; it will produce more flowers, which open freely and are not easily bruised; the color is a shade darker than Premier.

If no objection to such registration is filed with the secretary within three weeks after this publication, the registration will become permanent.

John C. Wister, Sec'y.

PAINESVILLE, O.

longest drought ever experienced by even the oldest inhabitants. The dry season did not injure nursery stock in the least, as most of the stock was strong and robust and able to stand any sort of weather, but it did hamper digging and shipping. The rains will make the fall plowing a great deal easier.

The Market.

This section was visited by a fine shower the latter part of last week. Much more rain is needed before winter. Chrysanthemums, roses and carnations are plentiful. Some good dahlias have made their appearance in some of the local gardens. Cool weather and a light frost followed the rain, the first killing frost of the season in this locality. Spring bulbs are coming into the market and they seem to be of good quality.

Various Notes.

The October meeting of the Minneapolis Florists' Club was held at the place of Rice Bros., October 3. Officers were nominated for the coming year, these to be voted on at the November meeting.

James Sonden, of Holm & Olson, spoke before the Garden Flower Society, in St. Paul, last week.

The Ramsey County Men's Garden Club resumes its monthly meetings with a fine program October 12.

R. S. Mackintosh, secretary of the State Horticultural Society, was severely injured in an automobile accident a few days ago. Several bones in his ankle were broken.

Holm & Olson had the job of decorating several sections in the recent dairy show.

Robert Stern, of Minneapolis, and H. J. Puvogel, of St. Paul, recently returned from visits to Germany and other parts of Europe.

A number of new florists' shops are opening in Minneapolis. Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland will open one at Second avenue and Ninth street about October 15. Mrs. O. C. Swanson and Mrs. Cowgill have opened the Orchid Flower Shop, at Eleventh street and Nicollet avenue. Peter Rorres has opened the Butterfly Shop, at Eighth street and Hennepin avenue.

C. F. Kinney, of Donaldson's, Minneapolis, and O. J. Olson, of Holm & Olson, St. Paul, are attending the F. T. D. meeting at Baltimore this week.

The florists here regretted to hear of the death of N. P. Lindberg in an automobile accident at Rugby, N. D., last week. Mr. Lindberg was elected a member of the Minnesota State Florists' Association at the last meeting.

A fine time was enjoyed by all those who attended the flower show booster banquet October 3 at the Elks' Club; 104 sat down to dinner. Talks were made by Theodore Wirth, Max Kaiser, William Johns, P. A. Evans, Joseph Chapman, H. Rosacker, L. Green and James Sonden. The manager of the show outlined its financing and auctioned 15,000 tickets to those present. The selling of these tickets is to be used instead of a guarantee fund to raise the money needed to finance the show. Representatives of the Minneapolis Journal and the Minneapolis Tribune and Mrs.

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

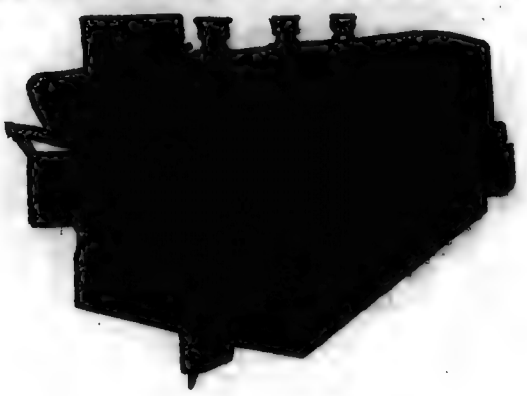
HEAT UNITS IN COAL.

What is the comparative value of coal at the prices quoted? Which gives the most heat per ton and how much? If we use sixty tons of soft coal, would we require more or less than this amount of hard coal in its stead? The varieties in question are as follows: New river bituminous at $10 per ton, and Pennsylvania anthracite at $15.50 per ton.

C. J. M. & S.—Mass.

The heating value of coal, both bituminous and anthracite, varies widely, even from the same mine. Everything considered, it is generally estimated that anthracite coal at $15 per ton is about as economical as bituminous coal at $10 per ton. To burn bituminous coal successfully, the boiler should have a grate about twenty-five per cent larger than for the same grade of anthracite coal. There should also be a little better draft, which, with a sectional boiler, may be arranged by using one less section, with a heater one size larger than for hard coal.

With skillful attention to the firing, nearly as many heat units can be secured from bituminous coal as from anthracite, but, as a rule, fifty tons of the latter will be found equal to sixty tons of the former.



COVERING PIPES FROM FROST.

Kindly advise me of the best method of covering ¾-inch water pipes, in order to prevent them from freezing in a climate such as that about fourteen miles from New York city. It is impossible to have this pipe run under ground. The pipe is exposed on the outside of a concrete building. I have mailed a sketch for your enlightenment.

H. N. G.—N. J.

The sketch shows some sixty-three feet of pipe from eighteen to twenty-eight inches below the surface of the ground, and about nine feet running up the wall of the building at a distance away from the wall of eight inches. If the underground pipe cannot be lowered, cover it with asbestos first in the same manner as is done for steam heating pipes and then place a wooden box one foot square around it and pack this with mill shavings. If the location is such that it would not be unsightly, a covering of horse manure which is more or less straw may be spread on the surface to the depth of six or eight inches over a strip three or four feet wide, during the winter months.

A similar covering may be arranged for the exposed vertical pipe, except that more pains should be taken to provide perfect insulation. After applying the asbestos pipe covering, make a box eight inches square and cover this with several thicknesses of building paper. Around this build another box about eighteen inches square, of which the concrete building provides one side, and fill it with mill shavings. If the location is much exposed, it would be well to cover this box also with building paper and upon this place matched ceiling lumber. If the concrete building is heated, the use of the building wall as one side of the box will not only lessen the radiating surface, but a considerable amount of heat will be absorbed from the wall of the building.

HEATING DWELLING.

I should like to have information enough to enable me to install a heating system which will be large enough to heat my greenhouse, store room and living rooms. How large must the boiler be and how much pipe will be necessary? The greenhouse is 16x110 feet, and is eleven feet six inches to the ridge. It is also six feet to the gutter. The north side of the wall is boarded entirely, while in the south side there are three feet of concrete blocks and three feet of glass. The store room is connected to the east end of the greenhouse. It is 24x32 feet, with the living rooms

Proper Heat with a Small Amount of Coal, Little Attention and No Worry

Sixty-five years' experience has taught us to produce boilers that can be absolutely depended upon to provide proper heat for the greenhouse in the most severe weather.

The water is heated quickly in WILKS BOILERS because it is separated from the fire by only a strong, thin sheet of steel, which, with the rapid circulation system, makes very little fuel required.

The self-feeding feature saves labor. By filling the coal magazine an even and continuous fire can be kept 12 hours or more without attention, making night firing unnecessary.

Wilks Self-feeding Hot Water Boilers are made of the best steel, strongly riveted and calked, with no cast iron sections to crack or bolts or packing to be kept tight, and no flues and coils to fill up and leak.

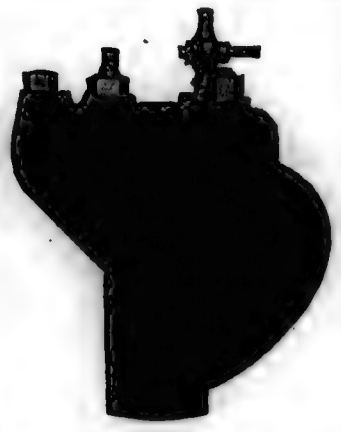
above. I shall use a sectional hot water boiler, which will be placed in the basement. Carnations, sweet peas and mums are being grown in the house, and the temperature here seldom goes below 10 degrees below zero. W. H. C.—Ind.

Not far from 700 square feet of radiation will be required to heat the greenhouse to 55 degrees with hot water. The radiation needed in a store room or dwelling will depend largely upon the amount of exposed glass, but there is nothing in the inquiry regarding the amount of glass either in the show room or living room. It is hardly likely that more than 700 square feet will be needed for both floors. This makes 1,400 square feet of radiation in the greenhouse, store room and living rooms, and if a second greenhouse of the size mentioned above is erected, this will bring the amount of radiation required up to 2,000 square feet. To supply this radiation, use a boiler rated for 3,000 square feet.

To provide the radiation needed in the greenhouse, run three 2½-inch flow pipes on a slight down grade through the house, placing one on each side wall plate and the other three feet below the ridge. For 50 degrees, connect each of the flow pipes with a coil of two 2-inch returns under the benches. If 60 degrees is desired, add two returns, placing one under the south bench and the other in the middle of the house.



TWO BOILERS NECESSARY.

I have two greenhouses, 17x60 feet and 24x100 feet, respectively. The large one is boarded on the north side, which is five feet from the ground to the gutter. There is glass in the south side. The small house is also boarded on the north side, which is seven feet to the gutter. It is boarded up four feet on the south side. The small house is eight feet to the ridge and the large one is ten feet to the ridge. Is it possible for me to heat these houses with a Wilks boiler and 1¼-inch pipe which I have on hand? I wish to carry from 50 to 55 degrees in zero weather. The size of the boiler is 24x48 inches.

S. J. P.—Mich.

If the boiler is of the size catalogued as 24x48 inches, it is altogether too small for heating two houses such as those described; in fact, the manufacturers only recommend it for 550 square feet of radiation or for 1,925 square feet of glass to be heated to 50 and 55 degrees in zero weather. It is expected that all main and return pipes are to be counted as radiating surface and wooden walls should also be included at the equivalent of glass area.

It is not certain just how the walls of the houses are constructed, but if the north and south walls are of the same height, it would appear that the south walls of the two houses have five feet and three feet of glass respectively. If this is correct, the two houses will contain nearly 5,000 square feet of glass, which will require about 1,430 square feet of radiation, without making any allowance for the mains. It is always advisable to choose a boiler somewhat oversized, and if soft coal is to be burned, it is customary to use a boiler with a rating fifty per cent larger than the actual radiating surface. Instead of using one 24x48-inch boiler, nothing less than two 36x42-inch boilers should be used, and for soft coal two boilers measuring 42x42 inches would be better. It is not advisable to use 1¼-inch pipe for hot water in houses more than fifty feet in length. If this size is to be placed in the houses, it would be advisable to place the system under pressure. It would be more advisable to use two 2½-inch flow pipes and ten 1¼-inch returns in the smaller house, and three flows and fifteen returns in the larger house, placing the system under pressure. With 2-inch pipes for returns, the number in the two houses should be seven and ten respectively.

The Market.

If one wishes carnations or roses, he is readily served, but if one's taste runs to miscellaneous, or novelty, stock, he is to be disappointed at this time. The asters are gone; so are the gladioli. Dahlias have been scarce in variety, although one or two of the more common varieties have been ample. There seems to be an aftermath of such flowers as buddleias, delphiniums, gaillardias and zinnias. These, however, are not so good as the previous crop.

Lilies are practically unavailable. A few more chrysanthemums are seen, but these are slow in appearing. They range in price from $4 to $15 per hundred and are of good quality. Carnations are making from $2 to $4 per hundred and show an improvement in the quality.

The I. O. O. F. floral parade was held Saturday, October 7. On account of the inclemency of the weather, the parade was not as large as had been expected, but some handsome floats were displayed. The Indiana State Florists' Association exhibited one of the loveliest floats in the floral parade, October 7. This was made by A. Wiegand's Sons Co.

Louis Kirch, of Louisville, was a visitor last week.

Mr. Wiedenoff, who recently bought the Lang establishment, took charge October 1. He will operate the store and also a stand at the city market.

Baur & Steinkamp have been having some good Chatelaine begonias.

Green goods are plentiful. A few primroses and cherries are exhibited in the shop windows. E. E. T.

A meeting of the Indiana State Florists' Association was held Tuesday, October 10. The entire day was devoted to visiting Indianapolis greenhouse establishments. Twenty-one places were visited.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

With the disappearance of nearly all the outside flowers, the local market has settled down to the regular season, which is now on in full swing. Good stock is fairly plentiful, with a demand nearly equal to the supply.

Good roses are now on in full crop and some fine stock is arriving daily. Columbia, Premier and Butterfly are the best varieties coming in, with Sunburst, Milady, Ophelia and White Killarney a close second. Carnations are improving in both quality and quantity, and it will not be long until they take their rightful place on the market.

Lilies are scarce and clear each day at good prices. Dahlias are at their best now and vast quantities are being moved each day. A few gladioli and asters are arriving, but the quality is so poor that they do not move out. Mums are arriving in limited quantities, but are fine for this time of the year. The supply of orchids and valley has fallen far short of the demand. Delphiniums, woolflowers and gypsophilas are still much in evidence and considerable quantities of each are being moved every day.

Nearly all the local florists enjoyed a nice business last week, due to a large number of social events and a great amount of funeral work. Now that the social season is on in full swing, business should show a steady increase.

Various Notes.

Fred Schueler, of Big Tree, N. Y., is already making preparations for an increased acreage for the growing of gladioli and asters next season.

E. N. Button, of Fredonia, N. Y., was a visitor at the local market last week.

The Dreyer Flower Shop is still cutting some nice outdoor flowers from its farm on the outskirts of town.

Palmer's are cutting some fine roses at their greenhouses, at Lancaster, N. Y., each day, getting a larger supply than they can dispose of at their two retail stores. J. B. M.

LANCASTER, PA.

At Dahlia Show.

October 5 fifteen autos filled with Lancaster county florists and their friends visited the dahlia show at the place of R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons, White Marsh, Maryland.

Considering the dry weather, the quality of blooms was remarkable, and the show in general was superior to those of former years.

Patrick O'Mara was easily the most attractive dahlia in the show.

Their new yellow, Merritt, of which several dozen blooms were shown, is a winner and will soon head the list in that color.

A walk through their many houses shows small plants in 2½-inch pots, by the millions; geraniums, lantanas, fuchsias, heliotropes and other leading plants. A large stock of ferns was seen.

Various Notes.

S. S. Pennock and wife, of Philadelphia, visited the Lancaster growers last week.

The Goldbach Flower Shop featured some exceptionally fine dahlias last week.

Carrie E. Steckman helped judge the floral displays at York county fair last week.

L. S. Landis entertained some of his friends at his "Cohasset" orchards, in lower Lancaster county, last week.

Better Glass Surer Profit

THERE is a reason leading engineers and designers of greenhouses specify American Window Glass Company's Glass.

They know the essential requirements of greenhouse construction and their object is not only to attain strength but to guard against any condition, no matter how slight, that might affect successful operation.

The Greenhouse Glass made by this company is notable for its evenness, strength, careful grading and for the whiteness which assures more light on dark days.

No need to specify or use ordinary glass. Every box of American Window Glass bears the long elipse and our name, together with the grade marking which guarantees the quality. The largest greenhouses in the country are glazed with the American Window Glass Company's Products.

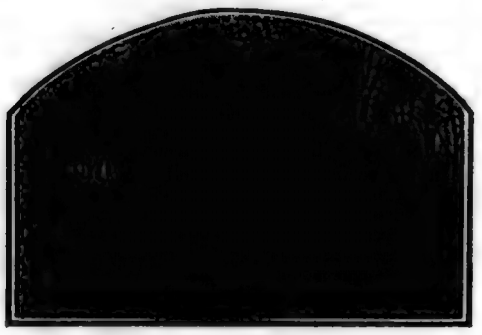
The Market.

The demand in the cut flower business continues to be brisk and business is good, with practically enough stock to cover the demand. From all indications, it looks as though the fall business has started and will, no doubt, continue from now on. Roses are, of course, the principal factor in the market at the present time. The quality has been exceptionally fine. The varieties being received at the present time are Crusader, Premier, Columbia, Priscilla, Ophelia, Wards and White Ophelia. Some Sweetheart roses are also to be had. Sweet peas have made their first appearance in the market this fall. The demand, however, is rather limited, as these are about the earliest sweet peas this market has had for some time. Chrysanthemums are also becoming one of the main factors; in fact, there were hardly sufficient chrysanthemums last week to meet the demand. Also some small chrysanthemums in bunches were in the market, as well as some white pompons. This is the first appearance of pompons this season. Some fine yellow and white mums are now to be had. The supply of asters is just about over. There are a few gladioli being received in the market daily and they move out pretty well, although the quality is poor. Dahlias are still abundant and the quality is fine. The demand, however, seems to be light. Southern smilax is another evergreen that has made its appearance in the market this week, as well as Mexican ivy. Summing up business for the past week, the wholesalers as well as the retailers are reporting an exceptionally fine volume of business and are in the hope that the balance of the year will be likewise.



Various Notes.

Homer Lange, of the A. Lange Floral Co., of Chicago, was a visitor at Pittsburgh Saturday, October 7.

Ove Gnatt spent Tuesday, October 3, in calling on his friends and customers. The ruseus situation as it presents itself today was one of his topics. He believes that without question the ones who hold off their orders for this material will be disappointed later. Also the prepared natural oak foliages, as well as the lycopodium supply of the country, are hardly equal to the demand. He reports business exceptionally good, especially in August and September, with plenty of heavy orders for the remainder of the year. Mr. Gnatt has a few

The Pittsburgh Florists' and Gardeners' Club held its monthly meeting Wednesday evening, October 4. There was a large attendance and a good lunch was served. The general discussion was the Sewickley dahlia show, and it was reported to be the finest show of any kind held anywhere this season.

Some beautiful window displays of dahlias have been shown by the E. A. Williams Co.

Ed. Weaver, manager of the Randolph & McClements Co., has been riding around in a new Dodge coupe, with the advertisement of Randolph & McClements on the door.

It was reported in last week's issue of The Review that the Beaver avenue factory of the McCallum Co. was destroyed by fire of an unknown origin, Sunday, October 1. It was reported that this company has secured temporary quarters and will be again able to resume its business to the fullest capacity about October 20. While the McCallum Co. had a heavy loss, it is reported that the burned portions of the factory were fully covered by insurance. H. J. H.

BALTIMORE FLORISTS ELECT.

A heavy rain Monday evening, October 9, prevented realization of the large turnout expected at the meeting of the Florists' Club of Baltimore in honor of the visitors to the F. T. D. convention. A fair number of out-of-town florists attended and a mutually enjoyed evening resulted.

The chief business of the meeting was the election of officers for the coming season. The slate was as follows: President, Robert W. Johnston; vice-president, William Bauer; secretary, Robert Tate Paterson; treasurer, Robert Fiedler.

LOUISVILLE RETAILERS MEET.

The Retail Florists' Association of Louisville, Ky., held its second meeting Friday evening, October 6. Four members were added to the thirteen charter members who organized the association September 27.

The officers of the new body are: President, J. S. Miller; vice-president, George Schulz; secretary, E. G. Reimers, Jr.; treasurer, Miss Edith V. Walker.

The first work of the new organization will be to collect data regarding Louisville delinquents, so as to establish a credit list that will be available for members' reference whenever an unknown person places an order.

The Rosendale Flower Shop, Schenectady, N. Y., furnished a fine floral basket at the home-coming of Major Lunn, whose return to Syracuse was hailed with enthusiasm. The major himself is a lover of flowers and has done much to advance the trade slogan in the public gardens and parks.

"As satisfactory as a well fitting glove," observed George W. Peck, of the Peck Floral Co., Gloversville, N. Y. "Both our places, here and at Johnstown, are producing stock that commands sale, so that, with the coal bugaboo dispersed, we anticipate a continuation of good business." Special stress was placed upon the landscape department, engaged in laying out some old-fashioned gardens, tribute being paid to Henry A. Dreer, Inc., for facilities conducive to success in this interesting line. W. M.

WORCESTER, MASS.

The temperature in this locality has been well over 80 degrees, which always has a bad effect on the trade. There is nothing to complain of in the way of dullness, everybody being well employed. Flowers are in big demand, and the retailer is looking for business from other sources, now that funeral work is growing less.

The drought, which has lasted for twenty-one days, is causing a little anxiety in a few places in Worcester county. Mums are seen in limited quantities in the stores and are in little demand. Outdoor flowers are becoming limited in quantity.

Many of the Worcester florists have large displays of Dutch bulbs in variety and fine in quality. E. A.

WHITE HYBRID DELPHINIUMS.
Several years ago Wm. Toole, Sr., discovered a plant among some Delphinium Formosum which bore pure white flowers. Since then he has crossed them with choice hybrids and selected from the best of these.
In general habit of growth they are like a good strain of hybrids of the blue color. Some of them are double though most are single, some have dark centers but most are pure white.
The plants we offer have all been selected and marked while in flower and no inferior specimens are sent out.
Price for strong selected plants, carefully packed, 35c each, $3.50 per doz., $25.00 per 100, $225.00 per 1000.

GERBERAS

GERBERA HYBRIDS.
Few florists are acquainted with the Gerberas. They will grow under glass under ordinary treatment and bloom all winter long. Imagine a Daisy of a rich red or a soft pink, or any other color, borne on long stems and 2 to 3 inches across. Try a few of my field-grown plants at 25c, 35c and 50c each, according to sizes.

SYDONIA!

Don't fail to give this variety a trial. It creates as much admiration with the lady visitors, as any variety we grow. Most of them call it a magenta in color though it is just a hair lighter than Anna Eberius; tall, straight spikes; 3 and 4 flowers open at a time; medium early and sells well as a cut flower.

To my knowledge only listed previously by one grower in the United States and this is the first season we have offered it. No. 4, $4.00; No. 5, $3.00; No. 6, $2.50 per 100; bulblets, $3.00 per 1000.

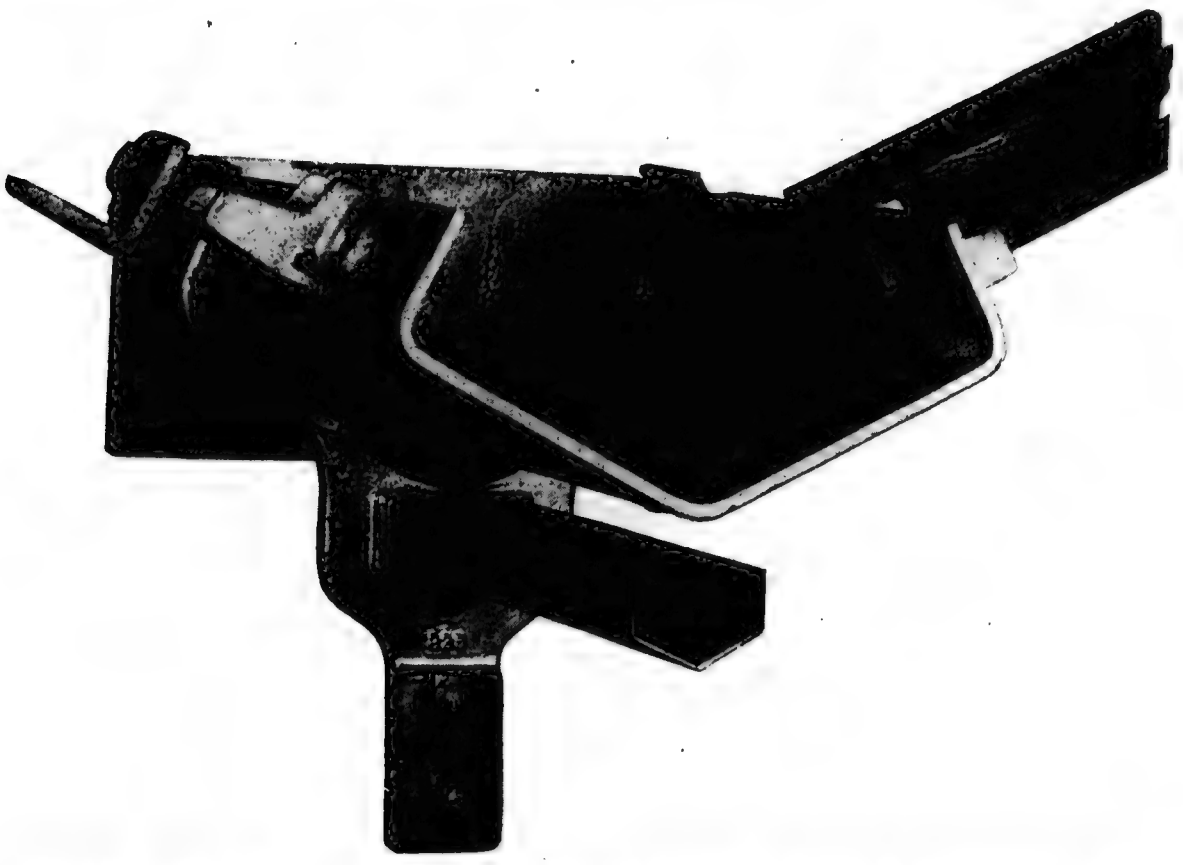
King GREENHOUSES

Those Houses Are MAKING and SAVING Money for the Owners

A few years ago W. J. Evenden's Sons, of Williamsport, Pa., built their first King greenhouse. This house proved from the start it could produce more "firsts" at less cost per flower than other makes of houses. Year after year King greenhouses have been added to their range until now they have five 28 x 250 ft. houses and a large propagating house.

Today these houses not only make money by producing high grade roses, carnations, 'mums and potted plants for which the Evendens are famed, but they save money because of economical upkeep and operation.



Let us tell you about a King greenhouse suitable for your requirements.

When you think of good greenhouses, think of KING.

Out of the Shadows

It would be easy for any greenhouse builder to construct a strong, airy house if shadows did not have to be considered. But, shadows may make the difference of first and second class stock—make the difference in money made or lost.

Keep Out of the Shadows. That is our motto. We have worked for years reducing the amount of shadows in greenhouses.

The AGMCO Patented 1922 Galvanized Steel Gutter has been a big jump ahead in reducing shadows in a connected house. It carries more water and throws less shadow than any other gutter. No drip from sweating. Will not leak.

If you want to know other reasons why AGMCO Greenhouses are more profitable, just drop us a line. Our plans will assist you.

Furnished for Kempe & Son, Indianapolis, Ind.

In The Review last week, we illustrated the Gable End view of a 42-foot "Bolted-Thru the Pipe" greenhouse—thoroughly braced. The view above shows the interior. Note the simple but rigid construction. The above house was designed for the growing of Sweet Peas, with an ideal ground bed arrangement. This house is particularly adapted for side ventilation.

We have designed and erected houses for every purpose.

It's Generally Agreed That Unsworth Of Hamilton Is One Of Canada's Best Tomato Growers

When he puts on those little old glasses of his and goes through his houses with you, and starts making remarks, it's a mighty good plan to do a lot of listening whether it's about how to trim the vines or the kind of house to build.

He has done some experimenting with houses of various kinds, and so is in a position to have some rather conclusive ideas on the merits of different constructions. Also concerning narrow and wide houses.

Along last June when three of us called around to have a chat, he pointed to a big open field extending from his big L & B house right down to the lake and said: "It's a dream of mine to have that space all filled with houses like this big one.

"Wouldn't build them an inch wider or narrower and not a foot longer. This one 51 by 375 feet just suits me."

Any particulars you would like about the Unsworth house, am sure he would be only too glad to have us tell you.

McCRAY

REFRIGERATORS for ALL PURPOSES

This McCray installation in the store of the Dahl Floral Company, Atlanta, Ga., shows what effective display the McCray enables

WITH a stock so perishable as flowers, almost the first need of your business is efficient refrigeration. You are paying for a McCray and will continue to pay, so long as you go without the service which this quality refrigerator will give you.

Invest the money you are charging to loss from spoilage. Stop this constant drain on profits and increase your sales. There is no need to go without a McCray any longer; easy payments may be arranged if desired.

We carry various styles and sizes of florists' refrigerators in stock for prompt shipment. Besides, our Service Department will gladly prepare plans for specially built equipment if you will send a rough sketch of your requirements.

Send for Your Free Book. In it your refrigeration needs are thoroughly discussed, the complete McCray line is illustrated and described.

No. 74 for Florists—No. 94 for Residences.

You Who Look For Something Better!

Commonwealth is better than existing roses. Montgomery's dark pink seedling will please you. We have confidence in Commonwealth and have shown our faith by placing plants of this new rose with the following firms for trial. These men have our full permission to tell the truth. We have not asked them to be charitable as regards any faults that the rose may have. We have placed the rose with these growers that the story of Commonwealth may be the story of honest endeavor to give the rose growers of America something better than we have had before. See Commonwealth with your nearest neighbor; or, better still, come to Cromwell and see it here. These men are growing it:

A Flesh Pink Sport of Ophelia with a gold base extending a third of the way up the petals.

The flower will average forty-six petals and open full without showing center. The plant is a vigorous grower, with the same foliage as its parent and disease-resistant.

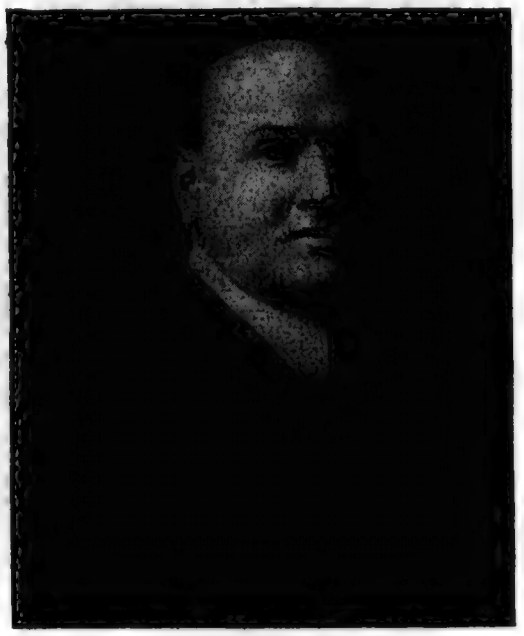
THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

PENN'S POINTERS ON STORE SYSTEM

Believing such a detailed presentation of store management better studied in print than listened to in convention, Henry Penn only summarized on the floor at the F. T. D. meeting at Baltimore last week the paper here published in full. It is worth every retailer's thoughtful reading.



DURING periods of limited floor space, when florists could use four or five times the space they possess, as against other times when there is more than ample, it becomes necessary to plan to overcome every obstacle and to create the greatest number of sales in the shortest period of time, extending to the customer all the courtesy and consideration he or she desires. Our being located on one of the busiest corners of our city makes it imperative to have all details carried out with the least number of steps, from the time the sale is made to the moment of delivery. Hence the need of saving time, which is also a big factor in your daily financial result.

A review of past experiences, coupled with present conditions, enables us to operate a system that covers all the details with the least energy in as brief a time as possible.

Start with Selling.

Now, the first step is selling; so we shall start with the sales force. In bygone days we were content, when a customer entered the store, to allow any of the clerks to take care of the prospect, regardless of what he was doing. He might be engaged in making up a floral design, or perhaps working on a wedding order, and consequently his mind was on whatever he had been doing and he was not capable of giving the prospective customer the proper attention. So we recognized the importance of having properly trained clerks to take care of the selling end. The latter are taught to be courteous and polite, and incidentally are alert to the needs of customers because they are in direct contact with patrons continually. They are, too, capable of making a more favorable impression than one who, by constant work at his bench, is not so keyed and prepared as the salesman who has only this duty to perform. We find we can achieve better results in this manner and sales are more satisfactory than under the old method. And why should a florist's shop be different from that in any other line when it comes to the selling end? Such a system pays and doesn't hinder the rest of the work.

Our salesmen write out the specifications of each order and then turn in the order sheet to the cashier, who has a convenient booth, easy of access, where the order starts on its way.

Henry Penn.

Whether it be a charge, cash or C. O. D. sale, it is properly cared for by the cashier, who files it in its proper place. All order sheets are put through the cash register immediately the sale is made and are written in duplicate, so that we have one sheet for office reference and the other for the clerk who will look after the order. For instance, all cut flower orders are selected by a special employee who attends to nothing else but selecting the orders as specified and placing them in readiness for the packer and his assistant, who do nothing else but the packing. We have found that we can do our work with greater dispatch by having each one in the store attend to a definite job.

Handling the Order.

At the rear of the store we have the order clerk's table; parallel with this we have the packer's table, and next in line the shipper's table, with the exit at the latter's immediate left, ready for the truck. By having these three tables parallel and close to one another, we are able to speed up the work. When the clerk has selected the flowers, he places them, with the original order sheet attached, on the packer's bench. The packer then carefully packs them and places the box, with the order sheet still attached, on the shipper's bench. The original order sheet remains with the order until the driver is ready to start on his trip, when the shipper removes it and it is returned to the cashier. Through this simple operation we have overcome one of the greatest handicaps of our business.

Originally, when flowers were leaving the store, it was a problem to know whether the order was paid or charged or a clerk's gratis order. Having the duplicate order sheet system, with the cash register imprint on both sheets, one has but to look at the order sheet attached to the box to know its contents and see whether it has been paid, charged or C. O. D. This method has helped materially in our system of checking up sales.

Then, too, the shipper has his duplicate delivery slips for the chauffeur and himself, recording the time the package leaves the store and which truck was given the delivery. This method is undoubtedly adopted by all florists at the present time, but the practice of the order sheet accompanying the order to the shipper's bench after it has been recorded by the cash register is worth while putting into practice.

Making Up Designs.

So much for cut flower orders; now for designs. We specialize in having certain men to make up corsages, others wedding flowers, and again others funeral work, allotting the work to the men best adapted for each, and it is interesting to see how much better results can be attained by carrying out this plan. The men like it, and occasionally they change about with one another if their work becomes monotonous. You will find the practice works out well and helps the system by having the orders filled by each specialist as they come to him. The designs are also accompanied by the original order sheet to the shipper's bench, where they are duly inspected before being boxed, so that all details are attended to before delivery rather than have any errors discovered after delivery. This also serves as a double check on the order, and many an error has been averted by this plan.

Delivery Department.

Now, in the shipping department we have all suffered more or less by being lax, and we know the disappointments resulting from not being on time. However, we learn from our mistakes, and today we have found a practical man, one who was formerly in the American Express Co.'s office, to look after this department. He has an assistant to look after the work when he is out, and their checking method is similar to that adopted by the express compa-

Delivery Department.

Now, in the shipping department we have all suffered more or less by being lax, and we know the disappointments resulting from not being on time. However, we learn from our mistakes, and today we have found a practical man, one who was formerly in the American Express Co.'s office, to look after this department. He has an assistant to look after the work when he is out, and their checking method is similar to that adopted by the express companies, recording as principal items names, addresses and delivery time. The shipper is held responsible for all shipments being delivered on time and is on his job every minute. This department is one of the most important in the store, for on his ability to deliver properly depends much of the florist's success or failure. He has his trucks and boys, with a special staff of extra boys attending the high school and working after school hours until 6 o'clock.

Many parcels on which no time is mentioned are held for delivery after 2 o'clock by high school boys, so that we can keep our regular staff delivering orders that call for special time. You can make arrangements with the head master of any high school to send reliable boys to you who are glad to earn extra money and incidentally are getting the first step in business training. And, by the way, we use a similar method during the holiday season in getting extra salesmen from the nearby colleges, telephoning the employment department of the college, and we have been given fine types of young men, who are eager to earn extra money and at the same time get business experience. We have one of our own salesmen teach them the selling end, and in a short period, before the holiday season starts, they become proficient enough to take care of the extra business which every holiday brings.

Bookkeeping Up-to-Date.

Now we come to the billing or bookkeeping department. We have our chief and assistants in a balcony at the rear of the store, with every modern known device to assist in getting all accounts and details finished the same day. With the latest Underwood bookkeeping machine; an adding machine and a National cash register—the last has just been released after a twenty-year experiment and seems almost human in its every detail—one machine checks the other and errors seldom creep in that are not detected ere long. With the assistance of these machines and our office force, we are able to have at a moment's notice our total volume of the previous day, month and year and a general knowledge of the net profit daily, something which perhaps may be of interest to those who are desirous of obtaining a daily account of their business. Our auditor has at semiannual periods arranged an average daily budget of current overhead and operating expenses, by dividing the actual costs by the number of working days and adding the daily purchases; this gives you a fair knowledge of your everyday business, whether it be a net loss or gain. This suggestion will tend to keep your buying down to a point where you know how you stand at all times. Of course, the exact details are rendered monthly, but the daily report is interesting.

The following report is submitted to me daily from the cash register:

Daily cash sales.
C. O. D. in and out to date in monthly periods.
Daily C. O. D. in and out.
Amount received on accounts for the day.
Amount of charges for the day.
Total cash received and received on account for the day.
Total cash, charges and C. O. D. out for the day.
Number of customers.
Daily work of each salesman.
Amount of stock sold, under the following classifications: Cut flowers, floral designs, plants, weddings, miscellaneous and special.

Under the last two items of stock sold we keep a separate account of some novelty that might be on sale at a certain season of the year.

New Accounts.

We lay a great deal of importance on new accounts opened and are careful to see to it that a customer's rating is good. In all large cities there are credit-reporting companies under affiliation with the local chamber of commerce, where all retail store memberships are grouped under one head in a rating book similar to Dun's or Bradstreet's, with the exception that it contains all information necessary to a retail business, such as a list of salaried and business folk who have accounts with retail merchants, and every name has its key and rating. This service has saved us much trouble in enabling us to avoid accepting bad accounts.

When application is made for an account the applicant is given a regular form to fill out, bearing these questions:

Name and address (if Mrs., give husband's business address and name of firm).
Vocation and business address.
References, etc.
If property owner, state in whose name assessed and location of property.

Bank references are not acceptable. When the account is accepted, the applicant is notified in a courteous manner and the account is then recorded on a Rand rotary file, which contains the names and addresses of all customers, ready for reference at a moment's notice.

When customers' accounts become delinquent, they are followed up by a series of letters, that are most effective and yet not too strong until the last resort, when it becomes necessary to transfer it to our collecting agency, which we try not to do if it can be avoided.

Our adoption of the golden rule method has enabled us to solve most of our problems and make our business more interesting, more profitable and one that will scatter more happiness than any other line.

To sum it all up, we are in the greatest profession on earth, where nature herself creeps in at all times to help us serve, and being thus favored, it is up to each of us to do all in our power to make more persons happy and spread the doctrine of service to our fellow men in such a way as to make it worth while. And we, as florists, can feel that our mission has made and will continue to make sunshine for all mankind, and if we give the best that is in us, we are doing our part towards making this world of ours a nobler and better land to live in.

F. T. D. FINISHES

BUSINESS AT BALTIMORE.

District Representatives' Organization.

The closing day of the F. T. D. meeting at Baltimore was full of business and discussion. The earlier matters were reported in these columns last week. As there stated, the plan of a district representatives' organization was adopted. The resolution which brought this body to life was read to the full convention and concurred in, as follows:

Resolved, that we, the district representatives of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, assembled in Baltimore, Monday, October 9, 1922, believing that it is for the best interest of our association to organize ourselves into a district representatives' organization, do hereby endorse and recommend that the following rules governing such organization be adopted:

First, the annual meeting of this organization is to be held on the day prior to the day set for the beginning of the annual business meeting, and it shall meet at such other time and place, in special session, as may be called by the chairman of this organization, the chairman to call such special session only upon instructions or endorsement of the board of directors of the F. T. D. or by its duly authorized representative.

Second, at each annual meeting this organization shall elect the following officers: A chairman, a vice-chairman, a second vice-chairman and a secretary. The chairman, upon assuming office, shall appoint as standing committees, consisting of three members each, a committee on membership and a committee on statistics, and shall from time to time appoint such other special committees as may be authorized by the members of this organization in session.

Third, the duty of the committee on membership is to render all assistance possible towards increasing and stabilizing the membership of the F. T. D. throughout the various districts, by coöperating with the membership committee in the various units and other district representatives.

Fourth, the duty of the committee on statistics is to aid and encourage the gathering of statistical matter throughout the various districts by aiding and encouraging district unit committees on statistics and other district representatives towards acquiring as much data as possible pertaining to the florists' business throughout North America and foreign countries.

Fifth, all transactions of the district representatives' organization shall be subject to the supervision and final approval of the officers and board of directors and also of the annual business meeting.

These rules governing the district representatives' organization may be amended, altered or repealed by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any regular meeting, subject to the approval of the annual business meeting.

For District Units.

In conjunction with that resolution, the following was approved, with regard to the district unit plan:

Resolved that we, the district representatives of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, in session at Baltimore, Monday, October 9, 1922, do hereby endorse and recommend that the F. T. D. members in every district where it is at all practical, organize themselves into district units.

First, for the purpose of advancing the interest of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association within said districts by increasing and stabilizing the membership.

Second, for the purpose of closer coöperation among the members locally, so that the florists' telegraph delivery system, as a business, may be increased.

Third, for the mutual benefit of the members in the district through the discussions and applications of matters that are of vital importance to the welfare and progress of each individual member.

We would further recommend that the following uniform rules governing such district units be adopted:

First, at least one meeting shall be held in each district every year and as many more as can be conveniently arranged for.

Second, the following officers shall be elected to serve one year for the purpose of conducting and promoting the organization work in the said units: A chairman, a vice-chairman and a secretary; and also to nominate a district representative to be appointed by the president of the F. T. D. Immediately after the selection of said officers their names shall be sent in to the secretary of the F. T. D.

Third, immediately upon assuming office the chairman shall appoint the following standing committees, consisting of three members each to serve one year: A membership committee and a statistical committee. The members of said committees are to be chosen from different parts of the district, geographically.

Fourth, the duties of the membership committee are to pass upon all applications for membership in the F. T. D. Association within said district. Every application for membership shall have the endorsement of at least two members of the committee before forwarding same to the national secretary for approval.

Fifth, the duties of the statistical committee are to get the correct names and addresses and such other information as will be outlined in blanks provided for this work, of every florist or floral establishment within said district once a year and the same is to be kept on file in the office of the secretary of said district unit and a copy thereof is to be sent to the secretary of the F. T. D.

Sixth, a district unit may appoint such other special committees from time to time as may be necessary to properly carry on the work in said units. All transactions of the district units are subject to the supervision of the officers and board of directors and also subject to the approval of the annual business meeting.

These rules governing district units may be amended, altered or repealed by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any regular meeting of the unit, subject to the approval of the annual business meeting.

Clearing House.

At a late hour Tuesday, October 10, came up also the clearing house plan. This was explained and discussed. H. P. Knoble thought that one per cent would be sufficient to charge on the collection of bills, the association to pay any small deficit which might accrue while the clearing house was being put on its feet. W. F. Gude thought two per cent more advisable, since that would obviate the likelihood of a deficit. E. J. McCarthy, manager of Weir, Inc., Brooklyn, and Max Schling said the plan had been approved at a meeting of New Yorkers at the Hotel Pennsylvania recently.

In response to a request for information as to the present volume of telegraph orders, the F. T. D. accountant stated that postcards asking such data of members had been sent out from the Detroit office. Of them, only 450 had been returned in time for tabulation at the meeting, their total orders amounted to $605,000. Assuming that the membership of the F. T. D. is six times this number and that the others do a proportionately large telegraph business, the total amount interchanged between members of the association would be between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000, an amount much smaller than estimates made without such basis of accurate data have been.

At the Wednesday morning session resolutions adopting the clearing house plan were approved, as follows:

Whereas, the matter of a new plan for an improved and more complete clearing house system has been under consideration by the board of directors for some time and whereas the membership has been well informed through articles written and lectures given on a proposed plan,

Therefore, be it resolved, that we, the district representatives in session, heartily endorse a new clearing house plan whereby all accounts between members may be collected and paid through the clearing house in one transaction.

And be it further resolved, that we recommend to the annual business meeting that the board of directors be authorized and empowered to take the necessary steps towards inaugurating a clearing house plan, such as in their judgment will meet the needs of the members and will encourage coöperation, and if possible to have it ready and put into operation by January 1, 1923.

Realizing that from time to time differences as to accounts will arise between members, we would further recommend that a complaint department be established within the clearing house, to which such complaints may be referred for adjustment and where satisfactory adjustment cannot be made, such differences shall be referred to the arbitration board, as constituted in the by-laws, for final action.

The percentage to be charged for the collection of bills was finally left to the board of directors.

Constitution and By-laws Amended.

Copies of a circular bearing the proposed amendments to the constitution and by-laws had been, it was stated, mailed to members of the association. Upon the assumption that everyone had read the circular, the amendments were passed by a viva-voce vote without being read. A number of the changes were unimportant, being only made to make possible the inclusion of foreign members in the association.

More vital, however, were the increases in the annual dues, which now are to be as follows:

	Annual dues
Class A—$100,000 business or over	$50.00
Class B— 50,000 to $100,000	30.00
Class C— 25,000 to 50,000	20.00
Class D— 25,000 or less	10.00

Guarantee fund payments were likewise increased, so that they are now as follows:

Class A—$100,000 business or over	$100.00
Class B— 50,000 to $100,000	75.00
Class C— 25,000 to 50,000	50.00
Class D— 25,000 or less	25.00

The association is now deemed well-to-do enough so that directors may be paid for their services. An amendment to article V, section 3, added after the words "without pay," the clause, "except the directors shall receive compensation, mileage and per diem pay as fixed from time to time." The by-laws committee recommended that directors' meetings be closed to all except directors and necessary office staff.

PRIZE-WINNING WINDOWS.

The judges had no easy time to find the right windows to which to award the three prizes offered for those at Baltimore best presenting the telegraph delivery idea at the time of the F. T. D. convention. Charles H. Brown announced that the scoring was so close that Robert L. Graham took first prize with 92 points, Samuel Feast & Sons, second with 91, and Mary Johnston, third with 90.

The first notable feature of the Graham display was the three letters, F. T. D., in hydrangea blossoms, standing six feet tall on the walk in front of the store. In the window was a geographical globe, around which whirled toy automobiles, each marked with the name of a Baltimore F. T. D. member, a feature praised for its indication of a broad-minded attitude by the firm. Over the globe hung a canopy of moss, with the inscription, "F. T. D. service covers the globe." In the front of the window were basket arrangements suitable for various occasions, such as Christmas, St. Valentine's day, Mothers' day, Thanksgiving, a birth, a birthday, and the like.

The Feast window was conspicuous by reason of three large gilt letters, nies, recording as principal items names, addresses and delivery time. The shipper is held responsible for all shipments being delivered on time and is on his job every minute. This department is one of the most important in the store, for on his ability to deliver properly depends much of the florist's success or failure. He has his trucks and boys, with a special staff of extra boys attending the high school and working after school hours until 6 o'clock.

Many parcels on which no time is mentioned are held for delivery after 2 o'clock by high school boys, so that we can keep our regular staff delivering orders that call for special time. You can make arrangements with the head master of any high school to send reliable boys to you who are glad to earn extra money and incidentally are getting the first step in business training. And, by the way, we use a similar method during the holiday season in getting extra salesmen from the nearby colleges, telephoning the employment department of the college, and we have been given fine types of young men, who are eager to earn extra money and at the same time get business experience. We have one of our own salesmen teach them the selling end, and in a short period, before the holiday season starts, they become proficient enough to take care of the extra business which every holiday brings.

Bookkeeping Up-to-Date.

Now we come to the billing or bookkeeping department. We have our chief and assistants in a balcony at the rear of the store, with every modern known device to assist in getting all accounts and details finished the same day. With the latest Underwood bookkeeping machine; an adding machine and a National cash register—the last has just been released after a twenty-year experiment and seems almost human in its every detail—one machine checks the other and errors seldom creep in that are not detected ere long. With the assistance of these machines and our office force, we are able to have at a moment's notice our total volume of the previous day, month and year and a general knowledge of the net profit daily, something which perhaps may be of interest to those who are desirous of obtaining a daily account of their business. Our auditor has at semiannual periods arranged an average daily budget of current overhead and operating expenses, by dividing the actual costs by the number of working days and adding the daily purchases; this gives you a fair knowledge of your everyday business, whether it be a net loss or gain. This suggestion will tend to keep your buying down to a point where you know how you stand at all times. Of course, the exact details are rendered monthly, but the daily report is interesting.

The following report is submitted to me daily from the cash register:

Daily cash sales.
C. O. D. in and out to date in monthly periods.
Daily C. O. D. in and out.
Amount received on accounts for the day.
Amount of charges for the day.
Total cash received and received on account for the day.
Total cash, charges and C. O. D. out for the day.
Number of customers.
Daily work of each salesman.
Amount of stock sold, under the following classifications: Cut flowers, floral designs, plants, weddings, miscellaneous and special.

Under the last two items of stock sold we keep a separate account of some novelty that might be on sale at a certain season of the year.

New Accounts.

We lay a great deal of importance on new accounts opened and are careful to see to it that a customer's rating is good. In all large cities there are credit-reporting companies under affiliation with the local chamber of commerce, where all retail store memberships are grouped under one head in a rating book similar to Dun's or Bradstreet's, with the exception that it contains all information necessary to a retail business, such as a list of salaried and business folk who have accounts with retail merchants, and every name has its key and rating. This service has saved us much trouble in enabling us to avoid accepting bad accounts.

When application is made for an account the applicant is given a regular form to fill out, bearing these questions:

Name and address (if Mrs., give husband's business address and name of firm).
Vocation and business address.
References, etc.
If property owner, state in whose name assessed and location of property.

Bank references are not acceptable. When the account is accepted, the applicant is notified in a courteous manner and the account is then recorded on a Rand rotary file, which contains the names and addresses of all customers, ready for reference at a moment's notice.

When customers' accounts become delinquent, they are followed up by a series of letters, that are most effective and yet not too strong until the last resort, when it becomes necessary to transfer it to our collecting agency, which we try not to do if it can be avoided.

Our adoption of the golden rule method has enabled us to solve most of our problems and make our business more interesting, more profitable and one that will scatter more happiness than any other line.

To sum it all up, we are in the greatest profession on earth, where nature herself creeps in at all times to help us serve, and being thus favored, it is up to each of us to do all in our power to make more persons happy and spread the doctrine of service to our fellow men in such a way as to make it worth while. And we, as florists, can feel that our mission has made and will continue to make sunshine for all mankind, and if we give the best that is in us, we are doing our part towards making this world of ours a nobler and better land to live in.

F. T. D. FINISHES

BUSINESS AT BALTIMORE.

District Representatives' Organization.

The closing day of the F. T. D. meeting at Baltimore was full of business and discussion. The earlier matters were reported in these columns last week. As there stated, the plan of a district representatives' organization was adopted. The resolution which brought this body to life was read to the full convention and concurred in, as follows:

Resolved, that we, the district representatives of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, assembled in Baltimore, Monday, October 9, 1922, believing that it is for the best interest of our association to organize ourselves into a district representatives' organization, do hereby endorse and recommend that the following rules governing such organization be adopted:

First, the annual meeting of this organization is to be held on the day prior to the day set for the beginning of the annual business meeting, and it shall meet at such other time and place, in special session, as may be called by the chairman of this organization, the chairman to call such special session only upon instructions or endorsement of the board of directors of the F. T. D. or by its duly authorized representative.

Second, at each annual meeting this organization shall elect the following officers: A chairman, a vice-chairman, a second vice-chairman and a secretary. The chairman, upon assuming office, shall appoint as standing committees, consisting of three members each, a committee on membership and a committee on statistics, and shall from time to time appoint such other special committees as may be authorized by the members of this organization in session.

Third, the duty of the committee on membership is to render all assistance possible towards increasing and stabilizing the membership of the F. T. D. throughout the various districts, by coöperating with the membership committee in the various units and other district representatives.

Fourth, the duty of the committee on statistics is to aid and encourage the gathering of statistical matter throughout the various districts by aiding and encouraging district unit committees on statistics and other district representatives towards acquiring as much data as possible pertaining to the florists' business throughout North America and foreign countries.

Fifth, all transactions of the district representatives' organization shall be subject to the supervision and final approval of the officers and board of directors and also of the annual business meeting.

These rules governing the district representatives' organization may be amended, altered or repealed by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any regular meeting, subject to the approval of the annual business meeting.

For District Units.

In conjunction with that resolution, the following was approved, with regard to the district unit plan:

Resolved that we, the district representatives of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, in session at Baltimore, Monday, October 9, 1922, do hereby endorse and recommend that the F. T. D. members in every district where it is at all practical, organize themselves into district units.

First, for the purpose of advancing the interest of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association within said districts by increasing and stabilizing the membership.

Second, for the purpose of closer coöperation among the members locally, so that the florists' telegraph delivery system, as a business, may be increased.

Third, for the mutual benefit of the members in the district through the discussions and applications of matters that are of vital importance to the welfare and progress of each individual member.

We would further recommend that the following uniform rules governing such district units be adopted:

First, at least one meeting shall be held in each district every year and as many more as can be conveniently arranged for.

Second, the following officers shall be elected to serve one year for the purpose of conducting and promoting the organization work in the said units: A chairman, a vice-chairman and a secretary; and also to nominate a district representative to be appointed by the president of the F. T. D. Immediately after the selection of said officers their names shall be sent in to the secretary of the F. T. D.

Third, immediately upon assuming office the chairman shall appoint the following standing committees, consisting of three members each to serve one year: A membership committee and a statistical committee. The members of said committees are to be chosen from different parts of the district, geographically.

Fourth, the duties of the membership committee are to pass upon all applications for membership in the F. T. D. Association within said district. Every application for membership shall have the endorsement of at least two members of the committee before forwarding same to the national secretary for approval.

Fifth, the duties of the statistical committee are to get the correct names and addresses and such other information as will be outlined in blanks provided for this work, of every florist or floral establishment within said district once a year and the same is to be kept on file in the office of the secretary of said district unit and a copy thereof is to be sent to the secretary of the F. T. D.

Sixth, a district unit may appoint such other special committees from time to time as may be necessary to properly carry on the work in said units. All transactions of the district units are subject to the supervision of the officers and board of directors and also subject to the approval of the annual business meeting.

These rules governing district units may be amended, altered or repealed by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any regular meeting of the unit, subject to the approval of the annual business meeting.

Do you know the meaning of F. T. D.?" An arrow pointing to the shop entrance indicated where enlightenment might be obtained.

BALTIMORE COMMITTEES.

TEAM WORK

THE DISTRICT UNIT PLAN.

Ammann Presents Plan.

In presenting to you the plan for F. T. D. district units, I cannot help but repeat some of what has already been said. The district unit plan for organization work is not new. In fact, nearly every national organization of any large consequence is functioning that way today and hence we are in this instance only following successful precedents.

In the month of May, just passed, your board of directors, while in annual session at Detroit, engaged me to do field work for this organization. I have since then covered fifteen states and met in conference with about 500 members.

I always have been a strong advocate of field work in organizations, but I never realized the vast importance and the great possibilities I do now, since having been actually in the work.

The desire for personal contact and the response from the results therefrom are gratifying, indeed. The little experience I have had has already convinced me that this association has in every district of the sixty a live and willing worker in the person of the district representative. They are only lacking in a few things to give 100 per cent results from their service.

The first thing wanted is a leader, some one to map out district representatives' plans of action and to guide them a little at times. This will now be had in the officers of the district representative organization. The second is assistance out in their own districts. In most cases the districts cover a large territory and, to do the office of district representative justice, there should be a tie-up out in the field. This can best be received by organizing district units.

Recommendations.

Where district units are organized, we recommend the following rules as proposed and recommended by the district representatives' organization:

At least one meeting shall be held in each district every year and as many more as can be conveniently arranged for.

The following officers shall be elected to serve one year for the purpose of conducting and promoting the organization work in the said units: a chairman, a vice-chairman, and a secretary, and also to nominate a district representative to be appointed by the president of the F. T. D. association. Immediately after the selection of said officers their names shall be sent in to the secretary of the F. T. D. association.

Immediately upon assuming office the chairman shall appoint the following standing committees, consisting of three members each, to serve one year: a membership committee and a statistical committee. The members of said committee are to be chosen from different parts of the district, geographically.

The duties of the membership committee are to pass upon all applications for membership in the F. T. D. within said district. Every application for membership shall have the endorsement of at least two members of the committee before forwarding same to the national secretary for approval.

The duties of the statistical committee are to get the correct names and addresses and such other information as will be outlined in blanks provided for this work, of every florist or floral establishment within said district once a year and the same is to be kept on file in the office of the secretary of said district unit and a copy thereof is to be sent to the national secretary.

A district unit may appoint such other special committees from time to time as may be necessary to properly carry on the work in said units. All transactions of the district units are subject to the supervision of the national officers and board of directors and also subject to the approval of the national business meeting.

AMENDMENTS.

These rules governing district units may be amended, altered, or repealed by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any regular meeting of the unit, subject to the approval of the national business meetings.

Should Increase Business.

I sincerely believe and confidently predict that if this unit plan is once put into operation, the F. T. D. business will soon increase fifty per cent and there will be a better understanding among members, besides giving this organization statistics on our trade that will be of incalculable value.

Just an illustration as to the future possibilities for increased business if the field is more thoroughly organized. I have observed in my travels from data that I have been able to gather that the annual F. T. D. business in different communities varies from 2 cents to 20 cents per capita.

I have endeavored to trace the reasons for this great variation and in every instance where I have been able to do so I have found that the larger volume of business done was due to judicious local advertising. To a great extent the field in the larger cities is being well covered, but even here there is yet much room for constructive propaganda, while in the smaller cities and in rural communities the field is ripe for a vast harvest. Here is where the organized units can be of great value.

According to our present estimate of a ten-million-dollar business done annually in the United States and Canada, this, based upon a total population of these countries of approximately one hundred and fifteen million, would be in round figures 9 cents per capita. If that is true and we have struck just about an average between the 2 cents per capita community and the 20 cents per capita, under our present rather crude system, and in such a short space of time, does it not seem probable that by becoming better organized and getting closer coöperation, our F. T. D. business, as well as our organization, should grow in leaps and bounds?

With this question on your minds, I close with the hands of F. T. D. progress pointing to the district unit plan as the next step forward.

Outline of district unit plan presented by J. F. Ammann, field manager, before the meeting of the F. T. D. at Baltimore, October 10 to 12. A chart was submitted by Mr. Ammann showing how units can tie into organized work.

FUTURE F. T. D. TEMPLE.

Permanent Building a Necessity.

It does not take so much vision nor does it necessitate many figures to realize that this organization will have a permanent building. The large educational institutions of the country in floriculture, and the individual efforts in classes of retail florists, demonstrate clearly that there is a big field for educational work, particularly from a practical standpoint. It would certainly be a grand opportunity for youngsters to listen to the instructive lectures of the self-made florists of the country in a temple as is now contemplated. Large insurance companies, corporations, labor organizations and other national groupings of business men maintain a national home, because it lends prestige, is a good investment and makes for safety of the finances of the organization.

From Financial Basis.

In viewing this building from a practical financial basis, let us assume that we invest our guarantee fund of $60,000, together with other earnings of $15,000. This would give us $75,000, liquid enough for all demands made upon it, such as retiring members and other slow funds. In considering our membership of 2,500, shares $100 each, it will be readily seen that our association will have little difficulty in securing the necessary pledges; namely, $250,000, which would be an investment for those participating. This amount could be returned to those who retire from membership and could also be made to earn a moderate rate of interest. The speaker believes that a fund of $250,000 is available almost any time our association appeals for it.

There are many other detail features, but the speaker at this time simply wants to make for a speedy beginning, which he is sure will make for a most successful end.

NEW OFFICERS OF F. T. D.

President-elect Edward Sceery.

The president-elect of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association has served as director of that body and has otherwise taken such a conspicuous position in retailers' affairs that he is widely known. His two stores, one at 85 Broadway, Paterson, N. J., and the other at Main and Bloomfield avenues, Passaic, N. J., are two of the most thriving in the state.

In local civic affairs Mr. Sceery is likewise prominent, as well as in fraternal organizations. He has been a member of the Paterson park commission for the last twenty years and president for the last six years. He is a past exalted ruler of the Elks, a thirty-second degree Mason, a Knight Templar and a Shriner. He was recently president of the Paterson Rotary Club and is a member of other leading clubs of New Jersey. He is a member of the New York Florists' Club and of the S. A. F.

Mr. Sceery was born at Hartford, Conn., March 23, 1869. He entered the employ of the late Charles Klunder, of New York, in 1881, where he learned the trade. He was for a time manager of Joseph Towell's business at Paterson, N. J., before beginning for himself.

The year of his office Mr. Sceery has already declared he will devote to traveling about the country on missionary work for the F. T. D., gathering in new members and aiding the work of district organizations. Mr. Sceery's portrait appeared in these columns last week.

Vice-president-elect Fred C. Weber.

The new vice-president of the F. T. D. is the son of one of the pioneer florists of St. Louis, Mo., and has been active in the trade himself for a score of years. He was born in St. Louis, January 18, 1881. After he finished his education in the public schools, he entered the banking business for two years. Later he spent a short time in the store of Geo. M. Stumpp, New York, after which he entered business with his father, Fred C. Weber, Sr., in 1902. The elder Weber, who came to this country in 1866, opened his store in 1873, and next year will see the completion of a half century of business conducted under this one name.

At the death of his father, Fred C. Weber, Jr., succeeded to the control of the business, in 1920. He is married and has one son, who is the third of the same name.

Mr. Weber has long been exceedingly active in St. Louis trade circles, and particularly so in the retailers' organization. His portrait appears on this page.

BALTIMORE BANQUET.

The annual meeting of the F. T. D. was closed by a banquet, Thursday evening, October 12, which was one of the largest at which members of the trade have ever assembled. The biggest hall in the Emerson hotel—that in which the business sessions had been held—was filled to the corners by diners. After an enjoyable repast, much enjoyed by all those who had not consumed too many oysters at preceding dinners, Charles F. Feast assumed the role of toastmaster, presiding in quiet and modest, but effective, fashion.

First he called on Philip Breitmeyer, retiring president, who expressed everybody's appreciation of and gratitude for the Baltimore florists' hospitality, which was unstinted. Edward Sceery, president-elect, related how, as soon as he had expressed his intention of spending his year of office in visiting members and prospective members of the association in all parts of the country, he had been showered with invitations from members to use their homes as his headquarters in their respective localities.

For Canada, W. W. Gammage spoke briefly, and Carl Engelmann, for florists in foreign lands.

Then, to maintain the flow of Baltimorean eloquence which distinguished the convention at the outset, Strickland Gillilan, the poet-humorist, was introduced. By his apt stories and stream of wit, he brought the applauding assemblage to its feet at the conclusion of his remarks. It was the crowning treat of the Baltimore florists' three days of generosity.

A Marconigram from Carlton White, the London florist, was received and read at this time. It congratulated the F. T. D. on its assuredly successful gathering.

To conclude the evening, the three florists whose places the visitors had inspected in the automobile tour that day, expressed their gladness to entertain their fellow tradesmen. Richard Vincent said he hoped to be present at the next florists' convention in Baltimore. Charles Le Viness, Jr., president of Akehurst & Sons, called it a privilege to entertain the visitors as his firm had done. Isaac H. Moss said it was gratifying to receive the compli-

"F. T. D.," each winged, which flew 'round and 'round a large globe. Handsome baskets of flowers and various kinds of foliage plants decorated the window space.

The Johnston window was provided with railroad tracks and telegraph poles and wires to represent wire messages, while outside the store was a traffic sign, black in color, on which was lettered in red the admonition, "Stop! Do you know the meaning of F. T. D.?" An arrow pointing to the shop entrance indicated where enlightenment might be obtained.

BALTIMORE COMMITTEES.

TEAM WORK

THE DISTRICT UNIT PLAN.

Ammann Presents Plan.

In presenting to you the plan for F. T. D. district units, I cannot help but repeat some of what has already been said. The district unit plan for organization work is not new. In fact, nearly every national organization of any large consequence is functioning that way today and hence we are in this instance only following successful precedents.

In the month of May, just passed, your board of directors, while in annual session at Detroit, engaged me to do field work for this organization. I have since then covered fifteen states and met in conference with about 500 members.

I always have been a strong advocate of field work in organizations, but I never realized the vast importance and the great possibilities I do now, since having been actually in the work.

The desire for personal contact and the response from the results therefrom are gratifying, indeed. The little experience I have had has already convinced me that this association has in every district of the sixty a live and willing worker in the person of the district representative. They are only lacking in a few things to give 100 per cent results from their service.

The first thing wanted is a leader, some one to map out district representatives' plans of action and to guide them a little at times. This will now be had in the officers of the district representative organization. The second is assistance out in their own districts. In most cases the districts cover a large territory and, to do the office of district representative justice, there should be a tie-up out in the field. This can best be received by organizing district units.

Recommendations.

Where district units are organized, we recommend the following rules as proposed and recommended by the district representatives' organization:

At least one meeting shall be held in each district every year and as many more as can be conveniently arranged for.

The following officers shall be elected to serve one year for the purpose of conducting and promoting the organization work in the said units: a chairman, a vice-chairman, and a secretary, and also to nominate a district representative to be appointed by the president of the F. T. D. association. Immediately after the selection of said officers their names shall be sent in to the secretary of the F. T. D. association.

Immediately upon assuming office the chairman shall appoint the following standing committees, consisting of three members each, to serve one year: a membership committee and a statistical committee. The members of said committee are to be chosen from different parts of the district, geographically.

The duties of the membership committee are to pass upon all applications for membership in the F. T. D. within said district. Every application for membership shall have the endorsement of at least two members of the committee before [illegible] national secretary for approval.

The duties of the statistical committee are to get the correct names and addresses and such other information as will be outlined [illegible] provided for this work, of every florist or floral establishment within said district once a year and the same is to be kept on file in the office of the secretary of said district unit and a copy thereof is to be sent to the national secretary.

A district unit may appoint such other special committees from time to time as may be necessary to properly carry on the work in said units. All transactions of the district units are subject to the supervision of the national officers and board of directors and also subject to the approval of the national business meeting.

AMENDMENTS.

These rules governing district units may be amended, altered, or repealed by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any regular meeting of the unit, subject to the approval of the national business meetings.

Should Increase Business.

I sincerely believe and confidently predict that if this unit plan is once put into operation, the F. T. D. business will soon increase fifty per cent and there will be a better understanding among members, besides giving this organization statistics on our trade that will be of incalculable value.

Just an illustration as to the future possibilities for increased business if the field is more thoroughly organized. I have observed in my travels from data that I have been able to gather that the annual F. T. D. business in different communities varies from 2 cents to 20 cents per capita.

I have endeavored to trace the reasons for this great variation and in every instance where I have been able to do so I have found that the larger volume of business done was due to judicious local advertising. To a great extent the field in the larger cities is being well covered, but even here there is yet much room for constructive propaganda, while in the smaller cities and in rural communities the field is ripe for a vast harvest. Here is where the organized units can be of great value.

According to our present estimate of a ten-million-dollar business done annually in the United States and Canada, this, based upon a total population of these countries of approximately one hundred and fifteen million, would be in round figures 9 cents per capita. If that is true and we have struck just about an average between the 2 cents per capita community and the 20 cents per capita, under our present rather crude system, and in such a short space of time, does it not seem probable that by becoming better organized and getting closer coöperation, our F. T. D. business, as well as our organization, should grow in leaps and bounds?

With this question on your minds, I close with the hands of F. T. D. progress pointing to the district unit plan as the next step forward.

Permanent Building a Necessity.

It does not take so much vision nor does it necessitate many figures to realize that this organization will have a permanent building. The large educational institutions of the country in floriculture, and the individual efforts in classes of retail florists, demonstrate clearly that there is a big field for educational work, particularly from a practical standpoint. It would certainly be a grand opportunity for youngsters to listen to the instructive lectures of the self-made florists of the country in a temple as is now contemplated. Large insurance companies, corporations, labor organizations and other national groupings of business men maintain a national home, because it lends prestige, is a good investment and makes for safety of the finances of the organization.

From Financial Basis.

In viewing this building from a practical financial basis, let us assume that we invest our guarantee fund of $60,000, together with other earnings of $15,000. This would give us $75,000, liquid enough for all demands made upon it, such as retiring members and other slow funds. In considering our membership of 2,500, shares $100 each, it will be readily seen that our association will have little difficulty in securing the necessary pledges; namely, $250,000, which would be an investment for those participating. This amount could be returned to those who retire from membership and could also be made to earn a moderate rate of interest. The speaker believes that a fund of $250,000 is available almost any time our association appeals for it.

There are many other detail features, but the speaker at this time simply wants to make for a speedy beginning, which he is sure will make for a most successful end.

NEW OFFICERS OF F. T. D.

President-elect Edward Sceery.

The president-elect of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association has served as director of that body and has otherwise taken such a conspicuous position in retailers' affairs that he is widely known. His two stores, one at 85 Broadway, Paterson, N. J., and the other at Main and Bloomfield avenues, Passaic, N. J., are two of the most thriving in the state.

In local civic affairs Mr. Sceery is likewise prominent, as well as in fraternal organizations. He has been a member of the Paterson park commission for the last twenty years and president for the last six years. He is a past exalted ruler of the Elks, a thirty-second degree Mason, a Knight Templar and a Shriner. He was recently president of the Paterson Rotary Club and is a member of other leading clubs of New Jersey. He is a member of the New York Florists' Club and of the S. A. F.

Mr. Sceery was born at Hartford, Conn., March 23, 1869. He entered the employ of the late Charles Klunder, of New York, in 1881, where he learned the trade. He was for a time manager of Joseph Towell's business at Paterson, N. J., before beginning for himself.

The year of his office Mr. Sceery has already declared he will devote to traveling about the country on missionary work for the F. T. D., gathering in new members and aiding the work of district organizations. Mr. Sceery's portrait appeared in these columns last week.

Vice-president-elect Fred C. Weber.

The new vice-president of the F. T. D. is the son of one of the pioneer florists of St. Louis, Mo., and has been active in the trade himself for a score of years. He was born in St. Louis, January 18, 1881. After he finished his education in the public schools, he entered the banking business for two years. Later he spent a short time in the store of Geo. M. Charles Le Viness, Jr., president of Akehurst & Sons, called it a privilege to entertain the visitors as his firm had done. Isaac H. Moss said it was gratifying to receive the compliments paid his life work as done that day at his establishment.

The banquet committee, as named on the handsome menu cards, was composed of Charles F. Feast, chairman; Robert L. Graham, Robert L. Graham, Jr., secretary; I. H. Moss, William J. Johnston, Joseph J. Cummings, Robert W. Johnston, William F. Keys, Jr., William Feast, Miss Sarah C. Groves, Mrs. Schuler-Thomas, Miss Ethel Sieck, Clarence Ritter, W. F. Ekas and Joseph S. Merritt.

The tables were colorful with dahlias from the Vincent dahlia farms. Fans were presented by the hotel management as souvenirs of the occasion.

MOTORING IN MARYLAND.

F. T. D. Day's Outing.

Almost to a man, visitors to the annual meeting of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association stayed over for the day's outing planned by the Baltimore florists, Thursday, October 12. Nearly fifty touring cars and four busses were filled to capacity when the motor ride started from the Emerson hotel at 10 a. m.

After a ride through the principal thoroughfares and parks of the city, the first stop was made at the establishment of Isaac H. Moss, at Lake and Bellona avenues. This establishment is a perfect picture of what a florist's place should be, to get the benefit of the advertising which his own wares make it possible to give. On either hand of the driveway which leads to the greenhouses and store are beds containing a great variety of plants. The space to the left, larger than that to the right, is laid out into plots with grass walks between. The central plot is most conspicuous, being of cannas and edged with tall perennial grasses. Some of the plots had been planted to roses, which are now gone, while in others salvias were still brilliant. In the space to the right of the roadway the assortment was more various and plants of each variety were fewer. Evergreens furnished the background on either side, being planted around the greenhouses and in front of the wooden frame building which serves as store. The view of the greenhouses from the street is made attractive by the curved-eave show house, which contains a wide variety of stove plants, ferns, palms and some orchids. The other greenhouses are devoted to an assortment of stock useful to the retailer. The chrysanthemums and poinsettias were in excellent condition, and the roses looked well.

When the travelers were aboard their cars again, they rode through the Moss nurseries, which included twenty-two acres in the pink of condition, and obtained a glimpse of the establishments of F. C. Bauer and Archie Anderson, who are neighbors of Mr. Moss. A view was obtained of the Towson Nurseries, as well, in passing.

At Akehursts'.

An hour's ride brought the party to the range of Akehurst & Sons, which is well advertised on the highway by large signboards proclaiming the Akehurst Rose Gardens and "The Home of Columbia." The entire 90,000 feet of glass at this range, which until three years ago housed only carnations, is now given to roses. There are 40,000 plants, of which 20,000 are Columbia, 15,000 Ophelia and approximately 4,000 Premier.

Here was served a most elaborate repast, from oysters to ice cream and coffee. At its conclusion, a panorama view was taken of all the guests, and Charles T. Le Viness, Jr., said a word of welcome, and in response Philip Breitmeyer expressed the thanks of the gathering for the gracious hospitality here.

Vincent's Dahlia Farm.

Not far away was found the famous establishment of R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., where forty acres of dahlias made a picture vivid in color. These were at the height of their bloom, and visitors marveled at the luxuriance of the growth and the size of the bloom. For closer inspection, baskets of blooms were arranged in the packing shed, where the visitors were able to inspect the merits of such fine varieties as Patrick O'Mara, Rotarian, Sycamore, Kiwanis, Canteen, Deadlock, Hollywood and Warren S. Seipp.

Inspection found the greenhouses, of the type of an earlier generation, filled with young stock of the kind which has made the name of Vincent widely known. In reference to the large scale on which such stock is propagated, it might be mentioned that there are 350,000 stock plants of geraniums, from which literally millions of cuttings will be rooted. These cuttings are not placed in sand in the bench, but are potted immediately in 2-inch pots in a sandy loam found on the grounds.

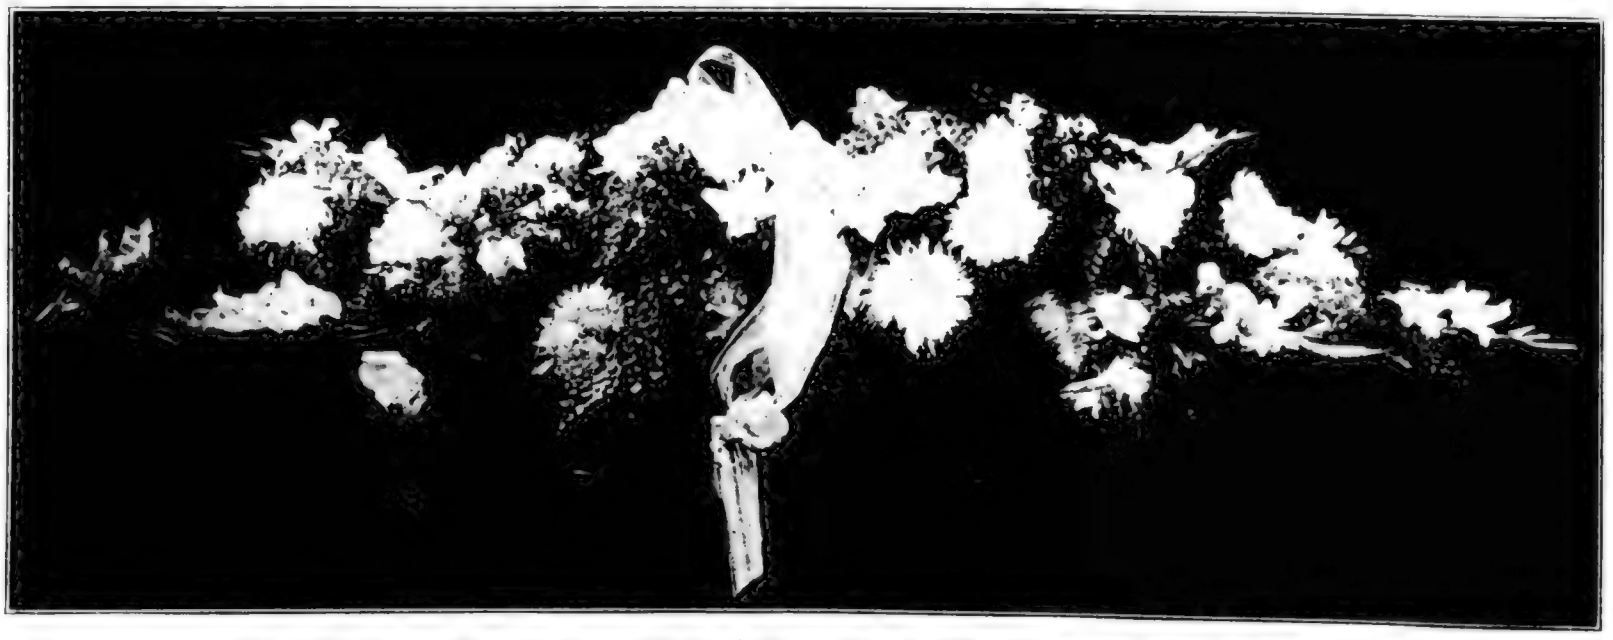
There are 300 acres outdoors, on which are grown many plants in addition to the dahlias which make the present conspicuous showing. Cannas were being dug, and two carloads had already been shipped to one firm in New York city. A touch of frost was awaited before the dahlia roots would be taken up.

When the establishment had been inspected, another elaborate menu was furnished the visitors, just as though they had not lunched before at all. Richard Vincent was present himself to welcome his guests, and to his words of general greeting Philip Breitmeyer made appreciative response.

BLACKISTONE SHOWS SPRAY.

Tells How It's Made.

One of the most interesting features of the final day's sessions at the F. T. D. gathering at Baltimore last week was the demonstration by Z. D. Blackistone, Washington, D. C., of the way to make what he names the "Blackistone blanket spray."



Many customers, he said by way of preface, will not pay the $100 and up that are necessary to buy a casket blanket, yet sometimes they want something more pretentious than the $10 or $20 sprays they have ordered in the past for funerals. To supply their want, Mr. Blackistone uses his "blanket spray," for which he charges $35 to $50 and sometimes $75.

While he made up a design like that in the illustration on this page, though of dahlias, he gave the following instructions as to how it is made, as follows:

Working Directions.

"Select any ordinary dressed board about thirty-six inches long and eight to ten inches wide. Moss this up firmly.

"Starting from the two ends and working to the center, cover this thinly, not densely, with hardy fern, laurel or any cheap, rough green. This is the groundwork. Next take a 50-cent bunch of plumosus, long sprays preferred, and fill in, working from the ends to the center, letting the fronds project about eighteen to twenty-four inches. This is the second operation. Next come the flowers; any may be used. To be specific, we will select white mums and roses of any color.

"Again working from ends, stick one mum in the center of each end, letting it project about twelve inches, and one in each corner, which may project about nine inches, and six in each side of the design, working to the center, with three pointing one way and three the other. Fourteen flowers are used. This is the foundation for the Blackistone blanket spray. Next arrange five flowers from six to ten inches long, working from the ends to the center, so that they will be symmetrically divided over the space inside the foundation already explained; total, twenty-four mums used.

"Next make, on a No. 18 wire, a bow of four loops and two ends, of handsome ribbon of 10-inch fancy chiffon, and arrange this in the center of the design. Next select four dozen large, half-open roses. The stems need not be long, but the flowers should be handsome. If the stems are stiff, they need not be wired. Intersperse them among the mums, thinly toward the ends and more closely together in the middle, working up to the ribbon which has been already placed.

"This finishes the design except for a spray of green or a flower here and there when needed. The design practically covers the entire top of the casket."

Mr. Blackistone summed up the total cost as follows:

Board, any piece of box-top will do	$ .00
Moss	.05
Hardy fern	.10
Plumosus	.50
Twenty-four mums	6.00
Forty-eight roses	4.80
Ribbon	.75
Total	$12.20

"We get from $35 to $50 for the design," said Mr. Blackistone. "If we find the customer willing to pay for something out of the ordinary, we can easily recommend adding valley, orchids, violets, etc., to make the piece $100 or more."

The advantages of this design, as stated by Mr. Blackistone, are as follows:

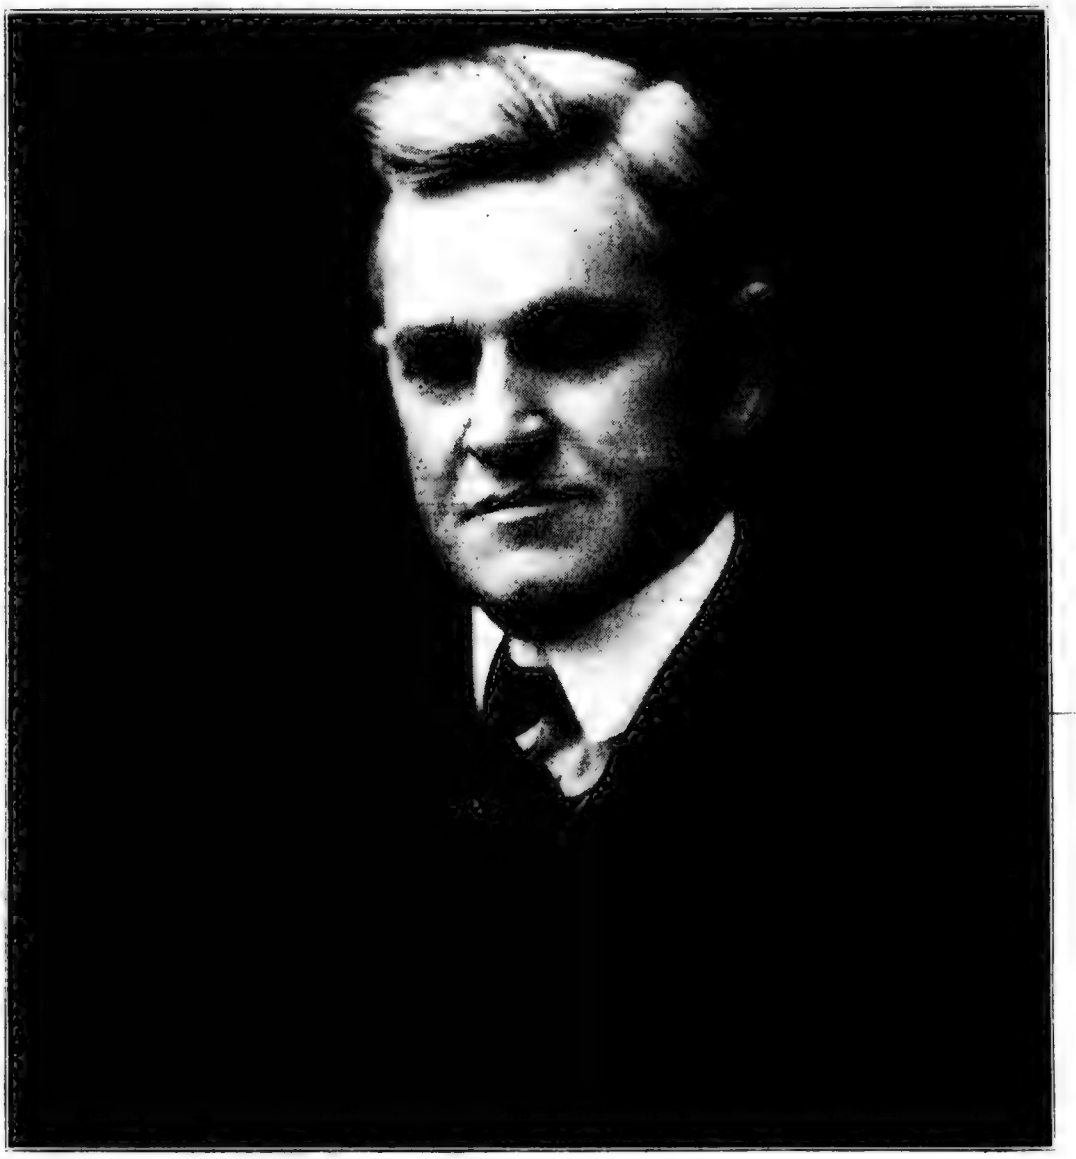
1. The moss may be moistened so as to make the flowers last much longer than in a tied spray.
2. It is much easier to arrange.
3. With a given amount of stock double the effect may be attained.
4. It is a much easier article to sell to the particular customer who does not want a set piece and who has been in the habit of paying $5 to $15 for the ordinary tied spray, but who cannot see the value when you talk about $50 or $100 for just a spray.
5. In military funerals and for certain caskets where a blanket cannot be used, the blanket spray fills the bill exactly.
6. It is not only profitable, giving the florist a good price for his knowledge and art, but it invariably satisfies the customer.

CLASPING THE GLAD HAND.

Answering Baltimore's Welcome.

You have just listened to sincere words of welcome. It is a great pleasure for me to assure our Baltimore friends that we who come from the north, the far north, the south, east and west, and even foreign lands, deeply appreciate the opportunity of gathering together with you here. One year ago, at Toronto, we were requested to make Baltimore our next place of meeting. Our votes were delivered in response to an urgent appeal by one of the junior florists of this city. He frankly informed us that this was necessary to keep him in right with dad and that the next annual business meeting of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association must come to Baltimore.

In recalling this incident of a year ago we also bring to mind the pledge of Baltimore hospitality extended to us at that time and the cordial welcome that would await our coming. The many little courtesies, the ample provision made for our every comfort and convenience, the glad hand, the smile of welcome, the evident willingness to be of service to visiting friends, all make us feel that the pledge made at Toronto has been more than fully sustained. Ladies and gentlemen, Baltimore has kept the faith.



Hard Work of Preparation.

In expressing the thanks of the association to those who have prepared so well for us here, we are mindful of the weeks and months of hard work in preparation. Staging a national business meeting entails more thought and effort than appears on the surface. It means perspiration and shirt sleeves rolled to the elbow. It means organization. It means committee meetings that always precede the real work. It means providing for hotel accommodations, entertainment, automobile educational trips, and a thousand and one things that minister to the welfare and enjoyment of the hundreds who come. Yet, in sensing the situation we can see that Baltimore has organized carefully, planned wisely and evidently without confusion and worry. We do not feel as strangers within foreign gates, but as friends among friends, enjoying the hospitality and freedom of home life itself.

Today, and during the remainder of our stay in your beautiful and historic city, we are deeply conscious of the important work that lies immediately before us. For ten brief years it has been our practice to gather together each year, to discuss ways and means to advance our collective interests. After discussion comes action, and our association can this day point with pride to the records made in past years. But today and tomorrow, it seems, we have matters to consider and act on that are of more than the usual importance. It seems that our association is ready to part with its swaddling clothes and step into the full uniform of a mature and modern business organization that has humanity to serve and the world for its field.

Our New Period.

We are endeavoring to organize and equip ourselves in the most modern way we know. We are to consider and possibly adopt a clearing house plan to clear all balances monthly between all members. This will turn individual expense into a savings fund and build a more stable association. We are to perfect the plan of organizing the land into districts, each working as a unit in coöperation with the central office. This will enable us to work much like our larger corporations, with branches here, there and everywhere. We are to consider the problem of publicity and the various means of educating the public through the members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association in regard to flowers by wire service.

These are some of the main factors that call us together, and I only mention them here to show that our association has the opportunity to make a large portion of its own history while in session here in your wonderful city. The Baltimore annual meeting should indeed go down in history as the beginning of a new period, where we begin to concern ourselves with bigger things and really prove to ourselves that within our association there are ability and resources enough to do bigger things well.

Common Interest First.

But, as in any organization or any venture that carries itself to successful achievement, there must be a willingness among the copartners to coöperate and raise the common interest above that of the individual. Often, in carrying out the duties of high office, one must consider the public welfare first and the individual citizen second. We, too, must observe the same principle in all our dealings and hold to the truth that in union there is strength, and that the interests of our association are paramount.

As a closing word, I want to tell you again how much we appreciate your cordial words of welcome and your willingness to provide for our comfort and entertainment while in your midst. In behalf of the membership present here and in behalf of our listening audience, in the four corners of the globe, I want to thank you a thousand times.

A. F. Borden had not recovered from the injuries sustained in the train wreck on the way home from the F. T. D. directors' meeting last spring, sufficiently to make the journey to Baltimore. His letter of explanation was read to the convention by President Breitmeyer.

After the convention had voted to go to St. Louis in 1923, Max Schling asked in behalf of New York for the 1924 meeting and Frank Schramm spoke for Toledo for 1925. On reminder of the claim of the south for 1925, the latter changed his request to 1926. At this point Charles H. Grakelow declared that it seemed advisable to let "our children" select the places where they would meet years hence.

On the floor of the convention ways were told by which individual florists advertised the F. T. D. No place on the program was given to consideration of national advertising of the service by the association, though there seemed some opinion that this might well be done with the organization's funds now well in excess of annual operating expenses.

The exceptionally able presentation of facts concerning steamer orders made by H. G. Perry, general manager of Dards, New York, which was printed in full in last week's Review, was supplemented by remarks by Fred Seulberger, of San Francisco, about Pacific coast trade. The war-time travel to the Orient and the development of Pacific ocean navigation have caused great strides in steamer business west of the Rockies.

Alberto R. Langwith, of Havana, Cuba, shared with Carl Engelmann the representation of foreign members of the F. T. D. Senor Langwith gave some interesting and amusing facts concerning the Cuban flower business.

Baskets of chrysanthemums from the Pacific coast were on the platform the second day of the meeting. They came from the E. W. McLellan Co., San Francisco.

W. A. Hansen's paper on coöperation with and by the wholesalers, printed in last week's Review, aroused some discussion, after President Breitmeyer had invited remarks from Frank Traendly, of New York; Arthur Niessen, of Philadelphia, and Miss Nettie Parker, of Chicago. Victor Ridenour and Charles H. Grakelow presented the retailer's side, the latter incidentally replying to Mr. Hansen's statement that 50,000,000 people, nearly half the population of the United States, were within a night's ride of the Chicago market by saying that no credit was due Chicago, it was simply "because the trains run so damfast."

There was a congenial dinner of the early birds Sunday night. Monday evening, Edward Sceery invited a few friends to the Rennert; his popularity was attested by the waiter's ultimately presenting him a bill for ninety guests. Tuesday evening, Max Schling prepared to dine his students who were present; they told the chef to go ahead and then they paid the bill, putting the surprise on the self-titled host. The orators of the gathering were eloquent at one or all of these. At the luncheons, Tuesday and Wednesday, given by the Baltimore florists to the visitors, there was only music. The eloquence hearkened to at the final banquet, also on the Baltimoreans, Thursday evening, is described elsewhere.

Among other surprises came one for George Geraghty, of Toronto, who, though a bachelor, brought a party of eighteen from Toronto with the best of paternal watchfulness. In gratitude for his care, the party presented him a handsome traveling bag, enlisting for the occasion the silvery-tongued services of that veteran presenter, Charles H. Grakelow, who was equal to his theme. Mr. Geraghty was grateful, but speechless.

The Philadelphians, headed by Charles H. Grakelow, Victor Ridenour and Charles Henry Fox, were urgent that visitors return via the City of Brotherly Love and accommodations were made to show many the sights of that metropolis. William F. Gude welcomed visitors to the capital for a visit Friday. Both invitations met with strong response.

From the store of W. L. Rock Flower Co., Kansas City, Mo., was sent a funeral wreath of novel material, Celosia Brysonia chrysantheflora. The body of the wreath was a pastel shade of green, with a bunch of deep red at the bottom, and a bow of ribbon added finish to the handsome piece, which was admiringly inspected.

Some of the novel boxes used by the Jones-Russell Co., Cleveland, O., in sending out cut flower orders were displayed. They are highly colored in unusual patterns.

No surprise was more complete than that on President Breitmeyer at the closing session. A "faked" long-distance call got him out of the hall in the afternoon while the plans were laid for presenting him a token of esteem. The evening session, called principally for the event, was marked by as fervent a demonstration of affection as has ever occurred in a trade gathering. Charles H. Grakelow was incomparably apt in his touching speech of presentation. The silver tea service set before him so affected Mr. Breitmeyer that he could say little and relinquished the chair a few minutes to recover from the emotions the cheering, applauding audience stirred in him. As poignantly touched, indeed, were all, for they realized that not soon would the association have the privilege of guidance by so able, so tactful, so persuasive a presiding officer, one whose life of experience and natural ability have made the last three conventions noteworthy for their smoothness and harmony of action.

Discussion of the trade's debt to Miss Anna Jarvis and the proposed fund for her organization stirred up conflicting views regarding the lady. The trade is desirous of burying the hatchet and would be glad to buy a tombstone for it into the bargain. The question is whether it would be subject to exhumation at another Mothers' day.

The demonstrations are as valuable a feature of F. T. D. meetings as any. Z. D. Blackistone interestingly described his blanket spray; it is pictured and explained on another page. Charles Henry Fox followed with an exhibition of the merits of the Bluebird box, the pillow basket and the bridal cuff, with a sure-enough bride, Mrs. Sydney H. Bayersdorfer, to demonstrate the last-named with the proper grace and blushes. These were in person. Vincent J. Gorly showed moving pictures of the $16,000 debutante decoration, "A Night in Venice," made by Grimm & Gorly in St. Louis; it was described in these columns, with illustrations, at the time.

The national publicity committee came down from New York for a session and went away with a check for $2,500 from the association.

The committee on final resolutions, composed of Ira C. Harper, chairman; Alfred Bunyard, J. W. Grandy, Jr., Fred Seulberger, George M. Geraghty and W. B. Brown, paid tribute to the efforts of the Baltimore florists and to the hotel management at the Emerson in making the visitors' stay in Baltimore so enjoyable.

* * * *

Sam Seligman asked for a more prominent place in the sun for the associate members of the F. T. D. The traveling men, in particular, are of much aid to the association, it was admitted. At a future convention, perhaps, the associate members will have their meeting or their place on the program.

* * * *

The intentions of the Western Union Telegraph Co., in sending a representative to tell florists of the value of time, were undoubtedly good. He added to the oratorical glories of the meeting. But his fund of knowledge was not that which florists would have liked to have tapped as regards the telegraph company's service.

The F. T. D. believes in keeping good men when it gets them. Since the entry, in 1920, of Max Schling to the place on the board of directors made vacant that year by the election of H. G. Dillemuth to the vice-presidency, there has been no new member on the board. In that year the other two retiring directors were reëlected.

The lobby of the Hotel Emerson was made colorful by the display of foliage plants from W. A. Manda.

Robert L. Graham, Sr., who made the address of welcome at the S. A. F. convention at Baltimore in 1911, successfully repeated the act for the F. T. D. eleven years later.

James A. Young, secretary of the Illinois State Nurserymen's Association, telegraphed for the association's support of tree planting week, which President Breitmeyer stated it was glad to accord.

Efforts to purge the monthly membership list of display cards were unavailing. The directors, it was stated by Business Manager Bloy, had acceded to members' requests that the cards be removed, but decided against the action when it was made clear that they provided most of the income by which the present form of monthly list was made possible.

Carl Engelmann, Saffron Walden, England, gave some ingenious ways by which foreign members in the F. T. D. might be obtained, provided American florists wished to stand the expense. Perhaps the association, now well fixed financially, might pay the cost of the propaganda he suggested.

J. C. Anderson of Lebanon, Tenn., dispensed the welcome "Say It with Flower" cigarettes enjoyed at some previous gatherings.

The Baltimore florists entertained the visiting florists at luncheon on the two days of the business sessions.

The customary courtesy was shown the press by the arrangement of tables for the members thereof in an advantageous position in the front of the hall.

Signs in the railroad stations, on the streets and about the Emerson hotel told the world that the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association was convened in Baltimore, and welcomed its members. The evidences of thorough preparation by the Baltimore florists were on every hand.

* * * *

Karl P. Baum, secretary of Baum's Home of Flowers, Knoxville, Tenn., handed out as souvenirs pairs of folding scissors in a neat leather case. It was suggested the token represented the necessity of cutting costs in order to earn profits under present conditions.

* * * *

It was well pointed out that the F. T. D. is no longer a national body. The party from Canada was early and conspicuous. Carl Engelmann, of Saffron Walden, England, crossed the Atlantic for the gathering.

The usual memorial wreath was ordered placed on the grave of the association's first president, J. A. Valentine, at Denver.

Cardboard four-leaved clovers, which were found to make excellent "sailers," advertised the six stores of the Joy Floral Co., at Nashville, Chattanooga, Clarksville and Columbia, Tenn., and Atlanta, Ga. Miss Joy was the sole representative of the firm. Tom Joy wired regrets.

Fred Lautenschlager, manager of the greenhouse department of the Brunswick-Kroeschell Co., distributed a pamphlet in which were reprinted the papers on refrigeration by Percy B. Rigby, New York; Otto Amling, Maywood, Ill., and George V. Wienhoeber and H. D. Schiller, Chicago, presented at the S. A. F. convention and published in The Review. Florists who did not save that issue may obtain these valuable papers by writing for a copy of this pamphlet to the Brunswick-Kroeschell Co., 444 West Erie street, Chicago. Copies of Ottenheimer Bros., Inc., refrigerator specialists, maintained an exhibit at the general offices and display rooms at 415 North Howard street, Baltimore, for the benefit of visiting florists. Mementos were numerous. Some have already been given mention. Others particularly noteworthy were the neat leather bill purses given by Mary Johnston, Baltimore, the pocket celluloid rulers distributed by Bunyard, New York, and the celluloid bookmarks reminding of the new location of Samuel Feast & Sons, Baltimore. Pencils were handed out by J. W. Grandy, Jr., of Norfolk, Va., and Fred Lautenschlager, of the Brunswick-Kroeschell Co., Chicago.

GIVE DAHLIAS TO HOSPITAL.

"Time and tide wait for no man." And we florists are not excepted. So the trade in Washington, D. C., "strikes while the iron is hot." Recently a week was set aside for a dahlia show and for "Say It with Flowers" week. During these seven days everything possible was done to gain publicity for the trade. The actual cost of the campaign was less than $200. The actual benefit, obtained amounted to much more.

This story has to do with the illustration on this page, which demonstrates one of the features of the campaign—presenting flowers by committee to hospitals. Here we see the committee presenting dahlias at the Walter Reed hospital. Major Charles O. Walson, executive officer of the institution, which is a general army hospital, is receiving the posies.

The tiny lady in the front of the photograph is Miss Mary Elizabeth Oehmler. Others shown are Miss Amelia Gude, Mrs. Henry Whitt, Henry Whitt, vice-president of the Florists' Club; Mrs. Rosine Stauff, Z. D. Blackistone, chairman of the dahlia show committee; Mrs. Harry J. Ley, O. A. C. Oehmler, president of the Florists' Club; Mrs. George H. Cook and Mrs. Otto Bauer.

ELYRIA, O.

The Market.

Being without rain for thirty days, the outdoor flowers are about gone. We did, however, have a shower Saturday, October 7, which may help the dahlias, if the frost holds off for any length of time. A few short-stemmed carnations are to be had, but these are not numerous enough to supply the demand.

Some early chrysanthemums are making their appearance on the market, but stock, generally, is scarce.

Florists Meet.

The Lorain County Florists' Club held its monthly meeting October 10, at the store of J. E. Tulea. The first part of the evening was spent inspecting the new greenhouses which Mr. Tulea is erecting back of his store. The meeting was called to order by President Tulea. The discussion of a fall flower show took up the greater part of the evening. It was decided, however, to give up the idea of holding a show this year, because no suitable place could be agreed upon, and the time is too short until the chrysanthemum crop will be on. Refreshments were served by Mr. Tulea.

Various Notes.

A visit to the greenhouses of F. E. Sutliff & Son, at Wellington, O., revealed an enterprising firm in action. The new Lord & Burnham iron-frame greenhouse is filled with healthy stock. Mt. Sutliff reports business good.

Edward Andrews, of Marion, O., is now with F. E. Sutliff & Son, of Wellington, O.

Frank Hittsman, of the L. C. Hecock Floral Co., went to Cleveland Saturday, October 7, to look things over at that city.

Albert King, of the L. C. Hecock Floral Co., was a Painesville visitor Saturday, October 7.

A. Gelder is back to work with the L. C. Hecock Floral Co., after a week's vacation.

The college students have returned, and Humm & Jones, of Oberlin, O., report an improvement in business.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hecock returned Friday evening, October 13, from the F. T. D. convention at Baltimore, and reported an enjoyable and interesting week.

V. E. Rice, who for many years was in active business at Oberlin, O., is in a serious condition at the Lakeside hospital, Cleveland, where he was operated on for a cancer of the throat.

Alvin Jones, of Humm & Jones, Oberlin, O., motored to Columbus, October 14, to see the game between Oberlin college and Ohio State University. Oberlin's men did not win, but Mr. Jones said that it was a good game, and to see the new stadium was worth the trip. P. W.

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

Renewed Activity.

There is renewed interest and much activity now to be noticed in the conduct of the publicity campaign, and the publicity committee is busy with a number of plans, all of which bode well for publicity for flowers. The committee had an all-day meeting in New York and another session in Baltimore last week, at both of which much was accomplished. A full report of these meetings will be given in our next week's letter.

The committee still complains bitterly of the neglect on the part of a number of subscribers to take up the pledges they have made to the campaign fund. While willing to believe that many of these cases are due entirely to oversight, the committee hopes that all delinquents will see the necessity now for sending in their checks. It is an uphill job trying to fulfill the objects of the campaign with an insufficiency of funds, and as the committee is most sincere in its desire to return to subscribers the best service in its power, it feels it should have the support of all those who have been lax in the fulfillment of their most excellent intentions and urges that checks be mailed to the secretary without further delay. Bills have again been sent out to all subscribers in arrears, in the hope that recipients will respond to this plea, which action at this time means much for the good of the trade.

FRUEH'S NEW ROSE.

Those who visited the F. T. D. convention at Baltimore had the opportunity of seeing a large vase of the seedling rose which has been grown for the last three years at the greenhouses of Frueh & Sons, at Saginaw, Mich. Charles Frueh was present to explain its merits and its parentage.

The seedling, which is not yet named, resulted from a cross between Ophelia and Superior A. Janssen. It is shell pink in color, lighter in shade than the varieties popular on the market today. Its two outstanding qualities are productiveness and long keeping. From the single plant derived from the cross made in 1919, Frueh & Sons now have a stock of 1,600 plants. Its keeping qualities were attested by the blooms shown at Baltimore. The blooms were cut Thursday, October 5, packed Sunday, October 8, unpacked Tuesday, October 10, after traveling nearly a thousand miles from Saginaw to Baltimore, and they saw the end of the meeting in good condition.

Frueh & Sons have not yet decided on the name for their new variety, nor have they yet made plans for its dissemination, though they expect to give it to the trade before long.

Shell Pink Seedling Rose of Frueh & Sons, Saginaw, Mich.

FICUS PANDURATA.

Will you kindly tell me the name of the plant which I mailed you and how to propagate it? O. G.—O.

Ficus pandurata is the name of the plant. Propagation can be effected most easily by ringing and mossing the tops in the same way as Ficus elastica, crotons, dracænas and dieffenbachias. This operation consists of girdling the top with a sharp knife, going a little deeper than the bark. Push one or two toothpicks into the incision to prevent it from closing; then tie sphagnum moss around the cut and keep this constantly moist. In a warm, moist atmosphere, the roots will push through in a few weeks. When they are seen pushing through the moss, cut off the tops and pot them in sandy loam, keeping the plants in a close and warm atmosphere until established. C. W.

Bluffton, Ind.—Myers & Co. are building an Agmco steel-gutter, pipe-frame house, 22x86, for potted plants. This will give the firm 25,000 square feet of glass in all. Increased summer business has necessitated the addition. The firm reports that business is exceedingly good for this time of year and looks forward to a rushing season. The company laid in a supply of coal last spring and is not worrying much about the coal situation. Spring buying is the most satisfactory, according to the managers here.

FRUEH'S NEW ROSE.

Those who visited the F. T. D. convention at Baltimore had the opportunity of seeing a large vase of the seedling rose which has been grown for the last three years at the greenhouses of Frueh & Sons, at Saginaw, Mich. Charles Frueh was present to explain its merits and its parentage.

The seedling, which is not yet named, resulted from a cross between Ophelia and Superior A. Janssen. It is shell pink in color, lighter in shade than the varieties popular on the market today. Its two outstanding qualities are productiveness and long keeping. From the single plant derived from the cross made in 1919, Frueh & Sons now have a stock of 1,600 plants. Its keeping qualities were attested by the blooms shown at Baltimore. The blooms were cut Thursday, October 5, packed Sunday, October 8, unpacked Tuesday, October 10, after traveling nearly a thousand miles from Saginaw to Baltimore, and they saw the end of the meeting in good condition.

Frueh & Sons have not yet decided on the name for their new variety, nor have they yet made plans for its dissemination, though they expect to give it to the trade before long.

FICUS PANDURATA.

Will you kindly tell me the name of the plant which I mailed you and how to propagate it? O. G.—O

Ficus pandurata is the name of the plant. Propagation can be effected most easily by ringing and mossing the tops in the same way as Ficus elastica, crotons, dracænas and dieffenbachias. This operation consists of girdling the top with a sharp knife, going a little deeper than the bark. Push one or two toothpicks into the incision to prevent it from closing; then tie sphagnum moss around the cut and keep this constantly moist. In a warm, moist atmosphere, the roots will push through in a few weeks. When they are seen pushing through the moss, cut off the tops and pot them in sandy loam, keeping the plants in a close and warm atmosphere until established. C. W.

Bluffton, Ind.—Myers & Co. are building an Agmco steel-gutter, pipe-frame house, 22x86, for potted plants. This will give the firm 25,000 square feet of glass in all. Increased summer business has necessitated the addition. The firm reports that business is exceedingly good for this time of year and looks forward to a rushing season. The company laid in a supply of coal last spring and is not worrying much about the coal situation. Spring buying is the most satisfactory according to the managers here.

SOME NEW FLOWER STORES

TWO NEW STORES.

Samuel Feast & Sons, Baltimore.

Visitors at the F. T. D. meeting had the opportunity of inspecting two of the newest and finest stores in the country, one that of Samuel Feast & Sons, Baltimore; the other that of Gude Bros. Co., Washington, D. C. Many went home by way of the capital to see the latter. Everybody, of course, took a look at the former.

The Feast store is the result of exceeding care in planning. And the plans have been carried out in thorough and able fashion. The entrance, at 527 North Charles street, a few doors from the former location, is flanked by display windows, between which the door is recessed a few feet. Inside, an effect of spaciousness has been obtained by a broad staircase at the back, leading to a mezzanine floor, where are the offices of the members of the firm and the telephone switchboard. About the middle of the store are two handsome display boxes, one on each side. Back of the stairway is the workroom, where parallel tables across the floor remind one of Penn's arrangement. A work table also extends down the left wall, while a storage box, eighteen feet in length, is on the right. At the rear, stairs lead up to a mezzanine floor which the bookkeeping force occupies. Three trucks can drive into the covered rear entrance, greatly facilitating getting out the orders. Despite its simplicity of appearance, everything which goes to make up a store of the first class is present.

Gude Bros. Co., Washington.

There is a spacious appearance, also, at the new store of Gude Bros. Co., Washington, D. C. And, as one goes over the premises, one realizes there is in reality a great amount of space available for carrying on this firm's immense business. The location is at 1212 F street, northwest, next door to the old store. The first floor and basement of the building, which is owned by the company, have been remodeled to suit a florist's needs as well as could be.

There are broad display windows, one still occupied by a water scene for summer and the other featuring telegraph delivery service; both stop the passing pedestrians. The store interior is finished in a medium dark tone of gray, relieved by narrow margins of colored glass at sides and back; the effect is rich. A great display icebox extends almost clear across the back of the salesroom. The large quantity of stock which this contains cannot but impress customers. In the rear, to the right, is are long, narrow workroom and storage boxes, and to the left, the bookkeeping office. Stairs lead to the private offices of William F. Gude on a mezzanine floor. A flight of steps to the basement reveals a workroom for use at holidays, and several storerooms. Down here is the Kroeschell ice machine which cools the Buchbinder iceboxes above. The delivery automobiles have direct access by an incline, greatly facilitating the receipt and distribution of stock.

Views of the new store were first published in the rotogravure section of the Washington Post October 8, as part of a two-page advertisement in the heart of the section. Views of the firm's greenhouses and of its decorations were shown, surmounted by the portrait of William F. Gude. Although the cost of the advertisement ran into four figures, Mr. Gude believed it well worth the sum, since it brought letters of commendation from government officials of every rank, even cabinet officers.

New Store of Herbert M. Sauber, Washington, D. C., with Its Distinctive Display Box.

SAUBER'S NEW STORE.

Herbert M. Sauber opened one of the most beautiful stores in Washington, D. C., on Fourteenth street and Thomas circle, October 3. The location is at one of the busiest circles in the national capital, being formed by the intersection of eight streets. It would be impossible to pass without facing the store, located in a new, up-to-date office building.

The exterior of the store is almost entirely of plate glass and has a frontage of about seventy-five feet. The interior is attractively decorated in black and gold, and all stock vases, stands and baskets are finished in these colors. In the far left-hand corner of the store is located a large display box erected by Ottenheimer Bros., of Baltimore, Md. It is eighteen feet long, ten feet high and has a depth of five feet. It is built to conform with the lines of a round balcony, which is directly above the top of the box. The box is equipped with an up-to-date refrigerating system and is modern in all particulars.

The balcony is to be used by Mr. Sauber and by Clyde Sauer, manager of the establishment, as an office. It is shut off from a general view of the floor of the store by an attractive screen of palms and ferns.

The rear and side walls are covered with plate glass mirrors wherever it has been found possible to install the glass, and all of the pillars are similarly covered. The floor is of white hexagon tile. The construction and general appearance of the store could not be improved.

There are two large work tables, covered with black box tile and gold tile borders. Many drawers have been provided in these tables to take care of paper and supplies. Space has been provided back of the display box for the storage of ribbons and supplies and here also the telephones are located, giving more privacy to telephone conversation and shutting out noise that might otherwise lead to mistakes in the taking of orders.

Mr. Sauber has the use of a basement that runs beneath the entire store, and here extra supplies and stocks are stored and work made up. The basement is so situated that it is unnecessary to use artificial light to illuminate it. Entrance to the basement is from the store and also from a large public alley at the rear.

The opening day of the store was extensively advertised in the local papers and Mr. Sauber staged a real fern sale and it is believed that no other florist at Washington ever disposed of as many ferns in one day as did he on this occasion. This is the time of fern sales and he took advantage of the opportunity to put a sale across in a big way. The ferns were supplied by the A. Gude Sons Co. This firm had two trucks hauling the plants all day long. It is estimated that Mr. Sauber sold 700 of these plants in 6-inch and 8-inch pots in the one day.

Each lady who visited the store on the opening day was presented with a bouquet of cut flowers, while each gentleman received a boutonniere in a holder as a souvenir of the occasion.

Mr. Sauber will continue in the operation of his store at the Wardman Park hotel, where he enjoys a desirable patronage. The new store will be presided over by Clyde Sauer, who for the past four years has been connected with the flower store of George C. Shaffer. He is a veteran of the A. E. F. and was wounded in action abroad. He entered the army shortly after joining the Shaffer establishment, returning to the latter upon his release from the service. Before coming to Washington, he was connected with stores in Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

The proprietor of the new store is well known in Washington. For eight years he was manager and vice-president of the store of Z. D. Blackistone. He is a young man, full of "pep," and has made his Wardman Park hotel enterprise something worth while and greater success is predicted for him in his downtown store. T. N. S.

RODGERS REGULARLY RISING.

The spirit of progress is in the air and it seems to be mixed with an especially liberal proportion of oxygen in the case of the retail florists.

There is no doubt that it almost always happens that business picks up as soon as a florist gets into an up-to-date store. Any florist who has been busy for years and years with the same old fixtures, no matter how he is prospering, finds that a lot of new trade comes in with the new equipment. In other lines of business all specialty shops are planned with much care and the florist who neglects the opportunity to show his goods under the most favorable conditions is adding to his overhead expense instead of keeping it down.

All of which is suggested by the accompanying illustration showing the new store of J. W. Rodgers, of Dayton, O. Mr. Rodgers has been in business many years and no one ever has accused him of not being up-to-date. His new place is just a matter of living up to his reputation for progress.

New Store of J. W. Rodgers, at Dayton, O.

MISS STECKMAN'S STORE.

It has been often said that in artistry a woman's touch is at once apparent. Shall we not admit the truth of this assertion after seeing and studying the store interior illustrated on this page? Certainly there is an individuality about the store, due, without question, to the ideas and the talent of Miss Carrie E. Steckman, who has been present here for ten years. This is the Schroyer Flower Shop, of Lancaster, Pa.

The store was started by George W. Schroyer and was later conducted by his son, Harry C. Schroyer, who at his death bequeathed the good will and fixtures to Miss Steckman, who had been the able manager for a long time previously. The new proprietor is meeting with much success in the shop. And, truly, the place is inviting enough. Note the writing table convenient for customers' use and the neatness of the general arrangement. Attention to the matter of appearance means much to particular customers.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

Summer conditions continue in the cut flower market. For a day or two last week, it looked as though a killing frost was imminent, but twenty-four hours of heavy rain saved the situation and, in addition, refreshed outside growing crops to such an extent that arrivals of outside flowers are little, if any, diminished. Quantities of dahlias and cosmos of fine quality are arriving and there are asters and gladioli of the late varieties and an abundance of other material.

Chrysanthemums are now coming in heavily, chiefly protected stock from outside, although inside flowers are being cut quite largely, in such varieties as Chrysolora, Polly Rose, October Frost and Unaka. The supply of pompons is larger and a few good singles are putting in an appearance. In fact, the chrysanthemum season is well on and a killing frost is the only condition necessary to place the queen of autumn in domination of the market.

Roses are in good supply and the quality is improving. American Beauty is rather too abundant for the demand and prices of the top grades tumbled a little last week. Hybrid teas also suffered a setback, but are back to last quotations; the better grades are arriving in increased quantity, meeting only a moderate demand. White roses are no longer on the scarce side, ample supplies being now a daily feature.

Cattleyas are plentiful, but sales hang fire considerably, the demand being quite limited. A few oncidiums are coming in. Cypripediums are not in large supply and clean up fairly well.

White lilies are not overplentiful and move at last quotations in consequence. Lily of the valley is in good supply, with sales slow. Carnations are now coming in freely and meet a fairly good demand. The quality is about the average for this stage of the season.

Violets are arriving, the quality rather poor with the unfavorable weather for them.

Various Notes.

Paul P. Dailledouze, twin brother of Henry E., of Flatbush, died at his home suddenly Friday, October 13, of a hemorrhage. His many friends in the trade sympathize with the family in their loss, which was altogether unexpected. The funeral was held Monday, October 16, and many of the florists were present at the services. A further account of his death will be found on the obituary page of this issue.

Robert G. Wilson, the Brooklyn florist, had a small dahlia show in his store window for several days last week. A large number of varieties were shown, and their names featured.

The florists who attended the Baltimore convention of the F. T. D. returned full of enthusiasm over the meeting and rejoicing in the fact that New York was practically selected for the 1924 meeting.

Roman J. Irwin, the seedsman and plantsman of the Eighteenth Street Flower Market, has left for the province of New Brunswick, in company with Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; E. A. Gude, Washington, D. C., and C. W. Scott, of the Yokohama Nursery Co., New York.

M. C. Wright, manager of the Chicago branch of the Lord & Burnham Co., was a visitor last week. J. H. P.

MONTREAL, QUE.

The Market.

The dark, rainy days of last week caused a noticeable decrease in the supply of roses on the market. Carnations are now a little more plentiful and a few mums are coming in. Business in general seems to be on the upward trend.

Various Notes.

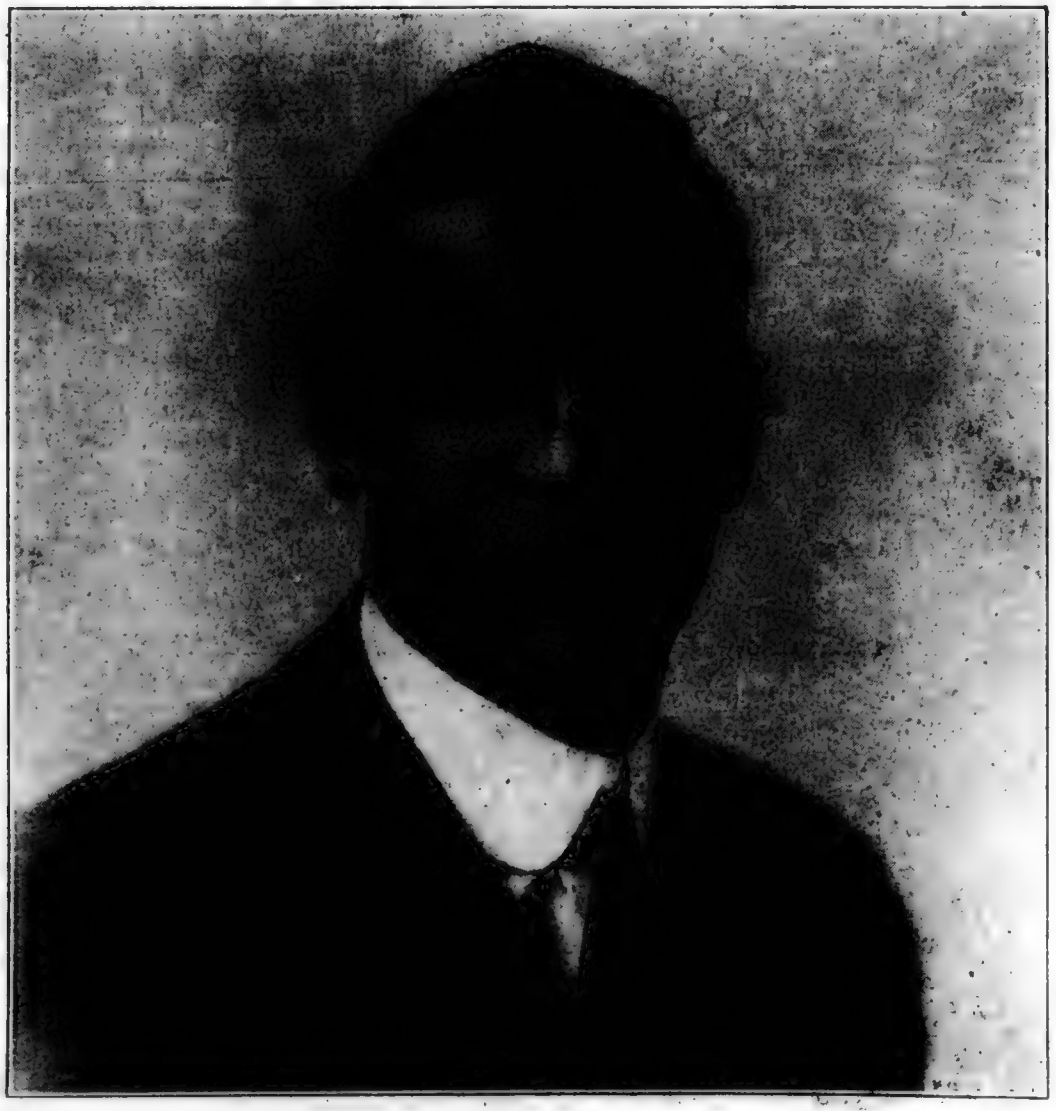
E. H. Skinner, of the Montreal Floral Exchange, is in Toronto calling on the retail florists.

William Krusen, formerly of Smith & Fetters Co., Cleveland, O., assumed his duties as manager of Campbell's, Florists, last week. Mr. Krusen is taking the place of James Weal, who is now manager of C. H. Totty's new store in New York.

Harold McKinney, of the Montreal Floral Exchange, attended the F. T. D. convention at Baltimore last week. Mr. McKinney was the only representative from Montreal.

Miss Cairns is having a new refrigerator installed in her store on St. Catherine street. It is fourteen feet long, ten feet high and four feet deep.

Mr. Lesperance, of the Canadian Floral Co., on Laurier avenue, is having an addition put onto his store. This additional space will be used for a storeroom. Mr. Lesperance states that he has just received a single order for 40,000 Christmas trees.



McKenna, Ltd., opened its Outremont branch store on Laurier avenue a week ago. It is one of the most attractive stores in the city.

Ley & McAllan furnished the decorations for the jubilee held last week in St. Patrick's church. Twenty cases of southern smilax were included in the decorations.

Margaret Thompson, cashier at Campbell's, Florists, was married Thursday evening, October 12, at the Episcopal parsonage to Edward Hall. The marriage was a complete surprise to her many friends. Mrs. Hall will resume her duties at Campbell's upon her return from their honeymoon.

Campbell's had charge of the decorating at the wedding of Miss Louisa Molson and S. Turnstall, Blacklock, which took place last week at St. George's church. Pink mums predominated in the decorations in the church. The bridal party stood under a bower of cibotium ferns and pink mums and the chancel was banked with ferns and palms. Madonna lilies were arranged in vases on the altar, and the pews reserved for guests were marked with clusters of pink mums tied with silver tissue. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where decorations were elaborately carried out. The staircase was banked with southern smilax and pink chrysanthemums and the fireplace in the hall was banked with ferns and palms. In the reception room the bride and groom received under a bower of pink chrysanthemums.

George Reid, formerly of the E. Wienhoeber Co., Chicago, took over the retail business of Hall & Robinson, Monday, October 9. The business will be carried on under the name of Hall & Robinson. E. H. S.

MAYWOOD INVITES YOU.

Club Meeting, November 2.

The Florists of Maywood, Ill., held a meeting last week at which they associated themselves for the purpose of entertaining the trade on the occasion of the November meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club. It was found that the date of the next meeting falls in the week of the show of the Chrysanthemum Society of America at St. Louis, whereupon the officers of the Chicago Florists' Club were called into conference and it was decided to have the Maywood meeting one week earlier than was originally planned, which fixes the date as November 2.

It will be the first time in the history of Maywood that a big gathering of florists has been held there and the growers considered that the moment is auspicious for the return of some of the many hospitalities they have received at other places. Among the dozen of them they subscribed an entertainment fund, so that the treasury of the Florists' Club need not be drawn upon for this occasion. It was decided, with the approval of the Florists' Club, to invite every member of the trade, far and near, to be in Maywood November 2. For those who come by rail, automobiles will be in waiting at the main corner of the town just before 1 p. m. The gathering place will be the big shed of the Albert F. Amling Co., where a flower show is to be staged. Assembling at 1 p. m., the party is to be escorted on a tour of the Maywood establishments, all of which are within a few hundred yards of the meeting place. Returning to the Amling packing room at 6 o'clock, supper is to be served. There will be plenty of smokes and something in the iceboxes as the tour progresses. After supper the November meeting of the club is to be held, with several speakers talking briefly, so that the return to the city may be made in the early evening.

The Maywood florists hope for the largest gathering of the trade in the history of the Chicago district. They count on at least 300 being present and they will be delighted if 500 turn out. The retailers are specially invited to be present, though wholesalers, growers and those of the allied trades also will be cordially welcomed.

Maywood a Trade Center.

There are many things to see at Maywood. There are twelve growers, all of whose places can be seen from any of the others. They have a total of 1,460,000 feet of glass, as follows:

Grower	Feet of glass
A. F. Amling Co.	600,000
Premier Rose Gardens	300,000
Weiss & Meyer Co.	200,000
Hauserman, Inc.	75,000
F. W. Kuhlmann	60,000
H. Wehrman	65,000
Kuhlmann & Wieck Co.	41,000
H. Jepsen	35,000
Spandikow & Sons	35,000
Paul Heidemann	14,000
William Wichtendahl	25,000
H. Luedtke	10,000
Maywood glass area	1,460,000

Although it is not easy to get the growers to commit themselves on such a matter, the probability is that the total investment for cut flower production in Maywood is not far from $3,000,000. The greenhouses include the newest and best, embodying all the up-to-date features and with all the most efficient labor-saving equipment. Reports indicate that the associated Maywood florists burned 25,270 tons of coal last season and that the pay roll carries the names of 200 regular employees. A total of 12,500,000 roses will be cut this season, and 10,250,000 sweet peas will be picked. The chrysanthemum crop just now approaching maturity will total 225,000 blooms.

The pioneers of the Maywood florists were the Amling brothers, Albert F. and Ernst C., the latter now being engaged in the wholesale business in Chicago and Los Angeles and in the growing and retail business in the latter city. At present he is in Chicago and probably will be able to attend the meeting. Albert F. Amling still is the active head of the organization which bears his name and will be on hand to welcome the guests. From their small beginning over thirty years ago the present large industry has been built up.

At the meeting of Maywood florists last week Hans Jepsen was appointed chairman of the committee on arrangements. William Collatz was entrusted with the duty of arranging for the refreshments and for the establishment of oases at various points en route. So you would better be there.

AUBURN, IND.

What might have proved a serious accident occurred last week in this city when a delivery boy found Mrs. Charles H. Maynard, former secretary of the Ladies' S. A. F., unconscious on the floor of her living room about 4:30 in the afternoon. When he opened the door he was almost overcome by the odor of gas and heard groans. By the time he had located Mrs. Maynard she had stopped groaning. He called neighbors, and they called a physician and Mr. Maynard, who is grower for Ten Eyck & Son. The physician carried her to the front porch, where restoratives and artificial respiration were used. After a half hour's work, Mrs. Maynard regained consciousness, but was ill from the effects of the gas most of the week. A leak was found in the gas tubing between the stove and the gas pipe. Mrs. Maynard's many friends trust she may have no ill effects from the experience. Perle B. Fulmer.

CLEVELAND, O.

The Market.

The change in the weather last week made a decided change in the market. The extreme and unprecedented heat of the week before and the sudden drop in temperature tightened the market considerably. A heavy frost in some localities nearby has cut the stock down considerably, although some sections continue to supply the market with a normal amount of outdoor stock. Everything in the line of outdoor stock, with the exception of calendulas and bachelor's buttons, has been killed in some localities, and these two varieties have escaped only because they can stand more frost than the others. A severe frost would cripple the market.

AUBURN, IND.

What might have proved a serious accident occurred last week in this city when a delivery boy found Mrs. Charles H. Maynard, former secretary of the Ladies' S. A. F., unconscious on the floor of her living room about 4:30 in the afternoon. When he opened the door he was almost overcome by the odor of gas and heard groans. By the time he had located Mrs. Maynard she had stopped groaning. He called neighbors, and they called a physician and Mr. Maynard, who is grower for Ten Eyck & Son. The physician carried her to the front porch, where restoratives and artificial respiration were used. After a half hour's work, Mrs. Maynard regained consciousness, but was ill from the effects of the gas most of the week. A leak was found in the gas tubing between the stove and the gas pipe. Mrs. Maynard's many friends trust she may have no ill effects from the experience. Perle B. Fulmer.

The Market.

The change in the weather last week made a decided change in the market. The extreme and unprecedented heat of the week before and the sudden drop in temperature tightened the market considerably. A heavy frost in some localities nearby has cut the stock down considerably, although some sections continue to supply the market with a normal amount of outdoor stock. Everything in the line of outdoor stock, with the exception of calendulas and bachelor's buttons, has been killed in some localities, and these two varieties have escaped only because they can stand more frost than the others. A seas there is practically nothing arriving from the greenhouses in large enough quantities to take care of the demand. Roses of all kinds have been exceedingly scarce, especially Premier, Columbia and Ophelia. There has been such a shortage that it has been impossible to fill all orders. Mums are coming in more plentifully, but not in sufficient quantities to meet the demand. Pompons are scarce, only a few putting in an appearance so far. Carnations are a little more plentiful, but the demand has more than offset the supply. Asters are done for, just a few stragglers finding their way into the market. A few gladioli are still arriving, but they are quite small. These move readily, however. Easter lilies continue scarce and the call for them seems to be increasing daily. Japanese lilies are arriving in quantity, but mostly in a short-stemmed grade. Valley finds a steady market, while the price remains high. Ferns are moving nicely, but asparagus dragged last week. Calendulas, larkspur, tritomas and marigolds continue to arrive.

Various Notes.

The following members of the trade here have recently returned from the F. T. D. convention, at Baltimore: Timothy Smith, Lloyd Mercer, H. B. Jones, Kenneth Wilson, A. F. and J. Kirchner, Al. Barber and Herman Knoble.

D. L. Taylor, with the Mono Service Co., Newark, N. J., was in this city last week.

R. J. Blackshaw, of the Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind., stopped for a brief chat.

George Taffel, with Schloss Bros. Ribbons, Inc., New York, was here recently.

R. J. Cowgill, of Canton, O., was a recent visitor. Mr. Cowgill has gone to New Orleans to attend the convention of the American Legion, as a delegate from his home town.

A. E. Eastwood, of Beloit, O., was here for one day last week, visiting his relatives and attending to some business.

Mr. Larsen, with the Brown Floral Co., made a business trip to Cleveland.

Mr. Carek, of Lorain, O., was also here on business.

C. D. Humason, with the Raedlein Basket Co., Chicago, stopped here recently. He has a new system of displaying his goods; namely, touring through the country and carrying his extensive samples with him. In this way he comes direct to the customer with his line, instead of the customer coming to him. It is to be noted that this practice is in vogue with several salesmen this year.

Club Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Indiana State Florists' Association was held October 10. The hours from 10 a. m. until 6 p. m. were spent in visiting the various local establishments. A business meeting was held in the evening at the commission house of the Smith & Young Co. President Hitz presided.

Elmer Staub was elected to membership.

As a result of the suggestion made by E. E. Temperley at the April meeting concerning a larger budget, the following resolution was drawn up by the Purdue committee:

Inasmuch as the advisory board representing the horticultural interests of the state of Indiana recommended in October, 1920, that a budget for Purdue University be drawn to include an appropriation for $150,000 for a suitable horticultural building and $50,000 for additional greenhouses,

And whereas: The time has now come to prepare the budget of Purdue University for the next three years;

Be It Resolved: By the members of the State Florists' Association of Indiana, representing the floricultural industry in this state, in regular meeting assembled, that President E. C. Elliott, of Purdue University, be asked to include in his budget $150,000 for a suitable horticultural building and $50,000 for additional greenhouses at Purdue University, which the members of this association believe are sorely needed to advance the course of floriculture and horticultural knowledge; and

Be It Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to President E. C. Elliott for his earnest consideration.

Mr. Elder mentioned that Carl Engelmann, of England, was in this country attending the F. T. D. convention and suggested that it might be a good idea to wire E. G. Hill asking him to invite Mr. Engelmann to address this association and that the latter pay part or all of his expenses. After a short discussion, the secretary moved that such a telegram be sent Mr. Hill.

Mr. Larson mentioned that the Chrysanthemum Society will hold its convention in St. Louis November 7 and, if so desired, Indianapolis could probably get the society to meet here next year. This matter was held over for the next meeting.

The gifts of the association to the members of the rose garden committee of the national flower show were presented.

John Rieman and Mr. Schreiber were given stickpins and John Hartje was given a fishing pole for their fine work in preparing the Indiana rose garden at the national flower show.

Professor Riese, of Purdue, called attention to a pamphlet issued by Purdue University on the care of house plants, copies of which are available at Purdue University and would be useful to distribute to customers.

M. H. Lockyear, of Evansville, gave an interesting and instructive discourse on keeping books in the florists' business.

Harry Dietz gave a short talk on Mr. Barnes' work in the propagation of lilies, showing with live specimens some of the results secured by Mr. Barnes in his numerous experiments. This was exceptionally interesting and, upon a suggestion from President Hitz, a motion was made that the secretary write Mr. Barnes a letter of appreciation.

President Hitz brought up the subject of motion pictures, which had been shown at the flower show, and suggested that they be lent to the members for their various towns. A committee with full power to consider this was appointed: Oscar Carlstedt and Len Elder.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Little change took place in the market last week. The flowers continue to be scarce. The demand for chrysanthemums, roses, lilies and valley far exceeds the supply. Dahlias are still a feature in the market and move out fairly well. The varieties of roses are White Ophelia, Ophelia, Priscilla, Crusader, Columbia, Premier, Ward and Sweetheart. The supply business naturally increases every day, as orders are being sent out with Christmas materials. The freight embargo in eastern Pennsylvania is severe at the present time. No shipments can be made by freight east of Pittsburgh. It is a warning to the trade to get its Christmas materials early, in order to avoid disappointments.

Various Notes

E. I. Wilde, professor of floriculture and connected with the department of horticulture of Pennsylvania State College, school of agriculture and experiment station, State College, Pa., called last week in the interest of the Pennsylvania state $2,000,000 drive for our state's institution. He reported that units over the state are well organized and the launching of the drive will start soon. Allegheny county's allotment is $500,000, with Philadelphia county a bit more. The florists of the state of Pennsylvania have been allotted a unit amounting to $100,000. The Potato Growers' Association of Pennsylvania has voluntarily assumed a unit amounting to $150,000. As to the method of raising the sum of money allotted to the florists, Andrew W. Smith, Jr., of the A. W. Smith Co., and W. A. Clarke and T. P. Langhans, of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., have assumed the responsibility of the drive in the western Pennsylvania section. Professor Wilde stated that S. S. Pennock, of the S. S. Pennock Co., and president of the S. A. F., will help to look after the interests of this drive in the eastern part of the state.

Paul Klingsporn, of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, with C. G. Ellsworth, of the J. F. Kidwell Co., were visiting at Pittsburgh Saturday, October 14, returning from the F. T. D. convention.

Among the florists from the Pittsburgh district at the F. T. D. convention were H. L. Thompson, New Brighton, Pa.; Oscar S. Magnuson, Kane, Pa.; Miss Edith Crossman, of Punxsutawney, Pa.; Mrs. Schluraff, of the Schluraff Floral Co., Erie, Pa.; W. P. Baird, of William Baird & Son, Greenville, Pa.; Mr. Breitenstein, of the McClements Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.; Ira C. Harper, of the A. W. Smith Co.; W. T. Usinger, representing the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co.

W. A. Clarke, treasurer of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., and family, have taken a short trip over the mountains.

It has been learned that a new corporation has been formed under the name of the Bellwood Greenhouses, Inc., Ford City, Pa. The capitalization is $30,000. The officers are as follows: President, J. M. Espy; secretary, Robert Espy; treasurer, J. W. Glenn. Mr. Glenn reports that the firm expects to build three greenhouses and conduct a general retail business. H. J. H.

WHO'S WHO IN THE TRADE AND WHY

ADRIAN J. SCHOORL.

SEIZING an opportunity to give service not previously rendered is the surest way to capture success. So Adrian J. Schoorl, who was for five years connected with C. C. Morse & Co., San Francisco, set out April 1, 1922, to supply the members of the trade on the Pacific coast with items for which they had previously been in the habit of sending to Chicago or New York. By establishing a depot of supplies in San Francisco, he was able to save eight to ten days for the florist, gardener or seedsman who formerly ordered in the east. This illustration shows one item of Mr. Schoorl's service: Here are part of the million bulbs which he ordered from Holland this year for delivery on the west coast. Mr. Schoorl is checking them preparatory to reshipping to his customers; the photograph was taken in the San Francisco Coöperative Flower Market, where he has a considerable space. Mr. Schoorl is a strong believer in the west and buys many domestic-grown bulbs. He procures here and imports from abroad various strains of flower seeds, and the ten years, from 1905 to 1915, which he spent traveling in Europe provide him with a close knowledge of sources of supply.

MUM PLANT INFESTED.

I have sent you a chrysanthemum plant which is infested with a pest that resembles red spider. Will you advise me as to the nature of this pest and tell me how I can combat it? The mums were so infested when brought from the field. I have been using a nicotine solution and the nozzle. G. G.—Neb.

The chrysanthemum plant was badly infested with both red spider and thrips. This is generally the case when the plants are grown outside during the summer, especially when the weather is extremely hot and dry. After the plants are brought inside, persistent use of the spray you are using and liberal syringing from the hose should clean the plants in a short while. A fine dusting of lime and sulphur on the under side of the foliage is also a good remedy.

M. P.

COMBATING MEALY BUG ON MUMS.

Our chrysanthemums are in their prime and are budding finely. But mealy bugs are infesting the mums and, owing to the arrival of cool weather, we are unable to spray. As all our plants are now infested, we wonder if you would suggest a radical cure. Would cyanide of potassium destroy the bugs and could it be used advisedly?

E. M.—Neb.

It is a little unusual to be troubled with mealy bug on mums, because the bugs are generally dislodged by powerful syringing, given during the growing period. If the plants are badly infested, the writer would not hesitate to syringe early on a bright, warm day, following the syringing with free ventilation, so that the house may be well dried out before night.

Drummond's White Fly Liquid has proven effective in destroying mealy bugs on other plants, but the writer has never had to try it out on mums. Hammond's Thrip Juice No. 2 the writer has also used to good effect, and it would be advisable for you to use this according to directions.

The writer would not advise the use of cyanide of potassium at this time. But should you desire to use it at any time, write the United States Department of Agriculture and obtain a circular containing full information.

OBITUARY

Oscar Park Beckley.

Oscar Park Beckley, president of the Berryhill Nursery Co., Harrisburg, Pa., died at his home Sunday, October 15, after a brief illness.

For more than a quarter of a century Mr. Beckley was connected with the J. Horace McFarland Co., first in the capacity of photographer, and in later years as salesman and sales manager. His genial disposition and absolute uprightness of character won for him a host of friends among nurserymen, seedsmen and florists, not only in this country, but in England and France, where he traveled on various trips for photographs.

In his home city Oscar Beckley was one of the outstanding characters in church and charitable works; "Beckley's class" in the Sunday school of the United Brethren church draws men from all walks of life and is a power in the moral life of the city. A president of the church federation, he carried on a city-wide work that will be a monument for years to come.

About a dozen years ago Mr. Beckley organized the Berryhill Nursery Co. and put into this organization the same energy that went into all of his undertakings. Four years ago the company was enlarged by the addition of a nursery at Springfield, O., and one at Sparta, Ky. This move put the firm among the dozen largest nurseries of the east.

Surviving Mr. Beckley are his mother, his wife, a daughter, Miss Lucile, and two sons, Oscar Beckley, Jr., and Park A. Beckley. The latter is in active work with nursery interests.

Paul Pierre Dailledouze.

Paul Pierre Dailledouze, formerly of the firm of Dailledouze Bros., well known as carnation growers of Flatbush, Brooklyn, N. Y., died suddenly of a hemorrhage, at his home, Lenox road and Tray avenue, Friday, October 13.

The deceased was born in Brooklyn, August 8, 1861, a twin with Henry E. Dailledouze, and the son of John Dailledouze, originator of many varieties of carnations. John Dailledouze died in 1882, and his business was continued as an estate for ten years thereafter and up to the time of the death of Mrs. Dailledouze, the mother. The business was then purchased by the three sons, Eugene, Henry and Paul, who held equal partnership, and became known in 1892 as Dailledouze Bros. The partnership lasted until 1907, when Henry and Paul retired.

After retirement the twins did not again become active in business, and made several trips abroad. They had planned to make a trip to South America last summer, but the illness of Eugene prevented them.

The deceased was well liked and had a charming personality. He was a member of the New York Florists' Club, the S. A. F., American Carnation Society, American Rose Society, Chrysanthemum Society of America, the American Orchid Society, and the Marine and Field Club. He is survived by his brothers, Eugene and Henry E., and two sisters, Mrs. Leoni L. Warth and Mrs. Mathilde R. Kunz. J. H. P.

Mrs. George H. Pieper.

Mrs. George H. Pieper, a well known South Boston florist, died at her home, 453 Broadway, October 5. She was 50 years of age. Her maiden name was Margaret N. Walsh. She came to the United States from Ireland in 1885. In 1890 she started in business at 398 Broadway, South Boston, moving to 453 Broadway two years later.

The deceased had an excellent retail business and was well and favorably known in the trade. She was married in 1895, and her husband, five sons and two daughters survive her. Funeral services were held October 9, burial being at St. Joseph's cemetery, West Roxbury. W. N. C.

John A. Foley.

John A. Foley, proprietor of a retail store on Springdale avenue, East Orange, N. J., died October 11, aged about 43. He was for many years bookkeeper for the Lecakes, when they were in business at 53 West Twenty-eighth street, and upon leaving them went into the express and trucking business, in which he prospered. Retiring, he engaged, about a year ago, in the retail florists' trade in East Orange, shortly afterward becoming ill with pneumonia, from which he never fully recovered. He leaves a widow and a brother.

Herbert F. Calder.

The many friends of Herbert F. Calder, the well known Norwood florist, sustained a great shock when the news reached them that Mr. Calder had committed suicide by hanging, October 8. Mr. Calder had been quite ill for some time and, of late, fearing his sickness would prove a lingering and perhaps fatal one, he had become quite despondent, which led to his taking his own life.

Mr. Calder had for many years conducted a successful florists' business in Norwood. He was one of the few growers who could do double violets well locally. He also grew anemones, ranunculi and other forcing bulbs not generally handled in the trade.

The deceased was a member of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club since 1905 and was highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends, who deeply regret his passing away in the prime of manhood. Funeral services were held at his late residence in Norwood and were largely attended. There were numerous beautiful floral tributes. W. N. C.

Henry F. Haase.

Henry F. Haase, who was attached to the floricultural section of the United States Department of Agriculture, died at his home, 1455 Monroe street, Washington, D. C., last week, following an illness of three months. Mr. Haase was born in Alsace, France, fifty-nine years ago, coming to the United States about twenty-five years ago. He is survived by his widow and three children. Burial was held from the Sacred Heart church. Interment was in Mount Olivet cemetery. T. N. S.

EARLY PEONIES.

Kindly tell us the three most desirable peonies in each color—white, pink and red—that will combine earliness of bloom with size, fragrance and good keeping and shipping qualities.

We wish to plant an acre, to start with, and expect to ship them to northern markets. We desire to get into the markets as early as possible with the most desirable varieties. R. D.—Va.

In white, Queen Victoria is most largely grown for shipping. Mme. de Verneville, Duchesse de Nemours and festiva maxima are other excellent early varieties. In pink, Octavie Demay, Venus and Eugenie Verdier are leaders. M. Jules Elie is the best early dark pink, and for red you might grow Augustin d'Hour and M. Martin Cahuzac.

It is found desirable, in growing peonies for shipping, to restrict the number of varieties to a few of the best, growing larger quantities of each, rather than fewer of many varieties.

New Philadelphia, O.—The personnel of the Endres Floral Co. has been changed by the withdrawal of George A. Endres, who has bought the Tyler range at Salem, O., and the entry of M. J., F. B. and J. G. Endres into the firm. All mentioned are brothers of L. P. Endres, who remains the head of the Endres Floral Co. The company has planted with roses the house, 50x400, recently erected just outside town, in addition to the 15,000 feet inside the city.

West Plains, Mo.—C. W. Harold has given up the business which he has conducted for a number of years under the name of Cottage Greenhouse & Ozark Pansy Gardens. He has had a run of bad luck, which was too much for him. In March a fire destroyed most of the greenhouses and stock while Mrs. Harold was in the hospital undergoing an operation for cancer, from which she died September 6. Mr. Harold will go east to superintend the laying out of a park and summer resort.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

A PAGE OF TIMELY AID AND ADVICE TO GROWERS

PLANTING DUTCH BULBS.

The Time to Act.

The last half of October and the first half of November is the best period for planting out Dutch bulbs. For filling solid beds, tulips are far superior to all others; they last longer than narcissi and make a more brilliant showing. Beds of one color are in excellent taste; circular ones of a mixed assortment also look well, but it is an easy matter to make crosses, stars, wheels and other figures by planting certain colors which bloom together. Catalogues invariably give the comparative heights and simplify the selection of suitable sorts.

Some bedding tulips stand out preeminently; thus among the early section Joost Van Vondel, white Pottebakker and White Swan are splendid whites. The last named is a rather late bloomer and is sometimes classed with the late tulips. Vermilion Brilliant and Cramoisi Brilliant are fine scarlets, and in the popular pink class we have Cottage Maid, Flamingo and Prosperity. Deeper in color are Rose Grisdelin, Rose Luisante and Pink Beauty. The last two varieties, coming in the rose-colored class, are fine, and for all-around excellence Pink Beauty is, in the writer's opinion, the best of all the early bedding tulips. It blooms a little later than about all other varieties. For those wanting a gay tulip, the red and yellow Keizerskroom may still appeal, but soft colors as a rule are more pleasing and popular. Those liking a red and white should try Joost Van Vondel, the white form of which, already mentioned, is a magnificent bedding tulip.

In the Yellow Class.

In yellow we have Ophir d'Or, Chrysolora and King of the Yellows, which are good. In the deeper orange shades come Thomas Moore and Prince of Austria. All of the foregoing are of moderate price and thoroughly dependable.

More and more of the Darwins are grown each year, both for bedding and forcing. They are much the finest class of tulips. They flower later, grow much taller, look more stately and have better keeping qualities than the early section. Furthermore, when planted and undisturbed, they improve much the second and third seasons. On the other hand, the earlies usually deteriorate in like ratio.

Darwins look fairly well mixed, but, to make a really effective showing, they should be in beds or blocks of solid colors. A few really good bedders are: Farncombe Sanders and Pride of Haarlem, rose; Princess Elizabeth, Massachusetts, Gretchen and Clara Butt, pink; Bartigon, William Pitt and Europe, scarlet; Rev. Ewbank, mauve; William Copeland, lavender; La Tulipe Noire, dark maroon, nearly black; King Harold, dark red; White Queen, white; Mme. Krelage and Loveliness, carmine-rose.

As a yellow the writer would suggest having Inglescombe Yellow, one of the cottage tulips, as there is no true yellow Darwin. Many of the May-flowering or cottage tulips are fine for mass effects or cutting and no one could go far wrong in planting a batch of such well-known and popular sorts as Picotee, Bouton d'Or, Leghorn Bonnet, Inglescombe Scarlet, Golden Crown, Gesneriana lutea, Gesneriana spathulata and Mrs. Moon. Often these will hold in good condition outdoors until Memorial day. The scarlets are especially valuable for that holiday. Tulips should be planted about four inches deep.

Concerning Narcissi.

Narcissi are rarely used for filling beds; they are much better used in clumps in the herbaceous borders, as borderings, or planted out in grass land. The large trumpet varieties, like Golden Spur and Henry Irving, succeed rather indifferently outdoors. Princeps, Emperior, Victoria, Glory of Leiden and Mme. de Graaff, on the other hand, last well from year to year. About all the medium trumpet varieties, like Barrii conspicuus, Sir Watkin, the various Burbidgei, incomparabilis and poeticus varieties, succeed well in the borders or in grass land where grass is not cut until June. Poeticus does superbly in wet places, such as along the margins of ponds and streams. All the narcissi will do better if they can have a little shade.

Hyacinths.

Hyacinths bloom earlier than tulips and narcissi and make excellent beds; they are sometimes alternated with tulips to provide a succession, but it is a better plan to give them beds to themselves and, before their flowers go, plant daisies, forget-me-nots, violas or pansies below them for a ground cover and to make a succession crop. The same should be done with the tulips, care, of course, being always taken to use ground covers which do not clash. Some of the old bedding hyacinths are still hard to beat, such as King of the Blues, dark blue; Queen of the Blues, pale blue; L'Innocence and La Grandesse, white; Gertrude, pink, and La Victoire, red. Hyacinths may be planted a little deeper than tulips. It is important that bulb beds be not mulched until the soil is frozen. If covered while the ground is soft, frost will be excluded and mice will have a fine opportunity to raise havoc with the bulbs, especially tulips; then, again, the early mulch causes shoots to peep through the soft soil and these will reach a considerable length ere time for uncovering arrives and then, no matter how careful we may be, many shoots will be broken. Be sure, therefore, to mulch late for best results.

At one time we were privileged to import and plant such simple and innocent bulbs as snowdrops, scillas, chionodoxas, English and Spanish iris, fritillarias, etc. Only crocuses are now on the unbanned list; all others are classed as dangerous under quarantine 37 of the F. H. B.

Hardy Lilies.

To those planning to grow hardy lilies, it might be well to state that L. candidum should have been planted a number of weeks ago. L. regale will be ripened sufficiently to plant about November 1. L. auratum, L. tigrinum, L. Henryi, L. speciosum, L. album and the colored speciosums, like Melpomene, magnificum and rubrum, are not usually ready before the middle or the end of November and where there is a danger of the ground freezing up, a mulch of straw, hay or leaves should be placed over the ground to exclude frost. All of the last-named lilies should be planted deeply. Nine inches is not too much and, where the soil is of ample depth and well drained, twelve inches would be better. Lilies planted shallow suffer badly from summer heat; when deeply set, their roots are in the cooler and moister earth, and far more satisfactory results may be expected from them.

PLANTING PERENNIALS.

Fall, rather than spring, is the time to transplant the great majority of hardy herbaceous perennials. Peonies and irises would have been better planted a month ago, but will do much better moved now than in spring. There are also a few subjects, such as Japanese anemones, pompon chrysanthemums, Shasta daisies and tritomas, which do not transplant successfully in autumn, but such popular plants as delphiniums, phloxes, aquilegias, hemerocallis, shrubby clematis, rudbeckias, stokesias, veronicas, dictamnus, lupinus and thermopsis should be fall planted whenever possible, as the plants make a far better start in the spring than when the work of transplanting is delayed until that strenuous season.

Practically all flowering perennials like a fairly rich soil and, if it contains a fair amount of well-decayed manure, it suits about all of them. The demand for this type of plant steadily grows, and no country florist will go far wrong if he stocks up one good batch of the best varieties. Many are fine for cutting; others are excellent for flowering effects in beds or borders and, unlike annuals, they last for not one but many seasons and give a long succession of blooms.

The low-growing perennials, some of which are evergreen, may also be moved successfully now. Among these are the early dwarf phloxes, hardy candytuft, Viola cornuta, sweet williams, arabis and hardy dianthus. All newly planted perennials should have a winter mulch, but do not apply this until the ground is frozen. The mulch is intended to keep frost in the ground, rather than exclude it. These same rules apply to such hardy bulbs as narcissi, tulips and hyacinths.

OBITUARY

Oscar Park Beckley.

Oscar Park Beckley, president of the Berryhill Nursery Co., Harrisburg, Pa., died at his home Sunday, October 15, after a brief illness.

For more than a quarter of a century Mr. Beckley was connected with the J. Horace McFarland Co., first in the capacity of photographer, and in later years as salesman and sales manager. His genial disposition and absolute uprightness of character won for him a host of friends among nurserymen, seedsmen and florists, not only in this country, but in England and France, where he traveled on various trips for photographs.

In his home city Oscar Beckley was one of the outstanding characters in church and charitable works; "Beckley's class" in the Sunday school of the United Brethren church draws men from all walks of life and is a power in the moral life of the city. A president of the church federation, he carried on a city-wide work that will be a monument for years to come.

About a dozen years ago Mr. Beckley organized the Berryhill Nursery Co. and put into this organization the same energy that went into all of his undertakings. Four years ago the company was enlarged by the addition of a nursery at Springfield, O., and one at Sparta, Ky. This move put the firm among the dozen largest nurseries of the east.

Surviving Mr. Beckley are his mother, his wife, a daughter, Miss Lucile, and two sons, Oscar Beckley, Jr., and Park A. Beckley. The latter is in active work with nursery interests.

Paul Pierre Dailledouze.

Paul Pierre Dailledouze, formerly of the firm of Dailledouze Bros., well known as carnation growers of Flatbush, Brooklyn, N. Y., died suddenly of a hemorrhage, at his home, Lenox road and Tray avenue, Friday, October 13.

The deceased was born in Brooklyn, August 8, 1861, a twin with Henry E. Dailledouze, and the son of John Dailledouze, originator of many varieties of carnations. John Dailledouze died in 1882, and his business was continued as an estate for ten years thereafter and up to the time of the death of Mrs. Dailledouze, the mother. The business was then purchased by the three sons, Eugene, Henry and Paul, who held equal partnership, and became known in 1892 as Dailledouze Bros. The partnership lasted until 1907, when Henry and Paul retired.

After retirement the twins did not again become active in business, and made several trips abroad. They had planned to make a trip to South America last summer, but the illness of Eugene prevented them.

The deceased was well liked and had a charming personality. He was a member of the New York Florists' Club, the S. A. F., American Carnation Society, American Rose Society, Chrysanthemum Society of America, the American Orchid Society, and the Marine and Field Club. He is survived by his brothers, Eugene and Henry E., and two sisters, Mrs. Leoni L. Warth and Mrs. Mathilde R. Kunz. J. H. P.

Mrs. George H. Pieper.

Mrs. George H. Pieper, a well known South Boston florist, died at her home, 453 Broadway, October 5. She was 50 years of age. Her maiden name was Margaret N. Walsh. She came to the United States from Ireland in 1885. In 1890 she started in business at 398 Broadway, South Boston, moving to 453 Broadway two years later.

The deceased had an excellent retail business and was well and favorably known in the trade. She was married in 1895, and her husband, five sons and two daughters survive her. Funeral services were held October 9, burial being at St. Joseph's cemetery, West Roxbury. W. N. C.

John A. Foley.

John A. Foley, proprietor of a retail store on Springdale avenue, East Orange, N. J., died October 11, aged about 43. He was for many years bookkeeper for the Lecakes, when they were in business at 53 West Twenty-eighth street, and upon leaving them went into the express and trucking business, in which he prospered. Retiring, he engaged, about a year ago, in the retail florists' trade in East Orange, shortly afterward becoming ill with pneumonia, from which he never fully recovered. He leaves a widow and a brother. J. H. P.

Herbert F. Calder.

The many friends of Herbert F. Calder, the well known Norwood florist, sustained a great shock when the news reached them that Mr. Calder had committed suicide by hanging, October 8. Mr. Calder had been quite ill for some time and, of late, fearing his sickness would prove a lingering and perhaps fatal one, he had become quite despondent, which led to his taking his own life.
